Work Stoppage by Pilots Could Leave Some Deep-Sea Shipping Stranded for Winter

OTTAWA (CP)—A work stoppage by 52 St. Lawrence River pilots that could leave some deep-sea shipping stranded in the Great Lakes for the winter was to be discussed here today at a meeting between Transport Minister Hees and representatives of the pilots.

The pilots were summoned to the capital Thursday by Mr. Hees to explain their walkout "forthwith." Secretary Jacques Saucier of the pilots' organization said in Montreal Thursday night that a telegram from the minister asked them to come here "to explain the unwarranted strike action."

Mr. Saucier said the pilots are not on strike. "We are holding a general meeting and we will continue to hold our general meeting until our demands are met."

A seven-man delegation representing the St. Lawrence-Kingston-Ottawa Pilots' Corporation was to attend the meeting with the minister. Heading it was corporation President Jean - Guy Cartier.

In a Commons statement on Thursday Mr. Hees said the most serious effects of the strike, under way since Monday, likely will be on deep-sea tramp shipping that hopes to leave the Great Lakes before winter closes off the route.

Immediate consultations were planned with shipping companies whose vessels may be involved. James P. Boyle, chairman of the Shipping Federation of Canada's pilotage committee, was expected to meet with Mr. Hees today.

Mr. Saucier said the main demand of pilots who guide vessels through St. Lawrence channels and canals between Montreal and Lake Ontario is to have compulsory pilotage fees paid the corporation.

The corporation accepts fees on behalf of the pilots and then pays the pilots a weekly salary.

Mr. Hees said the strike apparently is an attempt by the pilots to force the federal government —under whose jurisdiction they work—to establish a pilotage toll system requiring all ships travelling the river to pay whether they use pilots or not.

Mr. Hees said the strike appears to violate provisions of the Canadian Shipping Act covering operations of the St. Lawrence-Kingston-Ottawa Pilots' Corporation, of which the strikers are members.

They had been informed that the walkout renders them "liable to the penalties provided"—fines of various amounts depending on the offence.

The pilots have complained that a fleet of 'outside' men has forced many of them to work more than 100 hours a week.

Mr. Hees said a formal submission from the pilots had just reached his department when the strike was called. He added:

"First indications received from individual pilots were to the effect that the cause was a heavy load of work, which is normal towards the end of the season.

"DESIRE TO COMPLY"

"However, subsequent information appeared to indicate that the request was a desire on the part of the pilots to compel the government to introduce what is known as compulsory payments of pilotage dues.

"They would involve compelling all ships which pass through this area of the river, Canadian and foreign, to pay dues to the pilots regardless of whether a pilot is required or not."

Breath Analysis Case Thrown Out of Court

WINDSOR (CP) — Magistrate Angus W. MacMillan Thursday threw out breathalytic cases out of court and declared his faith in the controversial new machine "badly shaken."

Ernest St. Amand of Detroit, was charged with impaired driving when police found the machine indicated he had drunk the equivalent of 12 ounces of whisky or eight bottles of beer.

But, said Magistrate MacMillan the machine should corroborate what the officer sees—the police should not base their charges on evidence given by the machine.

Sgt. Charles Weston, who conducted the breath analysis test at police headquarters, said St. Amand was polite, his clothes orderly and his walk was sure. His eyes were glassy and his breath smelled of alcohol, however.

After police gave accused the test, he was charged.

But he dismissed the charge, the magistrate admitted he didn't consider himself to be an expert on the breath analysis yet. But, he said, "I'm not so sure Sgt. Weston is either."

OPEN NEW SCHOOL

RADCLIFFE - ON - TRENT, England (CP)—Canadian government and air force officials Wednesday attended the official opening in this Nottinghamshire village of a modernistic school building whose classrooms are shared by Canadian and English students. The secondary modern school is situated alongside the two-home married quarters site for personnel of the RCAF air material base at nearby Langar and provides classroom facilities for about 75 high school children of Canadian airmen.

Eisenhower's Talk Designed To Restore Confidence in U.S.

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

President Eisenhower's speech to the American people has as background the Russian space achievements. There have given the American people their greatest psychological shock in decades.

Instilled since childhood with a firm belief in the supremacy of American scientific and industrial skills, they have seen the Soviet Union, the potential enemy, beat them in one of the most difficult scientific tasks of the century — the conquest of outer space.

This realization has brought with it a sense of humiliation and deepening disquiet, evidenced in the clamor by editorial writers for an all-out effort to get s U.S.-made satellite aloft, the swiftly-laid plans of leading congressmen for a full-fledged inquiry and the sensitivity of the stock market to the Soviet achievements.

President Eisenhower's radio-TV address was designed, among other things, to restore confidence in American security and scientific progress and in his administration.

The urgency attached by the White House and other high administration quarters to the Soviet action in launching two satellites in less than a month was indicated by the fact the president went on the air a week earlier than planned. He originally had intended to speak next week. When Russia fired her second Sputnik, the White House moved the speaking date ahead.

There has been a steady procession of scientific and other advisers to the White House since last weekend. Before going on the air Eisenhower convened the largest meeting of the national security council, charged with safeguarding national security, ever held at the White House. The council normally has five members. This time, 45 persons attended, with scientific and military chiefs in the majority.

The administration's chief concern appears to be not so much with the made-in-Moscow moons whizzing overhead as with the means the Russians used to get them aloft.

Their ability to fire a half-ton satellite—Sputnik II—more than 1,000 miles out into space indicates development of fuels and guidance systems which far surpass American prowess in rocketry. The American development of an intercontinental ballistic missile — something the Soviets claim to have already perfected — still is in the experimental stage.

There also is some fear in Washington that the Russians may beat the U.S. in launching a space platform, an artificial earth of manned satellite from which a military power could spy on other nations and, in time of war, fire nuclear explosives. Such a platform also would serve as a base for space exploration.

The Soviet Sputniks also have given the administration some political trouble. The overwhelming Democratic vote in Tuesday's off-year elections, particularly against Eisenhower-endorsed candidates in New York City and New Jersey, has been interpreted as a reflection of public discontent with the way the president has handled the country's missiles program.

Charge Juvenile With Murder of Woman, Child

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—A 15-year-old boy has been charged under the Juvenile Act in connection with a double slaying 15 miles north of here Monday. The boy was remanded at a closed juvenile court hearing until Nov. 21.

The victims, Mrs. Patricia Murphy, 30, and her daughter Rosalie, 3½, died from severe blows to the head from some blunt instrument, a post-mortem indicated. Examination showed they had both been stabbed with a knife several times.

Crown attorney Ian Munro said the boy was charged as follows: "That being a child under the age of 16 years he did unlawfully commit a delinquency, to wit, unlawfully murder Patricia Murphy."

The boy was arrested Tuesday at Parry Sound, 30 miles south of Sudbury and about 225 miles southeast of here.

DIES OF INJURIES

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Miss Mary Esther Vining, 84, of London, a retired school teacher, died Wednesday night 24 hours after she was hit by a car. She was London's 11th traffic victim this year.

50,600 Disabled Youngsters Treated at $6,741,000 Cost Since Society Formed in 1922

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Society for Crippled Children, which has spent $6,741,000 on 50,600 disabled youngsters since 1922, will mark the 35th anniversary of its founding Nov. 25.

The anniversary will be observed in Windsor, the city where representatives of 10 rotary clubs met in 1923 and set up the organization. Special tribute will be paid to the three survivors of the original 18-man board of directors: Arthur Fitzgerald of Windsor, Dr. David Smith of Stratford and Alex Martin of Waterloo.

"They're still active board members," says R. W. Hopper, executive director since 1929. "They've been active continuously since 1922."

Mr. Hopper, 63, aside from duty in the First World War with the Royal Air Force and in the Second World War with the RCAF has himself always been active in social work.

The society now has 218 service clubs as members and they will be represented at the anniversary function. The 25-man board of directors has grown to 165.

In its first year of operation, 1925, the society helped 75 handicapped persons under 21 at an expenditure of $7,500. This year it expects to help 11,642 for a total of $1,200,000.

Paid and volunteer workers carry out its program, co-ordinated by the head office in Toronto. There are 13 centres, with a full-time paid staff of 22 nurses. Its 18 district councils have a membership of 8,718 voluntary workers.

Full - time workers guide the voluntary staff, co-operate with physicians and district public health agencies, interpret the child's problem to school authorities and form a link between treatment-centres and parents.

Volunteers provide free corrective appliances, special outings and entertainment such as Christmas parties, and free transportation for treatment.

The society maintains five summer camps, attended this year by 1,200 children. The first was started in 1927 at Collingwood.

A member of the Canadian Council for Crippled Children and Adults, the society collects most of its funds through the annual Easter seals campaign.

It does not charge for treatment.

Ray Auld, assistant executive director, says:

"If the parents are well-to-do and want to contribute, we'll let them. But with the society, the child comes first."

Magnificence of Humility

By ROY L. SMITH

There is a charge commonly made against Christians entirely unjustified in most cases, which is the most damaging accusation that can be laid against them when there is any basis therefor. That is the complaint that they are spiritual showoffs.

One of the most common forms of this indictment is the assertion that church people go to church for the purpose of showing off their fine clothes, as if being well-dressed is carefully groomed were a sin.

There are those occasional individuals, of course, who present themselves in the house of the Lord in the hope that they may be seen of men. For the most part, however, the average worshipper is a man who is keenly aware of his own sin and is seeking some assurance of the friendship and friendliness of the Divine.

One of the most annoying attitudes with which the Apostle Paul had to contend was the disposition on the part of certain Christians of Corinth to put their pretended piety on display.

ECSTASY: PAGAN
—CHRISTIAN

One of the distinguishing characteristics of the Christian church of Corinth were certain ecstasies into which the Christians went from time to time. While in such emotional excitement they uttered strange sounds and spoke in strange tongues.

Such experiences were not restricted to the Christians by any means. As a matter of fact, they were more or less of a commonplace among the heathen priests who used them to exercise the authority or the awe of the worshippers.

Among the Christians, many of whom had come over from stark and raw paganism into their Christian faith after no more than the most cursory training, there was a disposition to view all such ecstasies as evidences of divine favor of some superior sort. And many who were thus acted developed an annoying spiritual superiority complex.

The Apostle Paul was, himself, the victim of such seizures occasionally, and during those times when he spoke with tongues. But he was never proud of himself after such an experience and he never claimed any spiritual authority because of the fact that he had been so marked. Instead, he undertook to discourage the conditions which seemed to induce the trances, and insisted upon a higher type of piety.

THE BETTER WAY

We can be well reminded that, in introducing his great prose poem on love, he said he was offering it as "the better way," and as a substitute for all the ecstasies and speaking with tongues which he regarded as an affliction.

It happens so many times that those who most earnestly seek "the gift of tongues" do so in the hope that by being in possession of this extravagance they will be able to impress their neighbors and friends with being endowed with superior spiritual powers. It is, in this way, a bid for notoriety and an effort to establish prestige.

In contrast to all this, in the opinion of Jesus humility was a positive virtue, and pride or self-effacement was a grace much to be coveted.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for November 10: "Concerning Spiritual Gifts"; I Corinthians 13-14.

To the Apostle Paul the conspicuous virtue of any real Christian was his love. The word has become prostituted in many minds because of its association with sex, so that its rich spiritual significance has been obscured. But his 13th chapter of I Corinthians he undertakes to describe what he means in one of the greatest odes ever penned on any subject.

The true Christian faith does not aim to endow any man with prestige, nor does it deliberately attempt to make him a candidate for popular favor. But if he ever achieves the rich quality of love which he will be accorded both fame and favor in abundant measure. They will come to him, however, as by-products.

It is very interesting to observe that high quality of spiritual living seems to appear in the lives of men and women of widely different theological viewpoints. There are, for example, those who live godly lives, being Roman Catholics, and those who live equally godly lives, being Protestants. There are those saints who are storied fundamentalists, and those other saints, equally saintly, who are storied modernists.

The Holy Spirit seems to be able to vault all our dividing barriers with amazing ease.

TO AID BOYS

OTTAWA (CP) — Big Brother Week is to be observed throughout Canada Jan. 5-12, it was announced Wednesday. Special programs are being prepared for Cornwall and Port Arthur where branches are being organized. The movement aims at providing boys in fatherless or spill-family homes with an adult pal.

Stress Expert Hopes to Prevent Heart Disease

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal scientist Dr. Hans Selye has reported "promising results" in research on the prevention of death by heart disease.

Dr. Selye, Intern a tionally known for his studies of the effects of stress on the human body, said Wednesday that certain hormones administered to rats made them extremely susceptible to death from heart attacks following "nervous excitement and struggle."

To medical scientists, he said, this would indicate the possibility of preventing death from heart disease by protecting the heart against damaging substances produced within the body as a result of external stress.

KILLED BY CAR

HAMILTON (CP) — Joseph Hensel, 78, was killed Wednesday when he walked into the side of a car while crossing the street. Earlier, Clark Gordon, 72, died of injuries suffered Tuesday night when he was struck by a car.

Probe Beating

HAMILTON (CP)—Police today are investigating the savage beating of a McMaster student by a gang of teenagers in the we'en eight.

Donald Lowery was reported to be in fairly good condition in general hospital today but still unable to give a statement to police.

Police said the assault, believed to have taken place near the campus, was reported Wednesday.

Driver Acquitted

BRANTFORD (CP) — Jack Lowery, 30, a truck driver from Lakeview, Ont., charged with criminal negligence here in the traffic death of Mrs. Edna May Roberts, 58, Port Credit, was acquitted Wednesday.

Mrs. Roberts died beneath the wheels of a transport truck driven by Lowery on Oct. 13 on Highway 2 near Falkland.

A charge of careless driving against Lowery was also dismissed.

IRISH HUMOR

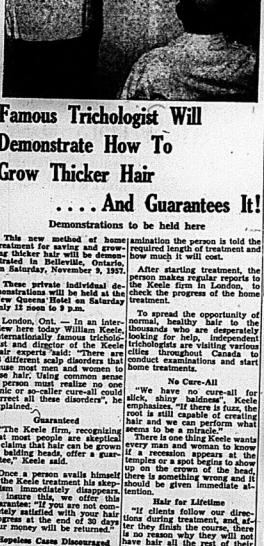
Brig. D. Cameron Takes Command In Germany

SOEST, Germany (Reuters) — The 2nd Canadian Infantry Brigade group, which has been serving on German soil for the last two years, Wednesday night handed over its NATO role to the 4th Canadian Infantry Brigade group.



This was the fourth changeover of Canadian troops stationed in Europe for NATO since the first contingent arrived in 1951.

Commander of the 6,000-strong new formation is a veteran infantry officer with more than 36 years service, Brig. Donald C. Cameron, 46, of Alexandria, Ont.

The two formations, an army spokesman said, have been changing over since early last month. The move is to be completed in early December.

BLAZE ON SKYWAY

HAMILTON (CP) — Two steelworkers Wednesday night climbed high on the unfinished skyway bridge, 180 feet above Burlington Canal, to extinguish a blaze in scaffolding. Harry Ratty and Bruce Hall volunteered to climb when firemen found they were unable to reach the fire with their aerial ladders. They tore burning planks apart and dumped them into the canal. Hot coals used for heating rivets were believed the cause.

Famous Trichologist Will Demonstrate How To Grow Thicker Hair . . . . And Guarantees It!

Demonstrations to be held here

This new method of home treatment for saving and growing thicker hair will be demonstrated in Belleville, Ontario, on Saturday, November 9, 1957.

These private individual demonstrations will be held at the New Queens' Hotel on Saturday only 12 noon to 9 p.m.

London, Ont. — In an interview here today William Keele, internationally famous trichologist and director of the Keele Hair experts said: "There are 18 different scalp disorders that cause most men and women to lose their hair. A common sense a person must realize no one tonic or so-called cure-all could correct all these disorders", he explained.

Guaranteed

"The Keele firm, recognizing that most people are skeptical of claims that hair can be grown on balding heads, offer a guarantee," Keele said.

Once a person avails himself of the Keele treatment his skepticism immediately disappears. To insure this, we offer this guarantee: "If you are not completely satisfied with your hair progress at the end of 30 days your money will be returned."

Hopeless Cases Discouraged

First the trichologist is quick to tell hopeless cases that they can not be helped. But the "hopeless" cases are few. Only if a man is completely, shiny bald, is he in that last category.

If there is fuzz, no matter how light, this or colorless, the Keele treatment can perform wonders.

Free Examinations

This examination is very thorough and highly technical, it requires 20 to 30 minutes. The trichologist makes no charge for this examination and no appointment is necessary. After the examination the person is told the required length of treatment and how much it will cost.

After starting treatment, the person makes regular reports to the Keele firm in London, to check the progress of the home treatment.

To spread the opportunity of normal, healthy hair to the thousands who are desperately looking for help, independent trichologists are visiting various cities throughout Canada to conduct examinations and start home treatments.

No Cure-All

"We have no cure-all for slick, shiny baldness", Keele emphasizes. "If there is fuzz, the root is still capable of creating hair and we can perform what seems to be a miracle."

There is one thing Keele wants every man and woman to know: if a recession appears at the temples or a spot begins to show up on the crown of the head, there is something wrong and it should be given immediate attention.

Hair for Lifetime

"If clients follow our directions during treatment, and after they finish the course, there is no reason why they will not have hair all the rest of their lives," Keele said. "Our firm is definitely behind this treatment, it all depends on the individual client's faithful observations of a few simple rules!"

How's Your Hair?

If it worries you call Trichologist W. N. Young at the New Queen's Hotel in Belleville, Ont. on Saturday ONLY, Nov. 9th, 12 noon to 9 p.m. The public is invited.

You do not need an appointment. The examinations are private and you will not be embarrassed or obligated in any way. Both men and women are welcome.

THOSE FUCKNIKS!

While senior hockey is the main theme in the bistros and other places where fans gather, a late development in the Russian-Canada hockey wing-dings is causing much comment. And thereby the honorable ears of that august body, the CAHA should be pinking.

The CAHA statement that the Russian puckniks will cross sticknliks with Canadian Clubniks under International hockey rules, has not received any welcome on the mat. Rather the question is "Why?" In fact there is resentment in some quarters in what has been called "kowtowing" to the Russians by allowing them to play their own rules on Canadian soil.

A letter written to and published by Dink (Montreal Gazette). Carroll in his sports column neatly sizes up the situation. The writer says:

"In my opinion the CAHA ought to be pilloried for this deal with the Russians—that Canadian teams, representing the country which invented the game, should have to play under the cockeyed European rules, right here in Canada, is enough to make me boil."

"I can just imagine how far we would get if any of our teams went to Russia and tried to get them to play our rules. What a laugh that would be.

"And the last remark of the CAHA about our officials being broadminded about interpreting their rules, makes me laugh.

"The CAHA is going to hand the Russians another beautiful propaganda victory. It looks very much as though the C. (Amateur?) R.A. is interested in only one thing, a fast buck."

Carroll says he agrees 100 per cent with the writer. That makes it two.

He adds: "The one concession the CAHA did not make to the Dynamos is to allow them to bring their own referees."

In case you do not know it, the major differences in European and Canadian hockey rules are bodychecking and rough play.

Under International rules, and American college teams play under a similar code, no bodychecking is allowed in the centre ice zone. And the top permissible in the defending team's zone is such that the dislocation of a thread of sweater wool is deemed rough play and "off ice go, fella."

The bone-jolting, hip-tossing body-checks which Canadian fans are accustomed to seeing are simply not being done. A couple of spine-jerkers like Don Thomsen handed out to Minnie Menard the other night here would have brought the Kingston defenceman a ten-year job as a shaker in a Siberian salt mine, had they occurred under the shadow of the Kremlin.

The Puckniks will have a distinct advantage over the Canadian teams simply because they will be playing the only rules they know. Our clubs will have to adapt themselves to this panty-waist shinny and hope the referees are as much at sea as they probably will be.

Why all this kow-towing to the Russians?.. We in Canada have a world-wide reputation for genial and generous hospitality but this is taking the thing a bit too far. We remember they beat the hell out of us a couple of years ago in Europe, and so did the United States. The Russian cockerels crew long and loud over the achievement.

But that happened in Europe. What will the Kremlin Kocks-Krow sound like if their puckniks whip Canada's top amateur clubs right in their own back yard.

The whole thing amounts to a team of Russian softballniks playing the Milwaukee Braves for the world's baseball championship in the under rules.

We suggest that in case the Russkys walts off the ice with victories the first four or five games, that the CAHA allow at least one game to be played under Canadian rules. Then instruct the Canadians to let their muscles down and play the game the way it should be played the world over.

The Russians are scheduled to play seven games in Canada. They open in Toronto against the Whitby Dunlops on November 22 and play the Kingston CKLC All-Stars in Kingston on December 3rd. Players from Belleville, Pembroke and Cornwall will bolster the Kingston club.

Canadiens Hang 6-0 Collar On Inept Crew From Detroit; Toronto Wallops Bruins 5-3

By KENNEDYW ELLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The once-proud Detroit Red Wings have hit rock bottom in the National Hockey League.

In the NHL that can only mean last place and the Wings found it Thursday night as Montreal Canadiens humiliated them 6-0 before 14,866 Montreal fans and Toronto Maple Leafs took a 5-3 decision from Boston Bruins to pick up the two points which separated Detroit from the bottom.

Wings, who virtually monopolized first place during the last decade, looked pitifully inept both defensively and offensively against Canadiens, allowing 55 shots at goalie Terry Sawchuk and managing only 20 at Montreal's Jacques Plante. Sawchuk has been fired on his 12 times in his last four games, 102 by Montreal in four games.

The power - laden Canadiens, who hold down the top four scoring positions, got two goals each from Henri Richard and Don Marshall and singles by Claude Provost and Ralph (Rocket) Richard and Claude Provost. The win moved them back into a first-place tie with New York Rangers, who have played two more games.

In Boston, Billy Harris picked up his sixth and seventh goals of the season and George Armstrong. Brian Cullen and Tod Sloan each contributed one. Highflying rookie Bronco Horvath scored twice for Boston to raise his season total to eight and Don McKenney beat Ed Chadwick for Bruins' fifth.

Detroit's stumbling defence could be partially laid to the absence of clever Red Kelly, but their disorganized attack, once one of the most potent in the league, must have more subtle failings.

Whatever they are, they helped Plante to his first shutout of the year in his first game since a bout with sinus trouble.

Canadiens, wheeling in at will on Sawchuk, scored twice in the first period and four times in the third. The Rocket's one goal and his two assists on his brother's goals gave him a one-point lead in their personal fight for the points championship, but the Pocket Rocket now is one in the goals race with 12.

Canadiens, more noted than his scoring feats was the fiery Maurice's clean penalty sheet. He has not been waved off once this season in 12 games.

SECOND OVER BRUINS

Leafs have won four games this season and two of them have been over Boston, which has been Toronto's misfortune since the fifth game of the season and now is tied with Chicago Black Hawks for third place.

The two teams were tied 1-1 going into the second period when Leafs pounded two past Don Simmons within a 13 - second spasm and two of them have been Harris and Cullen scored the two short-period goals that put the game out of Bruins' reach.

Saturday Boston is at Montreal, Detroit at Toronto and Chicago is host to New York. Sunday, Montreal is at Chicago and Detroit is at Boston.

COACH FINES BISONS

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Coach Harry Watson Thursday fined every man on the Buffalo Bisons $50 for not hustling and called the American Hockey Club to an extra practice session.

"Some of these players think they have been working too hard," said Watson. "They can work a lot harder, and they will."

Bisons, tied for fourth in the league, were beaten 5-1 here Wednesday night by Providence Reds.

Blue Bombers Favored Over Calgary Stamps

WINNIPEG (CP) — Calgary Stampeders will have to stop the running attack of Winnipeg Blue Bombers if they hope to win their two-game, total-point Western Interprovincial Football Union semi-final.

With four lopsided league victories over Stamps this year, the Bombers will go into the opening game here Saturday night as favorites.

In four games, Bombers outscored Stamps 140-60, outrushed them 1,260 yards to 502 and outpassed them 659 yards to 589.

IVY WON'T GUESS

Even Frank (Pop) Ivy, coach of the Edmonton Eskimos, who meet the winner in the western final, won't hazard a guess as to who his opponent will be.

"In two games anything can happen," Ivy said. "On past records, well, certainly Winnipeg would have to be favored. But upsets do happen."

LEWIS IS HURT

Bombers' offence has been hurt by the loss of halfback Leo Lewis who averaged 6.8 yards a carry during the regular season—second-highest in the league—and Parker Lewis, who suffered tremuscles in the last league game, was the WIF Bombs' leading ducks of kickoffs.

Coach Bud Grant plans to use Canadian Hon Latourelle and Lewis' left half spot, with Dennis Murphy at right half and scoring champion Gerry James and Charlie Shepard at fullback. All-star Kenny Ploen will quarter the club, although homebrew Barry Rosebrough may see some action and Floen switch to left half if things don't jell.

Whitby Defeats Pembroke 4-2 Greyhounds Snap Trappers

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

There is a four-way tie for second place in the Ontario Hockey Association's Senior A series.

The jam developed Thursday night as Whitby Dunlops and Cornwall Clevies, who had been tied for third, beat Pembroke Lumber Kings and Belleville McFarlands and moved up a notch.

Dunlops, last season's Allan Cup champions who have been struggling all season, defeated a hometown crowd with a 4-2 win, while Clevies sent 1,200 fans home happy with a 6-3 victory over the first-place McFarlands.

MOVE INTO SECOND

In the only other senior hockey action, Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds making a strong bid for OHA-NOHA leadership, defeated North Bay Trappers 6-2 in the Soo. It was their fourth consecutive win and vaulted them over Trappers into second place.

In the OHA, Whitby, Cornwall, Pembroke and Kingston CKLC's now are tied for second place, two points back of Belleville.

It was Dunlops' third victory in four after losing their first two starts. Doug Williams scored twice for Whitby and George Samolenko and former playing-coach Bus Gagnon each scored once. Bucky Buckwold and Bert Giesebrecht scored for the losers.

In Cornwall, Clevies broke in front and stayed there. Moe Savard picked up two goals and Guy Henri, Ron Muir and Hugh Campbell had one each. Tony Poeta and Wayne Brown scored for Belleville.

OVERCAME DEFICIT

Greyhounds scored four of their six goals in the third period after overcoming a 3-0 North Bay lead in the first period.

John Offidani and John Lumley each scored twice for the Soo and rearguard Gus Karrys and John Bailey had one apiece. Howie Hinsley and Bobby Barlow were the Trapper marksmen.

Soo can take over first place from Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen when they meet fourth-place Sudbury Wolves tonight in Sudbury. In the only other OHA-NOHA game, Whitby Dunlops play in Chatham against Maroons while in the OHA Kingston is host to Cornwall and Belleville at home to Ottawa.

hevies Hit Power Stride With 6-2 Victory Over Macs; our Teams Tied for Second

CORNWALL — Stung by three losses in a row the Cornwall Colts, at full strength, roared back into their first-season stride last night, handing the league-leading Belleville McFarlands a 6-2 decision.

It was the Chevies third win in six starts and the McFarlands' third defeat in seven outings.

Whitby defeated the strong Pembroke Lumber Kings 4-2 in a close battle in Whitby, creating a four-way tie for second place in the eastern senior league standing. Whitby, Cornwall, Pembroke and Kingston now have six points, two behind Belleville co-spot McFarlands. The Macs meet the starry Ottawa-Hull Canadiens in Belleville tonight.

The McFarlands' offense plainly lacked the steam and drive which usually characterizes its goal-getting drives, while lapses on the part of their defence proved costly at times. Gordie Bell was outstanding in the Macs' net.

The Chevies roared into high-scoring form in the first period whipping home the only goal of the period and they matched their stinging offensive in the second slamming home a pair of markers before the McFarlands broke the ice. The Chevies came back with three more in the third frame as the Macs battled desperately to whittle the margin but the first they could do was a single goal.

Any anticipated "fireworks" between the Colts and, if not imperialize, the teams being assessed eleven minor penalties in the three with seven going to the McFarlands.

Moe Savard spearheaded the Cornwall attack with two goals and an assist, with Henri, Campbell, Burke and Hutchie of the Chevie marksmen. Tony Poeta and Wiener Brown scored for the McFarlands.

The Macs weathered the Cornwall attack in the first period second Gerry Goyer was chased at 15:47 for holding. On the ensuing Chevie power play Guy Henri scored the only goal of the period with Campbell and Lepine in on the play.

That was all until 13:45 in the second frame when Moe Savard took Dorrington's pass to beat Bell and put the Chevies two up. Campbell made it three-nothing three up three minutes later when he scored on a pass from Wiener Brown.

A minute later Tony Poeta got that one back with the McFarlands's first goal, beating Frezier's kick from close-in after taking a Chevie power play. Both teams started the paydirt proceedings. The period ended 3-1.

Neil Burke brought nearly 2,000 cheering spectators to their feet, in the last two minutes of them had sat down when he scored the Chevies' fourth goal with the clock reading 20 seconds. Henri slipped him the pass on the second play of the period.

Then big Hughie Campbell got chased for elbowing and the Macs appeared to have a chance to break down whipping the puck past Frederick Gerry Goyer to score the Macs' second and last counter of the game.

A minute later Savard scored his second counter of the game combining with Campbell and Sadlowski to beat Bell and make the score 5-2.

With the seconds running out Ronnie Muir snared Guy Henri's pass to race in and score the final clincher.

Rep Guidolin, former McFarland playing coach and recently with the Windsor Bulldogs accompanied the Belleville club but was not in uniform.

Campbell Hikes World Record In Bluebird

CONISTON, England (AP) — Donald Campbell raised his world water speed record to 239.07 miles an hour Thursday over Coniston Water, then soon for 300 miles an hour in a jet-powered Bluebird type Bluebird.

"We have hopes for the future" the handsome, 36-year-old Englishman said after his record run over Lake Coniston. "We have no intentions of packing the job in.

"Next year you may see a further stronger Bluebird," he said, pointing to the present two-pontooned jet craft which first set it almost takes off.

After setting the world mark Campbell said his hydroplane Bluebird would never see 300 miles an hour in its present form.

AVERAGE

On his first run down the long course, Campbell reached 260.107 miles per hour. On his last trip of course, Campbell reached 260.107 miles per hour. On his last trip he had sat down when he scored the Chevies' fourth goal with the clock reading 20 seconds. Henri slipped him the pass on the second play of the period.

Then big Hughie Campbell got chased for elbowing and the Macs appeared to have a chance to break down whipping the puck past Frederick Gerry Goyer to score the Macs' second and last counter of the game.

One of Best 'Midget' Goalie Roy Worters Dies After Lengthy Illness

TORONTO (CP)—Roy Worters, one of the smallest but one of the best men to ever tend goal in the National Hockey League, died Thursday at 57.

Worters, known as "Shrimp" and "Goo-Goo" to his associates, never had more than 122 pounds on his frame, but throughout junior and during his playing days, but he played against the best and enjoyed hockey doing it.

His death came after a long illness which had forced him into semi-retirement from his post-hockey career as a hotel owner and operator.

Born in Toronto, Worters battled his way through junior and senior hockey undiscouraged by those who said his size would be a handicap in net.

12 SEASONS IN NHL

When he left the NHL in 1938 after 12 seasons he had never played on a Stanley Cup winning team but he was the first all-star team, but he won the Vezina Trophy for goals against average and became the first goaltender to be voted the Hart Trophy as the league's most valuable player.

The Hart came after the 1928-29 season when he allowed only 53 goals in 44 games with the New York Americans and finished second to Montreal Canadiens in the then 10-team, two-division league.

The Vezina came to him in 1930-31, when he allowed 74 goals in 44 games while the Americans scored only 76, lowest in the league. He was on the second all-star team twice, but that year he made neither team.

WITH CANADIAN CHAMPS

He started hockey with the Toronto Parkdale Canoe Club Juniors in 1917 and was with them as they won the Memorial Cup in 1920, then joined Timmins for senior hockey before moving to Toronto Argonauts in 1922.

In 1925 went to Pittsburgh with a group of Canadian players including all-round athlete Lionel Conacher, who were forming an amateur club called the Yellow Jackets. He was with them when the team entered the NHL as the Pirates in 1925 and stayed with them until 1928 when his demand for an $8,000 salary forced his release to New York Americans where he rejoined Lionel Conacher.

TRULY GREAT PLAYER"

Tributes Thursday night included one from Jack Adams, general manager of Detroit Red Wings. "Shrimp was one of the greatest netminders of all time. He was a truly great player and a smart businessman."

League president Clarence Campbell said: "He was a fine player and a real credit to hockey."

Surviving him are his wife, the former Alice Rew; a daughter, two brothers and a sister.

The funeral service is to be held Saturday. Burial will be in Pinehill Cemetery here.

Quebec Hockey

The weak sisters in the early Quebec Hockey League season, Quebec Aces and Trois-Rivieres Lions, came up with wins Thursday night to tighten the standings.

Aces downed the second-place Shawinigan Falls Cataracts 3-1 before a hometown crowd and moved into a third-place tie with Montreal Royals, who were idle.

At Chicoutimi, the last-place Lions edged the league-leading Saguenenns 4-3 for their third win in the season, leaving them three points behind Montreal and Quebec.

Saguenenns hold a four-point margin over Cataracts. Montreal and Quebec are six points off the pace.

London Lords Dutchies Meet In ORFU Final

KITCHENER (CP) — London Lords, whose coach is in a wheel chair, and Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, whose players should be in view of their late-season pace, tangle Saturday in the final performance of last year's Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union final.

It's the fifth straight jrip to the championship round for the Dutchmen. Lords made it last year in their first ORFU season, losing the best-of-three final 3-1.

Lords, a much-improved club this year, wound up on top of the league by one point thanks to an 18-6 shutout over Dutchmen at Waterloo last Saturday.

Saturday's game will be in the same place, starting at 1:30 p.m.

HEAVY SCHEDULE

For Dutchmen it will be their eighth game in 26 days. Lords, who have had a normal schedule through October, the suburban team are playing twice a week, could be fresher and stronger for that reason.

Doane, a split-T specialist from the University of Western Ontario, joined the Toronto Argonauts in September and snatched u pby coach Ivan Ahok. Running the option play, he has been a leading ball carrier, a receiver, punter, passer and an all-round inspiration to the club.

Famous Czech Track Coach May Be Asked to Come Here

By STAN McCABE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — The track and field committee of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada wants famed coach Franz Stampfl to return to Canada next year because of his "instructional" work he did this year with Canadian runners.

Stampfl, the 41-year-old Austrian who coached four-minute miler Roger Bannister, came to Canada last summer to instruct athletes under the Canadian Olympic Training Program.

The track and field committee, in session during the annual AAU meeting here, was asked by sports director George Dubbin of the Canadian National Exhibition if it wanted him back.

Dubbin said he thought Stampfl would like to come to Canada to stay permanently if he received an invitation from "the proper source."

NEEDS APPROVAL

The committee agreed that it would like to have him return. However, the action must be approved by the AAU as a whole and by C.O.C. officials.

Also at Dubbin's urging, the committee agreed that the Canadian Legion which footed the bill for the clinic should be advised that the AAU would like the arrangement to continue indefinitely.

The CNE sports director also referred to confusion over the length of the track at the CNE. He said the CNE would like to see more track meets there and suggested that if the AAU would like to have the track resurveyed if the AAU would confirm the survey correct.

The Canadian Legion would like the name of the meeting changed to include the Legion name and get away from the Olympic tag since it was not solely concerned with the Olympics, he said.

CONTROVERSIAL ISSUE

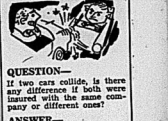
A controversial issue facing the delegates at the meeting went into its second day was the site of the 1958 Empire and Commonwealth Games.

Committees started considerations Thursday of a proposal that a firm connected with the dairy industry buy the cost of a Nationwide track and field program run by the AAU.

Fred Harding of Toronto, representing the Central Ontario branch of the AAU, said the company is thinking in terms of spending $60,000 to $70,000 from its advertising budget.

The firm was not named but delegates were told it is connected with dairy firms across the country and has connections who advanced the proposal is "an old track athlete himself."

Bombers Sign Coach Grant



WINNIPEG (CP) — Harry (Bud) Grant, freshman coach of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, has been signed to a new two-year contract to handle the Western Interprovincial Football Union club through 1958 and 1959.

Under the club's policy, terms of the contract were not released, but Bomber president J. T. Russell said today the salary was an increase over Grant's 1957 one-year contract.

Grant, star end with Bombers from 1953 to 1956 and formerly with Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League and the University of Minnesota, took the coaching job here early this year from Al Sherman, who was released after guiding the team for three seasons.

Bombers finished second this season under Grant and meet Calgary Stampeders in the WIFU semi-final, opening here Saturday night.

Adult Autograph Hunters Called Pests, Idiots, Monsters

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Cary Grant, saying out loud what many stars think privately, calls all adult autograph hunters "idiots and monsters." These remarks came as he was leaving for London and a new picture.

"What are they doing with their time?" he said. "It's getting as fans judge us on our penmanship rather than our talent. How much nicer if they would just come up to you and say: 'We liked you in such and such a picture,' or even if they said: 'You stunk in such and such a picture'."

Cary recalls once when producer David O. Selznick asked him for bawling out an autograph hunter.

"It's the price of fame," Selznick told Grant. A few months later, Selznick married Jennifer Jones.

"Then David changed his tune," Cary said. "Once the three of us came out of a theatre in New York and we were mobbed. David shoved us all in the taxi and one autograph hound jumped on the running board as we drove off.

"David, furious, all but gashed him off while I calmly commented: 'It's the price of fame, David'."

Once Cary got into a heated discussion with a man who broke up a private conversation and asked Cary for his autograph. The actor stumped the man with this logical query: "Why?"

PROOF FOR WIFE

The man finally blurted out: "I want to prove to my wife that I talked to you."

Cary answered: "Do you mean to tell me that your relationship with your wife is so flimsy that you won't believe that you talked to me when you tell her you did?"

Recently, when Cary was on location, a group of children came on the set with autograph books. A publicity man, knowing Cary's attitude, shooed them off. When Cary heard about it, he had his valet collect all the books and he spent an hour or so inscribing them. There is reason why he will sign his name for children.

In those perilous seconds, the child's mother tried to save only one thing — her autograph book which happened to have Cary's autograph in it.

"When I saw how much that autograph book meant to that little girl," he said, "I vowed I would never turn down a child's request again."

But he's still adamant about adults — "especially when we're trapped and they come at us like locusts."

Detroit Players Glad to Get Out of Earshot of Hot Fans

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Detroit Red Wings players must feel like unwanted guests. They aren't particularly welcome on home ice and they certainly aren't the people's choices in other National Hockey League cities.

They've become so tough for them this year that it's been no pleasure to get out of earshot of some of their own fans and go visiting the other league teams. The weekly pastime they've taken at Olympia prompted pleadings from general manager Jack Adams to desist.

Jolly Jack, who has survived 31 years with the Wings—stayed of them pretty lean—told Olympia fans to lay off his "bunch of nice kids" and direct their vocal displeasure at him. He even promised to wear a distinguishing red hat "so they can give the hell to me."

FANS DISCOURAGED

Adams' remarks were made after the Wings, minus Ted Lindsay and goalkeeper Glenn Hall, were traded to Chicago in the off-season, had failed to show much of their brilliance of past years. In fact, it was downright discouraging to Detroit fans who have become accustomed to a winning club.

Here's some statistical proof: Red Wings lost four of their first six games on home ice, including a 6-0 pasting by Montreal Canadiens and a 3-0 shutout by Chicago Black Hawks with Lindsay and particularly Hall, playing the leding villain roles.

In the 1956-57 season, Wings won four and tied two in their first six Olympia appearances.

Red Wings "fans," fired up by the Lindsay-Hall trade and the much-publicized Lindsay - Adams feuding, also showed their disapproval where it hurts Adams most—at the box-office. Attendance for the opening six home games this year was 60,054 against 68,805 over the same stretch a year ago.

Coach Jimmy Skinner, queried by Dink Carroll of Montreal Gazette on the behavior of Detroit fans, said they "booed us so much that it was a relief to get out on the road." He added that the Red Wings have been going against us, but they will even up in time and we'll be all right."

Here's hoping, because Detroit hockey fans have the reputation of being the toughest to say in the six-team NHL. "New York fans may exceed Detroit fans for sound but not for fury," says veteran observer Baz (Montreal Star) O'Meara who has made countless expeditions around the league circuit.

SCHOOL HERO

Turning to football . . . Canadian - born Barry Rosebrough, second - string quarterback with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, is a school-teacher in Winnipeg. He takes both jobs seriously.

Vince (Winnipeg Tribune) Leah says that after the Bombers beat Calgary 30-13 in a Western Interprovincial Football Union League game with Roseborough calling the signals, the kids in his school room greeted him the next Day by singing "Hail the Conquering Hero Comes."

"Rosie penalized the tot of them for their noise by keeping them in after four, so our informant reports," says Leah.

And Billie Hughes of Winnipeg, one of the best-known trainers in the business, noted the long string of football injuries this season and told Maurice (Winnipeg Free Press) Smith the trouble is that "most of the kids aren't in condition. They've become too soft riding around in cars."

Shore Finally Calls Senior To Springfield

KINGSTON (CP)—Bob Senier, a goaltender Kingston CKLC's Hockey Gazette Intercity Interclub Dutchmen for $600 before the Ontario Hockey Association's Senior A season got under way, received word Wednesday night from owner Eddie Shore of Springfield Indians that he was to report this Saturday to the American Hockey League club.

A week ago Shore had informed the Kingston club he intended to exercise his option on Senior's professional services but an eighth-place finish left the goalie and hockey fans wondering what was happening.

Senior played 28 games this year as an amateur for the Kingston club and allowed only a league-leading 2.8 goals per game.

Twain's Wonderful Story, Huck Finn, Will Be Musical

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — "Well, said Elliott Silverstein, "you're me why do Huck Finn as a musical and I ask you why not do it as a musical."

Silverstein will direct a musical version of Mark Twain's wonderful story Nov. 20 on Steel Show (CBS-TV, 10:15 p.m. EST) starring Jimmy Boyd, Basil Rathbone, Jack Carson and Earle Hyman. Frank Luther has written the music.

"You might ask Rodgers and Hammerstein why they did South Pacific as a musical instead of as a straight drama," continued Silverstein.

"There's something about a musical presentation that gives pleasure to an audience. There's ingenuity, boldness and a fresh effort to entertain that makes an audience respond to it."

IMPORTANT QUALITIES

Silverstein feels that Huck Finn is that characteristic which he considers most important to the best TV entertainment—"a sense of parade . . . the attraction of good songs and dancing, of theatrical entertainment in the grand style."

"I think," he said, "that it's most significant there has been tremendous interest in the last year in musicals and fairy tales. There comes a point when people want to enjoy the imaginative world where heroes are heroes and villains are truly villains."

Sunday afternoons continue to offer some of the most interesting and imaginative television programs visible. This Sunday, for example:

Wide Wide World (NBC-TV, 4 p.m.) examines the first 10 years of television in The Fabulous Infant. Milton Berle returns for a candid discussion of the problems of a performer. There will be brief Kinescope excerpts from well-known programs of the past.

The Seven Lively Arts (CBS-TV, 5 p.m.) presents The World of Nick Adams, an hour's dramatization of several short stories by Ernest Hemingway. Adams is the central character in several of Hemingway's earlier stories. Their themes have been combined into a single drama of continuity.

No Action on Coast League

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball commissioner Ford Frick and baseball officials explored realignment of the Pacific Coast League's future without taking any definite action. Another meeting of all interested parties was called for Tuesday.

Frick's office was secretive about the session and refused to name the hotel where it was held. When some officials were asked later, they declined tos ay what cities were discussed in any realignment talk.

The realignment was necessitated by the transfer of the Dodgers from Brooklyn to Los Angeles and the Giants from New York to San Francisco. The matter of damages to be paid by these clubs or the National League still is up in the air.

Durelle Wins Over McCoy in Second Round

MONCTON, N. B. (CP)—Yvon Durelle, British Empire lightweight champion won a second-round knockout over Floyd McCoy of Staten Island, N. Y., Thursday night with a short smashing uppercut to the jaw. Durelle weighed 179½, McCoy 172½.

The hard - hitting champion from Ste. Anne, N. B., dropped McCoy for the count of nine in the second round with a short left hook to the jaw.

McCoy was only 40 second

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER
(Author of the new "Astrology and You")

Friday, November 8, 1957

The stars impel . . . They do not compel! What you make of your life is largely up to you.*

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Get your finances straightened out early this A.M. and by afternoon you will be free to get together with congenial companions at a for combined pleasure and profit and also for amassing vital data.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Spend morning attending to private duties, also outlining to those in a position to assist you the goals you hope to reach. Afternoon on you can look to your belongings and make any improvements warranted.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Secret conditions which involve you can be brought forward today, though it may need some personal application to replace with better working plans. P.M. dress perfectly and enjoy yourself socially.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) A comrade of highest ideals and intellect will come forth with fine suggestions, answers which have eluded you. Then it would be well to begin tele-e-ction with these friends and authorities to work out current situations.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) Be sure to get your regular work done with greater efficiency this A.M. as well as getting OK from higher ups. Tonight is fine for being with wise friends and working out better ideas and ideals for the future.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) Morning is fine for searching out that important data, heretofore alien to you, from such outlets as books, TV, research libraries, etc. Tonight, seek out your most powerful acquaintance, talk over modern ideas and have them approved.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Any monetary matters at hand can quickly be put to rights by rolling up your sleeves and working them out accurately. Tonight is very fine for assimilating working plans that intelligent friends will suggest.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Many loose ends will be visible this A.M. in connection with associates. Sit down and work them out satisfactorily, coming to meeting of minds. P.M. fine for sociability and romance of highest type.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get a very early start on whatever work you must do today. This will free time for being with associates and getting answers to any problems at hand. Invest in whatever new appliances will speed up efficiency.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) This A.M. spend toning up system, taking any courses or exercises that will do wonders with your personality, and appearance is fine. Later you can get together with chums and have a glorious time.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make the morning hum with activity putting house in perfect order. Then get little problems worked out with family ties. Early P.M. you will be able to go out on the town happily and mix business with pleasure.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Keep active at meetings, purchasing staples, etc. All those last-minute items can be gotten out of the way early. Then make your home mirror-clean, give family proof of your affection. P.M. rest or invite guests for conversation.

If your child is born today . . . The extraordinary child born today is the type who will appear to be living two kinds of life. The formative years will be the slow-plodding, overly deliberate kind which require much patience and teaching on the part of the parents. Then when fully grown, this individual will suddenly become a human dynamo: the natural-born writer, speaker, salesman, etc., so be very precise about early education.

River Valley W.I. Sponsors Hallowe'en Party

STIRLING — On Friday evening some 60 adults and as many children gathered in River Valley school house for a delightful Hallowe'en party sponsored by River Valley Women's Institute under the convenorship of Mrs. Gerald Brooks. Mrs. Vernon Harry, Mrs. Glenn Bush, and the president, Mrs. Ralph Urman.

Mrs. Phil Conley officiated at the piano and the opening number was a grand march in costume.

The winners were: pre-school children — Joyce Carr, and all in this group were given a balloon. Grades 1, 2, 3 — best dressed, Shirley Anne McDonell; comic, Christine De Bruyn; Grades 4, 5, 6 — best dressed, Alice De Bruyn; comic, Donnie Carr; Grades 7 and 8 — Best dressed, Betty Hanna, with Marilynn Conley almost a tie. Each girl received a prize; comic, Dennis Heasman.

The costumes were all outstanding and depicted cats and bunnie, etc. Those assisting the convener in judging were Miss Marion Carlisle and Mrs. Ross Bush.

PROGRAM

The program consisted of several musical numbers by the pupils of the school and each group of intermediates, juniors and seniors sang special selections on the Hallowe'en theme.

Readings were given by Mrs. Gerald Brooks and Mrs. Ross Bush. Marla Heasman delighted with a tap dance number and Mrs. Phil Conley gave a musical selection.

Mrs. Glen Bush conducted two games which created lots of fun. The proceeds of the evening were $14.50.

MORE NATIVES

After declining for some years, Australia's aboriginal (native) population reached more than 74,000 in 1957.

CAMPBELLFORD

S. Shippam Tells Rotary of C. of C. Work

CAMPBELLFORD — Stanley Shippam, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, Peterborough, was the guest speaker at Rotary on Monday. He spoke of the role of the Chamber of Commerce in the community and the individual responsibility of the citizen.

The Chamber of Commerce said the service club have much of common, said the speaker. Both are voluntary organizations for the betterment of the community. Our entire system depends largely on the voluntary effort, energy and knowledge of bodies of people working together without coercion. In working together, success is usually achieved.

With every right, claimed the speaker, goes a responsibility. In every community one has the obligation to prove himself a good neighbor and a good citizen.

The Chamber of Commerce is a voluntary association of forward looking citizens from all walks of life, combining to make the community a better place in every way. An active chamber is the will and the conscience of the people of the community. The growth in the number of chambers in Canada is an indication of the acceptance of the idea of progress through personal effort of thousands of people. There is a tendency for people to depend on government to take all the risk out of employment. As the government assumes more burdens, it becomes more powerful, and the individual less important. There is a movement to shirk responsibility and pass it on to government—a tendency to replace conscience and sense of responsibility with laws.

In conclusion, the speaker asked if we are utilizing our personal talents and energies in community planning and thinking.

Mr. Shippam was introduced by past president Ralph J. Locke and thanked by Rotarian Fred M. Rutherford.

Carmel

CARMEL — Several have gone hunting from this district.

Mr. Frank Hicks passed away last Wednesday. He will be greatly missed in the church and elsewhere. A large congregation paid their respects to one so highly esteemed. Sympathy is extended to Mrs. Hicks and family.

U.S. Army Ordered To Fire Satellites

Change In Policy Provides Chance To Prove Boast

Army Had Claimed It Could Have Beaten Reds in Race

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Army, one of whose scientists have claimed they could have launched a satellite long before Russia, has been given a chance to show what it can do in this field.

In a major switch from previous policy, Defence Secretary Neil McElroy Friday night ordered the army to go ahead with preparations to fire artificial moonlets. Up to now, the American earth satellite program—Project Vanguard—has been under the navy exclusively.

The defence department announcement said the army effort will "supplement the present Vanguard program."

There were reports the army might be ready to go in less than six weeks, after some modifications of rocket equipment. McElroy said the army would use its Jupiter-C test vehicle—a huge rocket it fired 1,500 miles a year ago in firing a test device more than 600 pulses high and 3,500 miles distant.

HAVE CRITICIZED

McElroy's action came against a background of criticism of the Eisenhower administration's race Russia 'beat the United States into space with two earth satellites.

The two Soviet space vehicles are now circling the earth at about 18,000 miles an hour. The first, a small sphere, has been aloft since Oct. 4. The second, launched last Sunday, is an elongated vehicle with a 1,120-pound load. It is carrying a dog.

A communique Friday night said the Army Ballistic Missile Agency, said Sputnik II was "not in complete its first circle about the earth, covering more than 2,359,800 miles.

For the second consecutive night, the Tass communique from Moscow made no mention of the satellite's dog passenger, Laika. There have been reports the Russians might be planning to bring the dog to earth, but there was no sign such an attempt had been made.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Dennis Chavez (Dem. N.M.) said today Congress will provide all the money needed for missiles development if President Eisenhower gives Dr. James R. Killian "head-knocking authority" to speed an all-out program.

Chavez said his Senate appropriation subcommittee, which handles defence funds, will be ready to consider any spending proposals Killian may draft. Killian, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is Eisenhower's newly-named special assistant in charge of "pushing American efforts to achieve weapons superiority in this dawning space era.

"You can't get missiles without spending money," Chavez said in an interview. "I'm sure Congress will give Dr. Killian all the money he needs to get this program going at top speed.

"In a time of national crisis such as this, Congress is not going to think about the budget. You can't figure national defence on a budgetary basis.

"But unless Dr. Killian has some head-knocking authority to put first things first, we're not going to be any better off than we have been in the past. I hope the president gives him that authority."

Chavez' reference to head-knocking obviously was related to charges that inter service rivalries had slowed progress in missiles development.

In Reno, Nev., Senator John Kennedy (Dem., Mass.) told reporters that he can't see a convention Friday night he was pleased with Killian's appointment, he was asked:

"Will the president give Dr. Killian the job of something more than a mere adviser?

"Will Dr. Killian be able to get the money he needs, knock together heads in the defence department and the conduct that can grip (the) administration over the issue?"

Blackout on News of Space Dog Leads to Speculation It Is Dead

LONDON (Reuters) — The blackout on news about the dog in Sputnik II continued today and the world wondered if she was dead.

Moscow Radio's regular early morning news bulletins merely repeated Friday night's communique about the second Soviet earth satellite.

This communique — the first that failed to mention the dog.

Today's Chuckle

The boss visited the filing employee in the hospital. "Now, George," he said, "don't you worry, Everybody at the office is going to pitch in and do your work — as soon as we figure out just what you have been doing."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: An intense low pressure system just south of James Bay is moving northeast. It has brought rain or very strong southwesterly winds across eastern Ontario while northerly gales over northwestern part of the province. Winds will diminish in strength by westerly 50 by tonight.

Heavy snow continues to fall on the extreme northern portions of the province. Fort William had five inches. Snowflurries are expected today in vicinity of Lake Huron and Georgian Bay. Maximum temperatures today will be in the low 30s in Southern Ontario and below freezing in the North.

GALES AND SNOW HIT NORTHERN PART OF ONTARIO

13 Inches of Snow Falls at Kapuskasing

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Howling blizzards drove heavy snow into northwestern Ontario overnight as temperatures toppled across the provinces and winds began to move into Southern Ontario.

Northerly gales brought as much as 13 inches of snow north of Lake Superior while southern regions waited for flurries and chilling freezing temperatures.

The weather bureau reported at 8 a.m. that Kapuskasing had 13 inches of snow, while Fort William had 5. Heaviest snowfalls today are forecast for James Bay and Timmins-Kapuskasing regions.

The strong winds caused damage here and there, blowing down trees, signs and telephone poles. Below freezing temperatures will prevail in the northern part of the province today while in the south the maximum will be in the low 30s.

FREQUENT SNOW

The weatherman forecast London and communities along the shores of Lake Huron and Georgian Bay would be hit hardest—between three and five inches of snow, if predictions were correct.

Toronto, Hamilton, Windsor and towns along the shores of Lakes Ontario, Erie and Huron all waited for flurries and subfreezing temperatures.

In the south and east, winds reached velocities of 55 and 60 miles an hour and were accompanied by as much as a half inch of rain.

The snow area Friday extended roughly from Port Arthur through Sault Ste. Marie, north to Parries Bay and south to Kapuskasing.

In Toronto, a mile of plastic strips covering a new lane on the Queen Elizabeth Way at the western entrance to the city were ripped up and sent flying into rushing traffic, causing several minor accidents.

Toronto also reported fallen trees and hydro and power cutoffs caused by the winds.

Nature, Devoted Gardeners Tend Last Resting Places

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Who tends the war dead?

Mostly, nature and devoted gardeners watch over the graves of Canadians whose deaths in battle will be commemorated again Monday.

At the National War Memorial in Ottawa and at hundreds of smaller memorials across the nation, wreaths of poppies and maple leaves will be placed during the 11 a.m. ceremonies Nov. 11.

Nearly all of Canada's more than 100,000 war dead are buried far from home. But their last resting places are not neglected.

Probably the most straightforward and at the same time most poignant comment issued by government is the annual report of the Imperial War Graves Commission.

The commission's task is to provide permanent commemoration for the 1,164,890 Commonwealth servicemen who died in the First World War and the 383,160 in the second.

"Few visitors to Flanders go to the small cemeteries hidden among the Flemish woods and farms, to which access can be gained only by deep - rutted tracks.

"Yet their distinctive layouts, ranging from informal rhododendron plantations to formal beech hedges and located among wild woodlands of hazel, alder and willow, enhance their natural dignity and beauty. . . .

"These are only a few of the many small, remote cemeteries which receive constant attention from the commission's staff. The gardeners continue to show great skill and enthusiasm for their work. . . .

"The remains of casualties of the 1914-18 war continue to be found from time to time at various points along the old battlefront in Belgium, and an occasional identification is possible. . . .

"Unfortunately, the tunnels constructed during the 1914-18 war are constantly subsiding and, as many cemeteries in the Ypres salient, elaborate maintenance is necessary. . . .

"The importing of good topsoil and re-levelling and turfing after building operations had been completed at Ho'ten and Groesbeek Canadian war cemeteries were the principal horticultural tasks during the winter. . . .

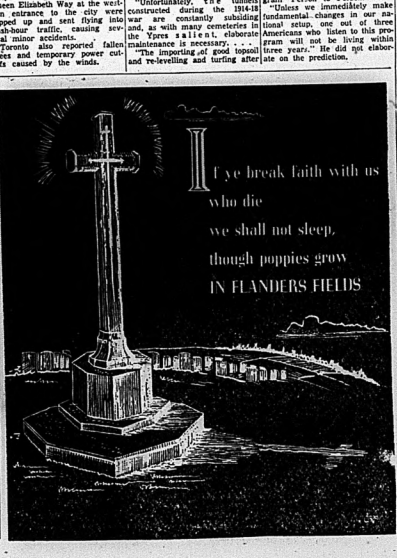
"The cleaning and straightening of headstones of the 1914-18 war is virtually complete in Europe and is progressing elsewhere. . . ."

A footnote: Officials in Ottawa said Friday the Vimy Ridge Memorial in France is being cleaned and repaired and that the monument is surrounded by scaffolding.

The work started about six weeks ago when it was found that water was seeping into the stone at the base of the memorial. The renovation will take until March.

A representative of the veterans affairs department in England and of the Canadian Legion will place wreaths at Vimy on Monday.

Eisenhower's Speech Attacked By De Seversky



NEW YORK (AP) — Aviation expert Maj. Alexander P. de Seversky Friday night attacked President Eisenhower's national security speech and said the United States is in the weakest defence position of its history.

De Seversky said the president "talked to the American people like a father would talk to little children who are upset because the house is on fire; but instead of calling the fire department he employed a garden hose with which he thought he could extinguish the conflagration."

"I'm afraid that never in war or in peace was the United States so weak in relation to the potential enemy."

Making a plea for unification of all military forces, de Seversky said "we must adopt an entirely new philosophy in national defence." He spoke on Edward R. Murrow's CBS television program Person to Person.

"Unless we immediately make fundamental changes in our national setup, one out of three Americans who listen to this program will not be living when three years." He did not elaborate on the prediction.

COMMONS URGED TO MAKE NOV. 11 FULL HOLIDAY

House Will Not Meet Monday Until 2.30

OTTAWA (CP)—With Remembrance Day drawing near, the Commons has been urged to declare the Nov. 11 anniversary a solemn national holiday of commemoration.

The Commons had veterans' problems on its mind Friday when Arnold Peters (CCF—Timiskaming), Second World War RCAF veteran, made the suggestion.

Peters, former leading aircraftman, who served in the Ferry Command, said every Canadian has some close friend or relative who died in battle.

"The least I think we can do for them is to set aside one day in which to honor their memory," Peters, a Canadian Legion member, was expressing a point often made by the legion—that it should not be business as usual on Nov. 11 with industrial activities halt briefly at 11 a.m., the anniversary time of the armistice ending the First World War.

Later, the Commons unanimously agreed not to meet at 11 a.m. EST as scheduled on Monday but to meet in the afternoon at 2:30 p.m.

Monday morning most MPs will gather at the National War Memorial here in services to honor Canada's more than 100,000 war dead. After the services, Governor - General Massey will dedicate a Book of Remembrance containing names of Canadians who died in the Second World War. It will be temporarily housed in the Parliament Buildings' Peace Tower, beside the First World War Book of Remembrance.

Then the Commons will start a week-long winding-up of the 10-day throne speech debate, interrupted two weeks ago to permit passage of social security and emergency farm legislation.

The reference to Remembrance Day was made during Commons debate on a preliminary resolution to amend unemployment insurance making a variety of changes in veterans disability pensions. The resolution was adopted and the bill introduced.

It would increase the maximum award for funeral and last-illness expenses of needy veterans to $200 from $150. The maximum annual clothing allowance for veterans in receipt of pensions, amputations, and those who need special appliances, would be raised to $96 from $72.

But no boost was made in the general level of disability pensions for veterans and their widows, and that fact produced some sharp political comments.

Blinking Lights Are Sighted Near Last Check Point

On Way to Honolulu From San Francisco

HONOLULU (AP) — A Pan American Stratocruiser carrying 36 passengers and a crew of eight was definitely down in the Pacific today and reports circulated blinking lights were sighted near it's last check point.

The four-engined Romance of the Skies presumably would have run out of gas at 3 a.m. PST. It was due in Honolulu from San Francisco at 9:45 Friday night.

The Air Force assigned a military air transport plane reported that blinking lights were sighted about 120 miles north of where the plane last reported in. That would be from 900 to 1,000 miles east of Honolulu.

Some 26 planes, five coast guard vessels, two heavy submarines, four merchant ships and the liner Matsonia joined the search force.

STILL HOPEFUL

"The aircraft must be presumed to be down," Robert B. Murray Jr., Pan American executive vice-president, said. "The crew is experienced and well trained and there is hope."

Murray said two Pan American planes would leave from San Francisco at daybreak to join in the search.

Fred Fluegge, near Los Angeles, an amateur radio operator said he had been told by a colleague on Wake Island that the plane was down about 957 miles east of the Hawaiian Islands.

The coast guard sent three cutters into the search while the Monmouth and Avila were diverted east of Honolulu. Two submarines, en route here from San Diego, also were brought into the search.

SISTER SHIP DITCH

A sister ship to the Romance, the Sovereign of the Skies ditched in mid-Pacific a year ago and all 31 aboard were picked up by the coast guard weather ship Pontchartrain. Coincidentally, the Sovereign's number was NC90943, the Romance's, 90944.

Hoping against hope, the coast guard had investigated reports that at Pearl Harbor in case the plane had power trouble and made the compass and radio inoperative.

Brown, a father of five, is a 15-year Pan American veteran.

The passenger list included the names Chadwick and family, Scott, Nancy, Kimi, Bruce and Robert Alexander, his wife and two children of Los Altos, California. Alexander is a Pan American employee.

Hopes New Chemical May Put End To 20-Yr.-Old Plague of Lampreys

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. W. J. Harkness, an Ontario fish and game official, has cautious hope a new chemical may put an end to the 20-year-old plague of Great Lakes fisheries for more than 20 years.

The chemical — TFM — has been developed by a United States conservation department tests conducted in Michigan indicate it is deadly poison to the larvae of the blood-sucking pest.

Dr. Harkness, chief of the fish and wildlife division, Ontario lands and forests department, said he personally results of a recent two-day test conducted by U.S. fish and wildlife service officers on Little Billie's Creek which empties into Lake Huron near Cheboygan, Mich., "are to be guardedly enthusiastic.

"It looks very, very promising," Dr. Harkness said. Final reports on the poison will be presented in Toronto Dec. 2-3 at a meeting of the International Great Lakes Fisheries Commission and it is then, too, that Ontario may decide about using it.

If the province does use the poison, Dr. Harkness said, it will probably concentrate first on Lake Superior where an all-out program against the lampreys is being conducted.

During the Michigan tests under Dr. Vernon Applegate and Howard Moore poison, whose chemical name is 3,4,6-trichloro-2-nonophenol, was fed into the streams in a formula to create up to 30 parts to every 1,000,000 parts of water.

By Thursday noon, a survey of a control group of lamprey larvae showed 97 per cent dead. But later surveys indicated the final kill might rise to 99 per cent.

At present, the only effective weapons for battling the lamprey are electric barriers and weirs, but Dr Harkness says the new poison, if successful, will be more effective and cheaper to use.

Its higher efficiency-rating, he says, would spring from its ability to kill the lamprey in the larva stage—the lamprey spends four years as a larva—before it reaches maturity and begins to prey on fish.

Syrian Guards Report Turkish Troops on Move

A'ZAZ, Syria (AP) — Syrian civil defence guards say there have been unusual movements at night by Turkish troops across the border from here.

"Everything appears calm by day," an armed civilian told correspondents Saturday making a border tour. "But at night when we take up our guard duty near the border line we always hear the sound of vehicles moving in the area of Turkish posts."

"We see the lights of the vehicles and hear shouts exchanged in Turkish. When day comes we see nothing."

The main Turkish troop concentrations reported in the area are about 15 miles from the border. Syrian civilian fighters claim there are 15,000 members of troops in the town of Kilis, across the border from here.

SAYS U.S. ON PATROL

Cal. Tawfik Shalati, commander of Syria's northwestern border area, told the correspondents Friday that Turkish officers are "in active duty positions" with Turkish troops.

MAN IS DROWNED

AMHERSTBURG (CP) — Officials of marine operators in this Detroit River port 18 miles south of Windsor, said dredging operations have not yet recovered the body of Clem Trepanier, 37, of Amherstburg, driver of a truck which crashed down a 45-foot embankment Friday and plunged into the river.

CITY and DISTRICT NEWS

MINOR CAR CRASHES REPORTED TO POLICE

All was quiet with city and provincial police this morning, with no more than routine matters coming to their attention.

City police reported a number of minor motor accidents with no injuries resulting, while provincial officers had an alarm out for a 1956 model car stolen at Cherry Valley.

Loyalty provincial police reported all was quiet.

CAMPBELLFORD INDUSTRY FOLDS

CAMPBELLFORD — The Gair Co. of Canada pulp mill, one of this Trent Valley town's oldest industries, announced it will cease operations within the next few days because of obsolete equipment, lack of suitable timber and increased freight rates.

The plant, in continuous production since 1911, employs about 80 men at its winter peak.

Hardly a day passes but we are informed of progress being made in our constant fight against disease. Research workers are always looking for new drugs, antibiotics and man-made chemicals.

Each one is clinically tested; against every possible ailment with the hope that a better way of treatment will be found. Millions of dollars are often spent to perfect a single new drug.

As soon as a new drug is released for safe use, we stock it in our prescription department. It is a remarkable achievement that the average charge of all the prescriptions dispensed is less than three dollars.

Community Chest Again Seeks $35,000 Goal

This come the ante hasn't been increased this year? Because last year's $35,000 target was missed by about $6,000 or more.

The 1957 drive will be quite different from the 1956 one. There will be no one-night house-to-house bills this year as there was last November. Instead, beginning November 19 and ending on the 23rd, volunteer canvassers will visit every home, business and industry in the city in a bid to reach the objective.

Agencies participating in the Community Chest this year are the same ones that were in it in 1956: Boy Scouts, Victorian Order of Nurses, Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, St. John Ambulance, Y.M.C.A., Children's Aid Society and the Navy League.

These worthwhile organizations and every person in Belleville may sometime benefit from them. An example of this is in his future. Perhaps some day you will ask one or more of these participants for help. Now they are asking your help, $35,000 worth. Won't you help them?

Slight Trace Of Snow Seen In Quinte Area

Coming on the heels of yesterday's rain storm and stiff gale which swept through the Quinte district, the Belleville area had its first touch of winter this morning as a slight trace of snow appeared on lawns and rooftops.

Farmers visiting the Belleville market said the snow belt did not extend far north of Belleville, with none received at Trenton. In the Belleville area, however, open fields appeared white and were still snow covered at mid-morning in sheltered areas.

Hunters Having Good Success Say Reports

With the current hunting season now six days old, hunter are beginning to return from camps in the north with report of good success.

Game officer Fred McDonald of Point Anne states that deer seem plentiful and several camps have already broken up with members successful in shooting their full ouota of deer.

Possibly one of the most successful camps was that of a party of Kingston hunters who returned through the city with a full quota of nine deer, acting as guide for the Kingston party was Lorlan Sawyer, 17 Bridge Street West.

A party of American hunters stopping off in Belleville to acquire hunting licences before going into camp in the Madawaska area, said they had seen several cars loaded with deer.

Cold Weather Keeps Buyers From Market

The season's first brush with winter conditions put a damper on to the local farmers' market this morning with customers on the market appearing to be in numbers.

On the inside market, eggs ranged up to 55c for firsts with 50c the going price for extras. Medium eggs sold at 45c and pullets 35c per dozen.

There was a fairly heavy offering of apples on the outside market with top grade Spys and Delicious bringing 50c per basket or $3.50 per hamper. McIntosh sold at 75c per basket and $3 per hamper.

Potatoes sold at $2 per hamper with basket lots fetching 35c per half dollar was also the going price for baskets of beets and carrots. Spanish onions brought 75c per basket. Cabbages were a dime to 15c each; sweet turnips were 15c and cauliflower ranged from a dime to 35c each. Parsnips were 50c per basket.

Honey sold at $1.10 per 4 lb. pail. Apple cider brought $1 per gallon and 55c for half gallon jugs.

Ald. G.B. Hyde Is Candidate For Mayoralty

With municipal nominations now less than two weeks away, the Belleville political pot began to boil yesterday with the announcement by Alderman Gerald E. Hyde that he would run for mayor for next year.

Ald. Hyde officially tendered his resignation Friday with City Clerk Mrs. Ann Haggerty. However a year ago for a one-year term he still had a year to go to complete his term.

"It's still a bit early, but residents have to be in 19 days before nominations and therefore I had no alternative but to resign yesterday," Ald. Hyde said.

He says he will have a definite platform to lay before the electors, but says it is not an economic platform.

So far Mr. Hyde is the only member of council to publicly state intention of contesting the mayoralty. Mayor James Bryce-ter, contacted this morning by The Ontario Intelligencer, said he had no intention of running for a third term.

Ald. Hyde's intention of contesting the mayoralty," Mayor Bryce said.

In his five years on city council Mr. Hyde has served on every committee but except for a brief tee and prior to the adoption of Belleville's present form of control last January was chairman of the finance committee. He is a member of the Belleville Arena Commission and former chairman of that body.

Six Cubs Enter Scout Group

TRENTON (Special) — Six cubs from "B" Pack, of Third Trenton Cubs foined in the Grand Howl for the last time yesterday evening before entering Third Trenton Scout Group. They were: Gordon Brillinger, Alan Dunfield, Larry Dainard, James Marchese, Donny McDonald and Sonny Bell. After the Akela, Alex Bell, awarded proficiency badges to those Cubs who had earned them, he led the departing Cubs forward one by one to where they were received by the Scoutmaster of Third Trenton, W. H. Jackson, who then introduced them to the assistant Scoutmaster Scouter Brownlee.

Mr. Jackson gave a short address, welcoming the cubs to Scouting. He said that Third Trenton was a good group, in which there were many old Scouts. He Bell said that he would not say "Goodbye" to the boys but "So long". "We will be right behind you" said Mr. Bill.

PRESENTED WITH GIFTS

Mrs. Isobel De Rush was presented with a gift of jewellery by workers at the S. H. Camp factory in Trenton yesterday afternoon. Mrs. De Rush came from Windsor with the firm when the factory moved to Trenton earlier in the year, to instruct the new Trenton workers in the specialized tasks which they would be undertaking.

The gift was presented to Mrs. De Rush by Mrs. Mabel Steenburg on behalf of the workers, and the presentation was organized by Miss Betty Weese. Mrs. De Rush expressed her thanks for the gift which she said had taken her quite by surprise. She assured the workers that while she was still in Trenton she would do her best to give them any help that she could. A petite, attractive brunette, Mrs. De Rush expects to return to her home in Windsor in the near future.

Menon Attempts New Mediation On Radiation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Indian Krishna Menon took on another job today as the volunteer role as the United Nations mediator.

Already tied up in negotiations with Russia and the Big Three on his plan to get a United Nations armament talks going Menon disclosed he is being bold to widen together on the atomic radiation issue.

Menon stepped into the 82-nation political committee's debate Friday after Czechoslovakia and eight Western powers had brought out rival plans for de-dealing with the problem of radiation effects.

The powers want a scientific conference on the issue. The West labelled this a plan to stage a propaganda fanfare and urged members to support a UN scientific committee already studying radiation.

WAYS COMPROMISE

Menon proposed that Czechoslovakia and sponsors of the Eastern proposal meet with the compromise. He suggested that the scientific committee be expanded.

At the same time, Menon and the Western powers agree to nearly double the size of the UN disarmament commission. He hopes to get Russia to drop her threat to boycott the 12-nation body and its five-nation subcommittee.

Rebuffed at first, Menon finally got both sides to take a second look at his plan. Diplomats predicted it would take the limelight when the disarmament issue reaches the General Assembly floor.

Andrew Robb, Board Chairman Of Paper, Dies

HALIFAX (CP) — Andrew W. Robb, chairman of the board of the Halifax Herald Ltd., and former president of the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association, died in hospital today. He was 81.

Born in Saint John, N.B., Mr. Robb entered the newspaper business as a copy-reader with The Herald Ltd. in 1914.

He became vice-president of the Herald Ltd. in 1933, president in 1947 and board chairman three years later.

On January 1, 1949, the Halifax Herald and Halifax Chronicle merged to become the Imperial Chronicle-Herald and The Evening Halifax Mail-Star, all owned by the Halifax Herald Ltd.

Mr. Robb lived and worked through the era of communications developments which turned small, homely journals into metropolitan newspapers providing extensive coverage of everyday events throughout the world.

Survivors include one son, A. Stuart Robb, Belleville; four daughters, Mrs. Jessie Christie, Bedford, N.S.; Mrs. James Muir, Truro, N.S.; Mrs. George M. Hagen, Halifax, and Mrs. W. R. MacLean, Peterborough.

Police on Trail Of Cheque Artists

OTTAWA (CP) — Arrest here last week of a Canadian artist has put police on the trail of a ring believed to have defrauded banks and merchants in Canada and the United States.

Various pertinent machinery, cheque blanks and dozens of sets of blank identification were seized in London, Ont., Monday by detectives Gordon Lowry and Carl Norton of the Ottawa police force with RCMP assistance.

The raid followed last week's arrest here of Frederick Morrison, 33, of London. Harrison pleaded guilty to trying to pass two $25 forged cheques at Ottawa banks and is awaiting sentence.

Detective Lowry said it appeared the ring was prepared to dispose of about $100,000 worth of bad cheques.

DOTH. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, who passed away November 10th, 1950.

Just a month comes with deep regret,
It brings back a day we'd never forget.
You went away without goodbye,
It broke our hearts to see you die.
Sadly missed by wife Alice and family.

JEFFS. — In loving memory of a dear father, Charles James Jeffs, who passed away two years ago today, November 9th, 1955.

Years of striving, little of play,
Then God took him home to stay.
A cherished smile, a heart of gold,
To the dearest father the world could hold.
Happy memories, fond and true,
From us who thought the world of you.
Sadly missed by Betty, Bill and family.

IT DOESN'T ALWAYS PAY TO BE BRAVE . . .
Adults too often will put on a show of courage with a "cold," rather than retire and rest—and call the Doctor. Pneumonia sometimes attacks such stalwarts.
Do not try to be brave with a "cold," however simple. Follow the well-established guidance—rest, eat a well-balanced diet, and drink plenty of water and fruit juices. If symptoms persist, call your Doctor promptly, while there is still time for treatment of the current illness and prevention of possible hazardous complications. If medicines are indicated, we will be happy to render the best in Pharmaceutical service in filling your Doctor's prescriptions.

A Lift for Living

Many Reasons for Loneliness

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Let us consider today the mastering of another of life's immovables, loneliness. Here again as in the case of pain we must use discrimination in determining how much of our loneliness is inevitable.

Sometimes we are lonely simply because we are unlovable. Sometimes we are out of step with the crowd merely because we are out of sorts; not every person who charts a lone course is a pioneer or prophet. He may be only an eccentric or a nuisance.

When we see others drifting away from us, we ought first to give them the benefit of the doubt. Emerson said, "The only way to have a friend is to be a friend."

Some of us may be like the young woman who came to the late Dr. H.C. Link complaining of her loneliness. Examination showed she had never exerted herself to cultivate the company of others. When guests came to call, she shrank herself if she did not think them congenial. Thus never putting out to take others in, she found her circle of friendship shrinking.

And sometimes our loneliness is the result of our sin, for wrongdoing has a way of eventually cutting us off from our comradeships. Hence when we talk about loneliness, let us make sure it is not due to oddity, aloofness, self-centeredness or sinfulness. A person's first obligation is to get along with his crowd in order to get the crowd along.

Nevertheless, no person goes far in the journey of life without some stages where he does or should walk alone.

TIED LOOSE ENDS

Some time ago one of our nation's business leaders lost his wife. At first his spirit seemed utterly broken. We tried to give him the assurance that the circle of love now broken by death would someday be reunited. Grasping that thread of hope, he began tying up the loose ends of his life and he is now carrying on with calmness and confidence. He feels his wife still working with him.

Duty, as well as death, often separates us from our fellowships. Sometimes the Christian, like his Lord, has to go off alone into the wilderness of decision where he, too, must think through his own philosophy of living and plan his own program of action. It may be that in clinging to our conscience, we, like Christ, may have to separate from our fellow townsmen, even our families.

One of my most competent parishioners wrote me a letter telling how she had been impressed by a certain minister's statement that modern Christians were too comfortable. Maybe we have been failing to stress sufficiently the note of sacrifice for conscience' sake. Maybe we are trying to make our religion too comfortable in order to attract worshipers.

Do not misunderstand me. I believe church buildings should be comfortable. It is not hard sitting but hard hitting which makes a strong Christian. But maybe we have been trying to make people too much at ease in our religion. If we have never been made lonely for conscience' sake, we better take warning. The men who have moved the world have moved out ahead of the crowd and endured thereby the hell of loneliness.

One thinks of William Penn, who was ostracized by his aristocratic friends and thrown into prison for speaking his religious beliefs. He spoke of solitude as "a school few care to learn in, though none instructs us better." To sensitive, friendly natures, lonely resistance is anguish. Jesus with His eagerness for love and comradeship must have experienced unfathomable sorrow when He felt called to go against His own disciples. When He announced that He must go up to Jerusalem to be crucified, Peter protested. Our Lord knew that Peter's protest was prompted by love. Yet He had to rebuke him for the sake of divine duty.

Perhaps the bitterest drop in Christ's cup of sorrow was the desertion of those nearest to Him in His last hours of trial and death. A man can endure the curses of the crowd if he has those close to him who understand.

A hundred and twenty years ago Wendell Phillips felt called to speak on the streets of Boston for the abolition of slavery. He was heckled by hostile crowds and opposed by party politicians. His wife was an invalid. And every night before going out to speak he would stop by his wife's bedside. She would take his hand in hers and say, "Don't shilly-shally Wendell." The consciousness of her unseen comradeship sustained him in the face of jeering mobs.

Of Moses in his loneliness when his followers became impatient, it was said, "He endured as seeing Him who is invisible." When we have to walk alone on the path of duty, there is always a Divine Companion.

MISS MACPHAIL'S GHOST

The Shades of Aggie Macphail!

If her ghost is free to wander this earth, there is little doubt as to where it was seated on Wednesday. It would be settled back, listening intently, as the Ontario Federation of Agriculture held its annual meeting.

Not, mind you, that it might not have wandered off later to attend some Farmers' Union meeting on a back concession and might, indeed, have been more comfortable there, since the Farmers' Union seems to be playing the radical to the Federation's conservative role in some present-day farm controversies. But it is certain that Aggie's ghost would not miss any farmers' meeting as important as the annual gathering of the Federation of Agriculture if it could possibly gain permission to attend.

And if that ghost was ensconced in one of the back seats, listening intently, how those eyes must have danced, how the lips must have curled into a sly grin, when the ghostly ears tuned in to Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Minister of Agriculture in the Progressive Conservative government of Premier Leslie Frost.

For Mr. Goodfellow said that a two-price system is necessary if agriculture is to have returns comparable to industry.

If any member of Parliament who displayed such a wide interest in so many problems as did Aggie Macphail could be said to have had a theme song, then this was it, the two-price system for agricultural products.

She sung it up and down the land during the depression years — always to the accompaniment of disparaging remarks from political opponents or sorrowful shakings of the heads of economists, who wondered how any person who could become a member of Parliament could possibly escape knowing that any such system was wholly impractical.

Now, though, the two-price theory has become a Conservative policy — perhaps we should say a Progressive Conservative doctrine.

It looks as if Aggie lived before her time. A generation later she could have been a Conservative cabinet minister. But, on second thoughts, she would not have liked that. There is strong reason to suspect that she felt uncomfortable and unhappy when, in the last years of her political career, she donned the CCF mantle - - and anybody who chafed at that cloak as being too respectable would not have felt comfortable as a Conservative, even with the two-price system for farm products tagging along for company.

OUT OF FOCUS

Loving animals is an admirable trait. Worshiping them is something else again.

It is easy to understand that many people who love animals have been dismayed at the plight of the dog circling the earth in the second Russian satellite.

But when an official for the British Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals says that the Soviet Union should be "forced to tell the world why human volunteers . . . could not be used instead of helpless animals," one wonders whether he loves his fellow man as much as he loves dogs.

And when, as an alternative to human volunteers, he suggests humans who have not volunteered but who are "undesirables," one can only wonder what would have been the reaction from other quarters if the Russians had selected some "undesirable" as the first living thing to ride in a satellite.

PRICE INDEX UP AGAIN

The price index has been outclassed recently by those Sputniks the Russians are throwing into the sky, which outpace it as easily as a small boy evades an asthetic grandma waving a washcloth.

But said small boy eventually gets tired and grandma catches him in the end. The consumer price index might just be playing grandma to the Sputniks. After all, there is general agreement that the Russian moons are obeying the old adage that what goes up must come down. There is no convincing evidence that the price index will abide by these rules.

NATURE'S WAY

The sunbeam bids us all to smile,
The song bird tells us to be gay,
That gentle breeze comes through the trees
To blow our troubles all away.

The autumn brings a message sweet,
And everywhere we turn about
Dame Nature, kind, says:
"Never mind,
I'll put your worries all to rout."

So leave your woe at home and quit
The room where darkness hides the skies;
Go roam the lanes where nature reigns,
And joy will sparkle in your eyes.

Pay as You Grow Plan

By John Gould writing from Lisbon Falls, Maine, in the Christian Science Monitor

When you're driving along, every mile you'll see a sign in a dooryard proclaiming, "Tree Farm." I do not have such a sign on my lawn, for reasons good and sufficient, but I have just as good a tree farm as any one. In fact, I've had it longer than most, for my forest improvement program began before the current conservationists thought the idea up and heralded it as something new.

I can explain my tree farm priority in simplest terms: I had 83 acres on the back end of the farm which I got tired of mowing, since I had no use for it, and I was trying to think of something I could do with 10 acres which would keep me in the constant state of happiness I most desired.

Better than nearly anything else were giving us all the hay we needed, and the hay on my back lot was nothing very special. It showed the extreme neglect the field enjoyed, and ran largely to sour weeds, thistles, pennyroyal and such. The soil was sandy, whereas most of our fields were loam, and in dry summers a brownness set in and took over. Family experience had handed down the saying that the field was good only for a thunderstorm, because fifty years it would produce lumber.

So I was delighted when a salesman for a forest nursery came around and we were able to enter into a firm transaction. This was just as the depression hit rock bottom, and I had decided that as much of a transaction to stand out as memorable. The salesman said they had an overstock of white pine, and were prepared to be generous on it.

It was tough all over, and I held that the pay as you mature pledge of the stock market hadn't exactly wiped me out, it had nonetheless left me pessimistic about the dependen scrival of currency no matter how it was printed. I felt that the same consideration was hampering his chances in all directions, and that I might as well take a loss on pine. Plenty of people, he said, would pay, at maturity, twenty dollars a thousand board feet, whereas he felt I might be content on in time.

So I told the man if he would wait for his money, and not push me, I would let him have my back acreage to white pine.

He said this was the best offer he'd had for a long time, and the next day a crew which looked a little astonished at the outcome arrived to do the planting. Understand, this was back before all the conservation programs. These parts had ever planted a woods. Woods had always grown on their own, and to hell with Tree State, and we've never been without. Therefore the men and down the road who presumed I was paying money to have this done, and felt I was somehow an absentminded.

I did scrape together some kind of a planting pattern, for which the salesman touchingly wiped a grateful tear from his moist eye, and I ended with an outfit $100 at my leisure. This was truly a great investment, for I was always brought up to avoid burdensome debts and am still that way to this day. Even in times of bounty I would not borrow money from an anti-depression without some concern, but in those trying days it was more than I could stand. For a no time was involved, I accepted the offer gratefully, feeling that the man wouldn't otherwise have sold the trees at all. For years afterward I did not think about it.

Then the years sped swiftly by as you have possibly noticed. Now and then I would skin out a back road, look at the trees, have a small bill to pin to a sheet of paper and continue on my journey. Whenever this happened the nursery would write me a pleasant letter thanking me for sending a receipt, inquiring how the trees were doing. The letters were often signed, and promised to come to maturity before the last payment was made. I don't know as I ever grew anything which gave me more fun.

I began growing the first row of limbs, and the trees were up to the windows when I could see through them. The children grew up and the world wagged along.

* * *

Then came the day when I pinned a $5 bill to a letter, and sent it along to close out the account. I thanked them for waiting, but pointed out that the $5 had included the passage of time, and I felt I had not really taken any undue exploitation of the loosened mentioned. Under the economic conditions that had prevailed, I said, I thought they were lucky - Why wrote back a warm, congratulatory letter in which they agreed with me, and said I had no idea how often my small contributions had arrived just in time to keep their grocer from losing his nerve. That they had been, indeed, many business days when they hadn't even taken in as much as I would send. I think it was as pleasant a transaction all in all, as I've ever had with anybody, and the upshot was to give me a tree farm before they became a national urgency.

Today I put a sandwich in my pocket and spent the time up in my pines pruning off some more limbs. The trees are getting up so the harvest can be anticipated. The wind soughed (I don't know if that is pronounced sow or sou) in the tops; blue jays whistled at me, and the peripheral was enjoyable. All was serene and content.

I suppose I deserve a sign out front, but it wouldn't make the planting of a forest any more fun. Truth to tell, it will be a sad day for me if those trees are ready for the harvest.

The only other personal natural urgency I require is to cut them. There's something extra about woods you've grown yourself, and I don't want to see it'd care to advertise that I did it from mercenary motives.

May Find Ship Sunk 43 B.C.

New York Times

When a now unknown Roman galley went down in the Tyrrhenian Sea off Sardinia, some two thousand years ago her load was not listed in the Red Lloyds in London. She was on one of many now nameless ships that plied the Mediterranean during the busy days of the early Roman Empire. There were the transatlantic cargo and passenger ships of their day, trying to make a profit. There were the freighters and the tramps and they were used because it was safer to go by coastal roads it was infinitely easier to transport goods and passengers by water than to transport them overland.

Some relics of galleys that did not come safe to port have been found in recent years off the Italian Riviera, off Marseilles and Toulon and near the coast of Italy. But for the purpose of our present interest we may count out the famous state galleys of Caligula, which were found at the bottom of Lake Nemi and which were destroyed during the Second World War. Caligula's galleys were phonies. They could never, on an island lake but never, could have outlasted a storm or earned their keep.

Now comes word from Professor Paul Hoffman in Rome that Italian skin divers have found a deposit of ancient ballast stones and Toulon and near the coast of Italy. For the purpose of our present interest we may count out the famous state galleys of Caligula, which were found at the bottom of Lake Nemi and which were destroyed during the Second World War. Caligula's galleys were phonies. They could never, on an island lake but never, could have outlasted a storm or earned their keep.

Now comes word from Professor Paul Hoffman in Rome that Italian skin divers have found a deposit of ancient ballast stones and amphorae, the man jars only sixty feet under water and are hoping that underwater archaeology in the framework of a long-lost galley. Government archaeologists say this discovery may be of exceptional importance. One would hope so. Amphorae, as these jars are called, have been found before in other wrecks. It is conceivable that traces of their former contents may still be identified. We are confident that many of them may have contained wine, even though we have no hopes. Wine kept under water for two thousand years would be undrinkable.

But in this find there is something better than ballast and wine. There is the heady vintage of history and of life. Sudden death, a new life in prison and as we read the brief story we are back in the first shining days of the Roman Empire, a little off what is now called the island of Ogres, north of Sardinia, and our ship, spring a leak, is subsiding to the bottom in sixty feet of cold water. For a moment that lost crew and that lost ship in a long year live again and we live with them.

New Jacob Gets a Leah

Toronto Telegram

"There's nothing new under the sun," says the author of Ecclesiastes, and a dispatch from Calcutta proves this contention.

An Egyptian youth fell in love with a beautiful girl, and all looking forward to a fabulous future hope and happiness.

The great day came, the ceremony performed and congratulations were extended. Then the bride lifted her veil and the groom promptly fainted. She was not the beautiful damsel of his young man's dreams and hopes, but her sister and an ugly duckling to boot. When the groom came to, the report says, he called the police to investigate the alleged trickery.

All of this recalls the story of Jacob, Rachel and Leah in the Bible. Jacob was in love with Rachel and worked for his intended father-in-law for seven years for the right to have her as his wife. Laban, however, had other ideas. At the wedding ceremony he switched brides, putting Leah, the elder daughter, with weak eyes, in Rachel's place. Jacob, according to the Bible story, did not discover the deception until morning.

It should be said that Jacob was more gallant than his modern opposite number. He didn't call the police, but contented himself with Leah and worked another seven years to gain the hand of Rachel. Evidently Middle East grooms have changed their ways, but modern in-law are just about the same.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 9th., 1937

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wills of Cliffs Falls are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Bamford, North Front Street.

Mrs. T. Ed. Ketcheson, city tax collector and assessor, states that taxes are being paid more promptly this year than has been the case in many years. Collections are far ahead of any year at this time.

The officers of local Retail Merchants Association have suggested to the merchants that they close their stores until one o'clock Armistice Day instead of Armistice Day as suggested by the Veterans' Association. The closing of the stores will give the employees an opportunity to attend the services at the cenotaph.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McMurray of Gilmour are the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Reid in this city.

Miss Phyllis Wright and Miss Phyllis Cochrane of Almonte, students at the Ottawa Normal School, spent the week-end with the former's parents, the Rev. G. G. Wright and Mrs. Wright at Christ Church rectory.

30 YEARS AGO

November 9th., 1927

The first two stories of the Collegiate Institute and Vocational School are about completed and work on the roof should be commenced shortly. The contract calls for the roof to be on by the end of the year.

Miss Marjorie Taylor has joined the staff of the local branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia.

Mr. Geo. W. Thompson, city manager of Westmount, Quebec, and Mrs. Thompson with their two children motored here from Montreal and Mr. Thompson visited old acquaintances in town. He is an old Belleville boy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Thompson.

Mr. Bert Tripp of Flint, Mich., is spending a few days here with Mr. Arthur Ketcheson, Burton Street.

Mr. Frank Follwell is home from Queen's University, Kingston, to spend the weekend.

40 YEARS AGO

November 9th., 1917

Mrs. Charles Weese, second concession of Thurlow, left by ship, has returned home after visiting friends at Gilmour.

A shipment of hogs was made from here today to Montreal. The price paid was $16.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SUSTAINING THOUGHTS

It is just as important to nourish and sustain a healthy mental attitude as to do the same for your body. Thoughts may well be said to be sustaining silent messengers of hope, courage, and assurance.

It has been said many times that what a man thinks so is he. And that what a man is thinking and you get his measure right off. But it is only after years for him to reveal himself as he is. Then and then only is he known. At the wedding ceremony he switched brides, putting Leah, the elder daughter, with weak eyes, in Rachel's place. Jacob, according to the Bible story, did not discover the deception until morning.

It should be said that Jacob was more gallant than his modern opposite number. He didn't call the police, but contented himself with Leah and worked another seven years to gain the hand of Rachel. Evidently Middle East grooms have changed their ways, but modern in-law are just about the same.

encouragement and understanding. Sustaining thoughts are the kindly ones and are always expressed except in action.

A multitude of these thoughts are used when alone, and during times of meditation and prayer. The majority of others influence us, and bring spiritual strength to us when most needed. Every day gain understanding through concentration on pleasant thoughts, and a sustaining attitude toward life is thus formed.

Surrounded by great books of art stimulated to good thoughts, and our entire physical body is enriched. We may not only inspired by carefully selected books in themselves, but by the new thoughts they give to one, time and again, as we turn to them for thoughts that we missed. Books keep talking to us and they are forever new.

England's Elegant Gargle

Elegant means that the remedy or preparation is of agreeable odor and taste and not unpleasant to use or take.

England was the name of the pharmacist who originated the formula for the gargle, Joseph has W. England.

Well, now that we arrive at the question of the formula for the gargle, I regret to confess I'm afraid to print it. Not because there is anything dangerous in it; but just because, what with all the writings I have to take from people who dislike me and all my worries, I can't afford to alienate any friends or potential friends by unpsychical error.

Once in an expansive mood, I put caution aside and printed instructions for whipping up a batch of my Fool Proof Cough Medicine. It seemed to go all right enough everywhere — except in Louisville. One Louisville reader — I have always imagined him a colonel, an amiable old gentleman in ordinary circumstances, who had now blown his top — declared he had subscribed to the paper in good faith and now had just played him a dirty trick. He had followed to the letter the directions we had given for our fool proof cough medicine. But the paper omitted one item from the recipe, a pint of water.

Maybe some big advertiser like me and all my worries, or maybe the typographer took his straight. Anyway I didn't care after that, I don't know whether the man sued. All I know is that I lose hours of sleep, one delightful day on the bowling green and one good Kentucky reader.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Little by little, everything is going against wild nature. Not even James Imagine that sufficient public sympathy and interest has been aroused, as represented by natural history societies, sportsmen's associations and bird watching clubs, to give a single unionized wildlife a fighting chance to survive. Government departments, indeed, are filling up with biologists who are dedicated to what is called wildlife management.

But you take baby food. It comes in cute little miniature cans. Up at the summer resorts, where a good many just dump their garbage in excavations or nice distance from the cottage, young mothers open these baby food cans so many times a day. Each can, as I speak, out the lid off completely. They eat it, so it will be clean. Before it is emptied, they just shove the lid down into the can and toss it into the incinerator.

Along comes a raccoon. Now, in former times, cans were nearly all good big cans such as tomato and corn and all had a very large and elderly coon could shove their heads in and explore the remnants without much risk of becoming the man in the iron mask. Along, however, came a new type of can represented by soup tins and condensed milk tins. These had only two lids and the size of the primitive tomato can. It became a commonplace for garbage forages — especially skunks and junior raccoons — to get their heads stuck in cans, than which a more woebegone predicament can hardly be imagined.

The wildlife management boys have tried to solve the can problem, particularly when their lids are shoved in, are a menace indeed. Recently we've been found wandering helplessly around with both the lid and bottom still in baby food cans, trapped by the lids. the needs of man have been the principal result of what we have done to wildlife. Now the needs of babies have joined the campaign.

Strength for The Day

LIFE'S PROPER SEQUENCES

Great emphasis is being laid today on hobbies. We are assured that we must have a hobby else we may fall into all sorts of disgreeable states of mind. Hobbies relieve tension, get our minds off the duties which if unduly pursued overwhelm and overburden us.

That hobbies are necessary and contributory to health is true. But there is a lot of nonsense in the hobby of the today and such nonsense arises chiefly from the fact that people who advocate hobbies often make too much of them. We have entered upon a sad state of our existence when any hobby becomes first in our lives. As an occasional diversion, as relief from tension and constant application, a hobby is a fine thing. But hobbies sometimes keep people playing at them until manner habits who should know better become as dependent upon play as are little children.

There is not a wholesome hobby we can mention which is not a good thing if properly pursued, but by the same token there is no hobby which cannot be become disastrous and decimating if pursued unwisely and constantly or too vigorously. Happiness largely consists in getting our satisfactions in their proper sequence.

Hobbies are important but they are not of first importance. Work, worship, and family relationships, are the things which make life a life properly arranged.

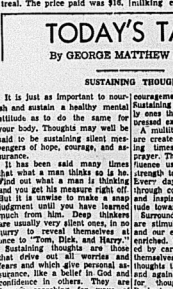
Now Butter Surplus Gone

Windsor Star

Many have criticized the floor price established for butter because it resulted, they claimed, in a surplus of the product. But the surplus now has disappeared despite the price floor. Hon. Douglas S. Harkness, minister of agriculture, said in the house yesterday, announcing the end of the system of rebates to hospital and religious institutions. He said the effect established them to use up some of the surplus at 21 cents per pound.

Why the end of the surplus? It all boils down to farm economics. Many farmers, not primarily in the dairy business, were getting a little butter as by-product of beef cattle operations. In Ontario, at least, there may think that the farmer may of these "mixed farms" to quit milking cows.

How Should A Man Smell?



Saskatoon Star-Phoenix

What . . . should a man smell like? This is the intriguing question arising from the research by domestics industry executive to the effect that men in future will be using more perfume. "Natural-ly," this perfume-maker said, the modern men will use "with a specially formulated" for them. And then he added: "The men may think that they know what they want to smell, but it is the women who will finally decide."

So, we repeat, what should a man smell like? Today's range is infinite. There's the port-and-cigar smell of a comfortable evening in the den, or, with minor variations, in the saloon. There are the distinctive aromas of outdoor activities: gasoline-and-oil for a mechanic; horse-and-cows for the livestock breeder; hay-and-grain dust for the harvester; and a mixmud for the duck hunter. Grocers have their smells, and butchers and fishermen and millers, and carpenters and printers.

Presumbably the manufacturers and the women don't decide on any one of these. But whatever they do come out with, we can be sure that it will not be as natural, as distinctive, as natural as the combinations men themselves pick up (and give off) as they go about their appointed tasks.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK — By R. J. SCOTT

Shooting Home Movies ...With Bob Knight

Our topic, this time, is movie titling. When to do it. How to do it.

—Some cinematic purists avow that every foot of movie film should be planned and polished into a finished production, with as many hours spent over editing and titling equipment as with camera and film. Which is fine and dandy — if you have the time and inclination.

But most of us make movies for the simple reason that we like our picture records to movie because our pictures subjects move - - - and because life just won't stand still for any camera. Not for long. And not for real. Yet we'll not argue the point that for many of our reels, and many of our audiences, it would indeed be nice if their could stand on their own feet when shown without the benefit of a helpful and explanatory monologue from the projectionist.

TITLING

Titles, of course, are the answer. Not for every reel and sequence. But for our "show" reels. A vacation or holiday trip. A youngster's "growing up" diary. And there are two ways of making them — with the easiest way fortunately, being the most effective.

One's to title as you shoot — and let's say your movie is of your vacation. A vacation doesn't just sneak up on you, unexpectedly. It's anticipated — planned — which factors are a proper part of any vacation movie. One way it's anticipated is by frequent references to a calendar, on which, in all likelihood, the vacation period is circled in red crayon. There's another, and then, perhaps, a vacation is planned over a road map - - - over vacation time and hotel folders. There's more title material - - - as you study them and trace your route. Too, you don't just walk out of home and office into a vacation. When you purchase and pack for it. You check golf or fishing equipment, prepare the car, leave a note for the milkman, stow the car trunk, check locked doors, turn ignition keys, roll away from your driveway, enter a turn-make-like, read a route sign. Movie shots of these are all titles, in effect. They are not only a legitimate part of any vacation story, but they impart a "going-along" feeling to any movie audience. And all along your vacation path there are ready-made titles in signs and plaques that tell you where you are, how far you have to go, what your altitude is, who pioneered the site.

CHILD'S MOVIE DIARY

A child's movie diary? What better opening title — if you acquired your camera early enough — than a close-up of a birth announcement? Or later, an inscribed and glowing birthday cake? Or simply a close-up of the youngster, whatever his or her age, holding a full reel of film and extending it toward the cameraman? They're all titles, too.

Then title making, with a true titling device, can also be a lot of fun. The equipment is available — and many camera and model movie camera — and what is chiefly consists of is a standard X, to which the camera is fixed, an auxiliary lens which increases the camera's lens an area but a few inches distant and scant inches in area, and all-important title material. The title area is usually so small that title messages can frequently be typed on the family portable. Auto routers can clearly be followed through cities and hamlets. Small illustrations can be clipped and copied from publications and vacation folders. Snapshot prints can be lettered and reproduced. (And, incidentally, that same miniature easel that can frame a title can also frame any other small object for close-up shooting and tremendous movie enlargement on your living-room screen.

A single blossom from vase or garden, as an example. So simple are the elements necessary to a titling device, in fact, that many movie makers build their own. Other than a minimum of mechanical aptitude, the only necessary item is a portrs lens to reduce the distance from camera to target from feet, into inches.

Yes - - - movies should be titled. Some movies. And the reason they should be is that titles of whatever nature, make movies more fun to show and to see - - - and no less fun to

Strange Signals Heard, Objects Sighted in Sky

LONDON (Reuters) — Spotnik watchers in Norway, The Netherlands and Australia reported seeing "mystery" objects today.

Unusual radio signals also were heard.

A bright object that looked bigger than a star zipped over Oslo at great speed on a south-west course, Norwegian spotters said. They declared it could not have been Sputnik II, not due there for several hours.

The second Russian earth satellite was preceded by a mysterious point of light when it passed over Sydney, Australia, early today but one astronomer said he did not think it came from the cylinder containing the Sputnik's dog.

DOG IN CYLINDER

Soviet scientists have mentioned the possibility of ejecting the dog back to earth in the cylinder.

In The Netherlands, an observatory near The Hague also reported having seen an "unidentified object."

The observatory added that when it scanned Sputnik's course then this morning it received clear radio signals "which were different from the usual signals of the artificial satellite."

The observatory said, that since it had analyzed all the signals on the appropriate wave lengths and had "not been able to trace them to any known transmitter, we can only believe these are Sputnik signals."

Unemployment Not Generally Serious Says Diefenbaker

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker has described unemployment as "not generally serious" while pledging his government will not sit idly by as "long as the human betterment of people Canada is adversely affected."

"For those that are unemployed," he said Friday night in a national radio broadcast, "the first responsibility will be to ensure that, to the greatest degree possible, no individual shall suffer."

In this connection some amendments to the Unemployment Insurance Act are being considered he said without elaborating.

Mr. Diefenbaker said unemployment as yet is far below that of 1954 and 1955 when considered as a percentage of the total working force. In 1954 and 1955 — the last peak unemployment period — the percentage amounted to 6.9 and went as high as 7.3 per cent of the labor force.

He quoted these figures only hours after qualified government informants gave a nearly agreed unemployment this winter will hit its highest peak since the end of World War.

Mr. Diefenbaker spoke in a 15-minute broadcast over the Trans-Canada radio network in the CBC's free-time political series The Nation's Business.

"It seems clear," he said, "that the strategy of the high command of the Liberal party is to spread fear and gloom and preach doom and to pretend that time where unemployment exists this (Progressive Conservative) government is to blame."

The levelling off is due in part to international conditions, he said. But he blamed the former Liberal government for not maintaining Canada's international markets and for monetary policies which froze development.

"Civilization is the essence of our system," he said. "But the sowing of fear of mass unemployment is a dangerous course to follow, for it can lead to a depression complex whether so intended or not."

Meanwhile, estimates by government officials ran as high as those of labor spokesmen, who have been predicting around 500,000 jobless at looking for work and 750,000 registered for work-but all unemployed—with the federal government's employment agency.

The qualified official predicted unemployment would hit 750,000 by February 1958 compared with the post-war record total of 619,000 in the corresponding month of 1955.

This estimate was described as "inflated" by a labor department spokesman who said unemployment, as measured by the number of persons without jobs and seeking work, should be no more than 475,000 by February.

Government informants said unemployment will rise because of a slowdown in certain industries and a swelling of the labor force, caused partly by immigration.

New York State Gets Advance Taste of Winter

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—An advance sample of winter weather jammed into Western New York early today on the heels of gale force winds, and highways in some sections were ice-coated and dangerous.

Heavy snowsqualls, mixed with rain, sleet and hail cut visibility to a few yards at times and traffic was slowed to a crawl—especially in suburbs east and south of Buffalo.

The swirling windstorm pounded Western New York with gusts that reached hurricane force Friday night. The coast guard reported blasts up to 80 miles an hour along the Lake Erie shore.

At least five persons were injured by the storm and police said the damage would probably run in the thousands of dollars.

Storefront signs were smashed and display windows broken in downtown Buffalo. A wall 250 feet long and 21 feet high was blown down at a construction job in suburban Amherst. It damaged a crane.

Minor Hockey

The Belleville Minor Hockey Association opened the 1957 - 58 season at Memorial Arena this morning with the peewee and bantam sections getting underway. Squirt, midget and juvenile divisions will commence on Wednesday, November 13.

The Red Wings and Black Hawks took opening victories in the peewee loop this morning, the Wings shading the Bruins 3-2 while the Black Hawks edged Rangers 2-1. The Barons and Browns fought to a 1-1 deadlock while Maple Leafs and Canadiens tied 3-3.

Results of the bantam games will be published in Monday's Ontario Intelligencer.

Larry Stewart scored twice, one the winner, for the Red Wings. Dwight Rathwell also scored with Tony Savage and Frank Farnall picking up single assists. Dennis Tracey and Billy Leslie potted the Bruin goals, both solo efforts.

Dean Williamson came through with the top individual effort of the four peewee games, scoring a goal and assist for the Canadiens. Peter Carver and Jim Mairs earned assists. Billy Rogers had a goal and assist for the Leafs with David Anderson and Kenneth Rydman scoring the other goals.

FOURNIER IS MAYOR

MONTREAL (CP) — Senator Sarto Fournier Friday was declared elected as mayor of Montreal after completion of a three-day judicial recount of votes in magistrate's court. Chief Magistrate Auguste Boyer made the announcement, saying final figures for 1,545 of 1,547 polls showed Mr. Fournier had 62,800 votes to 78,549 votes for outgoing mayor Jean Drapeau.

Bailiff Places Lien on Town's Fire Truck

POINTE - GATINEAU, Que. (CP)—A bailiff today placed a lien on the municipal fire truck over non-payment by this village and Ottawa of a civil action against it.

The truck was not seized. It will be available for fire-fighting —but it cannot be sold.

Harold Maloney of Hull, counsel for Ernest Desjardins, a Pointe-Gatineau resident, had the writ issued after the municipality failed to pay $50 damages and $541 legal fees and court costs awarded Desjardins in a Nov. 5 Quebec Superior Court judgment.

Mr. Desjardins had filed a $1,000 claim for damages, claiming Constable Jean-Guy Therien had "falsely imprisoned" Desjardins' 15-year-old son, Michel, in July, 1956. Desjardins claimed the boy's name had thus been clandered, his playmates called him "jailbird."

Lamarche, village secretary, said Friday night he had made out a cheque and placed it in the village lawyer's hands. Payment would soon be arranged.

POLES CLEARED

MONTREAL (CP) — United States immigration authorities said Friday that 85 Polish immigrants, who arrived here Thursday aboard the Polish liner Batory, have been cleared for admission into the United States. An immigration spokesman said none of the arrivals was held but there was "some delay in getting them processed."

CHANGE

The announcement that the army was entering the satellite era was welcomed Friday night by Dr. J. Allen Hynek, head of the satellite-tracking program for the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory at Cambridge, Mass.

Hynek said "I am certainly looking forward to seeing the United States satellites to track." Before Secretary of Defense Wilson went, Dr. John P. Hagen, head of the navy-directed project Vanguard, said the public will be informed within an hour or so of the time when a U.S. earth satellite is launched.

Previously announced plans for project Vanguard call for firing up small test spheres sometime next month, with a fully instrumented satellite due for launching in March.

The defence department announcement said the "decision to proceed with an additional program was made to provide a second means of putting into orbit" a satellite carrying scientific instruments.

The defence department statement also said all the Project Vanguard test firings to date have met or exceeded the predicted performance "and there is every reason to believe that Project Vanguard will meet the announced schedule. . . ."

Prince Philip Creates Laugh Among Pupils

UPPINGHAM, England (AP)—Prince Philip told the boys of Uppingham School Friday they'd better learn something about science if they want to get along in the new space age.

"Everybody ought to understand a little about science or he can't understand what the hell goes on around him in the world" he said.

"Fifty years ago it didn't matter because the majority of citizens knew a damn thing about science. Now you will find that unless you know at least something about science you won't get into the House of Commons."

The remark brought a roar of laughter from the assembled youngsters, who had just watched Philip open a new school building housing scientific laboratories.

New Road Planned

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario department of highways plans to build a 40-mile, two-lane highway to connect Gravenhurst with Ottawa. Highways Minister Allan said Friday.

He said, however, that priority now is being given to completion of Highway 401 through Eastern Ontario to the Quebec border.

Plans called for the highway to connect Gravenhurst to Highway 17, east of Ottawa, possibly at Rockland.

BIG FISHERIES

Japanese fisheries produced 4,763,000 tons of fish in 1956, compared with 1,077,000 tons for Canada.

5 Negro Youths Given Terms up To 15 Years

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A jury Friday night convicted five Negro youths on charges of raping and beating a teen-age white girl.

A sixth defendant pleaded guilty.

Judge Louis E. Leventhal sentenced all five to prison terms ranging up to 15 years.

The girl, Katherine Heckart, who was 17 at the time of the attack, testified her attackers dragged her into a deserted schoolyard the night of Sept. 18. There, she said, they beat her and held her down while she was raped. A 16-year-old white boy heard her screams and came to her aid. Three of the attackers fought with him, enabling the girls to get away.

The charges against the six included rape, aggravated assault and battery, and assault with intent to ravish.

REPATRIATE POLISH

WARSAW (Reuters) — More than 66,000 Polish citizens were repatriated by Russia during the first nine months of this year, the Polish news agency Pap says. In the last three years more than 100,000 persons have returned from Russia.

Bill Approved

OTTAWA (CP)—A private bill which would double the capitalization of Bell Telephone Company of Canada to $1,000,000,000 Friday was given second reading —approval in principle—by the Commons. The bill now goes to the Commons committee on railways, canals and telegraph lines for detailed study.

The CCF indicated the bill will have a stormy passage before it receives final Commons approval. And Rev. Dan McIvor (E-William) said Bell Telephone should be publicly-owned.

EXPLODE 50 BOMBS

HAVANA (AP) — About 50 bombs exploded in various quarters of Havana Friday night. There was damage but no casualties were reported. Terrorist acts have been frequent in Havana for months.

Collegiate H-S Assoc. Sponsors Interesting Meet

The regular monthly meeting of the Collegiate Home and School Association was held Monday evening, November 4th in the boys' gymnasium with the new president, Mr. Freeman in the chair.

After the routine business was finished Mr. Freeman called on Mr. William VanTassel, who gave a brief analysis of the need for a centrally located recreational centre.

Mr. VanTassel then with a comprehensive outline of school activities and handed each parent a typed outline concerning all school sponsored groups and services, those in charge and a valuable booklet on the Parents interested in Collegiate current events.

He also extended an invitation from Mr. Reid of Quinte Secondary School to attend a meeting at his school on Nov. 28th, when a panel of professors representing the various faculties of Queen's University would discuss the different branches of advanced education with parents.

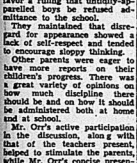
The main part of the program was in charge of Mr. Fewtrell, who gave a report on the outcome of the findings of the various discussion groups of the previous meeting and asked for further comments. It seemed generally agreed that parents should supervise homework and the schedule of TV and telephone during study hours and that the home, as well as the school, should provide more incentive and more encouragement to learning.

EXCESSIVE HOMEWORK

It was obvious, however, that a considerable number of parents felt that homework assigned, especially in Grade 10, was excessive with an attendance on certain subjects.

There were also comments about uniforms for girls, but it was conceded that they would be too difficult to enforce. However, a lively discussion centred around wearing the less and more conscious of the importance of tidiness in their appearance with some parents feeling it so important that they would favor a uniform, and others paralled boys be refused admittance to the school.

They could not, at that disgard for appearance showed a lack of self respect and failed to encourage sloppy thinking.



Other parents were eager to have more reports on their children's progress. There was a great variety of opinions on how much discipline there should be and on how it should be administered, both in home and at school.

Mr. Orr's active participation in the discussion, along with that of the teachers present, helped to stimulate the parents while Mr. Orr's concise presentation of his approach to discipline and of the impossibility of shifty grouping in this school added greatly to the interest.

Even after the meeting adjourned for coffee the little groups around the tables in the cafeteria were still engrossed in discussion.

It is certain Mr. Fewtrell and his assistants must feel gratified to have such a keen interest in activating such a meeting.

Going Places

Travellers Can Cut Corners And Save Considerable Money

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

If you would travel economically, here are a few tips to help that dollar here and dollar there which could add up to a less expensive trip with no sacrifice of pleasure:

Transportation — always buy round-trip tickets even if you don't know when you're returning. All carriers offer substantial reductions at the loss only of a little flexibility. Ask the coach and coach fare — for daytime, all you'll lose will be a little restfulness.

There are several degrees of railroad accommodation open to private rates: upper berths, lowers, roomettes, bedrooms and drawing rooms. Generally it is less expensive for a family to share a bedroom than coach fare especially for lower priced accommodations.

RATE SPREAD

Hotels — Almost any hotel has a rate spread of several dollars per night. Ask for it. Unless you who don't inquire, clerks usually assign the highest priced rooms. Generally rates are based on the size of the room, location (cheapest in the rear, most expensive facing the street, and cheaper far from near the elevator, nearest the lobby) and whether or not much of a convenience as the management likes to believe if the street or elevator is inclined to be noisy): whether or not the room has television, and whether or not it is air conditioned.

Motels — Motel rates are sometimes, shall we say, flexible. If you take the rate you're first quoted is out of line and you are sure you're a little haggling you may get your way. Motels, even within a given area, vary widely in their pricing policies anyway.

Auto operation — Gasoline prices vary drastically between country and city, between state and state, and within cities if there are local price wars. If you are observant you'll be able to save considerably by filling up where taxes and other local conditions make gas cheap.

PARALLEL ROUTES

Toll roads, bridges, and tunnels have also sent the costs of highway travel up, but if you're not overly concerned with the speed you can sometimes afford, and there are always parallel free routes open to you. Driving time may be scenically more rewarding too.

It is recommended for saving money are suspiciously unfamiliar brands of tires and repair shops of unknown reputation.

If you're stopping at hotels, the woman should be cautioned that a dress which is suitable for evening wear is not suitable for daytime. Also, if you don't need them; lunch counter and cafeteria attendants; and bellhops usually appreciate taxi drivers in smaller cities.

Food — It is not necessary to risk ptomaine to eat inexpensively. Travelling by car, picnic lunches are not only cheaper but often more convenient and homelike than restaurant meals. Even low priced restaurants to which any hotelman or motel manager will direct you are usually overpriced. large hotels there are reasonably priced coffee shops or cafeterias in addition to the formal dining rooms.

Holy Rosary CWL Fall Tea, Bazaar Pleasingly Successful

Holy Rosary C.W.I.. was "at home" to many friends at their annual fall bazaar and tea on Wednesday afternoon in the St. Ham Smith, the league president, welcomed the guests. Mrs. M. Guay and Mrs. Ham Smith were treasurers for the afternoon.

The fish pond, always a Mecca for the young fry, was a constant hub of activity. Here one found large prizes and consequently a good catch. Mrs. B. Thompson, convener, assisted by Mrs. F. Lavis, Mrs. Ham Smith and Mrs. Wardens.

Mrs. M. Walsh was in charge of a most elaborate display of religious articles: beautiful statues, pictures, crucifixes and a great variety of rosaries. Mrs. J. Barrett was the able assistant at this booth.

If one had sprouted a mind for Christmas giving, the next booth solved your problems. Here was displayed across every convolution, Mrs. L. Donovan was the ingenious artist of this booth, ably assisted by Mrs. D. Fry.

DELECTABLE CANDIES

A delectable candy booth was next in line. Silver boxes containing maple cream, chocolate fudge and fondant found eager customers. Mrs. E. Schreiber convened this booth with assistance from Mrs. E. Reed and Mrs. P. Brennen.

The novelty booth was replete with all manner of lovely articles. Hand knitted children's wear, fine Christmas stockings, children's play aprons, complete with coloring books and crayons, hand embroidered pillow cases, dolls' clothes and a large variety of gift suggestions were displayed at this booth. One convener was devoted to a large display of potted plants. Mrs. J. Ellard, assisted by Mrs. E. McCuaig, Colborne, was busy with your money a real pleasure.

Few can resist the mystery of the wrapped parcel so fair to touch and take table, convened by Mrs. L. Farrell and Mrs. J. Hogan found eager buyers.

DELICIOUS HOME COOKING

No bazaar would be complete without a home-baking table. The Holy Rosary ladies once again proved their culinary excellence. Here could be found delicious cakes, pastries, tarts and no end of delicious goodies. Miss F. Bedard and Mrs. E. Bastable were kept busy all afternoon tending to the wants of their many customers.

The afternoon found the tea room an ideal place to relax and enjoy the comradeship that goes with a good cup of tea. The guest tables with their snowy-white cloths, centered with lighted blue candles in silver candlesticks, carried out the color theme of the bazaar. The tea table with its white Italian cut-work cloth centered with a crystal bowl containing a beautiful and unusual blue and silver table decoration, drew many favorable comments. Those presiding were: Mrs. A. Connell, Mrs. V. Baker, Mrs. Jeffan, Mrs. V. O'Neil, Mrs. G. Glen and Mrs. A. Pitt.

The kitchen was under Mrs. B. McQuaid, Mrs. P. Sagriff, Mrs. H. Taylor, Mrs. J. Hay, Mrs. S. White, Mrs. J. Morrison, Mrs. C. Doyle and Mrs. J. Ryan.

Replenishing the plates were: Mrs. M. Boyd and Mrs. C. Mullin. Mrs. J. O'Grady was responsible for the serving of tea and Mrs. G. Horn assisted in the kitchen.

A new feature of the bazaar was the home-made Christmas cake which was made by Mrs. A. Even. The guests were treated to samples and orders were taken with Mrs. A. Bannon for later delivery.

Mrs. J. Darlington and Mrs. F. Mulvihill convened the tea room.

Mrs. K. Fox was in charge of tickets on a $50 draw. The lucky winner was Mrs. J. C. Masterson, Lingham St.

Mrs. J. McHugh offered tickets on a complete children dinner. This was won by Mrs. J. Carey, 215 Foster Ave.

A hand-woven mat, donated by Mrs. F. Bedard, was won by Mrs. F. Mulvihill.

Winners of the door prizes were: lamp, Mrs. H. Taylor; bushel of apples, Mrs. W. Macgillivary; perfume, Mrs. P. Huddleston; pillow, Mrs. A. Firth, and jewellery, Mrs. W. Frawley.

SHAKY TIME

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Residents here held a reunion when Mrs. E. I. Scott of Ottawa visited her family here. She recalled teaching here in 1902, when the schoolhouse was in a building "and the walls were so shaky the wind would sometimes blow the chalk out of my hand."

Hallowe'en Donations to UNICEF $80.23

It is encouraging to note the success of UNICEF Hallowe'en collections in other cities and villages. The real enjoyment the children have in sharing their fun with others less fortunate, is wonderful to see.

Let Belleville be a UNICEF city next October 31st and so follow the work of the 75 little pioneers who took part in the UNICEF Hallowe'en this year. The sum of $80.23 was collected in pennies and dimes and quarters by the following children:

Penny Rose, Fraser, Hillier, Douglas Fraser, Susan Clarke, Sandra Clarke, Andrew Watson, Claire Watson, Wallace Marner, Linda Marner, Anne Rickards, Sandy Rickards, David Thomson, Diane Thomson, Kelvin Wilson, Holly Purvis, Mary Purvis, Susan Taylor, Christine Elliott, Phillip Denyes, Denis Mercier, Billy Hamilton, Diane Stevin, Patsy Rose, Larry Rose, Judith Tribner, Lisa Tribner, Jimmy Ricketts, Lorna Ricketts, Susan Dempsey, Kenneth Dempsey, Margaret Rollin, Elinor Rollin, Beverley Hunt, Jimmy Terry, Roy Maddocks, Maureen Alyea, Sandy Richards, Jimmy Richards, Rickey Williamson, Anne Mountford, Jeremy Mountford, Sandra Bonnetta, Linda Brunt, Bobby Fort, Jane Murdock, Brian Parsell, Tim Gill, Ann Gill, Susan Gill, Heather Rose, John Skinner, Nancy Skinner, Susan Skinner, Van Steenburgh, Judy Woodcock, Susan Allan, Janet Shapero, Donna Sweetser, Judith Beverley, Barry Campbell, Muriel Hunt, Jeffrey Clifford, Sandra vid White, Sandra Lamb, Brenda Burnham, Patricia Lovett, Jim Bayley, Nancy Bayley, Andrea Miller, Peggy Ouderkirk, Linda Ouderkirk, Sandra Ouderkirk, Garry Willerton, Paul Willerton, Andrea Fry, Adele Fry and Stephen Fry.

P.S. Demonstrated By Ten Pupils

"Public Speaking" by the students attracted a large group of interested parents and children to the November meeting of the Prince of Wales Home and School Association on Thursday evening.

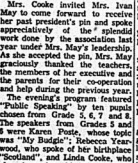
Mrs. Cooke, the president, opened the meeting. Mrs. Hutt read the Scripture.

Mrs. Cooke reminded everyone that the Bazaar was the next point and she also explained that first, second and third standings would be awarded in May for the rooms winning the most points in the activities during the year. Miss Poste's room won this month.

It was decided and approved that metal stacking chairs for the school would be purchased and would be the most practical item to be undertaken as a project by the association.

P.P. PIN PRESENTED

Mrs. Cooke invited Mrs. Ivan Kelly to come forward to receive her past president's pin and spoke appreciatively of the splendid work done by the association last year under Mrs. May's leadership. As the president of this, Mrs. Kelly graciously thanked the teachers, the members of her executive and the parents for their co-operation and help during the previous year.



The evening's program featured "Public Speaking" by ten pupils chosen from Grade 7, 6, 7 and 8. The speakers from Grade 7 were Grade 6 were Karen Poste, whose topic was "Birds"; Brenda Hollingsworth, wood, who spoke of her birthplace "Scotland", and Linda Cooke, who also chose as her subject "Nova Scotia" as her subject.

Grade 8 speakers included Donald Hedger, warning of the dangers of "Forest Fires"; Linda Dickson speaking on "Friendliness" and Kathy Mossman telling how to properly care for "Goldfish."

A girls' choral group, directed by Miss Burt, provided a brief but enjoyable rendition of "O Worship the King."

The Grade 8 speakers were Sandra Price, who told of her vacation in "Prince Edward Island"; Judy Fowler, who gave an amusing account of "Texas"; Bill Burley, who told of "Hockey Experience", and Claudia Durrant, who described "The Walt Disney Im" us'soli hol Ot Theun]".

On behalf of the school board, Mr. Spence presented girls' certificates to the children and congratulated on their excellent performance.

"Isn't it a relief to know that the Russian satellite won't affect our TV reception?"

Days and Customs of All Faiths

Many Legends About St. Martin

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Sunday, Nov. 10 This second Sunday in November has in recent years become the day on which Protestant Episcopalian churches begin their annual campaign for the next year's financial support.

By general agreement among all the various organizations that rely on voluntary contributions to meet their expenses, November has been set apart as belonging exclusively to the churches. Although some local communities find that the agreement is not always strictly kept, the month is for the most part the churches' money-raising time.

The National Council of Churches has, since 1924, designated today as Stewardship Day. The point of the day is to put the emphasis in the right place. Man's distribution of his money, says the council, is a matter in which he is responsible to God. It is a matter of stewardship, for everything in the world, including the possessions of men, belongs to God, and man is accountable toward the handling of the portion assigned to his care.

Stewardship Day today, and for the month's campaigns, is "To Give Is To Live," and often the council seeks to remind each person he can find fullness of living only as he devotes his money and uses the material things God has placed in his hands.

MARTINMAS

Monday, Nov. 11 — More legends are told about St. Martin than about any other early object in the Christian calendar. This is understandable because the record reflects that Martin was one of the very early saints (fourth century) whose stories have survived for more than 1,500 years.

The best known of these legends is the one about his having cut his cloak in halves to divide it with a man shivering beggar. The beggar turned out to be the Lord Jesus; who appeared to Martin in a dream a night to thank him. The incident led to Martin's immediate baptism and to the early adoption of the custom of serving goose for dinner on Martinmas.

Another legend has an element of humor in it. St. Martin, by this time Bishop of Tours (in France), was making a pilgrimage to Rome — on foot, of course, as he refused to travel in any other way. Satan showed up along the road and began to taunt him, saying a bishop should not be walking, that it was not consistent with his high position.

This went on until Martin had had about as much as he thought he ought to take, at which point he reached out and touched the devil, who instantly changed into a mule. He then mounted the mule and rode him the rest of the way to Rome.

Martin, when he became a priest, introduced a new note into the strategy of Christianity. Up to his time, the new faith was spreading all right, but only along the main roads, which meant its growth was largely in the cities. The missionary had ventured into the backwoods and rural sections, and consequently the people in those districts were still pagan and unsaved.

Martin set out to do something about them. So effective was his work in establishing churches of the beaten paths that he is still referred to as "the patron saint of the pagan peasant."

The pagan priests did not easily give up their influence over the people. Martin. They fought back at every step as they could. Once they tied him to a tree, set it on fire, and then cut the tree down in such a way that it fell on him.

As it began to fall, Martin made the sign of the cross and the tree fell harmlessly beside him unscratched. Many who were there saw the miracle were converted, and the pagan priests lost on the scheming priests.

Martin's death on the day fell vacant Martin was the unanimous choice of the people to be their bishop, but he refused the honor, preferring to do with the idea.

The pagan priests, had a trick up their sleeve. They sent one of their men out to Martin's cell to tell him that he was sick and in need of the good man's administration. Naturally, Martin responded and soon found himself ambushed and carried off to the bishop's residence against his will.

This raises a theological question that has been discussed often: Is the man being consecrated does not consent? But it apparently did bother Martin very little. He accepted it calmly and it is too late to change it now.

One last legend tells that at the great man's funeral the boat bearing his body floated up a stream without sail or oars, and an angel choir was heard by all the mourners. Later, the birds of the riverbanks all burst into blossom. This was on Nov. 11, 397.

The Experts Say

Should Clean Game Soon As Possible After Shooting

By MARY FRAN BURKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — About this time of year many housewives are wondering what to do with the head of the house comes home with a bag of game.

Food experts say all game should be cleaned as soon as possible after shooting and hung not less than a week and preferably three to four weeks, depending on the weather.

Louite Moore, Toronto Telegram food editor, says "wild game birds should be well larded — that is, by inserting strips of slices of fat salt pork into the breast with a larding needle or larding needle. Or, baste the birds during cooking with butter or bacon fat, or wrap the meat in thin slices of fat salt pork before roasting.

For venison, broiling and roasting are recommended methods as superior methods for cooking. Choicest portions are the hind quarters and saddle.

If the animal is fairly well hung, allow roasting for 20 to 30 days in a cool dry spot, the loin should be tender enough to broil. The haunch can be roasted and the balance of the carcass braised and stewed.

Serve your husband returns from a trip with such delicacies as canvasback or mallard ducks, broiling and roasting over glowing coals are methods most likely to preserve the flavor.

When braising or roasting a duck allow 20 minutes per pound, be seared to a rich brown over coals before it is placed in the pan. Be sure that the fine feathers are preserved and hence the flavor is not lost.

BRAISED DUCKLING

Here's a meal that's sure to make a hit. Try serving braised duckling with cooked rice, wild rice, lettuce and watercress salad with tomato wedges, celery curls, and mince tarts.

While, the bird simmers gently in the oven, fry the rice in butter in boiling salted water for 30 to 45 minutes until tender. Combine the wedges of lettuce and combine with green watercress. Drizzle with a French salad dressing over the salad.

Cut the breast of duckling, cut the duck in quarters. Place skin side up on rack in shallow baking pan. Roast in moderate oven for one hour. Cook giblets for about 40 minutes. Prepare the stuffing using giblet broth and fruit juice. Transfer duck to covered pan.

Then pour the orange sauce over duck and cover tightly. Continue baking in sauce till tender, about 30 minutes.

Dessert time: Make your mince tarts. Remember that for short serving time, heat them in the oven.

This - - and That

By HARRET STEVENS

Today T and T is going to wander here and there as we lose ourselves in far off fields, we hope you won't mind if we confound us. When we listen to our radios, look at our newspapers, watch our TV sets and take part in conversation, if we are not convinced that confusion is compounding itself in the month of November 1957, then we are. Indeed, out of step. Remember that old radio program called "It Pays to Be Ignorant"? We wonder. What with price civilization 20th century style with all its technological know how and conquest of nature.

Our thought for this week-end comes from the Book of Ecclesiastes: "There is no new thing under the sun" and "Is there anything whereof it may be said, see, this is new? It hath been already of old time, which was before us." The T. & T. tells us that this book which is one of the Wisdom Books of Old Testament is a collection of discourses, observations and aphorisms The E.B. tells us that the author was "free from religious generalization by stating that human affairs are irregular and that there may be an occasional good man but such a man is rare and a perfect man is rarer."

We are not discouraged by the generalization but are in agreement that in essence the truth of the quotation is unassailable. It is the first quarter November is the perfect month for contemplation. Perhaps the president of the greatest republic on earth is forced to go before his people and tell them that all is not lost and that all that "hath been occurs" of old time, which was before us.

November is a month of waiting. It, like each month, has its own mood; its own peculiar charm. It is a month created for one word to express that word is "waiting." Waiting for what? Waiting for the answer to that, especially this November 1957, is one that is quite simply a waiting for something to happen.

Waiting for the assault on the moon may have a strange but unfamiliar sound to the ear of imagination. However, November is, too, a month for waiting of more mundane things.

When November creeps upon us, the land, the plants and trees have given up their products and are dormant. Houses and the people, themselves have tightened and prepared for what is ahead. All the people are waiting for the winter that they vary according to their love or hate of it, but they wait.

We are all waiting for whatever it brings. November is the month of the "Wait" and the seasonal twilight before the dawn. November is the month of the dawn of a new vital spring. So if November is a month of waiting, we do not know not what, we know too that winter, winter, even this too shall pass.

If "there is no new thing under the sun" what are we waiting for. In these days of man-made moons, we do not know the answer to what the future holds and neither do we for us. We do know though that the atom "hath already been of old time, which was before us." The ingredients are as at the beginning.

Man has discovered that there is more latent power in the atom than in which, man was always true; the how is all that is new. Dr. Albert Schweitzer maintains that if we use the rational and follow the rational path to a ruthless end, we will wind up with the irrational. Man is follows through ruthlessly decoding the secrets that have always been with us but may end up with something he cannot control. It appears to the layman that the scientists are human his gadgets, but will man harness his vain earthly ambitions. It is in Ecclesiastes too that we are told "Vanity of vanities (i.e., absolute vanity), all is vanity."

So during this waiting month of November we still hope that winter, fear, confusion and absolute vanity pass us by to the end that in the early spring of new vitality and hope for all. We can at least pray, hope and work for every good man and woman, that out of the waiting November 1957 light comes to mankind everywhere, every color and every brotherly faith; that it gave the issues and how man disposes cannot be blamed to God.

Wedding

SMITH — FOSTER

Baskets of yellow and white chrysanthemums adorned the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Foster, of Wellington, on Saturday afternoon, at 3.00 p.m. for a pretty autumn wedding when their daughter, Noreen Lois Foster, became the bride of Kathleen Smith of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Smith, of Gilmour, Ontario. The Reverend Mr. Boulter of Wellington, officiated.

The wedding music was rendered by Miss Kathleen Foster, with the bridal chorus from Wagner's "Lohengrin" and "I Love You Truly," during the signing of the register.

The lovely bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in pale brocade in street length, with matching hat, and carrying a bouquet of pink roses and white Shasta daisies.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a composite of actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Edith M. — Sandra is making a mistake.

Gordon M. — She should go ahead and marry the guy.

* * *

Edith M. — My husband and I have been having a dispute about something which really bothers me very much.

I have a dear friend of 29, who is about to make a foolish marriage. Sandra is a very quiet girl and not very pretty, but she has a wonderful nature and is intelligent and accomplished. She has never gone out much with men. Now she has become engaged to a man of nearly 40, who is as different from her as night from the day. He is loud, ill mannered, uneducated and physically almost disgusting. I feel Sandra is suffering from "29 panic" and is taking a desperate step. She has no immediate family to advise her and I think I should try to get her to see what a mistake this marriage would be.

Sandra has asked me what I think of this man and on my husband's advice I said, "He's very nice." But it doesn't seem right to lie about it.

* * *

Gordon M. — All Edith says about this man is true, but she omits a few important facts. This man is wealthy and he also is very good natured and seems to be head over heels in love with Sandra.

I, also, think a great deal of Sandra and would like to see her make a better marriage, but perhaps she is too lonely to want to wait any longer. She has always worked very hard from the time she got out of school and maybe which can be changed.

she wants the security she can get with this man.

I tell Edith if she is instrumental in breaking up this affair, she would blame herself if Sandra never finds anyone else to her liking. On the other hand, if Sandra goes ahead and marries the man, our relationship with them would be very awkward to say the least.

If Sandra were to ask me what to do, I'd say, "Go ahead and marry the guy. Why wait?"

* * *

The Council: We'll go along with Gordon about 95 per cent. We don't think he ought to take the responsibility for encouraging the match any more than for discouraging it.

At 29, an intelligent girl should be able to weigh one value against another and arrive at her own decision. True, she may be suffering from "panic" but the extent and importance of this if something only she can weigh. If the panic is severe, it may be worse if she enters her 30's unwed.

We think Edith could have given her friend a more helpful answer than she did when she said, "He's very nice." This closes the door to any discussion. If Edith had, instead, pointed to the assets her husband notes, Sandra may have brought out some of her uncertainties. Since Sandra has no family, an open discussion with her friend could have helped her to clarify her own thoughts.

Edith shows her shortcomings as an adviser when she bases her judgment of Sandra's fiance entirely on surface things — all of

Readers' Saturday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

In cleaning my recipe drawer I came across a recipe for suet crust for boiled puddings (beef steak pudding). I'd like so much to have the recipe for the filling . . . also for Christmas boiled pudding.

. . . I suppose you can use the same crust recipe, or can you? My mother used to make these puddings but I had my home burned so were all my recipes! . . . stored your Chinese recipes. Am having weekend visitors. They all eat Chinese food. They like it so will be fun . . . Tena W.

ANSWER:

I was surprised and glad to hear from so many readers that the Chinese food was so popular.

The recipe for the filling for English boiled meat puddings may be in some cookbooks but it is not in any of mine. But it is in my head. My father was English and my Canadian mother learned from his mother how to make suet puddings and I remember the process as if it were yesterday.

ENGLISH BOILED MEAT PUDDINGS

Since you have the crust recipe, I will merely give the ingredients: 1 lb. flour, 6 oz. beef suet rubbed into it until smooth; 1 cup cold water to moisten and hold it together. Roll it out in enough 8 inch rounds to have one for everybody. Have in four bowls 1½ lb. flank steak — about 1 to 1¼ lbs. cut into 1-inch cubes and soaking in 1 cup cold water; 1 trimmed cut-up pork or beef kidney — about ¾ lb.; 2 medium onions, sliced — about 2 medium. 4) sliced raw potato — about 2. Have at your right hand the big kitchen salt and pepper shakers. Out of the beef bowl lift a handful of steak, let it drain, place it on one side of one round of raw dough; add some kidney and onion, and potato and salt and pepper. This is all a bit wettish so carefully fold over uncovered half of paste and make a careful seal — it must be sealed. Roll in slightly floured cloth about the size of a tea towel being sure ends are enclosed. Tie with string wrapping it around about 4 times. The string on my father's was always red for he liked ot more kidney. Proceed same way until you have one pudding for each member of the family. Drop each pudding as it is ready in a big pot of boiling water. Boil gently covered at least 3¼ hours. To serve, carefully lift out each pudding with 2 big spoons onto a large plate. Unroll and push on to each dinner plate. When pudding is slit open it contains its own succulent gravy and tender meat and vegetables. Absolutely wonderful if you have a robust digestion.

Dinner Menus

SATURDAY

Chilled Grape Juice; Potato Beef Patties (see Tuesday); Whole Carrots with Parsley Butter; Cauliflower with Cheese Sauce; Lemon Snow with Custard Sauce; Coffee or Tea.

As for Christmas Boiled Pudding, no. The crust is not the same. Fruit is added directly to a suet batter which is boiled in a cloth or bowl. Watch this column for the method on in November. Christmas cakes are going to be given next week.

GOOD MANNERS

SHOULD YOU GIVE AN ENGAGEMENT PRESENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We (a group of my friends and I) would be most grateful if you would please tell definitely what the rule is about giving engagement presents. For example, is a friend expected to take a present to the engagement party when she knows, or even suspects, that the engagement is going to be announced at the party? And what about when the engaged girl writes notes to her friends telling them of her engagement? Or when the engagement announcement is published in the newspaper? — Peggy F.

As with the giving of a present for any occasion, there is not, cannot be, any definite rule about the giving of an engagement present — for always it depends on the friend's inclination. The only definite thing that can be said is that it is not necessary to give an engagement present, but that it is proper if you wish to. If you are the engaged girl's best friend, or if you are her devoted relative or loving godmother, you will doubtless want to give her an engagement present. Usually, too, the girl's fiance's mother and father and sister plan to give her an engagement present. But if you are not a close friend you really wouldn't be expected to give her an engagement present.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

FEATURE COLOR AND ELEGANT FABRICS

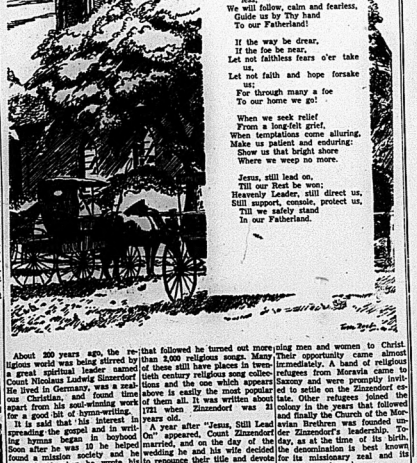
The tucked-in look of slim fall fashions will be achieved through a variety of luxurious "undercover" agents for curve control. Never have manufacturers used so many rich and seemingly delicate fabrics for the smooth-lined, long foundation garments which women depend upon for so much of their fashion assurance. Nylon crepe, delicate laces, "chiffon" elastic — and even velvet — are being featured this season in corselets, torso brassieres, and waistcinchers that make the most of the feminine figure. But the elegance of these fabrics belies their strength. It's a case of "the iron hand in the velvet glove" and the more often these glamour duds are given the warm suds treatment, the longer they will keep their glove-like contours.

If you buy the bright gay colors that are new this fall, soak the garments separately from white nylon corsets and bras which may pick up tints. Red, turquoise, and beige are among the most popular new shades — and you'll be able to match them with lovely slips and panties for the "one-color" look that will make you feel in the height of fashion, even before you step into your dress for the day.

And, speaking of panties, have you ever worn a panti-slip? It's a bit of lingerie that belongs in most every woman's wardrobe. It is so comfortable, it serves the purpose of panties and slip, and it can be worn under slacks, skirt and blouse or what-have-you. What's more, you have just one garment instead of two to launder!

A revival of this two-in-one garment has gotten off to a good start. A lot of women will remember when the pantie-slip first appeared, quite some years ago. For some reason, it sort of disappeared. And now here it comes again.

Probably one reason for its return is the fact that more women wear tunic outfits for lounging around the house. If the blouse or top of the lounge outfit happens to be sheer — which it often is — then some sort of slip is required. The same goes for the skirt-and-blouse combination so immensely popular with all ages. Sheer blouses are so pretty and so flattering that most of us own at least one or two.



So if you haven't met the latest version of the pantie-slip, by all means make its acquaintance. You'll find it in nylon tricot or in Dacron-cotton-nylon blends. Some are nicely trimmed with lace or embroidery up top. They are easy to suds, so quick to dry. And never mind the iron!

JESUS, STILL LEAD ON

Jesus, still lead on,
Till our Rest be won!
And although the way be cheerless,
We will follow, calm and fearless,
Guide us by Thy hand
To our Fatherland.

If the way be drear,
If the foe be near,
Let not faithless fears o'er take us,
Let not faith and hope forsake us;
For through many a foe
To our home we go!

When we seek relief
From a long-felt grief,
When temptations come allluring,
Make us patient and enduring:
Show us that bright shore
Where we weep no more.

Jesus, still lead on,
Till our Rest be won;
Heavenly Leader, still direct us,
Still support, console, protect us,
Till we safely stand
In our Fatherland.

About 200 years ago, the religious world was being stirred by the great spiritual leader named Count Nicolaus Ludwig Zinzendorf. He lived in Germany, was a devout Christian, and found time apart from his soul-stirring work for a good bit of hymn-writing.

It is said that his interest in spreading the gospel and in writing hymns began in boyhood days when he was 10 he helped found a mission society and he was only 12 when he wrote his first hymn. In the half century that followed he turned out more than 2,000 religious songs. Many of these still have places in twentieth century religious worship services and the one which appears above is easily the most popular of them all. It was written about 1721 when Zinzendorf was 21 years old.

A year after "Jesus, Still Lead On" appeared, Count Zinzendorf married, and on the day of the wedding he and his wife decided to renounce their title and devote their lives to preaching and winning men and women to Christ. Their opportunity came almost immediately. A band of religious refugees from Moravia came to Saxony and were promptly invited to settle on the Zinzendorf estate. Other refugees joined the colony in the years that followed and finally the Church of the Moravian Brethren was founded under Zinzendorf's leadership. To-day, as at the time of its birth, the denomination is best known for its missionary zeal and its love of sacred music.

The Week's News

By The Canadian Press

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Red Russia struck a triumphant success and propaganda that had the whole world agog.

The Russians launched a sec- and Sputnik—this time with a dog aboard—and talked about trips to the moon, to Mars, to Venus.

The Communist party celebrated the 40th anniversary in Moscow with a mighty parade of weapons, including rockets. Virtually all the Communist bigwigs of the world were there.

But Russia didn't "shoot the moon" on anniversary day as had been widely predicted.

The Russians boasted they used a new and ultra-powerful fuel to launch the half-ton Sputnik II.

The government also boasted it has put into operation the "largest passenger aircraft in the world," a prop-jet job capable of carrying 120 passengers from Moscow to New York in less than 12 hours.

And so it went.

IKE REASSURANCE

President Eisenhower made a television and radio speech that was designed to allay American public fears regarding Soviet scientific advances.

He took a brick pulling-up-his-socks approach. James R. Killian Jr., president of the Massachusetts Institute o f Technology, was appointed a special assistant to Eisenhower for science and technology.

The president also announced a U.S. achievement. American scientists have solved the critical ballistic missile problem of returning a missile warhead from space onto a target—keeping the cone of the missile intact.

DIEFENBAKER COMMENTS

By his tough attitude, Khrushchev has jolted the Western world into a greater sense of unity and opened eyes to the necessity for more emphasis on science, Diefenbaker declared.

Prime Minister Macmillan said the attitude of the Americans has changed drastically and they are "no longer confident that even their great country can do everything itself, without allies, to preserve its own survival."

DARK REMINDER

Communism marked another anniversary during the week.

It was just one year since Soviet troops battered the Hungarians into submission, ending the historic October revolt.

Things were quiet in Budapest. Radio Budapest said merely the Russian soldiers had come as "friends." But there were no speeches.

UN BLOCK

Russia, with casual arrogance, threatened in the United Nations to boycott the UN agencies dealing with disarmament unless their makeup is changed. The Soviets want a permanent UN disarmament commission with every one of the 82 UN members represented on it.

The policy-linking political committee ignored the Russian threat and called instead on the General Assembly to back a Western disarmament plan.

But it was obvious that some form of co-operation will be needed from the Russians. Canada was among countries expressing hope for a compromise on the question.

Leaves Provide Good Plant Food

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

The numbers 5-10-5, or 4-12-4 appear on the packages of commercial fertilizer. They indicate the percentage of nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash contained in the mixture. The leaves which fall every autumn contain all these nutrients, too. They may be yours to feed your garden if you rake and store them. The leaves should be raked up anyway. If left on the grass and perennial border they will mat down and smother lawn or plants.

Instead of burning up this valuable harvest make it into compost. Beside being rich in minerals it makes moisture retaining humus. When incorporated with garden soil it helps to release chemicals which are already there. These are called trace elements and are needed by plants for balanced growth.

Pick an inconspicuous spot in the back garden. Current or berry bushes will provide an effective screen. Dig out the area four to six feet square one foot deep. Pile leaves six inches deep then sprinkle with chemical plant food, or if available barnyard manure. Add one inch layer of top soil and then more leaves. Build up the pile in these layers, having soil layer on top.

PERENNIAL TOPS OUT

Dead annuals, desease free beet, carrot, and brocolli leaves, cabbage heelings, and any free weeds may be added. Do not add garbage containing bones, meat or fats. Metal, stones and twigs should be kept out. Burn all pernicenial tops. These may contain fungus deseases.

The soil layer will insure an odorless and fly free compost heap. A light sprinkling of chloride of lime occasionally will discourage rodents and other animals.

Keep the top concave to catch and retain moisture. During dry weather soak the pile with the hose to keep the contents wet enough for the decomposing process to go on. Cold and dryness stops bacterial action.

During the winter the action will stop, but hot weather speeds it up. Commercial activators will shorten the decomposing period by several months. Turn the pile every two months during the summer.

It takes approximately one year to reduce the pile to usable compost, unless special activator is used. Many gardeners have three piles. One contains the material which has been rotted down and is now ready for use. The next pile is complete and is in the process of decomposing. The third is the current pile which is still in the building stage.

Some fertilizers must be used with extreme care lest they burn the plants they are to nourish. Compost may be safely used on all plants without fear of burn. Lawns, rose gardens and house plants can be fed with compost. Potting soil for Saint Paulias (African violets and house ferns) should be loose and spongy. Use part compost to one of good

Centenary

CENTENARY — Hallowe'en night found witches and boys and girls calling on each home for shell-out and donations for U.N.I.C.E.F. The collection collected $25 in this community and this was sponsored by the Happy Workers' Mission Band.

HALLOWEEN MASQUERADE

The Adult Bible Class held a Hallowe'en party on Friday night in the church hall. Inside room was well decorated with black and orange streamers meeting at the centre light where a bobbing skeleton hung. Each window had a witch with a black cat and witches were on every wall, giving a real spooky festive Hallowe'en atmosphere.

Mrs. Harold Hancock played a grand march for spooks, goblins, tramps, Indians and infants. Mr. H. Hancock was master of ceremonies with Mrs. T. Aikens, Mrs. Ivan May and Mrs. E. Ingram as judges. Mrs. Bernard May and Mrs. Walter Lewington assisted with the parade.

After much consideration the prizes were awarded as follows:

Pre-school children, Pearl Johnston, Margaret Lewington.

Public school, comic and fancy, Margaret Edmondson, Marilyn Hancock.

Public school boys, comic and fancy, Brian Harder and Wesley May.

Teen-age and adults, comic, fancy and couples, Miss Donna Man, Mrs. Elwin Hart and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Percival who were dressed as an authentic Korean man and wife.

All were unmasked, and there was a peanut scramble, an apple-bobbing contest, a relay race for the children, and a sing-song led by Mr. Percival. Mr. and Mrs. Percy Sutherland and their group served coffee, freshie, sandwiches and cookies.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Hart and Mrs. Gerald Brenton spent last week visiting with friends and relatives in Syracuse and Utica, N.Y.

Murney and Debbie Phillips, Dorland, spent last week with their aunt, Mrs. Dawson Douglas, while their mother was a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

The hunters have gone into the northlands for their annual holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Sleeth and Janet, and Mr. Lloyd Faulkner spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Hart and family.

Mrs. W. A. Meens spent a few days this week with Mr. and Mrs. Keith Sills.

Mrs. Ayling spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. John Reid and family.

TO PROTEST CLOSING

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A meeting of "interested parties" will be called next week to protest government plans for closing RCAF station, London, next summer, Mayor Ray Dennis said Wednesday night. In calling the meeting, the mayor will be carrying out instructions issued by city council about a month ago.

RESCUE TWO

TORONTO (CP)—D. Kellar, 21, and G. H. Gowles, 28, both of Toronto, were rescued by fellow workers Wednesday after being buried briefly in an excavation cave-in.

"A FEW TIPS FOR AN EASY INSULATION JOB"

Adding insulation in your home, whether it's over a ceiling or under a roof, is a popular Do-It-Yourself project. A man and wife team can handle the insulation job with very little trouble.

A staple gun, a sharp knife and a straight edge is about all the tools you will require for the job.

When adding insulation be sure it is cut to fit snugly leaving a flange of vapor barrier to be stapled to the studs or rafters. Be sure the vapor barrier is toward the indoor side — not the outside. Staples should be no more than 6 inches apart.

If you run into any problem at all when adding insulation or any other building job don't forget to call Arthur A. Sills & Son Ltd.—We are always ready to help you in any problem.

Blueprint for Security

Building blueprints show how the foundation, walls and roof fit together to make a solid and secure home. Bakelite's blueprint for security, in much the same way, was drawn up with the various Company benefit plans. Together they give comprehensive protection for an employee while he works and after he retires, and also include protection and benefits for his family. The plans include:

Insurance Plan

Life insurance with sickness and accident, total and total permanent disability benefits is available to eligible employees. Half the cost is paid by the Company.

Hospitalization and Medical Plans

Hospitalization, surgical and medical plans are maintained which give comprehensive coverage to the employee and his family. The company and employee shares equally in the cost.

Savings Plan

Employees may join the General Savings Fund, which is settled in cash every two years, or the long-range Personal Savings Account, through which employees may buy Canada Savings Bonds or UCC stock. For every dollar an eligible employee saves—within specified limits—the Company adds 10, 20 or 30 per cent depending upon whether the employee has 1, 2, or 3 or more years of Company service.

Vacation Plan

Employees are entitled to two weeks of paid vacation after one year of service, three weeks after 10 years, and four weeks after 25 years.

Retirement Plan

This is a voluntary contributory Plan for eligible employees. It provides an income for life, with many liberal security provisions, for retired employees who participate. Most of the cost is paid by the Company.

Pension Plan

A retiring employee, aged 65 and with 15 or more years of Company Service Credit, will receive an income based on length of service and earnings. This plan, which also provides disability benefits, is paid for entirely by the Company.

A) On cold mornings it is best let the engine idle for just a minutes before driving off. e gives the oil an opportunity circulate properly and lubricate ine parts. You may also find it it helps gas economy.

As a new car dealer, I find that the average car own- er never considers this differ- ence when he compares gas mileage with another owner of the same make and model car."

A) How right you are! Drivers certainly should realize that gas consumption increases with speed. For example, an engine that is rated at 30 miles per gallon when driven at a steady 30 m.p.h. will only give about 18 at 40 m.p.h. If steadily 60 m.p.h. speed is made the limit, there is a drop to 14 or 15 miles per gallon.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Children Have a Responsibility Toward Parents During Late Years

By THOMAS COLLINS

A good bit of intellectual non- sense about an adult child's re- sponsibility to a retired parent is being peddled around.

The gist of it is that a child shouldn't have any.

And it seems to be coming from well-educated experts who base their opinions on statistics, and from people who want the problems of growing old to be- come a public affair handled by public agencies or the Gov- ernment.

Let's have a look:

Retired parents in huge num- bers need things their adult chil- dren could supply — but probably no more than a fourth of them are asking their children to sup- ply them. Some need money. Some need a position of some im- portance in the society of our times. Almost all of them need companionship.

There is no question about the needs. Seven to eight thousand letters that have come in from retired people over the last six months, and that are in the file cases beside my desk, list them.

NEEDS ARE PERSONAL

There is no supermarket where these needs can be filled. For the retired delinquent there is — the nearest public welfare office. But not for the average, self-respect- ing citizen who has always taken care his own. There are pensions and Social Security, in the U.S. but the needs are too personal for even a Welfare State to fill.

Adult children can fill them. And it is difficult to see why they think they shouldn't.

People now retired, like most parents, had their children by de- sign or accident, and had them for their own personal joy. There is no arguing this. Possibly to age 6 or so, it was still a matter of personal joy, plus responsibility.

But from then on the pattern changed. Almost every decision the parents made was made with an eye on what would help the children attain a good life — where they lived, in order to get good schools; what they ate, in order to develop good bodies; what youthful friends they encour- aged and discouraged, what rules they made, what home duties they imposed — in order to give the children the environment and the self-reliance that would help them get a good life.

Love and happiness of the pa- rents were all mixed up with this, of course. And you could argue all night that such things were the parents' duty — "We didn't ask to be born."

Still, no law required the par- ents to do all they did. And any child who ever dared say "I didn't ask to be born" does, after all, know how to get unborn fast.

Few children could make up in a lifetime for just one of their parents did — turning their lives into turmoil on Sunday mornings to get them to church. And I doubt many of them had much personal fun doing it, and in CHILD'S RESPONSIBILITY

Every adult child of retired people should:

1. Inquire, when the parents re- tire, about their financial capac- ity. Don't probe. Just ask if help is needed. Do this especially if the parents have been forced to retire.

2. Until such time as society can find a place for retired people — it has none now — make ef- forts to find them one. It may be a social niche somewhere, friends, a civic position, or even a job. Children can ask and seek these things with more dignity than their parents.

3. Go visit them. Simply go visit them. Most of them are lone- ly, and they long mostly for you. Go once in a while without your own children.

Loving and honoring elders are deeply ingrained traits of good people. It's not always going to be fashionable to think parents are fools.

NEW PERFECTION GREATER SELECTION

HANDIEST, HEFTIEST TRUCKS ON ANY ROAD... GMC EXTRA-VALUE MONEY-MAKERS FOR '58

They're here . . . and how! A brand-new crop of GMC Extra-Value Money-Makers with a raft of rugged improvements that make them really big news in trucking. Some models offer a new 9000-pound front axle for even bigger loading perform- ance . . . there's a bigger-than-ever range of GVW's —up to 36,000 pounds . . . there are new engines, new styling, new handling ease.

In fact, there's a whole host of new reasons why your should make GMC pave your way to bigger profits. Your nearby GMC dealer has all the answers to your trucking problems. See him—soon!

Smart new functional styling

Dual headlights, new trim and new grille are just the beginning of GMC's smart, practical new styling. The windshield is bigger and wider — gives you an all 'round better view of the road ahead. Wide, wide fenders help the driver in turning and parking. And even in the smaller details, GMC styling surpasses them all.

Brand new Utility Panels

The most exciting newcomers to the GMC lineup in many a long day. GMC's new Utility Panels are exactly what truckers have been asking for . . . Forward Control models with steel van-type bodies in 8 and 10 foot lengths. Gross ratings go up to 10,000 pounds. And smaller wheels and tires give low loading and step heights

GVW's up to 36,000 pounds

Gross vehicle weights go to new highs to give GMC a commanding lead in the heavy-duty field. Up to 36,000 pounds GVW is now available in W-9100 Series . . . ruggedly-built trucks that can really take a pounding from both the load and the road. Check body styles and features at your GMC dealer's.

New Workmaster "348" V8

This new V8 will spark a revolution in truck engines . . . a power plant that develops 230 horsepower and has a governed engine speed of only 3700 rpm. The engine works easily, without straining, gives you plenty of power with less wear and tear. New cylinder head and piston designs also help to increase engine efficiency.

Improved Powermatic

Powermatic was last year's big news in transmissions . . . an automatic unit that brought new ease and convenience to truck handling. And, in addition, Powermatic's exclusive Hydraulic Retarder made it safer on hills than any other. Now, Powermatic goes itself one better with the addition of an extra range for city conditions.

Full Air Brakes

Extra-large brake shoes mean better, safer, surer stops, especially when they're powered by GMC's new full-time compressed air chambers. Even biggest loads are handled easily and safely under emergency conditions. GMC's full Air Brakes are optional at slight extra cost on all Heavy Duty models.

A NEW "C" FORM

The boys were thumping Floyd Crawford's broad back the other day before embussing for Cornwall and a 6-2 setback. They all wore big smiles, but the biggest was on the face of the popular defenceman.

To those of us who stood on the sidelines, it was a source of curiosity. Goodnatured quips were flying from all sides until a gesture on Crawford's part spilled the beans, so to speak.

He reached into an inside pocket and came out with a handful of clears. That did it. Floyd passed them around to his grinning mates—and the spectators. There were handshakes and backslaps. Bep Guidolin, who was on the fringe, got into the act and later accompanied the team to Cornwall.

The newest addition to the Crawford family tipped the beam at seven pounds eight ounces and forms the second defenceman in the family's private hockey team. Older brother Pete, is a year old, while sister Susie is three. The young brother has yet to be named. Anyway the proud and happy Maurice is doing splendidly and Floyd is expected down to earth come Tuesday.

And our underground operator has it that it won't be too long before another popular member of the' McFarlands will be in line for congratulations (his first) and the privilege of passing around the big smokes to his pals.

The Maes take the long hike to Pembroke tonight to battle Wally Lenser's Lumber Kings in their own courtyard. The Kings gave the Whitby Dunlops a tremendous battle Thursday night before bowing 4-3 to the champions, and they'll be all set and raring to snatch a couple of points from our side tonight. The game will be aired via CJBQ at 9.05.

As is generally known the McFarlands' scheduled game with the Quebec-Hull Canadiens on Sunday has been postponed due to the handsome ice scene in the Quebec city not being completed.

However word late yesterday says the new hockey edifice will be finished by November 17 and will be formally opened on that date with the Pembroke Lumber Kings the guests of the Canadiens.

With Ontario hockey interest gradually converging on the approaching visit of the Russian Dynamos, the greater part is being centred on the Ruskie's first clash which will be against the Canadian senior champions, the Whitby Dunlops in Toronto, November 22. Regardless of the outcome of other Russ-Canadian tilts, Canadian fans in general will be extremely curious to see how our representatives stack up against the boys from Moscow.

Something akin to alarm is being voiced from various parts of the province over the Dunlops' showing to date against Ontario senior clubs. Bobby Bauer, who knows from experience, warns the Dunlops not to be deceived by what the Russians are showing. They are accustomed to large, airy outdoor rinks where condition and speed are the prime requisites of a winning club.

Chick (Stratford Beacon-Herald) Appel says he is alarmed at what Whitby has displayed to date. "The thought is that Blair has not assembled the class of senior Canadian hockey players by any means. He has only added three or four players and that certainly does not look good enough in this corner to bring the world title back to Canada."

Right now it appears the Whitby players of last season are getting too much hockey and the new members are not getting enough. If Blair continues his current strategy he's going to have the whole Whitby players burned out and the balance not in shape for the tough, assignment they face when the chips are down overseas.

Eight scoring Pete Panagbko paced Barrie to victory over St. Michael's scoring three times. Billy Forhan, Dale Rolfe and Danny Patrick scored the others. Dave Keon, Les Kozak and Jack Costello scored for St. Michael's.

Tonight Hamilton is at St. Catharines. On Sunday Hamilton is at St. Michael's with Peterborough at Marlboros.

Rangers Pair off With Habs Boston Cuddles With Hawks Detroit, Toronto Hold Hands

By MARTY GOODMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

There are some strange bedfellows in the National Hockey League these days.

Montreal Canadiens are in first place, as expected, but tied with them are New York Rangers. It was only two years ago that the Rangers climbed into the playoffs after missing them for five straight years.

Boston Bruins, last season's Stanley Cup finalists with Montreal, are in third. Tied with them are Chicago Black Hawks, in the top four once in the last 13 years.

Toronto Maple Leafs are in fifth position and tied at the bottom with them are Detroit Red Wings first-place finisher in eight of the last nine seasons.

Granted such pairings could change easily in the rest of the season but there have been indications in the first dozen games that some positions may be relatively permanent.

Montreal's power was evident on paper and so far has been all too true. Maurice and Henri Richard, with the boast in Canada the game winning spree, Worsley has been praised and his stand-in former Montreal Bruin, Jacques Plante, has contributed to the Ranger climb.

Like Canadiens, New York has eight wins and two ties for 18 points but Montreal has two more losses.

Chicago's 19 goals in 11 games, several in the last two games, have put the Hawks have four wins and two ties for 10 points and the potent lineup has shown signs of living up to optimistic pre-season predictions.

Coach Dick Irvin ranks third in the league in goals against and Ted Lindsay has added scoring needed fight to the forwards.

Boston started off with four straight wins and then dropped seven of its next eight games. Some blame the slump on goalie Don Simmons and coach Milt Schmidt blames the defence.

BANNER SURPRISES

Bruins have had some pleasant surprises up front. Bronco Horvath, who barely got a call at Detroit trial with Detroit and never made the grade with New York or Montreal, has scored eight goals and four assists. Boston drafted Jack Bionda summer.

Leafs shifted the accent from defence to offense this season and have 32 goals in 11 games, third highest in the league. But the 38 against goalie Ed Chadwick rank him fifth.

Toronto's youth alternately has dazzled and baffled in four win and a tie. Coach Billy Reay says many of his players still haven't "top shape and the team will improve.

Detroit has been the biggest surprise. Last summer's wholesale trading of veterans left fans fearful but nobody figured Wings would be as inept as they have been. Of the 38 goals against Tiny Sawchuk are highest in the league and the club scored only slightly better than Chicago's 19 on a game basis.

Wings have one in their last four games and Sawchuk twice has been peppered with more than 30 shots in a game.

General manager Jack Adams says Detroit will get out of its slump once the players get in set positions. They'll have to work fast to get out of sixth spot because Detroit meets Maple Leafs at Toronto tonight as the league resumes action.

In other games Boston plays at Montreal and New York at Chicago.

Britain Leads At Horse Show

NEW YORK (AP) — Ted Williams put Britain in the team lead Friday night at the National Horse Show when he captured the Goodwill Challenge Trophy. He was the only rider to go clean in a four-way jump-off.

Williams stretched Britain's lead to 12 points over the U.S.—164 to 152—and also pulled into the lead for the individual title in international jumping with 28 points to 25 for Billy Steinkraus, captain of the U.S. team, and his riding mate, Hugh Wiley.

Points are being awarded for the first time this year for both team and individual performances and two new trophies are being awarded. Canada has yet to score.

Fans Eye Tabbies and Ottawa Als, Argos to Make Motions

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Football fans in Eastern Canada today will have their eyes on Bernie Faloney, Hamilton Tiger-Cats' quarterback, as he leads his troops against Ottawa Rough Riders in the game that will settle first place in the Big Four Football Union.

Ticats go into this final game of the regular schedule with a two-point bulge but still must win to take the league title and get a bye into the playoffs.

Faloney drove Ticats most of the way on a drive-ground game but has been under fire of late for not taking to the air more frequently.

The criticism became more voluble after Ticats lost 34-14 to Ottawa last week, thus setting up today's all-important game.

Ottawa, with a less predictable but often effective quarterback of their own in Tom Dimitroff, can grab of the top spot with a win over tonight's two clubs will be tied on points.

Roughies will get the nod because of a better scoring record in games between the two teams. They have split four games so far.

In Montreal, the third-place Alouettes take on the fading Toronto Argonauts in a game that means nothing to the standings.

Alouettes will meet the loser of the Ottawa-Hamilton game in a sudden-death semi-final Nov. 13.

Gov. General Host to Rocket Richard

The Rocket and Mrs. Richard were the Governor-General's invited guests. They chatted about 35 minutes.

The get-together was arranged by Senator Jean Paul Beaubien, president of the Montreal Canadiens, who had heard Mr. Massey express a wish to meet the Rocket, now in his 16th season with Canadiens.

"We talked about a lot of things," said Richard. "His Excellency congratulated me on my 500th goal. Most of the conversation was in English but at times His Excellency talked with us in French."

Mr. Massey, who has never seen Richard play, said he hoped to see a Canadiens' game this winter.

"I told him he wouldn't have any trouble about tickets—just to see Senator Molson," quipped Richard.

Mrs. Richard said she was nervous before the meeting but felt at ease "as soon as the train boarded "the car.

Other members of the party included Mr. Massey's son Lionel and his wife, a secretary and two aides.

Giants Meet Chicago Cards

NEW YORK (AP)—San Francisco 49ers, pre-season nobodies to a man now the comeboys to beat in the western conference, begin a cross-country road trip Sunday in the National Football League moves into the last half of the season.

The 49ers top their division by two full games, built on a 5-1 record, but it will be a month Sundays before they return to the home lair at Kezar Stadium Dec 8. Stopovers at Los Angeles Sunday, then Detroit, Baltimore and New York will be tougher than hospitable. The 49ers have folded on the road in other seasons. It could happen again.

Detroit Lions (3-3) are rated four points favorite in Saturday's Polo Grounds tilt against Baltimore Colts's game with Washington Redskins is listed as a toss-up. These games are in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Other second-half openers have Chicago Cardinals at New York Giants, Chicago Bay Packers at Chicago Bears and Pittsburgh Steelers at Cleveland Browns.

Leaders come and go in the Ontario Hockey Association-Northern OHA Senior A series like spinning Spuinks.

Friday night the six-team loop saw its third leader emerge within a week. Current holders of the title—Soo Greyhounds, who beat Sudbury Wolves 3-2.

Other action in the series saw Dunlop Alf Senior A Football Union semi - final series. Second game will be played at Calgary Monday afternoon.

Calgary, predominantly a passing club, has yet to beat Bombers. Stamps have a potentially powerful passing attack with throwing and ends Jack Gotta and Ernie Warlick catching.

Bombers have used wide end sweeps to run the Cowboys into the ground during four regular season games, piling up a 131 to 40 edge in total scoring points.

Winnipeg could come out with a bolstered rushing force. Bobby Marcynuk at quarterback and James, Kent Peet, Charlie Shepard and either Gordie Rowland or Dennis Mendyk playing in the half positions.

The winner meets Edmonton Eskimos in the best-of-three final for the right to represent the West in the Grey Cup. Eskimos finished on top of the WCFU regular season schedule and got a bye into the finals.

Toronto Marlboros—via a goal scored 30 seconds before the end of regulation time — have increased their lead at the top of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A standings to three points.

McFarlands Maintain Top Position With 2-1 Victory Over Ottawa

Young Speedsters Stave Off Furious Third-Period Drive In Fast Clean Senior Fray

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

A third-period offensive ferocity which protected their 2-1 margin over the starry Ottawa-Hull Canadiens here last night, gave the McFarlands their fifth victory and enabled them to climb to the top spot in the league standings.

East of here Kingston edged the Cornwall Chevies 7-6 in overtime. The Macs top the loop with ten points, Kingston is now in second place with eight, while Whitby, Cornwall and Pembroke are tied for third with six points.

Frustrated by the clever, both-way checking and speed of the Ottawa youngsters in the first two periods, the Macs unleashed their full offensive potential in the final frame which saw them outshoot the young foemen 18-4. Harold Hansen in the Ottawa nets was the main roadblock to McFarland goals.

The third period was one of the best if not the best hockey seen in this season despite the fact McFarlands had a big edge in the play. Only one penalty was handed out, it going to Ottawa's Begin, but no damage was done.

The game was one of the cleanest seen here this season with both clubs playing the puck rather than the opposition as at times some stiff body checks were handed out with Mac Bradley in the leading role. Referee Ned Vitarelli of Peterborough had a comparatively easy time dispensing his penalties during the game, the clubs splitting the sentences, all minors.

The speed and fury of the Ottawa attack in the first period threw on less disorganized the McFarland plays with the visitors shooting the home 9-3. Gordie Menard [illegible] out in the opener but the Macs could do little or nothing with the lightning like back-checking Ottawa forwards and their defence.

The period was half over before the McFarlands finally clicked, Hansen beating Hansen from a goal-mouth scramble with Paul Payette and Minnie Menard getting assists.

Two penalties were handed out one to Ike Hildebrand the other to Boucher for minor offences but no damage was done.

Gordie Bell went down from a crack on the head following a doorstep melee but he was unhurt and resumed play.

Again in the second period the speed and close-checking of the Ottawa lines proved a hurdle to the Macs getting started. They had hard both-way action of the Visitors broke up not a few McFarland forays while on the offensive they were always dangerous with Ralph Backstrom leading the parade.

Tardiff got the gate at 1.13 and Eddie Boucher drove in close to pick the net. Five minutes later in a scramble around the Ottawa nets drove home Tony Poeta's pass from behind the Ottawa net to put the Macs in front.

They maintained their driving offensive and Hansen kicked out five shots in rapid succession to hold them off. On a return drive Sarazin whipped in close to beat Bell to out the margin to a goal. Later both Botley and Bradley got the gate but the Belleville defence held stoutly and nothing happened.

Nearly 1,900 fans thrilled to the sustained lightning action of the third period when the Ottawa youngsters were thrown back in their own end for the majority of the chapter and successfully held off the Macs desperate efforts to increase their margin. Hansen was superb in the nets while up front his mates went all-out to hold off the McFarland offensives.

At that they almost tied the count when Backstrom broke free from the pack and raced in on Bell. The boy was on his tail bothering him and hard low drive was clear of the net. Menard, Brown, Marineau, Payette...joined front close in or were thwarted by Hansen.

With 15 seconds to go the Ottawa goalie was taken out of the nets but the Macs couldn't get the puck away. He was back before the siren ended the game.

Marineau and Kowalchuk were the McFarland snipers with Menard, Payette, Poeta and Hedrick getting assists. Sarazin was the lone Ottawa goalgetter with Richard (a younger brother) and Gray being given assists.

The teams:

Ottawa — Goal, Hansen; defence, Ruel, Longarini, Tardif, Tremblay; forwards, Carter, Richard, Backstrom, Boucher Sarazin, G. Tremblay, Gray, Rousseau, Begin, Canale.

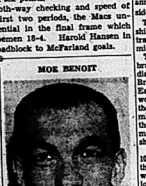
SUMMARY

First Period



Belleville—Marineau (Payette, Menard) 9.23
Penalties — Hildebrand, Boucher.

Second Period

Belleville—Kowalchuk (Poeta, Bradley) 7.55
Ottawa—Sarazin (Richard, Gray) 10.53
Penalties — Tardif, Botley, Bradley.

Reds Nudge Rochester 4-2

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (CP)—Providence Reds boosted their second-place margin in the American Hockey League to three points Friday night as they defeated third-place Rochester Americans 4-2.

Will Share Track, Field Next Season

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Southwestern Ontario and British Columbia branches of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada will share most of next year's track and field championships, the AAU track and field committee decided Friday.

The awarding of the trials still must be approved by a general session of delegates at the AAU annual meeting, but this is considered a formality.

The Canadian relay championships were awarded to the Central Ontario branch at a committee meeting.

The Southwestern Ontario branch was awarded the Canadian marathon championship and British Empire Games trial, the Eastern Canadian men's and women's senior championships, junior, intermediate, junior and midget men's championships and the senior, junior, juvenile and midget cross country championships.

British Columbia will have the 10-mile track race championship, the Canadian juvenile and midget championships, the senior pentathlon and the senior and junior decathlon.

Barlow Leads West, North Points Race

SUDBURY (CP) — North Bay Trappers' Bob Barlow leads individual scorers in the Ontario Hockey Association and midget OHA Senior A series by one point.

League statistics released today show Barlow has seven goals and 13 assists for a one-point lead over Ken Laufman and Jerry Theberge, both of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen. Laufman has six goals and 10 assists and Theberge five goals and 11 assists.

Theberge's 11 assists are tops and Joe Malo of Sudbury Wolves and Frank Bathgate of Windsor Bulldogs lead the goal scorers with eight.

Kitchener's Boat Hurley leads the penalty list with 34 goals against in 12 games for a 2.83 average. Chatham Maroons' Dow Read is second with 15 goals against in five games for a 3.00 average.

The leaders:

AAU Considers Firm's Offer Of Annual Financial Help

By STAN McCABE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Amateur Athletic Union of Canada today continued its study of an offer of financial aid from a commercial firm.

The AAU's resolutions committee is scheduled to take the next look at the offer of an unidentified firm to give $50,000 to $70,000 a year to help promote track and field across the country. The firm, which does business with dairies across Canada, wants the AAU to decide how the air proposal can be carried out.

The track and field committee considered the offer briefly Friday night.

PLAN NEEDED

Gerry Williams of Edmonton suggested that any committee set up to deal with the proposed contributor should be given some "points of reference" by the AAU executive. Bob Osborne of Vancouver said the organization should have a proposal of its own about what it wanted the program to cover.

Fred Hamilton of Toronto, representing the Central Ontario branch and the man who first outlined the proposal to the AAU, said the proposed committee would have the duty of protecting the interests of the amateur sport governing body.

The committee would ensure that the contributor's advertising use of the programs kept within bounds desired by the amateurs.

Harding took issue with anybody who suggested the committee would sell the AAU down the river. He made it clear that the private involved hadn't got much out of television advertising and was looking for a new way to spend its allocation.

George Dubbie, athletic director of the Canadian National Exhibition, again sounded the warning note he first aired Thursday when the matter was introduced at the opening of the AAU annual meeting.

When the AAU signs, he said, it should make sure that it would sign up with an organization "that is going to do a lot of good for the AAU for a long, long time."

Final decision of the current meeting on the matter was expected today.

Earlier, the AAU decided that the senior men's and women's track and field trials—plum of the preliminaries for the 1958 British Empire Games at Wales —will be held in Saskatoon next June 20-21.

The choice was made with more than 75 per cent of the ballots cast on the first round of voting. The other contenders were British Columbia, which wanted the track and field events to help mark its centennial year, and the Quebec branch which wanted them for the Canadian Legion sports layout at St. Lambert.

Forms Committee To Battle Players' Body

TORONTO (CP)—The management of Toronto Maple Leafs, headed by Conn Smythe, Friday announced formation of a committee "to take every legal step possible" to oppose the National Hockey League Players' Association.

Smythe's announcement after the annual shareholders' meeting followed a players' vote Tuesday asking the Ontario labor relations board to certify the association as their bargaining agent.

Smythe's recommendation that the board of directors appoint a small committee "to oppose outside interference and direction of team by the Players' Association and take every legal step possible so that we can continue to operate our own club under the law of this free-enterprise country" was approved and a committee, including him, formed.

Smythe accused the association formed last March, of having caused "a good deal of trouble and . . . no one can point out one thing that has been done which is helpful for hockey for our team or for individual players."

The association last month filed a $1,000,000 suit in New York charging that the league and its owners have "monopolized and obtained complete control and dictatorship" over professional hockey in New York, New England, Michigan, Illinois, Quebec and Ontario.

Smythe said the association lawyer, Milton Mound of New York, has "no knowledge of hockey whatsoever" and is "apparently a spellbinder" who had convinced the players they are not forming a union.

EXPECT TOP GOLFERS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Some of the world's greatest golfers are expected here next fall for the $45,800 Centennial Open-richest tournament in Canada's history.

Vancouver professional Stan Leonard, Italian director for the tournament, told an organization meeting Thursday night that Sam Snead has promised to come if a little fishing is thrown in and Dave La Roux chairman Jimmy Demaret will accept an invitation. Doug Ford should be here, too, Leonard said.

The tournament will be held Aug. 27 to Sept. 1 at Vancouver's Point Grey course.

Does Motor Noise Disturb Fish?

You who read this column regularly no doubt have come to the conclusion that this department does not subscribe to the theory that motor noise (inboard or outboard) does not disturb fish. At the risk of being tiresome, it seems only fair to bring to you from time to time developments which may throw new light on this controversial subject.

During August I journeyed to Long Island to visit my son, Dick, who is outdoor editor of Newsday, published in Garden City, Long Island. Naturally, we spent some of our time going fishing.

Our first trip was to Peconic Bay in search of weakfish. We sailed out of Port of Egypt fishing pier at Southold, Long Island. Our hosts, the Ilzeblein brothers, Fred and Carl Egypt, not only fished with us but they had persuaded "Weakfish" Charley, a famous fisherman (Charley Schaechter) is admittedly the weakfish king because of his unstinted belief that he catches annually just about twice as many weakfish as any other fisherman in the entire Peconic Bay area.

Charley, in addition to being an outstanding fisherman, is a close observer of natural phenomena. Most fishermen, when they are indulging in their favorite sports, merely look at things; not so Charley. Not with them. Charley is one of these latter. He pays close attention to what goes on about him and he misses very little.

Having the impressive record that he does, it is not surprising that other boats tend to follow Charley's lead when choosing fishing grounds for the day. Hardly had he dropped anchor before two motor boats came roaring into our area and dropped anchor directly down-tide from us.

Charley was not pleased. He rose from his captain's seat to wave off the intruders and, failing to do so, added a few invective and uncomplimentary remarks. Naturally, I was curious.

"Why the ire, Charley? Are they scaring the fish?" I asked him.

"About 50—feet. Why?"

"Does motor noise bother fish in 50 or 60 feet of water?"

"Don't know how much it bothers them, but I do know this. You anchor that close and you don't catch fish. Then in comes one of those outboards, right away you get a few more fish. They don't get scared away; they just stop biting for a while."

"Then you actually do feel you can tell that motor noise puts fish off the feed?"

"Sure it does. I've seen it happen hundreds of times. You watch some — we won't do anything until things quiet down.

"And I'll tell you something else — over at my dock in the early season there's always plenty of big blue crabs, right up in the shallow water where you can pick them up in a crab net without any trouble. Then comes warm weather and the outboards with noise, noise, all the time. Those big crabs just disappear, move out into deep water. Fish and crabs don't like noise and disturbance. Guess we'd better move; can't catch any fish here for a while."

And there you have it, Charley, as I say, is a keen observer and he knows his weakfish. And consider that little item about the crabs — evidently they don't like noise either.

Two days later we had one of the most clean-cut examples of the effects of motor noise on the behavior of fish; this time it was inboard motors. We were fishing with Dave Ruhlin of Atlantic Highlands, sailing out of Debs Inlet on his big sea skiff, Mistress. Dave has the deserved reputation of being number-one blue-fisherman in those parts. We made our way past Ambrose light ship, and out past the gas buoy off Sea-bright, New Jersey.

These are famous bluefish grounds and, it being a Saturday and fair weather, the grounds were crowded. And when I say "crowded," I mean just that. If there was one boat in the area there were 500 — every imaginable sort of craft was on hand and busy.

To attract a school of bluefish to your lures, it is best to chum with fresh-ground menhaden. These are oily little fish which smell to high Heaven, but evidently that same smell or flavor appeals to the bluefish. Our chum dick had not been established for ten minutes before all of us were busy fighting bluefish big ones. Then from our port side came Elaine B, a party boat out of Sheepshead Bay. Skipper, who knows better, steered her right through our chum slick. That was the end of fishing for bluefishing. The school simply stopped feeding and moved elsewhere.

Matinee Theatre Given Month But Has Passed 500th Show

By JAMES BACON

"Politely," recalls one NBC executive, "we referred to him as an extreme visionary, but the meaning was clear—we really thought he was slightly off his rocker."

In the fall of 1955, McCleery came up with the idea of putting an hour-long drama series on five days a week and in color. It was plainly mass production drama in a medium that had already proved itself the most hearty devourer of talent in showbusiness history.

"We gave him a month at best," says the executive, "and even then we figured that was a giveaway of three weeks."

But McCleery sold his idea to the network, helped a little by a sales pitch that particularly appealed to RCA, parent of NBC. The show would be welcomed by television dealers, at least, who needed a good daytime color show to demonstrate their color TV sets to prospective customers.

Since then, NBC matinee theatre has passed 500th daytime show and set a standard of quality that many a nighttime drama could envy.

Its audience is estimated by the rating services at around 12,000,000 daily, making—it one of the most successful operations in the network program.

Bulk of matinee audience is in the East where it hits about the time the housewives want to take an hour's rest in the quiet hour before the kids come home from school.

It comes on at lunchtime in Hollywood, where it has an important audience in, of all places the paneled offices of the movie moguls.

"It's the best screen test in town," says one movie bigwig, "and the cheapest. I can tell whether a new girl will photograph well in color and, more important, I can find out if she can act."

At least two dozen of the younger crop in the movies were discovered by a producer watching TV while eating lunch in his office.

Ralph Toohy May Become Grid Referee

MONTREAL (CP) — Rollicking Ralph Toohy, Hamilton Tiger-Cats rough-tough football player, is toying with the idea of becoming a referee some day.

Toohy was in Montreal Thursday night for a TV show, in a ball-session later the one-time Montreal Alouettes' husky declared: "I'm told I've given referees more headaches than anybody in the game. I'd make a natural referee. I know all the angles."

Asked why he had some aspirations to become a referee Toohy came back fast: "Unless they change the rule book it's a cinch. Even if you call 'em wrong the book gives you an out. Besides, where can you make that kind of dough for two hours work on a Saturday afternoon?"

Toohy was the central figure in a Montreal-Hamilton game a few weeks ago. He trotted out from the bench as the Cats' 15th man to break a scrum during the game.

The brawl incident, which contributed to the history of football, Toohy paid a $150 fine.

On the Tracks

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Three-year-old thoroughbred kind should be crowned before night fall. Round Table, Gallant Man and Bold Ruler, chief pretenders to the throne, fight it out in a three-horse match race today in the $75,000 added Trenton Handicap at Garden State Park.

Post time for the race, unprecedented in the memory of racing experts and unparalleled since the 1938 Seabiscuit-War Admiral meeting at Washington Park, is approximately 4:10 p.m. EST.

The weather bureau predicted showers this morning with clearing and cool for most of the afternoon. Track conditions are expected to be "good." There will be no television, but the race will be broadcast on radio (NBC).

TWO WITHDRAWN

This head-on meeting of the year's top candidates for the three-year-old ills and possibly horse of the year honors, came about when two other entries in the race were withdrawn Friday. Samso Farms had entered his five-year-old Wise Margin, and King Ranch named Beam Rider, a four-year-old.

Both Tufano and Max Hirsch, trainer of Beam Rider, withdrew their horses "in order to make the Trenton a true test for the three-year-old championship."

With a three-horse field, the gross purse will be $82,250, with $52,162 to the winner. In this day and age the money involved is almost paltry considering the field and the prestige at stake. Several tracks offered $100,000, winner take all, for a match race between Gallant Man and Round Table alone.

The track handicapper has given Round Table the 7-5 favorite despite the fact the Kerr Stable's horse has been defeated twice by Gallant Man.

CHECKUPS FOR YANKS

First baseman Bill Skowron already has made the trip. Among the other players due to visit the clinic are catcher Yogi Berra, center fielder Mickey Mantle and pitcher Whitey Ford. All four suffered physical miseries during the past season.

TV NOTEBOOK

By: John Wetllaufer

Although an antenna installation may look like a simple operation, there are more than a few factors to consider. The installation might be decided for instance, by the type of antenna to be used, or the architecture of the house or building. Location with respect to the TV station or stations must also be considered.

Generally speaking, the actual securing of the mast is best handled by a well-guyed roof antenna when possible. If a roof antenna cannot be used, then a well-guyed ground antenna can be installed. At any rate, care should be exercised to make it correct and secure installation for peak reception.

Speaking of peak reception, whether it's a case of antenna installation or repairs on your set ,CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 308 Coleman St., can assure you the best possible performance. TV is our specialty . . . not a sideline. Phone WO 8-6791. (In Trenton Phone Zenith 6-3800).

Astro'ogical Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER
(Author of the new book "Astrology and You")

"The Stars impel . . . They do not compel! What you make of your life is largely up to you."

Saturday, November 9, 1957

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—Contacts are as many persons as possible within a certain radius to learn what is expected of you in joint ventures fine today, also setting up better working forms. Be joyful. P.M. excellent co-operation in heart interests.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — By careful perusal of bynk statement and bookkeeping books, any money headaches will be easily eliminated, and surplus found for needed repairing of property, real and personal. P.M. be with and inspire fellow workers and show loyal support.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Contact all associates in morning hours, see what they expect from your end. Don't hesitate to improve your methods, if this is necessary. Tonight then is wonderful for comradely amusements. Be happy and grow.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21)—Secret searchings during sunlight hours will show how to eliminate some of the tiresome labors that'annoy you, and you will have many free hours to pursue more lucrative and pleasing activities. P.M. excellent for home pleasures.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Today pals and closest alliances are impressed with your abilities and are in a mood to assist you monetarily and morally to the ultimate. Be specific in telling them what you desire. P. M. visit around. Drop in on neighbors.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — This is one of those days when things break wide open all around and you can get a better picture of how to settle problems wisely, make better arrangements for the future. Tonight, go over your assets carefully.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23)—Either write to or telephone those interested out of town, or persons in an alien sphere of endeavor or culture than your own. This will prove very educational and lucrative. Tonight fine for affairs of the heart.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — This is a good day for finding out your relative position in all worldly affairs in connection with other persons. Good for collections and payments, adding to possessions, also. Tonight, look into what is nebulous.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — A splendid day to give an ear to the words of those very intelligent and successful persons you number among your acquaintances, since they are at last ready to air their ideas, give advice. Put in motion as quickly as possible.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — This is a day when you can accomplish very much labor of fundamental nature as well as rid yourself of much unfinished business, little but important detail. P. M. get in touch with higher up who has much to of'er you.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — You arise feeling very happy and contented. A good day to take exercises, beauty and personality treatments. And in P.M. you will meet someone who proves a valuable adjunct for you in the future.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Your stellar influences are very favorable today. See that you put surroundings in pink of condition for greatest benefits and get other work done quickly, then everyone will respond with alacrity. Tonight, invite guests.

Point Anne

POINT ANNE — Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hull and Carolyn, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Branigan and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stafford attended the hockey match Saturday evening in Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, to see the Hull's son, Robert's play for the Chicago Black Hawks.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Scott and children spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. William Bell.

Mr. and Mrs. Mac Bradshaw and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bradshaw were Friday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bradshaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Akey, Cannilton, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Milton Akey and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cummings, Irma and Beverley, are spending a week end with friends at Denbigh. Mr. Cummings is deer hunting.

The weekly euchre club was held at the home of Mrs. Lucille Lloyd on Tuesday evening. Prize winners were Mrs. Pearl Generous; Mrs. Evo MacKay, consolation, Mrs. Ray Brooks.

After euchre, Mrs. Lloyd served light refreshments and a social time was spent.

P.T.A. MEETING

The regular meeting of St. Anne's P.T.A. was held recently in St. Anne's school, Point Anne, with many parents present.

The president, Mr. J. Finlan, opened the meeting and the secretary, Mrs. M. Roche, read the minutes, followed by Mr. F. Deveau, who gave the treasurer's report.

Mrs. J. Hart was appointed chairlady of a Hallowe'en committee. Mrs. William Smith, Mrs. A. Generous and Mrs. Cegan were appointed to purchase blackout curtains and a projection screen for the school. All was decided to hold a bake sale and card party November 21st.

Following the business meeting a group discussion was introduced by the president, Mr. Finlan, of the program committee, Mrs. Cook. The topic for discussion was the role of parents in stimulating the child's interest in, and desire for, education.

The weekly euchre of L.O.L. 2320 was held in the Cannilton Orange Hall on Wednesday evening with 13 tables in play. Prize winners were: ladies — Mrs. Gordon McPherson; Mr. Angeley; consolation, Mrs. Carol Howard. Men — Harry Tweedy; Jack Andrews, consolation — Mrs. John Beal, playing as a man. Lone hands — Mrs. Percy Akey.

The next euchre will be held Wednesday, November 13, at 8 o'clock.

Stirling

STIRLING — Mrs. Louis Rodgers, Toronto, spent the week-end with relatives in the Stirling area.

Hydro services were disrupted for three hours on the afternoon of November 3rd, in order to carry out essential work. Several folk spent the afternoon elsewhere in the heated public facilities at home.

William Main, Bethel, was recently elected president of the local Boy Scout Association. The secretary — treasurer, Earl McArton and group committee, Harold Barker and R. Cook.

Joe Irish gave a full financial statement for Scouts, Cubs and Rover groups.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Irish and Clinton Baker attended a dinner and son banquet in Norwood. Mr. Irish showed slides of the recent Jamboree in England.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Rose entertained Grand Patriarch E. E. Wonch, North Bay, during his stay in the village.

Miss Carrol Poste attended a fall conference of teachers at Brighton. She was a delegate from the Prince of Wales School in Belleville.

Plan New Talks To End Lengthy Malayan War

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP) — Arrangements are being made for new talks between the Malayan Communists and the independent government aimed at ending the guerrilla war, now in its ninth year, an official spokesman said.

Communist Secretary-General Chin Peng made the approach in a letter to Prime Minister Tengku (Prince) Abdul Rahman. It implied his readiness to accept the government surrender offer.

The announcement said Peng had requested a meeting with Rahman or his representative to discuss the surrender terms more fully.

The prime minister said he is mailing a message from Chin Peng naming the time and place for contact is to be made.

OFFER CHINA TRIP

The Malayan government's latest surrender offer includes the return to the Communists of all Communist guerrillas, including free passages to Red China for all those wishing to leave Malaya.

The latest Red offer comes almost two years after abortive talks in December, 1955. In those talks Chin Peng stressed that the Communists were fighting the British colonial government. He refused to lay down his arms in Malaya.

Since Malaya gained independence Tengku Abdul Rahman has complained that Chin Peng failed to keep his promise.

Officials estimated there still are between 2,000 and 2,500 Communist guerrillas in the Malayan jungle.

Frankford

FRANKFORD ANGLICAN CHURCH BAZAAR AND TEA

FRANKFORD — On Saturday afternoon, Nov. 2, at 2.30 p.m. in Trinity Anglican Church parish hall, Frankford, a lovely tea and bazaar was held under the auspices of the Anglican Church guild. Despite the cloudy skies and steady rain, the tea and bazaar proved to be a most successful and delightful event. The hall was decorated with baskets of flowers.

Mrs. Albert Caskey, president of the C.W.L., received the guests and Mrs. A. Ferguson acted as treasurer.

Those presiding at the silver tea services were Mrs. L. Mac-Wally, president of the C.W.L., Mrs. A. Gilmour of the Anglican Church, Mrs. Percy Hubble of Stockdale Anglican Church, Mrs. Leonard Perry of Tabernacle United Church, Mrs. C. Blair of Batawa United Church and Mrs. Margetson, Zion United church.

The tables were decorated also with gaily-colored tea cloths on which were placed delicious small cookies and cakes and dainty sandwiches. Those in charge of replenishing the tables were Mrs. Cecil Smith and Mrs. B. Foster.

The fancy work table, convened by Mrs. G. Arnott, Mrs. H. McAdam and Miss Dorothy held many various types of articles from large C.W.L. overall types to small organdy party types, crocheted doilies and novelties, embroidered pillow cases and tea towels, pot holders and several knitted items.

The home cooking booth, with its various pies, tarts, cakes, cookies and home made bread and buns, was convened by Mrs. A. Osterhout, Mrs. C. Butcher and Mrs. G. Chapman.

Vancouver Man Has Plans for Space Ship

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver inventor says he has offered the United States government a "revolutionary flying-saucer-type" aircraft that he claims will out-distance Sputniks.

Inventor Alex Johnson said he has already moved "material" by using a fantastically light-weight motor that uses a new power of "energy."

With a full crew, he says, his circular machine will reach a speed of 9,000 miles a minute and will stay in the air 15 days.

"We could be on the moon within a year," he said in an interview.

The United States government is interested, says Mr. Johnson who has a letter signed by General Samuel Anderson, chief of the air research and development board in Washington, offering an interview with Gen. Paul Hey, head of the Los Angeles branch of the board.

Mr. Johnson says he will not offer the new invention to Canada because he cooks whether Ottawa has enough money to put the machine in the air.

He wants $1,000,000 with which he says he can produce a model to prove his claim.

Scoharie

SCOHARIE — Miss Frances Gross, Greenbush, is spending the winter with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Malt Gross and her uncle, George.

Mr. William McGee, Ned and John Leavitt and friends of their camp left on Saturday on their annual hunting trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Wight and family, Wellington, were Sunday guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Taylor.

The Prince Edward County Junior Farmers held their annual church service at Wellington United Church Sunday evening with the president of the Ontario Junior Farmers, David Barrie of Galt, as guest speaker. Mr. Barrie is a talented young man and gave a splendid talk on "Steps Ordered by God." He had recently been Canada's delegate to the World Youth Conference at Beirut, Lebanon.

After the church service everyone gathered in the Sunday school rooms where he showed slides and gave an interesting talk on this trip.

Doughnuts and coffee were served and a fellowship hour enjoyed.

Miss Norma Foster, Mrs. Wm. McGee and Mrs. Ralph Stone attended a chapter meeting at Trenton on Monday night.

The Bellevilla Presbytery YPU skating party was held at Belleville arena on Monday night with a number from Bloomfield Union attending. All report a good time.

Tweed

TWEED — The wide host of friends of Mrs. M. J. Cassidy of Metcalfe street, will regret to know that she has been a patient in the Belleville General Hospital and is at the home of her son, Joseph, and Mrs. Cassidy at Sulphide. All trust she will soon be much better.

Mrs. McAllister, who has spent ten days in Wolfe Island with relatives, is again at the home of her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph LeSage, of North Victoria street.

The Rev. W. K. Pace of Beaverton, was in town on Wednesday and was a caller at many friends' homes.

The annual Boy Scouts Apple Day was carried out with vigor, smiles and beaming faces by the young Scouts on Saturday. The Scout Masters, Chief Walter Higgins and Ken Thompson organized the enterprise, and they state approximately $60.00 was cleared on the tag day and sale of apples. They are pleased with the response by the homes, business places and individuals, and the proceeds will be used chiefly to purchase more Scout equipment.

W. C. Spry has been staying at the home of his daughter for the past few weeks, Mr. and Mrs. Lough, McGowan street.

Visiting recently at the home of Mrs. S. Webb, of McGowan street, was Mrs. Harry Finlay of Jasper, Alberta. She also visited Mr. and Mrs. David Thompson, Thomasburg, but has now returned to her home.

Mrs. T. Blackburn of Thomasburg, visited her daughter, Miss Eva Blackburn at the "Webb" home last weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Champagne, left on Saturday morning for Matawa, Ont., where they spent the weekend with their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Manion, formerly of Tweed. They stated the trip and visit were both most enjoyable.

Mrs. Wallis Moffat, (nee Kathryn Quinn) is employed on the staff at the Electric Appliance Store of Gartha Cassidy.

Mrs. W. C. Spry has returned to Tweed after an enjoyable visit in Vancouver with relatives.

Mrs. C. Lough, a daughter of Mrs. Spry, has recentlyreturned Mrs. Spry, has recently returned from the Belleville General Hospital after undergoing major surgery. She is convalescing at her home and it will be some time before she will be able to resume her usual active duties.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Portugais, of Montreal, spent the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leal, Louisa street, leaving for home on Tuesday. Another week end visitor at the Leal residence was Mr. Sam Bolclue, also of Montreal.

The many friends of Mrs. Fred Mitchell, will regret to know she is a patient in the Toronto General Hospital. She was taken by ambulance on Saturday morning and underwent surgery on Tuesday, November 5th.

Miss Margaret Kerr, who was staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell, is staying temporarily at the home of Mrs. Charles Kerr, on Metcalfe street, as Mr. Mitchell and Miss Emma Wallace (a sister of Mrs. Mitchell) are both in Toronto with Mr. Mitchell's wife.

Thomas Genereaux, of Actinolite was buried on October 28th. He was a half-brother of Mr. Henry Genereaux of town, and whose mother passed away only a few weeks ago in Trenton. The sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved family. The late Mr. Genereaux was only 57 years of age.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. McDonald of Niagara Falls were among the out-of-town people who attended the funeral. Mr. Arthur Genereaux of Capreol was also at his father's funeral, and has now returned to his home.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fobert recently were Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Dewar, of Agincourt who spent the weekend.

At the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Morgan, recently for an enjoyable holiday were Mr. and Mrs. Ken Yarrow Mrs. Yarrow is now on the staff of the Bank of Nova Scotia in Ottawa where they reside.

GALES KILL SEVEN, THREE MEN MISSING

50-Nation Bloc To Oppose Reds British, U.S. Plan

NATO Group Very Critical Of Present Atomic Policy

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

LONDON (AP) — Britain and the United States are reported shaping up plans for banding together about 50 countries in a campaign to block the spread of space-age communism.

Senior diplomats here said Saturday night this proposed new global diplomatic strategy would be charted on a long-range assumption—on the possibility that the Soviet Union could prolong the cold war until the next century.

Britain and the U. S. evidently hope to align like - minded countries under the umbrella of their nuclear power, the informants said, and to win pledges from them that they will co-operate in political, economic and military efforts to beat Russia's sputnik-paced challenge.

In the world girdling hookup, at least four regional defensive alliances are to be linked together. They are the 15-country Atlantic pact, the five - power Baghdad Pact, the eight-country Southeast Asian Treaty Organization and the 31-state Pan-American Alliance.

NO NEW TREATY

But the diplomats insisted there is no intention to set up any formal new, 50 - member treaty spelling out the commitments of the powers. Even the idea of a conference of the 50-odd countries with which the United States has treaties has been rejected.

That is because Washington and London want to avoid any suggestion that they are trying to build up a rival to the United Nations, the informants said.

PARIS (Reuters) — Legislators of the 15 NATO countries meeting here today will debate a scorching criticism of the Atlantic alliance's atomic policy and ground force structure.

The report, circulated here during the weekend, already has developed into a brand of-tags arguments. It was prepared for the six-day annual conference of the NATO parliamentary assembly by the chairman and secretary of the military committee at the conference. They are respectively M. A. Gilson of Belgium and Lt.-Gen. H. M. Calmeyer of The Netherlands.

John Pallett, Progressive Conservative member for Peel, heads a 14-member all - party group representing Canada. The assembly is the Atlantic alliance's chief civilian advisory group.

The report reflects the growing fears of Continental nations that NATO's reliance on atomic weapons may leave western Europe open to conquest by Soviet ground forces.

It says:

1. The NATO defence shield is "already disturbingly weak," and countries may "veer still further away from NATO" unless there is agreement on a common conception of defence.

2. Continental members of NATO "do not feel adequately protected by strategic nuclear weapons, which are not available either to them or to the alliance community."

4. Public opinion in Continental countries may "veer still further away from NATO" unless there is agreement on a common conception of defence.

EXTORTIONISTS REPEAT THREATS AND GET MONEY

Supermarket Manager Delivers $9,200

TORONTO (CP) — Two extortionists Saturday night repeated threats to harm the children of supermarket manager Albert Bachour, and this time got the store receipts they were after.

Bachour received their phone call, then stuffed $9,200 into a shopping bag and delivered it to them two blocks from his store. He said he knew the voices were the same who two weeks ago forced him to bring them from her home to the supermarket to deliver a money-filled shopping bag.

"I didn't hesitate," said Bachour. "They were really fooling and I was more concerned about my children."

In the previous extortion attempt the store manager placed $30,000 in two shopping bags and left a pre-arranged sign as instructed. But the money was not picked up.

MAY HAVE BEEN SCARED

At the time police said the men might have been frightened away by a cruising police car, by the arrival of an armored car to pick up the store's receipts or by the possibility of a trap—a messenger boy had been fooling and Bachour home while the men were still there.

This time the extortionists did not enter the Barbour home, where a grandmother was minding the children, Carol, 7, Dale, 5, and Robin, 20 months, in the absence of their mother.

Instead they cut telephone wires before ringing Bachour with a call to Barbour at the store 15 minutes before the 6 p.m. closing time.

THREATEN CHILDREN

He was told they knew his wife was away and his children would be harmed if he did not co-operate. He was to walk the three blocks within four minutes, carrying the money.

A block from the store a man was waiting; at Barbour's approach he ran down a side street to a car. The auto followed Barbour until he stepped off the curb at the next side street, where it turned sharply in front of him.

One of the men shoved his arm out the car window and grabbed the shopping bag, then they drove off," said Barbour.

3 Young Children Strangled To Death in Toronto Home

TORONTO (CP)—The bodies of three young children were found today hanged in the basement of a house in suburban Leaside, police said.

A fourth child was hanged also but was still alive when found. The survivor, aged six months, was rushed to the Hospital for Sick Children in critical condition.

Dead are Maureen O'Donohue, 4; Eileen, 3, and Kathleen, 2, children of Mrs. Mary O'Donohue, a prominent Toronto lawyer, and his wife, Mrs. Maureen O'Donohue.

The surviving child is Mary Jo O'Donohue, aged six months.

"We believe the children were hanged," said Deputy Inspector Adolphus Payne.

Mrs. O'Donohue, aged about 30, is a former nurse.

Police said Mrs. O'Donohue notified a neighbor of the deaths and the neighbor called police.

Mrs. R. E. Loveland, a neighbor, said she talked to Mrs. O'Donohue after the discovery of the bodies "but she was too distraught to tell me what happened."

Mrs. R. F. Turner, another neighbor, told police she found the four children hanging by ropes from rafters in the basement.

She said she went to the home after receiving a telephone call from Mrs. O'Donohue.

Leaside police questioned the parents later in the presence of the parish priest of St. Anselm's Roman Catholic Church, which the family attended.

ONTARIO LIBERAL LEADER PUTS POST AT STAKE

Party Convention Called for April

OTTAWA (CP) — Provincial Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver is to put his post at stake "so those who feel the policy of the Ontario party needs a change can up" can have their say.

He told the Eastern Ontario Liberal Federation Saturday he will open his post to bids at the annual party convention in Toronto next April 18 and 19.

There will be "no suppression of leadership situation" at the meeting, he said. When questioned, Mr. Oliver said he is ready to orate. He would not say whether he will be a candidate again.

The move followed recent expulsion from the provincial Liberal caucus of Albert Hamilton, member for Kenora, and Arthur Reaume, Essex North. Mr. Oliver had accused them of lack of loyalty.

NO APOLOGIES

In answer to questions by delegates he said he has no apologies to offer. He has acted with the knowledge of all the caucus members.

He said that whoever feel that the policy of the Ontario party needs a lacking-up there will be an opportunity for them to have their say," he said.

The Ontario provincial election in 1905 Liberals elected 11 members to 84 by the Progressive Conservatives. Mr. Oliver first led the party in 1947. In 1952 he resigned to the post after it had been held two years by the Hon. Walter Thompson. He has been in it since.

A man expected to be deeply involved in the Liberal party leadership race in January, Hon. Lester Pearson, addressed the federation, comprising party associations in 13 constituencies.

He said the United Kingdom's offer to set up a free trade area with Canada merits a "very sympathetic consideration." The offer does not mean a return to "silence and consternation" by the Progressive Conservative government.

Liberal trade policy could well be for Canada, he said, to take up, he said. The principle could then be applied in turn to other countries through trade agreements.

Of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's expressed hope that 15 per cent of Canada's imports might be diverted from the United States to the U.K., the former external affairs minister said:

"It would be no assistance to Canada if we interfered with the flow of imports and exports in a way that would do more damage than it would do good."

Find Man Frozen, Fear 3 Comrades Also Perished

2 Kingston Duck Hunters Drown in Opinicon Lake

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gales and blizzards that swept across Ontario during the week-end claimed at least seven lives, with another three men missing on Georgian Bay.

Duck hunters were drowned as fierce winds capsized their boats; pedestrians and car passengers were killed as snow swirled over roads and a fallen powerline electrocuted a man.

Accidents throughout Canada killed 27 persons altogether, a Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Sunday showed. Twenty-one died in traffic mishaps.

Ontario counted 22 dead, Quebec six, British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Nova Scotia two each and New Brunswick one.

Not counted in Ontario's 22 deaths were three duck hunters who drowned Monday in Lake Simcoe. The fourth member of their party was found frozen beside a rock island, where he had apparently crawled after his boat overturned in the gale-driven storm.

DROWNED NEAR KINGSTON

Two other duck hunters were drowned in Opinicon Lake near Kingston when winds upset their boat. Two men were killed near Sudbury when their car was hit by a train during a blinding snow flurry. One man was killed when his plane crashed into the Ottawa River.

Ontario deaths:

Adam Hann, 35, of Simcoe and Adam Breitenbach of Langton, 36, died when their car was hit broadside by a train during a snow storm Saturday at Warren, 25 miles west of Sudbury.

Duck hunters Howard Kelly, 43, Rod Kennedy, 40, both of Kingston, were drowned Saturday when waves 25 miles north of Kingston when heavy winds capsized their boat.

Dragging was begun Sunday after their overturned skiff was found a few hours later by Conservator Chaffey's Locks of the Rideau Canal system.

Ivan Williams, 25, of Toronto, was found frozen to death Sunday on Georgian Bay near Orillia. Williams, missing since Saturday with three fellow duck-hunters, was apparently crushed only the rock after a boat capsized.

George Campbell Young of Elliot Lake was electrocuted by a 22,000-volt powerline he felled in winds at Blind River Saturday. He was found clutching with his hand and clutching the wire.

Syrians Alarmed At Turk Actions, Army Alerted

DAMASCUS (AP)—All Syrian army units in the north were ordered on the alert today in the show of alarm at what an army spokesman called unusually large Turkish troop movements along the border.

Foreign ministry sources said the cabinet held a two-hour meeting about midnight to consider "the motives for the sudden Turkish activities."

The army spokesman said "large-scale, night-long unusual and unprecedented military movements" of Turkish units took place, and as a result all necessary precautions have been taken by Syria.

Foreign ministry sources reported about 300 Turkish vehicles, including tanks, began moving Sunday night toward Turkish villages and border outposts along the border were suddenly plunged out. The sources said the movements were noted at four points in the general area of Bab Al Hawa, northwest of Aleppo.

This show of alarm about the northern frontier, where Syria and the Soviet Union have been accusing Turkey of aggressive gestures, coincided with a huge demonstration here against King Hussein of Jordan.

Moscow Source Says Laika Dead From Poison

LONDON (AP)—A Communist source in Moscow today reported that the Russian dog Laika is dead, the Daily Express Moscow correspondent Guiseppe Boffa as saying that Laika was put to sleep by a strong narcotic contained in the food provided to avoid its suffering prolonged agony."

A spokesman for the Express said: "Laika is dead," although the story did not use those words. It said "Laika will never return to earth."

An early edition of the Rome newspaper quoted what it said was an official Moscow announcement of the dog's death. But the final edition did not mention an official announcement.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Milder weather will extend across the province today with afternoon temperatures rising into the low 40s in southern sections and the mid-30s in northern sections.

Colder air is moving southward again from Hudson Bay and will spread into Northern Ontario by tonight. Its southward progress will be stalled as a disturbance moves eastward from the Prairies bringing cloudy skies and showers to central Ontario Tuesday.

Two Detroit Hunters Missing

DETROIT (AP) — The U.S. coast guard and navy planes today searched for two duck hunters missing since a shore of Lake Erie near the mouth of the Detroit River.

Claude Mix, 37, his son Raymond, 19, of Detroit, left Pointe Aux Peaux, the southwest edge of Lake Erie Saturday afternoon to hunt ducks in the shallow waters.

Coast guard officials said the two were in a 15-foot outboard boat. They were described as stormy in the area.

Operate to Remove 'Stone Child' Conceived by Woman 37 Years Ago

CHICAGO (AP)—Removal of a "stone child" from the abdomen of a woman who said it had remained there 37 years has been reported by a medical team.

Dr. Edward C. Krol, chief of staff at Holy Cross Hospital where the operation was performed, said the petrified fetus "looked like a carved marble statue with all the features plainly visible."

He gave this account of the case Sunday:

The petrified fetus, known medically as a lithopedion, was discovered by x-ray when a 67-year-old woman sought treatment for stomach illness last December. Although the lithopedion and tubal pregnancy were removed successfully the woman died later.

The baby, began forming in the uterine tube instead of the uterine cavity. It developed for 4½ months and then ruptured the tube.

The fetus passed into the abdominal cavity and attached to the omentum or fat pad and was gradually encapsulated by the woman's blood supply. When this supply was cut off, nature began the hardening process.

Dr. Krol said that ordinarily, when a tube ruptures and the embryo passes into the abdomen, an abscess occurs and the mother hemorrhages, sometimes fatally.

He said that the woman collapsed 37 years ago and was semi-conscious for 10 to 12 days.

The woman had one son, now 45, before the stone child developed, but no children since that time.

'Fear, Not Death, That Slays' Memorial Reminds Canadians

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadians, experiencing the first weekend of peace since armistice paused for a moment's silence today to commemorate the dead of world wars and the Korean conflict.

Many, pondering the sacrifices of more than 80,700 Canadian lives in war, were bound to think of the bloody battlefields through space and the mighty rockets that sped them on their way.

In Sunday services throughout Canada men spoke of the price paid for so little security. But in Sudbury, a war memorial was unveiled bearing lines by Britain's author and poet Rudyard Kipling:

"We, giving all, gained all. Neither lament us nor praise. Only in all things exalt it fear not death that slays."

In Toronto, the Rev. Robert Cleo told the congregation gathered for a special Remembrance Day service in St. Michael's Cathedral it is useless to remember those who died in war unless some solution and formula for peace is found and applied to the world.

"The formula for peace is the virtue of justice," said Father Cleo.

And in Brantford, Rev. Dr. G. Dean Jamieson told the Rotary Club remembrance service, that if the West is not prepared to accept at face value communist Russia's claims to be in favor of peace, she must arm for war.

The major memorial service in Toronto was held in the place at 11 a.m. today, the 39th anniversary of the end of the First World War.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, scheduled overseas during service with the 196th battalion in the First World War, will be the first Canadian war veteran prime minister to lay a wreath Tuesday in Remembrance Day services.

At cenotaphs throughout the country similar services were scheduled.

Gen. G. Vanier, the Canadian Legion planned its usual parade to the Cenotaph. And in New Brunswick, Premier Robichaud paid an international aspect with Canadian and United States servicemen joining along the main border.

At Montreal's ceremony today, Mayor-elect Senator Sarto Fournier and representatives of Lieut.-Governor Gaspard Fauteux and the provincial government will be present.

At Quebec City Sunday wreaths were placed at the Cross of Sacrifice in Battlefields Park by Lieutenant-Governor Fauteux, federal, provincial and municipal officials.

Remembrance Day services were held in most churches Sunday with scouts, guides, cubs and brownies parading to some

Manned Rocket Bomber Said Communists' Next Objective

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet science Sunday was reported pointed toward a weapon more terrible than the "terrible" intercontinental ballistic missile—a manned rocket bomber that could glide at fantastic speeds through space and bomb any spot on earth.

The United States was also described as interested in the idea, but not as far behind Russia in missiles work that could lead to such a manned rocket bomber.

This information came from non - government sources who nevertheless are in a position to know much about missiles progress. At least some of it is believed reported as expected to be presented before a congressional investigating committee.

The informants said:

1. The U.S. government has circulated reports since 1959 the Russians can be assumed to have already developed or to be able to attain all U.S. strategic air bases. All forward U.S. bases, such as those in Britain, are now believed faced with intermediate range missiles with effective launching ranges of up to 1,500 miles.

2. The Russians successfully launched their first satellite August. They were in the 4,000-mile range class capable of going farther. The United States also knows of hundreds of firings of missiles with ranges of 1,500 miles or less.

Having gone far on rockets and developed a good anti-aircraft system, it is predicted the Reds will concentrate next on a hypersonic bomber.

A hypersonic bomber was described as a manned vehicle which could reach the same range as an ICBM with less initial velocity, or could go farther if it was given the same velocity. Such a system would about it by using a telephone call from Mr. O'Donohue.

Abandon Hope For 44 Aboard Missing Plane

HONOLULU (AP) — Hope of rescuing any of the 44 persons missing since Friday night on a Pan American Stratocruiser in the Pacific virtually flickered out today.

Three flares reported sighted Sunday night were probably reflections from other search aircraft," a U.S. coast guard spokesman said.

Investigation of the flare reports continued after daybreak as part of a gigantic search operation covering 172,440 square miles of ocean.

But no trace of the missing plane, Romance of the Skies, had been found at daylight today, more than 2½ days after last word from the huge flying clipper.

Will Require 5 Years to Catch Up With Reds Says U.S. Rocket Expert

Editor's Note: Speaking for the first time since the Russians started shooting up satellites, a U.S. missiles expert, director of the controversial operations division of the army's Redstone arsenal, answers questions in the minds of many Americans.

In the opinion of Dr. Wernher von Braun, neither a project like the Manhattan, which developed the A-bomb, nor the release of great sums of money will help much at this slake.

The scientist headed up development of the German V-2 rocket which battered London during the war. In recent years, he has been in charge of army research which has led to the Jupiter-C, designated last week to carry an American satellite into space.

Answering a question as to whether the country's missiles program would help overcome Russia's space lead, Von Braun put in a question and answer article for The Associated Press:

"In the early field . . . we have practically all the facilities that are intelligently used. Our projects are handled by several teams, each of which is in a different intelligently location. Any attempt to dislocate or combine these teams would be necessary, lead to immediate interruption of the work, with resultant delays."

About more money:

"I believe that, by and large, our five key ballistic missile programs (Jupiter, Thor, Polaris, Atlas and Titan) could not be speeded up appreciably by increases in funds . . ."

PORT SEVERN — The frozen body of a Toronto man, missing since Saturday with three others, was found near here Sunday afternoon on Moreau's Rock.

He had apparently crawled out of the water after the 12-foot cabin cruiser craft in which he and his hunting companions were riding, sank in an arm of Georgian Bay Saturday morning.

The man was identified as John David Williams, 25, of Grenview Blvd., Toronto. He was only a few hundred yards away from a cottage on the mainland, in which W. E. Russell lived.

Search continued for James Watson, 33, Centre Rd., Cooksville; David Hunt, about 21, Toronto, and James Charles as Bill. They are believed to have drowned on the night of storm.

Their 12-foot boat was first sighted about 10 a.m. Saturday by Constable Stanley Hall, Dan Miller and Ken Thistle, all of Waubaushene, Barry Petman of MacDiarmid.

The boat was recovered and searched for another small rock island by Thistle and Curl.

Williams' body was found about 3 p.m. Sunday on another small rock between Green Island and the mainland. The dead man's cap was found into the Ottawa River.

Ontario deaths:

Adam Hann, 35, of Simcoe and Adam Breitenbach of Langton, 36, died when their car was hit broadside by a train during a snow storm Saturday at Warren, 25 miles west of Sudbury.

Duck hunters Howard Kelly, 43, Rod Kennedy, 40, both of Kingston, were drowned Saturday when waves 25 miles north of Kingston when heavy winds capsized their boat.

Dragging was begun Sunday after their overturned skiff was found a few hours later by Conservator Chaffey's Locks of the Rideau Canal system.

Ivan Williams, 25, of Toronto, was found frozen to death Sunday on Georgian Bay near Orillia. Williams, missing since Saturday with three fellow duck-hunters, was apparently crushed only the rock after a boat capsized.

George Campbell Young of Elliot Lake was electrocuted by a 22,000-volt powerline he felled in winds at Blind River Saturday. He was found clutching with his hand and clutching the wire.

Flee From Fire

ORILLIA (CP)—A mother and her five children fled in their nightclothes Saturday from a fire which destroyed their log home near here, 10 miles east of here. Mrs. James Coyle and her children — ages 7 months to 7 years — escaped unhurt. Mr. Coyle works at Elliot Lake.

HOSPITAL AGAIN OPEN TO VISITORS

Belleville General Hospital is ready to visitors again after being closed to them for the past couple of weeks since influenza attacked Belleville.

The hospital administrator, Kenneth Reid, this morning said the hospital will entertain regular visiting hours beginning today. He urged only true immediate relatives of patients to visit, since the "flu is still in the city but to a minor degree.

CHIMNEYS TOPPLE AT POLICE STATION

Chimneys on the local police station were toppling today.

But it was all part of a chimney repair program that is currently underway.

Years ago before the days of furnace heating, the police station building had been heated with stoves, each of which apparently required a separate chimney.

Renovations called for the rebuilding of the one chimney used by the furnace and taking down five others no longer in use.

POLICE BLAME BOYS FOR SCHOOL BREAK-IN

Mischievous boys were blamed by police for a break-in at the Queen Alexandra school over the weekend as result of which the home economics room was left a shambles.

The school janitor reported that classroom equipment had been scattered and eggs and baking purposes were smashed over the walls and floor of the room.

J. ERNEST BACKUS

TWEED — The death of J. Ernest Backus, 756 Sherburne Street, Winnipeg, on September 23rd, was a shock to many of his friends in Tweed and vicinity. The late Mr. Backus had suffered from a heart condition for some time, but just prior to his death, had been hospitalized for several weeks. Only a few days after being allowed to return to his home, he was fatally stricken.

Sixty-nine years of age, the late Ernest Backus was born in Hungerford Township. He was pensioned from the Canadian Pacific Railways about four years ago, after a lengthy service. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge and the United Church.

Surviving besides his wife, the former Eula Benny, of Crookston, are a brother, Arthur, of Trenton, and two sisters both residing in Winnipeg.

The funeral took place in Winnipeg with interment there. Mr. J.N. Beech and Mrs. Benny of Crookston, were in Winnipeg visiting Mrs. Backus, while the latter's husband was confined to hospital. Only a few days after their return home, they received word of the death of their son-in-law's death. Mr. Beech plans to continue residing in Winnipeg.

MRS. MARY A. POPE

TWEED — Mrs. Mary A. Pope passed away in Vancouver on Tuesday, October 22nd, after an illness of six weeks.

Mary (Houston) Pope, was a resident of Vancouver for a period of 47 years. She was a native of Tweed, Ontario, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Houston.

She went west in 1900 following her marriage to the late Mr. C. Pope, C.P.R. station agent at Lake Louise, and later at Cochrane, Alberta. Mrs. Pope is survived by six nephews: Frank B. Houston, Toronto; Roy O. Houston, Chicago, Ill.; George H. Houston, Burlingame, California; William A. Macdonald, Ottawa; Gordon H. Macdonald, Vancouver, B.C.; John C. Macdonald, Calgary; and four nieces: Mrs. Helen Switzer, Watertown, N.Y.; Mrs. Clare Gibson, Newark, California; Mrs. Marion Grayston, and Mrs. Cordelia Murray, both of Vancouver.

She was predeceased by four brothers: Jim, John, Alexander and George, and three sisters, Maude, Lena and Helen.

Funeral service was held on Friday, October 25th, at 1 p.m. from the Chapel of the Gardens Funeral Chapel, the Rev. A. H. Cummings of St. Philip's Anglican Church officiating. Interment was in the family plot at Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

Pallbearers were Robert Easterbrook, Junior, Gordon Macdonald, Alexander Macdonald, Grayston, John Russell and Enid Dreger, all of Vancouver, B.C.

DR. R. W. TENNENT

The funeral of the late Dr. R. W. Tennent, was held Saturday afternoon from his residence where service was conducted by Rev. R. D. MacLean of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

The service was quite largely attended by members of the Belleville General Hospital staff.

Dr. Tennent died suddenly at his home Thursday night after returning from a meeting. He had practised medicine in the city since graduating from medical college and was physician at the Ontario School for the Deaf for two decades.

He was also C.N.R. doctor for a number of years.

The late Dr. Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home acted as hosts. Interment was in Belleville Cemetery.

JOSEPH F. BUCKLEY (Read)

Ailing for the past 10 months, Joseph F. Buckley, Read, died Sunday in Kingston General Hospital. He was 70 years of age.

Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William P. Buckley, he was born at Read and had lived in the district all his life where he followed the occupation of farming. He was a member of St. Charles' Church at Read, and also of the Holy Name Society.

He is survived by his wife, the former Stella O'Neill; also four sisters, Mrs. Levi (Margaret) Prime, Black River, N. Y.; Mrs. Edward (Julia) Mahon, Detroit; Mrs. Frank, (Rose) Sills, Belleville; and Miss Bessie Buckley of Belleville, also two brothers, Edward of Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Resting at the family residence; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

HAROLD JOHN GIFFIN

Resident of the city all his life, Harold John Giffin, 237B Albert Street, died suddenly at the Belleville General Hospital on Monday morning. He was in his 42nd year.

Born in Belleville he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Giffin and worked in the city as a postal clerk. He was a veteran of World War II having served with the RCAF and was a member of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' Association.

He is survived by his wife, the former Nancy Leslie Hall, and one daughter Janet, at home.

Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. John (Kathleen) Donovan of Belleville and Mrs. Harry (Marguerite) Boyd of Pembroke.

MRS. JOSEPH G. SIMONDS (Blossom)

Daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John P. Gerow, she was born at Massassaga 92 years ago and had lived in Tyendinaga, on the Picton road before going to live with her daughter three years ago.

A member of Massassaga United Church, she was active in the work of the church when health permitted. Her husband, Joseph G. Simonds, predeceased her some years ago.

Besides her daughter, Mrs. Roblin, she is survived by two other daughters, Mrs. Edgar (Letitia) Adams, Toronto, and Mrs. Ross (Gertrude) Wills, Mount Dennis burg.

City Pays Reverent Tribute To War Dead at Cenotaph

A brilliant November sun shone down on hundreds of paradeskies here today as an impressive parade of veterans of two wars, city officials, clergy and other residents gathered to pay tribute to the city's war dead.

In simple yet impressive ceremony at the Station Street Cenotaph, memory lived again as chasm of years to recall once again those men from farm and factory, office and shop who gave their lives for civilization. Once again the proud notes of bersted veterans some of them greying with the years, others young "old sweats" of the Second World War, as the parade slowly moved from the Bridge Street Armouries to the service rendezvous.

Where a huge crowd stood in reverent silence as the parade formed in square around the cenotaph. At each corner of the monument stood a member of the Belleville Legion standing with heads bowed and arms reversed.

Following the service tangible tribute to the memory of the fallen was paid with the laying of wreaths at the base of the foot of the cenotaph.

Governments, service clubs, military and other organizations paid their floral tribute, the brilliant array of flowers adding tracing against the green of the background.

The service was held under the direction of Captain Calvin Ray Bush, R.C.A.M.C. padre. He was assisted by Canon Major A. S. McConnell, M.B.E., C.D. chaplain to the Legion and Prince Edward Regiment, and the Rev. R. D. MacLean, president of the Belleville Ministerial Association.

There was a reverent hush as the silver notes of a trumpet sounded the Last Post. Then followed the memorial silence and "Reveille"; the National Anthem and prayers.

WREATHS DEPOSITED

The wreath of the Government of Canada was laid by Mr. Lee Erwin, M.P. Mayor Frederick M. Ponton deposited a wreath on behalf of the city of Belleville while the wreath of the County of Hastings was placed by Mrs. Lucetta Stirrett, M.P.P. Mrs. Stirrett was Lieut. Fred Stirland, killed in action with the Stormont-Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders. Mrs. Stirland was escorted by Everett Liddle, secretary of the Belleville Poppy Committee and Roy MacLeod.

The wreath of the Royal Canadian Navy was deposited by Sub-Lieutenant E. Vandervoort and Captain Alex Cunningham laid that of the Canadian Army. Flight Lieutenant W. Olan placed the wreath of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Flight Lt. R. Fairman-'Di commanding officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment placed the wreath for his unit with WO R. K. Smith doing similar honors for the 37 Technical Squadron RCEME.

Then followed service clubs, fraternal societies and other city organizations as well as many individuals.

BRILLIANT COLOR PARTY

War veterans headed by Belleville Branch 201 Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans in Canada along with many units, parties of the regular forces and civilian organizations as well as private individuals marched past the cenotaph.

In colorful vidette were the veterans headed by parade marshal Lee Digby followed and in turn came representatives of the Belleville Ministerial and municipal governments.

The order came the Band of No. 9 Repair Unit RCAF Trenton and a flight of the service, the buglings and drumming of the regimental Band headed by Corporal L. Woods, a detachment of the regiment, under the Technical Squadron RCEME. Then came the Canadian Sea Cadets and their fine band, army cadets, air cadets, the Quinte Pipe Band, the Girl Guides Band and its ladies' auxiliary, the Naval Veterans, the Belleville Municipal and Kinsmen Band, the RCAF Association, Canadian Legion Branch 99 and its ladies' auxiliary, the band of the Salvation Army, Boy Scouts, wreath bearers from organizations and detachments from the city streets and the armouries.

The parade moved from the armouries at 10.30 to Bridge St., to Front to Dundas street and the cenotaph. It followed the route in reverse on its return to the armouries.

War service organizations of the Belleville and Quinte Subdistrance Day observances tonight at the banquets at their respective quarters. Mr. Walter Dinsdale, M.P. will be the guest speaker at the Canadian Legion banquet with Canon Major A. S. McConnell addressing Branch 201 ANAF.

D.L. Storey, Former Mayor Of City, Dies

Former mayor of Belleville and prominent in Masonic circles, Denell Lafroy Storey, 100 Victoria Avenue, died in St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, on Saturday, November 9. Mr. Storey was in his 66th year.

Mr. Storey was well known in business circles here, being sales manager of the Belleville Lock Company for a number of years. He was promoted over the presidency of the company. He was mayor of the city in 1949-50. He retired from active business participation in 1955, due to ill health.

Born in Thamesford, Ontario, the son of Silas Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Storey, Mr. Storey was educated there and in Ingersoll, Ont. He had been connected with the hardware sales business all his life and in 1935 was named sales manager of the Belleville Lock Company.

Prior to moving to Belleville twenty years ago, he resided in Woodstock, Ont.

Mr. Storey was highly esteemed in the many circles in which he moved. He was genial and friendly and respected for his integrity and willingness to assist in many worthy ventures of his adopted city.

He took an interest in municipal government here and was honored with the chair of chief magistrate for two years. He was a member of Bridge Street United Church.

One of his chief interests in life was the welfare and betterment of the lot of crippled children. It was partly due to his interest that he founded the Belleville Shrine Club and acted as its president for a number of years.

In Masonic circles, Mr. Storey was honored by the well known members of the craft in Ontario.

He held many high offices and was rewarded with the honor of being elected Imperial Potentate in 1956, and the premier of Ramses Temple, A.A.N.O.M.S., Toronto.

MASONIC MEMORIAL SERVICE

His Masonic affiliations and honors were many. His mother-lodge was Union Lodge, A.F. and A.M., No.380, London, Ont. He was a charter member of Trenton Lodge No. 666, Belleville, and a life member of Richard Coeur-de-Lion Preceptory, No. 4, London, Ont.

In the Scottish Rite, Mr. Storey was a member of the Lodge of Perfection, Kingston; the Rose Croix, Kingston, and a life member of the Sovereign Consistory, 32nd degree, Hamilton.

He was a member of Cabrie, the Past Potentates' association, and an honorary member of thirty Shrine temples in the United States and Canada. He was a charter member of the Camel Herders of Belleville; a life member of the Ontario Shrine Club Ltd.; a director of Shrine estates of Hamilton temple and of the Royal Order of Jesters, Court No. 83, Toronto.

Mr. Storey served in the First World War and was a member of Branch No. 99, Canadian Legion, of Belleville.

Surviving are his wife, the former Miss Ethel Bowerman, and two sons, Douglas E., of Belleville, and Bruce L. Storey, of Woodstock, Ont.

IN MEMORIAM

JEFFS. — In loving memory of my dear father, Charles James Jeffs, who passed away November 9th, 1955.

The face I love is now laid low.
His loving voice is still.
But memory keeps him near to mine,
And I cherish him still.
I often sit and think of him,
When I'm all alone,
For memory is the only thing
That my dad can call his own.
—Ever remembered by his son Jack and daughter-in-law Ruth.

ASHBURY. — In loving memory of my dear father, Thomas Ashbury, who passed away November 11th, 1952.

Like falling leaves the years pass by
And take our loved ones from our eyes;
In our hearts you are there to stay;
Memories are treasures that never decay.
—Lovingly remembered by wife Jennie and son Ed.

HORN. — In loving memory of my husband, Ernest Horn, who passed away November 11th, 1952.

Sadly missed and ever remembered by wife Kate.

SCRIVEN. — In loving memory of our dear father, Frederick Scriven, who passed away November 11th, 1952.

There is a home not made by hands.
Eternal its glories unfold.
Awaits the one who is now away,
The one who is growing old.
And in that home not made by hands,
The Master will present
A place for us, and when He calls
We'll meet our loved ones there.
Those we love we never lose,
For they live in memory dear.
Always remembered, treasured.
Always in our memory.
—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by wife Helen, June, Lois, Gail and Linda.

TORONTO STOCKS

Industrials had an index-gain of one-half point. Western oils were off one-half point on index while golds and base metals had little change.

The 11 a.m. volume of 330,000 shares was a bit heavier than last Tuesday's 312,000 but lighter than Friday's 584,000 shares.

Biggest price change on the board was a five-point loss to a new low of 40 by Canadian Ingersoll-Rand on a 50-share sale. Trans Mountain lost a point at 25½ and Calgary & Power lost a similar gain at 62.

Home Oil B. and Calgary and Edmonton lost fractions among high-priced western oils. Cree was up 20 cents to $4.25 and Canadian Devonian added 15 cents at $5.30.

SHOT IN CHURCH

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A woman sitting in church was accidentally shot in the head Sunday night. Police said Mrs. Lula Glenn, 56, was critically wounded when Tommie Toombs, 36, discharged a pistol during an argument across the street from the church. The bullet passed through the church's open door. Tophia was booked on suspicion of attempted murder.

Plant Manager Given Gun on Retirement

Canada Cement Company plant manager at Point Anne, Mr. J. H. Legate (second from left), smilingly inspects new automatic shotgun which plant foremen and office workers presented to him at retirement party held in the clubhouse Friday night. Outdoor atmosphere was provided in the clubhouse for the event. Left to right are: Fred Clarke, Mr. J. H. Legate, Earl Anderson, Al Drysdale, plant superintendent, and Fred McDonald, fish and game inspector of Point Anne.

An association of 37 years in the cement manufacturing business was ended last week for Mr. J. H. "Ham" Legate, genial plant manager of the Canada Cement Company No. 5 plant at Point Anne.

The Point Anne club house was turned into a combined hunting camp, duck blind and fishing stream for the event, as plant foremen went all out to provide the proper outdoor atmosphere in honoring a sports loving boss.

Focal point of interest in the simulated hunting camp scene was the canvas tent with the overturned boat in front, with evergreens and an honest to goodness cedar rail fence giving the camp just the right touch of seclusion.

Adding to the effect was the reed and cat tail surrounded fishing hole where later the boys fished for real live fish, and a shooting gallery where all tried their luck at potting the elusive revolving duck.

"This is really something," commented the retiring cement plant manager as he expressed amazement at the preparations for the party. "I never expected anything like this."

BUFFET SUPPER ENJOYED

After a buffet supper enjoyed in the atmosphere of the hunting camp there was a brief program of speech making, following which Mr. Legate was presented with the automatic shotgun. Master of ceremonies was Earl Anderson with Fred Clarke making the presentation on behalf of the plant foremen and office staff.

"I would not trade one minute of my time at Point Anne for many minutes anywhere else," he said.

"Canada Cement is the best company, and No. 5 plant at Point Anne is the best plant," he said, "and you will not deny that you are the best bunch of foremen."

STARTED IN 1920

Mr. Legate's association with Canada Cement at Point Anne dates back to June 3rd, 1920, when directly out of university he went to the Ox Point village as assistant to the plant engineer. He received rapid promotion and on the death of the then superintendent was appointed superintendent, remaining in that position until four years ago when he was made plant manager.

A native of Owen Sound, Ont. Mr. Legate attended high school there and following a year in Normal School taught school for a time in Alberta.

His school teaching days were ended after the first term and he came back to Toronto, where he enrolled at the University of Toronto. Then the outbreak of World War I interrupted his education and in the spring of 1915 he joined the field artillery and served with the 21th Battery of Toronto. He held the rank of sergeant when he was demobilized in 1919.

Following the war he returned to university and received his degree as a civil engineer in 1920.

WATCHED PLANT GROW

During his association with cement manufacturing at Point Anne, Mr. Legate has seen the plant capacity increase threefold and saw the manufacturing technique change from a dry process to the modern wet process.

Back in 1920 there were nine dry kilns at Point Anne with a capacity of about 4,200 barrels of cement per day.

Then the switch was made to the modern wet process and with the installation in 1930, Point Anne had the biggest cement kiln on the North American continent.

Since that time two additional wet kilns have been added, bringing plant capacity to its present 12,000 barrels per day.

Plant technique at the big cement plant has improved in the 37 years which Mr. Legate has been at Point Anne, and, in keeping with the times, also have living conditions.

"Everybody got around by horse and buggy when I first came to Point Anne," Mr. Legate recalled. "In fact there were only two automobiles in the whole village.

The trip to Belleville was made by villagers once a week and then by train. The track which ran from Belleville to Point Anne along the bay shore has long since been taken up.

MADE TRIPS BY TRAIN

It was in the day when transportation by automobile was still not too reliable and to make certain of arrival time, long trips were made by train.

"But soon everyone at Point Anne was driving a car and then the cycle changed with the depression years and nobody had a car."

Now the trend has again changed and once more everyone has a car.

Now with his retirement Mr. Legate's association with the Canada Cement Company will be ended, but the name Legate will still continue with the company.

Three out of four of Mr. Legate's sons have followed in their father's footsteps and are associated with Canada Cement. His oldest son John is assistant superintendent at the Winnipeg plant; another son Douglas is at Woodstock, while a third son Ben is at the Canada Cement plant at Havelock, in N.B. His youngest son Robert is now attending Carleton University in Ottawa, but in this case Mr. Legate feels the chain will be broken.

Although carrying heavy responsibilities of his post as superintendent and in recent years plant manager at Point Anne, Mr. Legate has still found time to offer his talents in municipal and church activities.

ON HOSPITAL BOARD

For many years he had been a member of the Board of Governors at Belleville General Hospital and also is a member of the Children's Aid Society.

He has been an active member of the Belleville Rotary Club, is a member of the Professional Engineers, the Engineering Institute of Canada, the Fish and Game Club, and is a former member of the Board of Management of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, where he and Mrs. Legate are regular attendants.

For the future Mr. and Mrs. Legate hope to continue living in Belleville, but they expect to do considerable travelling.

"We haven't decided exactly, but for a start we will go south for the winter," he said.

Safe-Crackers Foiled in Beer Store Break-in

Would-be safe-crackers were foiled at Marmora over the weekend when prgrnors were unsuccessful in opening the strong-box at the Marmora Brewers retail store.

The safe-crackers drilled a hole into the safe door apparently in preparation to use nitroglycerine in an attempt to blow the strong-box open.

Police, however, said that no nitro had been used, and the attempt was abandoned.

Bar marks were found on the office cash register, but again the thieves failed to get the register open.

Chief Constable Dempsey of Marmora, is investigating the breakin and has called in provincial police to assist.

At Belleville night operators had luck in forcing the safe at the Belleville Metal and Waste Company office, but they had their work for nothing. After prying the door of the safe loose they found the strong-box contained no money.

Police said they believed the breakin was the work of youths or amateurs.

SIX DIE IN PLUNGE

ATHENS (AP) — Six persons were killed and 12 were injured when a bus plunged into the sea from a cliff on the island of Euboea Sunday.

Two People Hurt, Damage $1,600 In 4-Car Crash

Two persons were injured and property damage amounting to nearly $1,600 resulted Saturday evening in a motor accident at the intersection of Bridge and John Streets, involving four autos.

Injured were the drivers of the two cars involved.

Taken to Belleville General Hospital with leg, chest and head injuries was Mrs. Pauline Hutchinson, 36, of 19 Hillside Street, and John Harris, 37, of 527 Tweedsmuir Ave., Ottawa, who suffered cuts to his leg and eye.

Police said that Mr. Harris was westbound on Bridge Street when he turned out to pass another car. His car struck the eastbound vehicle in charge of Mrs. Hutchinson which was stopped awaiting to make a left hand turn. Mrs. Hutchinson's car was pushed back into the side of a third vehicle driven by Leonard Hall, 149 Albert St. while the Harris vehicle swerved to the north and struck a fourth vehicle parked at the curbside.

Damage to the Harris car was about $600, to the Hutchinson vehicle about $550, to the Hall auto about $150 and to the parked car owned by William Doyle, Trenton, about $250.

EISENHOWER'S SPEECH

On Friday the White House reported "a very gratifying response from over the country" to President Eisenhower's speech Thursday evening. From London, Reuters told of "big, confident headlines and enthusiastic comment" in the free world capitals."

It is easy to understand this response, these reactions. It was a simple, forthright speech admirably designed to fit the situation. And yet - -

In another day of crisis, another man made another speech, perhaps not so simple, yet even more forthright. And one cannot help compare that speech of Churchill after Dunkirk with the speech of Eisenhower after Sputnik. Comparing the speeches, one also compares the men.

There was about Churchill an almost happy acceptance of a grim challenge. One almost sensed that, no matter how dire the dangers, he came very near to welcoming them for the very reason that they confronted him with almost insurmountable obstacles and demanded the best of his brains and his determination. Yet, in spite of these dangers, there was an atmosphere of supreme confidence, perhaps not so much because of the facts as in spite of them.

There was little of the happy warrior about Eisenhower. He accepted the challenge but one is almost tempted to say that he faced it without rising to meet it. In one sense this might be interpreted as additional evidence of confidence - - there was about him a quiet assurance which suggested that he was convinced that the challenge not only could be met but would be met, and that without undue strain. It may well be that the facts, many of which are known only to him and a small, select group of his advisors, justify this assurance. But, if so, they came near to stripping Eisenhower of determination the while they clothed him with confidence.

And wisdom of this confidence? Is it justified? The first question which must be answered before that can be judged concerns the quality of the political leadership in the U.S. and here one has only to look at the record to feel uneasiness.

Can one imagine Churchill suddenly discovering that he needed to have all the facts about any phase of Britain's defence preparations?

Looking back, one gets the uncomfortable feeling that one has heard a good man make a good speech, that he meant what he said and means to do what he said he would do - - yet there is lacking that fire, that soiur unreasonableness, if your will, which promotes a certainty that what is sought will be achieved, no matter how high the obstacles, no matter who may strive to thwart the attainment of the goal.

It is strange that a man primarily a soldier should tread so softly as a politician, while a man primarily a politician should have barked commands with such art imperious bearing.

COMBINES PROBE NEEDED HERE

The jukebox firms, if they have an ear to the ground - - and where else would an ear feel comfortable in that business - - must have heard suggestions that they offer patrons of restaurants and other establishments where jukeboxes are installed an opportunity to select freedom of choice.

Despite machines which offer as many as 200 different records, no real freedom of choice is now possible. All that is available is a choice of noises, most of them disagreeable.

This could be corrected if the jukebox operators would substitute for some of the rock 'n roll and calypso and Western moanings a few records with absolutely nothing on them. Then it would be possible to buy silence.

It is a well-known fact that most people who don't dig jive and dislike being all shook up while munching roast beef are old decrepit types with past thirty. It is also a well-known fact that old decrepit types, for some unknown reason, seem to have accumulated more cash than the folks who keep moving in Mineo's direction. Ergo - - the biggest cash market for the jukebox operators is the market for silence - - and if they had any gumption at all they would cash in on it.

The fact that they don't arouses a deep suspicion that they may own shares in the record companies.

Let's find out!

HARD

When a friend is torn with sorrow
And the tears are in his eyes,
Ain't it hard to tell your feelin's,
Ain't it hard to sympathize?

Don't you feel somehow like cryin',
Ain't your heart just bustin' quite
With the words that you would tell him?
But, somehow they don't sound right.

You would like to hug him to you
And just tell him how you feel;
If somehow you could impress him
With the thought your grief was real,

But you stand an' hear him sighin',
An' you merely drop your eyes;
Though you feel for him, my brother,
Ain't it hard to sympathize?

Govt., OSPCA and Packers To Study Humane Slaughter

By George Bryant in the Toronto Star

For those who want the torturing of animals in our slaughterhouses to stop there is news.

The Canadian Council of Canada has officially notified the government it "would welcome the introduction of federal humane slaughter legislation."

A meeting between the council, the OSPCA and the federal departments of justice and agriculture has been set up for this week. But the government was not considering legislation at this session because it was "unlikely the report would be submitted in time."

Well, the report is now at hand. And immediate legislation has the endorsation of the packers and handlers, the Canadas, representing the industry in question, and the OSPCA. Also with the OSPCA it offers to provide "every possible assistance" in drawing up the bill.

* * *

So now it's up to Rt.-Hon. John Diefenbaker's government and, specifically, the federal minister of justice and agriculture.

These two men, Hon. Davis Fulton, minister of justice, and Mr. Harkness, have the power to do away with this barbaric pain and suffering. They can stop the horror.

They can't do away with it immediately. But they can pass the bill, spell out general principles now and set a deadline after which it would take effect.

During the interval between passage and the deadline the slaughtering industry and others could devise methods - and set standards. And the industry concerned, * * *

The legislation might well be based on the general principle outlined by the packers and the OSPCA to the Ontario legislature government:

"No animal being slaughtered for food purposes (except those in ritual slaughter) should be shackled, hoisted, bled, or scalded without having first been rendered unconscious and insensitive to pain in a humane manner."

* * *

This passage of a law based on broad principles has plenty of precedent. And it has the meat packers, the OSPCA and the public behind it.

It also has plenty of other support for the original group of which the humane joint committee is a continuation including the Toronto Humane Society, the Dominion Packers and Processors Association and representatives from the veterinarian, medical and dental board of health and the Canadian Jewish Congress.

The letter from the council and the OSPCA to the government reads in part:

"Because of the considerable public demand for humane slaughter legislation we feel that the matter of legislation only on this question should be made clear.

* * *

"From its beginning, the joint committee of the Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the packing industry has unanimously endorsed the principle of humane slaughter in this form. * * * (remainder quoted)

* * *

"The aim of this committee is to achieve industry - wide adoption of slaughtering practices consistent with this principle.

* * *

"The committee has never questioned the advisability of legislation which would make participation in humane slaughter practices mandatory. We have always felt that such legislation is related to industry-wide adoption.

* * *

"However, before humane slaughter legislation can be effectively put into operation, suitable acceptable standards. The committee is now engaged in study and evaluate methods already in use in Canada and elsewhere and to develop new methods where necessary. The aim is to have in readily acceptable standards and make uniform ment of humane slaughter.

* * *

"So far, the research program ... has come practical problems of humane slaughter. Some problems remain. Through our consultations with industry these problems will be solved.

"The question has never been whether or not humane slaughter legislation would be enacted, but rather, when it could be satisfactorily enforced. The joint committee welcomes the introduction of federal legislation under its legislation and offers to provide every possible assistance."

* * *

It was later explained that the "continuing research and study" was not meant to stand in the way of the legislation, but that it could be continued in the time interval between passage and deadline.

So there it is. It now remains for those of you who are interested to write to your M.P. or write the two ministers concerned. Send your views, if before that meeting this week.

Tell them you want general legislation and you want it now. Before, not after, the next election. It would enable you to meet the problems of the polls a little less perplexed.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 11th., 1937

The County of Hastings land tax sale was held yesterday at the county buildings and also to the amount of $9,000.00 were made. An adjourned sale will be held on December 7th.

The Women's Christian Association has been given a permit by the City Engineer's Office to build a small addition to the hospital at an estimated cost of $1450.00. Mr. William Judge has also been granted a permit to build a house on Albert Street at an estimated cost of $3,000.00.

Armistice Day was observed here today with a parade of veterans from the armouries to the cenotaph led by the Belleville Municipal Band and also accompanied by the Belleville Pipe Band. Also in the parade were civic and fraternal club official and representatives of various city organizations carrying wreaths. The officers and sergeants of the 15th. Battery R.C.F.A. and Argyll Light Infantry (Tank) led by Major Van Steenburgh and Lieut. Col. A. B. Gribbin brought up the rear of the impressive parade. At the cenotaph several thousand people had assembled. The service was in charge of the Rev. A. G. Sinclair of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church. Assisting in the service were also the Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne, the Rev. W. G. Walker, the Rev. J. L. Gean and Adjutant Alderman of the Salvation Army. Archdeacon the Ven. F. G. Scott, C. M. G., D.S.O., padre of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces also assisted in the service. Mrs. J. V. Ross of the city, representing the Provincial Council of Women and members of the sponsoring organization the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada. Archdeacon Scott will be the principal speaker at the veterans' banquet in the armouries this evening. Accommodation for over 500 people will be provided. A large number of veterans from the district will be present.

November 11th., 1927

About seventy five veterans were present at the Armistice Day Celebration which was held in the armouries under the auspices of the sergeants of the Argyll Light Infantry with members of the Canadian Legion as their guests. Sergt. - Major Jack welcomed the guests. Songs were rendered by E. Hyslop, C. Jeffs, W. Knight, W. Edwards, G. Lancaster, D. Batchelor, D. Bradford, W. Airey, George Sacker, W. Jack, Richens, A. Angell and Howes, also a vocal quartet composed of H. Alford, B. Gribbin, R. McQueen, and A. G. Bell. Miss Ethel Skinner gave a violin solo, D. Brown gave a flute solo and A. Agar a banjo solo. Arthur Johnson gave a reading and Lieut. Col. Roscoe Vanderwater gave an interesting address.

40 YEARS AGO

November 11th., 1917

The subscriptions reported for the first day of the Victory Loan Campaign in Belleville are as follows: Belleville $85,900; Sidney township $9,250.00; Marmora Village, Deloro Village, and Marmora township $100,000; Madoc Village and Madoc township $15,000.00; Thurlow township, Maribank and Larkin $7,100.00; Sidney $500.00; Sidney township $500.; Deseronto $850.00; Trenton $1000.00. Total $138,000.00. A clock is being erected on Front Street to keep the citizens informed as to the progress of the campaign. The band salesmen in the city are Mark Sprague, R. J. Ketcheson, W. Freeman Ketcheson, Stephen Thurrows, R. W. Adams, Charles Whalen, L. R. Terwilliger, John A. Kerr, W. A. Woodley and Frank White.

From our file copy at this time in 1897: The Odd Fellows Band will have an open air skating rink on the hospital flat, north east corner of Church Street and Victoria Avenue, this winter. Work was commenced this morning clearing up the fence enclosure and building the skating rooms.

November 11th., 1907

Deer hunters are arriving in town as the season is now over. David Leeo and Ralph Hawes brought in with them two deer and Bob Foy also returned with two deer. The season for hunting closes with this year; the crack of rifles was so great this afternoon it sounded as though a battle were in progress.

Rev. Father M. Pope of Winnipeg, formerly of this city, will preach in St. Michael's church.

The Village of Stirling will vote on local option at the next municipal election.

The copper mine at Eldorado has been sold. We are informed the price paid was $33,000.

"The Dangers of a Great City" was the play presented at the opera house last evening by Marks Bros. and it gave general satisfaction.

Need Dark Dish Towels

Ottawa Journal

According to a news item, more and more Canadian families are becoming kitchen helpers. One of the countryman's inconsequential pollsters reports that 90 per cent of the heads of households now do the dishes while housewife sits on a regular basis. A majority of men prefer to wash and, or, wipe dishes. Some men like to handle both the washing and wiping also operate the stove and polish the kitchen counters.

The countryman, in return for the work he's helpmate does in keeping the farm's account books, does the washing and wiping of the polite members of the family concerting to a man trying to do a woman's work. He has to be better half run a finger around a dish edge after he has washed and wiped it. But he is very little to be said in rebuttal if one's beloved takes a while after she holds it up to the light, and displays dark blotches and stains.

Even the best of dishwashers is going to miss something once in a while. Furthermore, certain utensils take a diabolical delight in getting a man into trouble. Muffin tins, for example, are exceptionally treacherous, and many a man has been betrayed by a bit of egg yolk that wedged itself firmly to a saucer.

Most of a man's dish troubles can be overcome by using a dark blue or dark brown dish towel. One can bear on hard as he dries. While removing surplus moisture he can, at the same time, remove any undiscovered bits of food. All of us are seeking proof of these high-tension, taut days, and men who dry dishes will harvest a deep sense of psychological security if they use a dark colored instead of white dish towel.

Gathering Beechnuts

Windsor Star

Ontario is not widely known as a nut-growing area (nuts are more in the Niagara belt that is). In the clearing of the bush country, the nut-bearing trees went with the others.

In pioneer days there was a plentiful supply of walnuts, hickory nuts, butternuts, beechnuts, chestnuts in some areas; some still can be found on the primitive state. Beechnuts are the most prevalent. The spring of autumn in the air brings them to notice.

They are not the easiest to handle. First the outer covering that holds the nuts together, the two little triangular shaped nuts. Then the hard skins of these nuts are peeled off, the side at a time. It requires patience, but patience is well rewarded. The best way is to shell a handful at once, so they can be eaten a mouthful at a time. Then one can savor their taste to the full. Added to the meal, a cake, they provide a distinctive flavor.

The gathering is simple. Find a fine beech tree and spread a blanket underneath. Then shake the tree. In this way one can gather a bushel or more in no time.

We recall two elderly farmers from the prairies visiting Ontario. They had gone west when young lads, and this was their first trip back in more than 50 years. Their query after reaching the old Ontario homestead was about beechnuts. The memory of the flavor had lingered with them.

How to Stave off Angina

A nitroglycerin tablet placed in the mouth and allowed to dissolve there is the best emergency remedy to stave off or relieve an attack of angina pectoris.

Persons subject to angina pectoris or any similar spells of pain or distress should carry a packet or pocketbook a tightly stoppered vial of nitroglycerin tablets and take one on the slightest threat of such distress.

In any case, only tablets of proved potency should be used. Nitroglycerin (officially called nitroglyceryl trinitrate) is so volatile that tablets steadily lose strength when kept many weeks or months. Therefore it is advisable to test one's supply at least once a month to make sure the tablets are not inert. To test tablets, sit down and take one into the mouth. In the course of a minute or two, if tablets produce some sensation of fullness and throbbing in the head, flushing of the face and increased speed of the pulse. If you get up and walk about right away, there may be some dizziness, but if one tablet produces no such effects in two or three minutes, take a second tablet. If still no effect, throw the tablets away and get a fresh supply.

The physiological explanation for the relief given by nitroglycerin and amyl nitrite (which acts still more briefly) and sodium nitrite (which acts more slowly and for a longer time) is immediate relaxation or dilation of the arterioles that deliver blood to the heart muscle.

This relaxation or dilation of the spasmodically contracted, or narrowed arterioles allows more blood to reach the heart muscle — that is to say, more oxygen.

Inhalation of amyl nitrite (sufficient blood or oxygen reaching the area of distress — is the usual cause of relief.

Now suppose angina strikes you when you have no nitroglycerin or sodium nitrite tablets or amyl nitrite pearls in your pocket. What's the next best emergency relief? Belly breathing!

Use of belly breathing, as I have suggested is as scientific and physiological as use of nitroglycerin.

I have been recommending it for years and I have received a good many reports assuring me that it does just what I say it does.

If any reader of this piece conceives the idea that constant or very frequent use of belly breathing will increase everyday fects in two or three days, I can assure him it doesn't. And I don't advise belly breathing in any circumstances more than three times a day.

TUGS AND THE LINER

A great ocean liner was out in the middle of the Hudson River preparatory to going into dock. I watched with fascination the way the tugs gathered about her. For the first time I realized how helpless and inadequate these beautiful big liners are under certain circumstances. More particularly, it was brought to my mind that the bigger the liner, the more tugs it takes to get her into dock.

Will you permit me to liken this liner to the complex affairs of human life, namely, the highly gifted? I am referring to the highly gifted person in general but particularly to the highly gifted boy or girl who has a very particular responsibility. I shall try to express briefly what I want to say be remarking that just as it takes many tugs to bring a big liner to dock, so you can be sure the more outstanding the the middle of the Hudson River the middle of your are her destiny. If she more is the re.sponsibility laid on you to handle such a child with understanding and love.

This does not mean coddling. Of all the devices Satan has thought up to ruin a life, coddling of an individual in childhood is probably the worst. But what is meant by care and understanding, parmore tugs it takes to get her into dock. ticularly in the handling of a gifted child, is that the minds and souls of human beings are very sensitive during the first twenty years or so and that life is usually made or marred for better or worse during that time.

Get to know that gifted child. Sympathize with that which constitutes his or her particular gift. Great gifts make life commanding. The bigger the liner, the

ONLY AS WE SERVE

Only as we serve are we important. Many look upon others as important only if they have money, or are from a famous family, or are in the public eye, reported by the press.

There are those who think themselves as important. But importance is born, not in the mind but in the heart. It is what we do and not what we think that makes us important.

Only as we serve are we important to ourselves. It is enough to feel that they are doing something that is manifestly worth while. If our work we need have no fear as to our importance or as to our fulness of life.

I have just finished reading a remarkable autobiography by Bernard Baruch. He had the genius to make money, but after he had accumulated more than a million dollars, he came to the conclusion that money was not satisfying. Inspired by the example of his father who was one of the outstanding physicians of his day, Baruch decided to devote the rest of his life to useful service. He is still at it, giving of his money and strength to endless worldwide enterprises for the good of the poor and the great.

He has been President of the United States has sought the advice and counsel of Bernard Baruch, and for half a century he has put both his money, time, and genius to the great problems of humanity and to things that money could not buy. This, he wrote, had given him the satisfaction he sought.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It must be nearly a year since I first noticed the big boy carrying the little boy on his shoulders. Not really on his shoulders, but on the back of the little boy's fellow's legs sticking out very prettier, and the boy's mild-eyed hands gripping the small legs.

Then it must have been six or eight times I saw them gaily passing me on the street — ahead of me in the mornings, and on noon — before it struck me as curious that I never saw the big boy without the little fellow ride-a-cock-horses on his back. Nor ever the little fellow except high and merry up there, his hands clasping around the big boy's forehead, as they galloped along the street. It usually was on the street, and I hailed them.

"What a faithful old charger you are!" I said to the big boy. "What a young fellow a special friend!"

The big boy, who was an overgrown naive or thirteen, had a round, happy face, like Friar Tuck in The Little Flowers of St. Francis.

"My brother," said he proudly, "is a cripple."

"I take him to the nursery school," said the big boy, "on my way to school."

"Ah," I saw, "he's safer up there."

"He can't walk, sir," said the big boy apologetically. "Polio."

So after I had suddenly blessed myself by gripping the big boy's arm, and when they went charging, like Roland who to the dark tower came, down the street, I told Jean this of families and have big sons when they have little

Liberty Was Dearly Bought Veterans Told at Service

"We all must live better lives and prize the more the freedom and liberty we enjoy because they were dearly bought for us" Canon A. S. McConnell, MBE, CD, rector of St. Thomas' Church said in an impressive memorial service on Sunday morning.

Canon McConnell spoke to a large number of veterans of two world wars from the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans and Canadian Legion branches here who paid tribute to fallen comrades in the pre-Remembrance Day observance.

Terming Remembrance Day "a day of retrospect", Canon McConnell spoke of the Canadian memorial at Ypres, St. Julien, Vimy Ridge and others. "There", he said, "are symbols of the death of gallant Canadians. They honor the three services whose members laid down their lives on the altar of citizenship and sacrifice. In their names we carry on."

To many, Canon McConnell said, Remembrance Day is a time for rejoicing and reunion. "But we always must remember that to many it brings sorrow to lonely hearts; it brings back how much they, too, have given for freedom."

"When the time comes to observe Remembrance Day we must be thoughtful, kind, reverent and careful not to probe wounds. We should not make demonstrations that mean nothing."

He recalled standing in Canadian cemeteries in France "midst glory and valor stone upon stone. Then we came upon new cemeteries of another war with names engraved on stone. Pray God their courage will end world wars and bring everlasting peace."

"Their names are engraved at Vimy, in Books of Remembrance, cenotaphs, churches and other places. There will be more as years go by. By remembering them we must see that they live with us. We must live better lives and prize the more the freedom and liberty we enjoy because they were dearly bought for us."

PARADED FROM ARMOURIES

The veterans in berets and medals paraded from the Bridge Street Armouries headed by the Hastings and Prince Edward Regimental Band under the direction of Corporal L. Woods.

The veterans entered the edifice led by the color-party of the ANAF. The colors were deposited for the service. Honor rolls of two wars held a place of prominence covered by the Union Jack and marked with scarlet poppies.

Veterans assisted Canon McConnell with the services. Brigadier J. E. Genet, CBE, MC, CD, read the scripture lesson. Captain Fred Hart read the names of those members of the parish who gave their lives in World War One. Lieut. Bill Wilson read the names of those who said the supreme sacrifice in World War Two.

Lines of commemoration "We will Remember Them" were read by Warrant Officer John Silver, MBE, CD.

A special feature of the service was the organ rendition of Walford Davies' "A Solemn Melody" played by the St. Thomas Church organist, Mr. Robert Bell. It was fitting, Canon McConnell said, since the new organ of the church is the parish war memorial.

"Last Post" and "Reveille" were sounded by Trumpeter Duncan Carmichael of the Hastings and Prince Edward Band.

Concluding the memorial ceremonies, the veterans and congregation stood and sang the hymn "O Valiant Hearts".

After the service the veterans formed up outside the church and marched up Church Street to Victoria Avenue to Front Street to Bridge and the armouries where they were dismissed.

Today both the Canadian Legion, Branch 99 and ANAF veterans joined in the Remembrance Day parade and memorial service at the cenotaph. Both organizations will hold banquets tonight with special speakers.

Seek Shorter Week

BRANTFORD (CP) — The United Autoworkers of America (CLC) hopes to negotiate for a shorter work week and additional unemployment benefits in 1958, George Burt of Windsor, Canadian director of the union, said Saturday.

Mr. Burt told delegates at a two - day education conference that the union also hopes to obtain increased pensions and improved medical and hospital plans.

A Dollar Is Not Nearly Enough, Give Generously

It only takes simple mathematics to prove that $1.00 divided by seven equals about 14 cents. Likewise, it takes only a fleeting glance to realize that seven local agencies won't get very much from the Community Chest if everyone contributes 14 cents.

The population of Belleville is about 22,000. That figure, multiplied by 14 cents equals $3,080 and, divided by seven, equals $440. It's there in cold facts. Seven agencies in this year's Belleville Community Chest must get more than $440 each to operate.

What is the Chest's objective this year? It is the same as in 1956, $35,000.

Belleville has been tagged the "Friendly City", but the strange thing about having a city full of friendly people is that never has the Community Chest reached its objective here, while in other cities of comparable size, the campaign has netted more than its objective.

Next time you go to the bank remember the Boy Scouts, Victorian Order of Nurses, St. John Ambulance, Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, YMCA, Children's Aid Society, and Navy League. They need your wholehearted financial support beginning November 18 and ending November 25. Cash, cheque, first money order, in fact anything that is negotiable in Canadian currency will be accepted by volunteer canvassers.

LUMBER & BUILDING SUPPPLIES

"It Pays To Come To The Country"

THE HOME OF QUALITY LUMBER FOR ONE HUNDRED YEARS.

Inco Research helps Canada grow

In Inco's new matte separation process, the molten matte comes from huge Bessemer converters to the casting and cooling building in 14-ton ladles. There, it is poured into brick-lined cooling moulds and covered with insulated steel hoods. During the cooling period, while the matte solidifies, nature works her magic. At the end of the controlled cooling cycle, the nickel and copper sulphides have each formed into separate crystals.

New method developed for separating nickel and copper in Sudbury ores

The "riddle of the rock"—how to separate nickel and copper when they are both present in the same ore—had plagued mankind for centuries. It confounded early attempts to produce copper from the ores mined near Sudbury, Ontario.

The Orford process of separating nickel and copper helped put the Canadian nickel industry on its feet and served it well for many years.

Recently Inco developed a new and better method of separating the nickel and copper present in the Sudbury ores. After careful study, involving hundreds of laboratory experiments and a long period of pilot plant operation, Inco research found a way to put nature to work solving the "riddle of the rock".

Inco metallurgists discovered how to cool molten matte under carefully controlled conditions so that the copper and nickel sulphides form into independent crystals which can be separated by conventional means.

The new matte separation process is another example of the way Inco research is finding better ways to find, mine, smelt and refine Canada's great store of mineral wealth.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Mrs. R. H. Tanner, President of the Belleville Branch of the International Student Guild, entertained Mrs. Douglas Woods and Mrs. W. R. MacDonald of Toronto, prior to Saturday night's performance of the Ballet.

Mrs. K. Wickens and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Wickens, attended the MacMillan-Healey wedding at Cobourg on Saturday morning.

Wedding

MCLEAN — LABERGE

Pink and white gladioli adorned the altar in St. Carthagh's Church, Tweed, on Saturday, October 12 when a pretty autumn wedding when Mary Catherine LaBerge, daughter of Mrs. Prosper H. LaBerge, of Tweed, and the late Mr. LaBerge, became the bride of Cecil Herbert A. McLean, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nesbert A. McLean, of Madoc, Ontario. Father Columba. The Rev. Father Shannon (Tweed, assisted by Rev. Peter Murphy, officiated in the double-ring ceremony, with Father Shannon celebrating the Nuptial Mass.

Mrs. John Cook, of Tweed, played the organ, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Gerald Eddy of Tweed.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. James LaBerge, of Toronto, wore a floor-length gown of Alencon lace, fashioned with strapless bodice of lace over taffeta, with pleated draping, and tiered lace skirt over taffeta with frilled tulle under-skirts. Her acclaimed veil of tulle illusion was held by a coronet of tiny seed pearls and rhinestones, and she carried a white Bible crested with red garnets mingled with white gladioli and stephanotis, with white satin streamers.

Mrs. Lorne Hall, of Oshawa, only sister of the bride, as matron-of-honor wore a gown of pink over taffeta with matching stole, pink hat, shoes and gloves, and carried white pons with blue lace ribbons.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Carl Hay, of Bracebridge, and the guests were ushered by Mr. Clarence LaBerge, Sr., brother of the bride, and Mr. Don Larkin, of Oshawa, brother-in-law of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Tweedsmuir Hotel, at which time the guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing navy blue taffeta with matching accessories and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. The honeymoon trip was cut short owing to the distance, were unable to attend.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls, and Watertown, N.Y., the bride chose a princess style dress with tiny mandarin collar in ducking blue vocana, with white and black accessories, and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. Mr. and Mrs. McLean are residing in Belleville. Guests were present from Toronto, Scarborough, Oshawa, Bracebridge, Bowmanville, Actinolite and Tweed.

Read Couple Wed 50 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Meagher of Read, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary recently.

A high Mass of Thanksgiving in St. Charles Borromeo church, Read, was sung by Reverend Monsignor P. J. Whelan, Reverend E. W. Callaghan and Reverend Father Sweetman.

In the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Meagher were at home to their friends and neighbors. Presiding over their tea table were Mrs. Lorne Chicken Marsel of 12th century Normandy, in which all three are called, Ray Muller's Spanish dances was pleasing in its accentuated rhythmic pattern.

Three major items were the feature of the evening performance. The capricious Carnaval by Robert Schumann with some of the choreography revived from the Folkine original was coquettishly and provocatively conceived from beginning to end by Grant, but at times the orchestra seemed to lose the underlying essence of the individual short pieces, as in the one originally titled "Pagineri" which forbids the presentation of this tantalizing ballet as

Mr. and Mrs. Nixon Welsh, Picton, Wed for Fifty Years

PICTON — On the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Nixon Welsh were at home to several hundred relatives and friends. As well as callers, a large variety of gifts, cards and telegrams testified to the popularity and the useful lives of one of the town's best known couples. On behalf of the Province, Norris Whitney, MPP, presented a scroll with a congratulatory message. Various organizations in which the couple are active were represented by beautiful gifts and flowers.

Mr. Welsh has been a familiar figure on Main Street for the past 54 years as a jeweller and watch repairer. He has been in business for himself since 1932. He has been actively connected with the sporting life of the town all his 74 years. He was a member of Picton's championship baseball teams back in the thirties. He played for the old Bethel Valley hockey league. Today, he is a member of the Golf and Country Club, bowls twice a week, is a member of Prince Edward Rod and Gun Club. A director of the Chamber of Commerce, he has been the Clerk of the Fleming Hall of Fame competition since its inception.

Both are members of the United Church of Canada and Mrs. Welsh is active in the various organizations. Both are blessed with unusually good health, remaining content to continue to enjoy perfect health.

Mrs. Welsh was formerly Sadie Dunn and they were married in Picton. They spent their honeymoon in Toronto and Mr. Welsh recalled that cars in those days were attracting nearly as much attention as Sputnik is today. Members of their family are Mrs. Arthur Hamblin, and Mrs. Eugene Kearney, of Picton; Cecil Welsh of East Lake; Ralph Welsh of Campbellford; Mrs. Welsh's sisters are Mrs. F. E. Whattam of Bethel and Mrs. E. B. Christie of Picton. Mr. Welsh has a sister, Miss Florence Welsh, of Picton.

Superb Performances of Ballet Company Captivate Audiences

By EUGENE LANG

Again, as in past performances before Belleville audiences, the National Ballet of Canada held a full house in its grip as it showed all those who witnessed its performances here at the Collegiate auditorium on Saturday afternoon and evening. Being of late October, having been presented only about six years ago, this young and very progressive Ballet Company is certainly making a great name for itself in the world of the arts and is gaining in B. in renown in leaps and bounds as each new season gives rise to a new and more expressive with which to delight the thousands who throng back to see it in its ever increasing splendour.

The organization as presented here, consists of approximately 65 members of which 40 are of the Ballet and the remaining 25 the accompanying small symphony orchestra. Many notable performances were turned in by the various dancers in both old favorites of the ballet and new productions of unusual appeal. An outstanding example of the classical ballet was the opening number given it the matinee session, namely the very familiar Act II of Tchaikovsky's "Swan Lake." Right at the very outset practically the entire cast exhibited their near flawlessness in the graceful flow of movement which was delicately unveiled to the lyrical strains of the music. The soft Polish glow of the lighting heightened the effect of poignancy which envelops this scene. The second item of tender precision was the Dance of the Cygnets.

NEW PRODUCTION

"The Willow," set to original chamber music of the American composer Arthur Fotte, was a new production, and should add new laurels to all those participating in it. It was a symphony of movement and wide scope of expression that was so beautifully executed by the youthful sextet, Sylvia Mason, Lois Smith and Patricia Farrell were exceptionally fine in this little opus.

Tchaikovsky's music held the balance of the matinee numbers with "Aurora's Wedding" and "The Sleeping Beauty" delighting those in attendance. Colorful lighting effects combined with exciting music and beautiful costumes made the afternoon slip by too quickly. The Pas de Chance Trio featuring Angela Leigh, Ray Mollerd and Lois Smith, and the Polka Chicken Marsel of 18th century Normandy, in which all three are called, Ray Muller's Spanish dances was pleasing in its accentuated rhythmic pattern.

Three major items were the feature of the evening performance. The capricious Carnaval by Robert Schumann with some of the choreography revived from the Folkine original was coquettishly and provocatively conceived from beginning to end by Grant, but at times the orchestra seemed to lose the underlying essence of the individual short pieces, as in the one originally titled "Pagineri" which forbids the presentation of this tantalizing ballet as

What do they look like? What is the purpose of launching them? she said.

She said she thinks the idea of space travel is a wonderful thing and recalled with a chuckle the first motor car she saw.

Mrs. Kavaner has been at the hospital seven years. Several relatives and friends helped her celebrate with a birthday cake.

Ameliasburg T.A. Holds Meeting

The members of the Ameliasburg Women's Institute held their November meeting Wednesday afternoon at Huff's Island Hall, where they were welcomed by the teacher, Mrs. Hazel Spencer.

Due to the unavoidable absence of the president at the beginning of the meeting, Mrs. Spencer presided. Letters of thanks from Mrs. Bates and Mrs. Redner for cards sent during their illness were read by Reg Fulton.

A committee consisting of John McComb and Don Cairns was appointed to attend a board of South Hastings Circulating Library. The program convener, Mrs. Edna Welsh, outlined the tentative program for the ensuing year.

GUEST SPEAKER

The teachers were privileged to have as their guest speaker Miss Phyllis Moore, primary reading instructress of Peterborough Teachers' College. She was introduced by Mr. A. Cumulin, I.P.S.

Miss Moore gave an informative and interesting address on the primary reading program as it should be taught today, with particular emphasis on a reading readiness program, paying attention to the individual differences of the pupils. The auditory exercises for ear training as a basis for phonics, experience reading, word attack skills, phonic drills and phonic seatwork.

The use of illustrative charts, books, pictures, flannel boards, blackboard sketches made by children, the teachers were shown a wealth of material which is available for their schools.

A question period followed her talk and thanks were extended to her on behalf of the group by Mrs. Spencer.

TEACHERS WELCOMED

Mr. Blakely, president of the Association, welcomed the student teachers from Peterborough Teachers' College who had been teaching in the township during the week. They included Miss Enoch, Miss Keele, Miss Cook and Mr. Boyd.

Several teachers displayed examples of pupils' work done in their classrooms, following which the meeting was adjourned to convene at Young's school in December.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

GAMMA MU

On Tuesday night members of Gamma Mu Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, met at the home of Mrs. W. McCormick, Montgomery Blvd. Guest for the evening was Mrs. L. Sheppard who spoke on the meaning of Beta Sigma Phi.

Mrs. Sheppard stressed that although sorority has three main divisions, business, social and cultural, the organization is not primarily a service club, if this business aspect is stressed too much the enjoyment from the cultural and social aspects is lost. In choosing the subject for her cultural program, each girl should choose a topic about which she knows little or nothing. In this way the knowledge gained from research is far more beneficial.

Mrs. J. McDonald, president, thanked Mrs. C. James, Mrs. D. Boyce and Mrs. V. White for a most successful Hallowe'en party which was planned to entertain the new pledges.

DEEP CRIB PURCHASE

Mrs. B. Bishop, service committee chairman, reported that the purchase of a deep crib had been taken to the paediatric ward. A needy family will be given gifts at Christmas. It was decided to purchase a "deep crib" for the paediatric ward with proceeds from the bridge party in September as this article seems to be most needed by the ward at present.

The cultural program on "prose" was conducted by Mrs. J. McDonald who described prose as being of two kinds, a "utilitarian and imaginative." A history of the progress made in the last few hundred years was given and showed that until the 18th century prose was not remarkably slow. There was little demand for the written word as only a high rank could seldom read or write themselves. Shakespeare was followed from the writings of Francis Bacon, and up to writers of modern times. This showed the contrast in styles.

Mrs. McDonald was thanked by Mrs. McCormick.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. McCormick, and co-hostess, Mrs. R. S. Morphy.

ST. MARGARET'S GUILD

The regular meeting of St. Margaret's Guild, Evening Branch, was held Monday night in the church hall, with Guild president, Mrs. Arthur Watson, presiding.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. A. Parsons.

It was suggested that the members attend the Sunday evening's service as a group. Mr. Page has chosen an interesting subject for his address — "The Marriage Service."

Mrs. William Todd will be Guild representative for the committee to plan and decorate the kitchen and church hall.

The remainder of the evening was spent in social work. Refreshments were served by the members of Mrs. F. Platt's group.

Seven Agencies Need Support to Carry on Work

Ladies, when you go shopping this week, instead of buying a nice plump chicken or tender roast, why not lay that money aside and give to the Community Chest canvasser when he calls on you next week?

This year's Community Chest Campaign in Belleville will be held from November 18 to 22. And remember, it will be a one-night blitz as there was in the past. Volunteer canvassers will take the whole week knocking at every door in the city and will be working industry and business in an attempt to reach the $35,000 target.

Here are the agencies in the Belleville Community Chest: Victorian Order of Nurses, Children's Aid Society, Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, Boy Scouts, YMCA, Navy League and St. John Ambulance.

No doubt you will agree that each of the participants is, indeed, a worthwhile organization. They need your help so that they can carry on with their work. Operating costs of these agencies takes plenty of money. Won't you help them again this year?

St. Michael's PTA Holds Monthly Meet

Following inspection of class rooms and review of students' progress, St. Michael's Parent Teachers association held its monthly meeting in the Academy auditorium on Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Lynch presided.

Reverend Dean Garvin opened the meeting with a prayer. A report was given on membership. Mrs. Gerald Hanley and Mrs. Terry Wheeler would act as group committee chairman of the Cubs and Scouts sponsored by the P. T. A. Others serving on the committee are H. Glanzoy, J. Lapenetre, R. Burke and P. Paquin.

Mr. Lynch and Miss Pauline Lally were delegated to attend the Christopher Leadership course being held in Kingston. The attendance plaque was won by Mrs. James Canty's class.

Two interesting films, "Travelogue on Prince Edward Island" and "Food for Freddie" were shown followed by a social hour. Refreshments were under the convenership of Mrs. John Lee, Mrs. M. O'Connor and Mrs. D.J. Gannon.

BEAUTY

By WIME. QUI VIVE

GIVE LEGS SPECIAL CARE IN COLD WEATHER

Hand cream or lotion should be massaged into legs after every tubbing.

It's amazing how many gals are meticulous about leg and foot care during the summer yet completely ignore this feature of the beauty routine during the winter. We suppose it's because they reason that in bathing suits, shorts and other warm weather habiliments their underwings will be on display for a good part of the time so they're on guard. But vanity shouldn't be the only reason for giving your feet and legs the care they require to keep skin texture soft and velvety.

Cold weather can do dreadful things to the "complexion" of your legs. Skin can become red and roughened, and sometimes flakiness reaches such a stage that the legs actually itch from irritation — particularly if you happen to be the type whose general skin condition is on the dry side. So make it a point this season to keep your legs as lovely looking as they are when exposed beneath a summer sun.

If your legs already show signs of flaky dryness — and even if they don't — get them in shape by rubbing a lanolin lotion or baby oil on them before you get into bath or under shower. It's lubrication they need — and lots of it! While in the tub, use a pumice stone on the feet — especially over the heels — to soften and wear away callouse and other roughened spots. After your bath, dry the legs well. A' simple patting with the towel won't do at this season of the year. Besides, brisk rubbing with a Turkish towel stimulates circulation, and this is also necessary to good leg completion.

The next step is to massage legs well with a good hand cream or lotion. Don't use cold cream since it's too sticky. Massage legs until every bit of cream is absorbed, and fluff with dusting powder. Use even more cream than usual after your weekly "defurring" session.

Nylons are sheerer than ever this season . . . perfectly beautiful, in fact . . . but they won't do a thing for legs that are rough, red and flaky. After all, sheer nylon can't make your skin completely invisible.

GOOD MANNERS

NAME IS INCORRECTLY SPELLED ON CHECK

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a first name which is frequently misspelled. When it is incorrectly written on a check, what am I supposed to do — return it to the person or company asking for a new check with my name spelled correctly? — M.W.

No, this is not necessary, and is a great inconvenience all around. All you need do is to endorse the check exactly as the name is written on it, and then directly below write your name spelled correctly.

WHEN DADDY'S away on an extended business trip, how about a Daily Home Report to keep him in touch? Let the children write or print the bits of news they consider important. If they're too young for that, they'll like to "illustrate" your notes, or make a picture you can interpret as instructed. Let them mail it, if possible.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Miles N. — Our daughter is having an affair.

* * *

Miles N. — I recently made the shocking discovery that my daughter was having an extramarital affair. She has been married ten years and has two lovely children and a fine husband — every reason in the world to be happy.

I tried to reason with her about this thing, but she'll listen to nothing from me. She points out I did the same thing and yells, "Who are you to tell me!" When I explain I regret the things I did, she just shuts her ears.

I feel her mother could have more influence with her than I have. But Stella is so bitter against me for the past that she seems to be trying to take revenge by refusing to do anything about this.

* * *

Stella N. — Frankly it does my heart good to see a man get the rotten end of this kind of deal for a change. Not that I condone what my daughter is doing, but I would sooner see her in the role of the wrongdoer than the victim. Men don't appreciate a good wife anyway. Perhaps our daughter's husband will appreciate her better than mine did me.

I blame Miles for this whole thing. Our daughter learned marital infidelity straight from him. Now he can just try to do something about it!

I haven't even let on to our daughter that I know what is going on. It's really none of our business anyway and we couldn't do anything about it if we tried.

* * *

The Council: In her present state of mind Stella is the last person in the world who ought to talk to her daughter — but we do think she ought to do something about changing her state of mind.

Stella's bitterness is understandable, but she is now wronging herself and her husband by insisting upon perpetuating it. Miles shows that he is ready to establish a new and better relationship with her and she is the wrong doer by refusing to open her heart and her mind to this happy change.

Stella's present desire for revenge is certainly as bad an example for her daughter as Miles' past conduct.

There is no question that it would be difficult to influence the daughter at this stage of her life. Certainly, lecturing and moralizing won't do much good. It is possible, however, this young woman might be affected by seeing her parents happily reconciled. It is now up to Stella to enlarge her horizons enough to make such a reconciliation possible.

Overseas Cookies for Xmas

As Conducted by Mary Moore

This excerpt from a letter struck a responding chord in my heart, for we too have a "dearest loved" overseas to whom cookies are going — but it's a tall order to make some that "reach him tasting as good as when first made".

"Dear Mary Moore: Your column is a "must" . . . I need help . . . hope you won't fail me. My dearest loved grandson is stationed in Korea with the American troops, and will be there until next summer. He loves cookies, and I would like recipes for two or three really delicious kinds that will stand the long trip, and reach him tasting as good as when first baked. If they are to be there before Christmas I know I must send them very soon . . . Mrs. C. G."

I hope I don't fail you, too. Here are three good cookies that will withstand the rigors of mailing.

CANADIAN TRAVELLERS

One and three-quarters cups sifted all-purpose flour, 3/4 teaspoon baking soda, 1 cup shortening (room temperature), 1 1/2 cups brown sugar, well packed, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon each cinnamon, powdered cloves, 1/4 cup sour milk or buttermilk, 2 unbeaten eggs, 1 1/2 cups rolled oats, 1 cup chopped nuts, 1 cup raisins; Sift flour and soda. Measure shortening and next sift ingredients into big bowl. Beat well until thoroughly mixed. Stir in flour mixture, oats, nuts, raisins. Drop teaspoonfuls, 2" apart, on greased cookie sheet. Bake in 375 deg. Fahr. oven for 10 to 15 minutes. Makes 3 1/2 dozen.

NUT CLUSTERS

One-half cup sifted all - purpose flour, 1/4 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup butter or margarine (room temperature), 1/2 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla, 1 1/2 squares (1 1/2 ounces) melted unsweetened chocolate, 3 cups broken walnuts or pecans. Sift together first three ingredients. Mix butter and sugar until creamy. Add egg and vanilla; mix well. Mix in chocolate, then flour mixture. Fold in nuts. Drop by teaspoonfuls, 1" apart, onto greased cookie sheet. Bake in deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes. Makes 2 1/2 dozen.

CRUNCH BROWNIES

Two slightly beaten eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 1/2 cup butter or margarine, 2 squares (2 ounces) unsweetened chocolate, 1/2 cup plus 1 tablespoon sifted all-purpose flour, 1/2 to 1 cup chopped pecans or walnuts. Mix well eggs, sugar, vanilla. Melt butter with chocolate in top of double boiler. Cool slightly; mix with egg mixture. Add flour; mix well. Turn into pan lined with two thicknesses of foil and butter the top one. (Foil will facilitate packing.) Batter should be 1/2-inch deep in pan. Top batter with nuts. Bake in 350 deg. Fahr. oven for 35 to 40 minutes.

PACKING HINTS

1). Brownies should be cut but not separated. Protect with cardboard top and bottom before boxing. 2) Wrap each fragile cookie separately before packing. 3). Add final generous cushioning of waxed paper before closing box to avoid any shifting. 4). Print address (and return) top and bottom.

Women's Activities

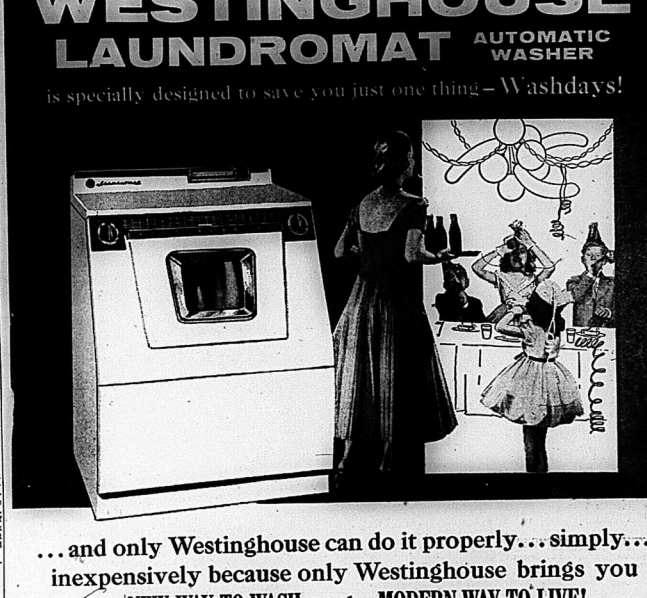
BAPTIST CHURCH M.C.

Victoria Avenue Baptist Church Women's Missionary Circle met recently in the ladies' parlor with Mrs. A. E. Berry in the chair. After a welcome by the president, the usual reports were read and received and the regular business conducted.

Mrs. A. Wells' group arranged the program for the evening with Mrs. C. Campbell conducting the devotional and reading the beautiful story entitled, "The Madonna Window."

Mrs. J. Madill, white cross convener, read thank-you letters from Miss Gaverluck, and Mrs. Sturgess thanked the ladies for hospital supplies, money and a beautiful layette.

Arrangements were made for a supper meeting in December.



Mrs. M. Robson introduced the speaker of the evening, Mrs. Williams, past president of W.M.S. United Church, Camilton and now living in Belleville. Mrs. Williams gave an interesting talk on her experience at the United Church School for leaders held at the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, during the summer.

A pleasant social time followed with refreshments being served.

★ EXCLUSIVE REVOLVING AGITATOR

Anything washable can be washed safely in the Laundromat! That's because this newest washing principle combines thoroughness with gentleness . . . washes every piece all the time, equally well. All the clothes are flushed through hot, sudsy water, lifted, turned and tumbled—50 times a minute—so all the clothes come out uniformly clean. And this proven washing principle gets the most out of today's super-active detergents . . . in a minimum amount of water.

Rinses better, too, because dirty water is drained away from—never through your clean wash as with other "automatics". That's why there are no lint traps or other unnecessary gadgets in a Laundromat. It even cleans itself . . . automatically . . . ready for the next load.

★ WEIGH-TO-SAVE DOOR

Even small loads are economical to wash. Convenient, shelf-like door accurately weighs each size load and indicates the proper amount of water required. You match water and load exactly for each wash.

★ SOAP 'N WATER SAVER

Greater soap and water economy as correct amount of wash and rinse water is measured automatically for the size of the load. You never use more water than you need . . . never too little.

Exclusive "Revolving Agitator Action" saves you as much as 10 gallons of hot water per load over other "automatics" . . . even more over wringer-type washers with the two laundry tubs to fill.

and only Westinghouse has built in all these other time-saving features too!

Says Decision Vindication Of Nickerson

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Lawyer Ray Jenkins of Knoxville who defended Col. John C. Nickerson Jr., at his court martial last July, said Friday night the U.S. Army's go-ahead on the satellite program "is a complete vindication for Col. Nickerson."

"It proves my point," Jenkins said, "that the army is equipped to do what no other branch of the service is equipped to do. They are letting Dr. von Braun do now what he wanted to do in the spring of this year. I think it is due to an impartial and most capable secretary of defence.

"The Jupiter - C has been proven to be a vehicle that could launch a satellite. It was designed and perfected for the express purpose of launching a satellite, and it is the brain child of the von Braun team of German scientists.

"Col. Nickerson, a member of the von Braun team at Redstone Arsenal, Ala., did his utmost many months ago to get the defence department to permit him to launch a satellite with the Jupiter-C, and Secretary Wilson turned a deaf ear."

Subway Train Held up by Freak Flood

During the ordeal underground, visitors could get to the train but the passengers, either because of infirmity or timidity, couldn't get out.

They breakfasted on rolls and coffee brought in to them. For lunch they were brought sandwiches and coffee.

The train stalled at 5 a.m. when a broken water main flooded the Broadway - Seventh Avenue line tracks between 74th and 79th streets. Most of the passengers were going to or returning from work.

The other passengers were led to safety along a catwalk to an emergency exit.

Sisters Spurn Gift of Castle

ARGYLL, Scotland (Reuters)—Four Scottish sisters have spurned their inheritance of a 59-room castle in Scotland and a £20,000 fund to maintain it.

They decided Friday that, even with the maintenance fund, it would be financially impossible to live in Castle Wemyss, Renfreshire.

Their millionaire uncle, Lord Inverclyde, originally left the castle to his eldest niece, Mrs. Anne Allington, 36, on condition she live there for at least 10 years.

She turned down the bequest in favor of the next eldest sister, Mrs. Margaret Dundas, 34.

Mrs. Dundas said Friday on behalf of herself and her other two sisters, Mrs. Heather Douglas, 33, and Mrs. Elizabeth Torre, 30, they decided against the offer because the upkeep of the castle would be too high.

"What will happen now is, I think, entirely up to my uncle's executors," she said.

Black Hawks Surge Into Third Place As Canadiens Take Over Top

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"I have made a few mistakes in my life and this was one of them. I should never have left Belleville in the first place, because I like it; my wife likes it and the people are fine."

That was Bep Guidolin talking — and there was no tongue-in-cheek touch to the statement.

Bep received his release from the Windsor Bulldogs the other day because "I couldn't make the team." There could be a touch of the tongue-in-cheek to that statement.

This corner is not aware of the reasons behind Guidolin breaking loose from the Bulldogs, but we do not hesitate a moment to state there are a lot worse hockey players cavorting in the Western-Northern Ontario Senior "A" League than El Beppe. And if the sorry showing of the Bulldogs to date is an indication, some of them could be wearing Windsor uniforms.

Guidolin was signed by McFarlands manager Drury Denyes the other day after a lengthy heart-to-heart talk Bep did not have to be reminded that he was coming back as a player only. "I am tickled to death to be back in that capacity," he said. "He is my boss now—and what he says goes with me. I am under his orders and will do my best to obey them to the letter."

There was no hesitation on the part of playing coach Hildebrand when he was asked by the management if he would accept Guidolin back in the ranks as a player. He said simply: "I would like to have him. I think he would be an asset to the club."

The rest of the McFarlands practically welcomed Bep back with open arms. After all a lot of them are old friends and they realize his capabilities as a hockey player.

There are some people in this city who do not agree with the management in signing Guidolin. Bep is not perfect. He has his faults. So have his severest critics.

In any event he marked his 1957 debut with the McFarlands in Pembroke Saturday night when he blazed a striking, first-hand shot past the Lumber Kings' goalie for one of the Macs' two goals. He was on familiar ground for assisting him were his old linemates Minnie Menard and Paul Payette.

Speaking of the Pembroke game the folks up thar in Lumberville were mighty tickled with the Macs' spunky, but brand of hockey dished up by both squads. Only six penalties were handed out by the official in charge which denotes that in the main the boys were playing the puck to win.

Despite the loss, their fourth in nine starts, the McFarlands clung to their slim two-point lead at the top of the heap. Cornwall edged Kingston yesterday by a narrow 6-5 score and that kept the second-slot quota at the same level with Kingston, Cornwall and Pembroke on even terms with eight points, while our side has ten.

And in case some "foreigner" condemns the Eastern Ontario senior "A" league as a "homer" circuit, don't argue too strenuously with him. For to date only two clubs have won games on "foreign" ice. Tonight more should have captured their games by the greater majority thus far.

Thanks to a somewhat wacky schedule, the McFarlands, who would have played five games in six nights had not yesterday's game with the Ottawa-Hull Canadiens been postponed on account of no ice in the Quebec arena, have a five-day layoff. They are idle until Friday of this week when they tangle with the Whitby Dunlops in Memorial arena. The teams have split two verdicts thus far, the Macs winning their first game here and bowing 7-6 to the Blairmen in Whitby in the second game.

The Dunlops have won their last three starts and at the moment are in third place in the Eastern League with six points. The Dunlops are renowned as "looking" up" to any club, so Friday night's game, especially since it is against the league-leading Macs, should be a dilletethriller.

This department will be forced to miss this classic since we are scheduled to attend the Ontario Minor Hockey Association annual convention in Toronto where we hope to settle a few personal "grudges" with such guys as Stratford's Chick Appel and others of the arm-swinging ilk. However, Chick is a great respecter of age and "wisdom," so no doubt we'll reach the banks of the Old Moira in one piece.

On the Tracks

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Bold Ruler, the lipped horse everyone said couldn't run for distance, has a strong claim to the three-year-old thoroughbred championship Saturday with victory in the $82,350 Preston Handicap. He roundly whipped his chief rivals for the title—Gallant Man and Round Table.

The Wheatley Stable's horse, ridden by Hedy Carnegie Phipps and trained by Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, took the lead at the start of the 1¼-mile three-horse race and never was headed. Under a strong ride by Eddie Arcaro, Bold Ruler raced to an eight-length lead at the three-quarter pole.

It was there that the crowd of 39,077 in the jammed Garden State Park expected to see the big son of Nasrullah fade.

NOT A QUITTER

But Bold Ruler was not a quitter. His lead was cut to 3½ lengths by Gallant Man with a quarter of a mile to go. Arcaro, who never laid a whip on his mount called on him to meet the challenge and he did, holding his ground as Gallant Man, ridden by Willie Shoemaker, flashed through the stretch in strong pursuit.

Bold Ruler, carrying 122 pounds to 124 for his rivals, sped across the finish line a 3¼-length victor. Gallant Man was second, eight lengths ahead of the fading Round Table, who had his winning streak of 11 straight snapped.

Round Table was the pre-race choice of the track handicapper, while Gallant Man was the pick of the experts and the 3-to-2 favorite of the crowd. But Bold Ruler who ran fourth to Gallant Man's second and Round Table's third in last May's Kentucky Derby fortunately can't read.

Bobby Hull Scores Two Goals In Wins Over Blues, Leafs, Hapless' Bruins Bow to Habs

By MARTY GOODMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Chicago's surging Black Hawks are putting on quite a show for the home fans.

They scored two victories this weekend to move into undisputed possession of third place in the National Hockey League, marking their fourth and fifth wins in seven games at home. One game was tied.

The victories, 5-0 Saturday over New York Rangers and 3-1 Sunday over Toronto Maple Leafs, also gave the home fans Chicago's highest two-game scoring this season.

Montreal Canadiens moved back into sole possession of first place when they defeated Boston Bruins 4-2 Saturday. Previously they had been tied with New York, who were idle Sunday. It was Montreal's ninth win in 12 starts and with two ties gives them 20 points.

TWO GAMES IN HAND

Chicago's victories lifted them out of a tie with Boston and moved them four points behind New York but with a two game in hand.

Bruins bounced back for a 4-2 decision Sunday over Detroit Red Wings to keep them two points ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs. Leafs and Wings tied 3-3 Saturday.

League action resumes Wednesday, when Montreal plays at Toronto and New York hosts Chicago.

Hawks found their firing power well-distributed in the two games and the defence along with goalie Glenn Hall was almost flawless.

FOURTH FOR HALL

Glen Skov, Eric Nesterenko, Ed Litzenberger, Bill Lindsay and Bobby Hull all scored Saturday as Hall scored his fourth shutout of the season number he had in all of last season while with Detroit.

Sunday Chicago's Ron Murphy and Toronto's Ted Sloan swapped goals before Nick Mickoski scored what proved the winner. Hull added a second-period goal for insurance.

Boston's win over Detroit Sunday was their second in 19 games but it marked six straight without a victory for the badly-slumping Wings. Fleming Mackell and Jerry Toppazzini led Bruins with a goal and two assists each. Don McKenney and Bronco Horvath were the other Boston scorers.

Bill Dineen and Don Pulle connected for Detroit.

HOWE SCORES TWICE

Detroit's split in points Saturday with Toronto was strictly a Gordie Howe and Jerry Sawchuk effort. Howe scored two goals and played half the game while Sawchuk was brilliant in stopping 34 leaf shots.

Ted Sloan, Billy Harris and Dick Duff countered Howe to give Toronto a 2-2 lead at the end of two periods. But Forbes Kennedy tied the count in the third and from then on Sawchuk stymied the buzzing Leafs.

Montreal built up an early three-goal lead Saturday, then held off a Boston rally to win. Jean Beliveau, Dickie Moore and Claude Provost all tallied before Toppazzini and Mackell put Bruins back in contention.

Canadiens recovered and Don Marshall's goal midway through the final period added to their Montreal edge. Boston had a two-man advantage for 22 seconds of the last minute of play and yanked goalie Don Simmons but couldn't score.

"Now's the time for somebody to show some real school spirit, Horatio. I'm curious, our only tackling dummy is busted."

Dutchies Take First Game From London

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen today mixed sympathy for quarterback Bob Celeri's broken nose with praise for his playing. The two were key ingredients in Kitchener's 14-8 victory Saturday over London Lords in the first game of their best-of-three Ontario Rugby Football Union senior final.

Lords, first-place finishers in the regular schedule, figured the way to keep Kitchener down was to keep Celeri flat on his back.

It worked fine till the third play when somebody overdid it to the extent of stepping on Celeri's nose.

A WHILE TO UNTRACK

It took Celeri a while to untrack after that, but when he did it was with a vengefulness and he paced Dutchies to two fourth-quarter touchdowns.

Meanwhile London coach Jack Jacobs said he would protest the game because Kitchener used import tackle Roger Seisal. Jacobs says Seisal is ineligible because he played in two league games.

Seisal, who played with Dutchies last season, had been in the United States Army since December and was scheduled to discover's list of 12 imports.

Kitchener opened the scoring in the second quarter when Mike Norcia's field goal attempt from 30 yards went wide and went for a rouge. On the next Kitchener drive Celeri punted 65 yards for another single.

PASSES TO PAYDIRT

In the third quarter London's Dave Dunn and Ed Dearman with a 35-yard pass and Dearman a 20 yards for the touchdown. Don Wright converted. Jim Thompson completed Loudon's scoring when his 20-yard pass to Dearman was converted by Ron Potter.

Kitchener put on a 50 - yard drive near the end of the quarter and Royal Bailey capped it just after the teams switched ends by driving 12 yards for the touchdown.

With the score tied, Celeri's pass flicked off several sets of fingertips in the Lords' endzone to secure the winning touchdown.

ALL WAS QUIET

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—London Township police attended Saturday's Intercollegiate football game between the University of Western Ontario and McGill but reported all was quiet.

The township force had been called in by the university board of governors to help stamp police control drinking by undergraduates.

Members of the student's council were also on the watch but reported no serious incidents.

What's gone wrong with North Bay Trappers?

Riding high at the top of the Ontario Hockey Association-Northern OHA Senior A standings early last week, they slid to third place by Friday and during the weekend have two more beatings—one 11-2 from sixth-place Windsor Bulldogs.

Trappers' other defeat—4-3—came from some old enemies, Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, now recovered from a similar loss of form which hit them when they were in last place.

SIXTH STRAIGHT WIN

Other weekend action saw the current league-leading Soo Greyhounds, move to their sixth successive victory, beating Sudbury Wolves 5-1, while Whitby Dunlops defeated Chatham Maroons 5-2.

In Porcupine Mines League games Abitibi Eskimos defeated Timmins Flyers 9-2 and South Porcupine Panthers beat Kapuskasing Huskies 4-3.

Two goals in the last two minutes of play gave Dutchmen victory over the Trappers.

BUSY THIRD FRAME

Joe Klukay and Lionel Heinrich each scored three for Bulldogs, others counting were George Scholer, with two, Bob Brown, Chester Warchol and Andy Milne. George Gosselin and Bob Barlow scored for North Bay.

Greybounds, leading 3-1 in the first period and scoring unanswered goals in the second and third, handed Sudbury their eighth straight defeat.

DUNNIES IN FORM

The back-in-form Whitby Dunlops never looked back after setting up a 3-1 first period lead against Chatham.

George Samolenko and Harry Sinden spearheaded the Allan's attack with goals apiece, Tom O'Connor doing the other. Chatham scorers were Tom Connelly and Bud Tonight's OHA-NOHA schedule has North Bay at Chatham.

ROMP TO WIN

OTTAWA (CP) — Royal Military College of Kingston romped to an easy 38-13 victory over Carleton University in Ontario Intercollegiate Football Conference game. It was Carleton's last game of the season while RMC have one left to play.

Starry halfback Garry Joled the Cadets with four touchdowns. George Hallas and C. Carr tallied the other Kings' touchdowns.

McFarlands Drop 4-2 Decision To Pembroke But Cling To Top Spot

Kings' 3rd Period Offensive Snatches Win Out of Fire; Guidolin Goal Marks Debut

PEMBROKE (Special) — A hard-driving third-period offensive that netted them three goals enabled the Pembroke Lumber Kings to hand the Belleville McFarlands their fourth defeat here Saturday night. The score was 4-2.

The league-leading McFarlands were up 2-1 going into the final frame of what was one of the best, if not the best senior game played here this season. They led 1-0 at the end of the first chapter.

Then the Kings poured it on. Two minutes later Nobby Clarke scored the winner, his second goal of the night, and midway through the heat Bruce Glesebrecht rammed home the clincher. The Kings outshot the Macs 32-4 in the furious third period.

Despite the loss the Macs still cling to their top-spot position since Cornwall defeated Kingston 7-6 yesterday to force a three-way tie for second place. The Macs are stop with ten points, with Kingston, Cornwall and Pembroke tied for second with eight points each. Whitby has six and the Ottawa Canadiens no points.

The game was regarded as one of the best played on Pembroke ice this season with only six penalties being incurred by the clubs, three going to Farelli of the Kings, the others to Gerry Goyer, Minnie Menard and Guidolin of the Macs.

Nobby Clarke always a scoring pair in the side to a Belleville club again paced his Kings with two goals and an assist. Jack Glesebrecht and brother Bruce accounted for the other two Pembroke goals. Mac Bendell

BEP GUIDOLIN
. . . Marks Debut

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Brothers Glesebrecht—Jack and Bruce—caused an upset in the weekend action in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

Their team, Pembroke Lumber Kings, was down 2-1 at the start of the third period against the league-leading Belleville McFarlands. Then Jack popped in the tying goal and after Nobby Clarke scored his second, Bruce added the clincher.

The win took Limestoners into a second-place tie with Kingston CKLC's—beaten 6-5 by Cornwall Chevies—and Cornwall in the standings.

Moe Benoit and Bep Guidolin shot Belleville into a 2-0 lead against Pembroke before Clarke and the Glesebrecht brothers got down to work.

Ronnie Muir paced Chevies to victory over Kingston, scoring two goals. The others came from Reg Grigg, Joe Lepine, George Aitken and Moe Savard.

No games are scheduled tonight

TEHRAN (AP) — Evgeny Minayev of Russia set a world press, snatch and jerk record, lifting a total of 382.5 kilograms (about 842 pounds), in winning the featherweight division of the world weight-lifting championships Saturday.

Minaev's total also included a world record for a press of 117 kilograms (257.4). He owned the previous record of 115 kilograms

'Newfie' Ignores Requests of Amateur Union

By STAN McCABE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — Confederation is on shaky ground as far as Newfoundland and the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada are concerned, AAU officials indicated Saturday.

Delegates said there are hard and bitter feelings in the Newfoundland branch because their star marathoner George Hiller, who was not considered for a berth on the 1956 Olympic team.

The national body has not been able to get answers to communications sent to Newfoundland.

Secretary E. K. Yost of Winnipeg was instructed to try again to communicate with the branch. If he is not able to do so by Jan. 31, he is to advise it by registered mail that it is in default and may lose a chance to take part in trials for the British Empire Games to be held next year. UNDECIDED ON OFFER

The AAU was unable to reach a final decision during its three-day annual meeting that ended Saturday on an offer of assistance for track and field from an unnamed donor of up to $60,000 or $70,000 a year to help promote track and field for young athletes across the country.

The AAU approved formation of a five-man committee headed by new president Jack Hinted of Hamilton to investigate the question. The committee will see what advertising strings would be attached to the offer and what would be the best type of program to help out.

It will report by Jan. 1.

If arrangement cannot be made with the AAU it will see if the firm would contribute to the Canadian Olympic Fund or the British Empire Games trials to be held in Saskatoon next June. NO CHANGES MADE Several decisions were made regarding the Canadian Juvenile Lacrosse plan, financed by the Canadian Legion. The name of the plan under which athletes attend an annual clinic will be changed at the request of the Legion. Where the next game is decided on it will have to be ratified by the AAU executive.

The Canadian National Exhibition track will be resurrected and the AAU will confirm the survey before any future meets there, to make sure any records set will be valid.

Weekend Stars

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Goalie Glenn Hall of Chicago, who got his fourth shutout in a row Sunday as New York Saturday and allowed only one goal in Chicago's 3-1 victory Sunday over Toronto.

Jerry Toppazzini, who scored a goal and two assists as Boston beat Detroit 4-3 Sunday and another goal Saturday when Montreal defeated Boston 4-2.

Toronto's Ted Sloan, with a goal and an assist in Saturday's game and the only Toronto goal in Sunday's 3-1 loss to Chicago.

Stamps Hold Bombers 13-13, Figure Draw Good as Victory

By AL VICKERY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—"It was almost as good as a win," said tackle Herb Gray after Saskatchewan Roughriders had salvaged something out of Stampeders' 13-13 tie with Winnipeg Blue Bombers Saturday night in the first game of their two-game, total-point Western Interprovincial Football Union semi-final.

"When a club can go into its own park no worse than even, then they're in pretty good shape," Harrawood said outside the dressing room after the game.

Stampeders and Bombers moved to Mewata Stadium at 2 p.m MST today for the second game of the two-game series. They will meet the league champion Edmonton Eskimos in the bowl's three final matches at the home of the triumphant semi-finalist next Saturday. The second game and third if necessary, will be in Edmonton.

Bombers had to come from behind Saturday night to gain a deadlock with Stamps, who were 16-point underdogs. Down 13-4 at the half, Winnipeg scored nine unanswered points in the last 15 minutes.

While Calgary outrushed and outpassed Winnipeg, it was the big 5 Stampeder line which emerged the heroes of the rugged battle before 12,262 fans at Winnipeg Stadium.

But if any individual star was picked, it would have to be end Bryan Engram, who time and again put the rush on Bomber quarterback Kenny Ploen and scored Stamps' first touchdown when he blocked a kick and fell on the ball in the Winnipeg end zone.

Bombers got their lone touchdown in the fourth quarter when Fran Gilchrist took a 15-yard pass in the end zone from Ploen. Ploen also converted. Gerry Shaw added two points on a field goal and two singles and Charlie Shepard booted a single.

Petes Goalie Stars in Win Over Marlbes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Marlboros knew the man in the Peterborough net. It was former teammate Jacques Caron.

It will be a long time before they will forget him, too. For Caron, with a sparkling display, Sunday held the Marlboros to just one goal while his own squad scored three and ended Marlboro five-game winning streak in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Other weekend action saw Hamilton Tiger - Cubs beaten twice—first 7-6 by St. Catharines Teepees then 5-3 by St. Michael's College Majors.

GOALIE LEADS

St. Michael's, after taking a 2-1 lead in the first period against Hamilton, added two goals in the second before adding two unanswered ones in the third.

Mike Dowler, Dave Keon, Tom Micalef, Lou Angotti and Les Kozak were St. Michael's scorers, Pat Baker and Brian Smith counting for Hamilton.

A four-goal comeback in the third period gave St. Catharines victory over Hamilton.

Stan Mikita spearheaded Teepees' attack scoring twice. Bob Gregg, Don Cherry, Jim Murray, Wayne Hillman and Ed Kozak were other scorers. Jim Hamilton, Jim Shropshire, Stewart McNeil, Brian' Smith, Dave Amadio, Dan Blackburn and Murray Oliver had one each.

No games are scheduled for tonight.

Tiger-Cats Nip Ottawa 13-12 In Frank-Merriwell Finish; Argonauts Blank Larks 27-0

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Argonauts may claim full credit for Hamilton Tiger-Cats' first-place finish in the Big Four Football Union this year, that is apart from living down and playing dead whenever the teams met during the regular schedule. It concerns a play Argonauts made while beating Montreal a week ago.

It was a third-down situation with punter Reg Meserve preparing complete to quarterback Gerry Doucette, a play that caught the Als flat-footed. Tiger coach Jim Trimble probably filed it for future reference when he heard of it.

Trimble didn't have to jog his memory Saturday when a third-down situation arose in Ticats' schedule-ending game with the second-place Ottawa Rough Riders. It worked and Tiger-Cats went on to win their 12-13 thriller over the Riders as the clock was ticking off the final minutes of the game.

FIRST BLANKING SINCE 1952

Meanwhile, Argonauts in ex-Montreal in a nothing game at Montreal and won 27-0 for the first time Alouettes have been shut out since 1952. Als were assured of playoff berths and Argonauts, out of the playoffs a long time ago, were playing for next year's contracts.

The real action came on the wind and snow-swept Civic Stadium gridiron at Hamilton when Ticats, booed by a shivering home-town crowd of more than 18,000 earlier in the contest, turned on the cheers with a flurry of a game-winning touchdown in the final seconds of play. It gave them a two point lead two-game total - point league finals and sent Riders into a sudden-death semi-final at home against the Als Wednesday night.

The Hamilton victory have been more appropriate for the seldom-seen play. There were just fourteen points in it, Riders scoring ahead 13-7 and Tiger-Cats were in possession when the game ended.

PUNTER PASSES

Then they got yards to go on third down and Cam Fraser, who trots onto the field for punting duties, took Meserve's position. Rough Riders spread out and played deep. Meserve was back in punter's position and passed to Billy Graham for a 37-yard gain.

Riders, and probably no one in the park, smelled the play. Fraser hadn't thrown a forward all year and Graham is a punter-turn specialist, up this year from Intermediate ranks. Graham was the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union.

The fired-up Tigers got to the three-yard stripe on five line bucks and a short middle pass. Then earlier this year made a fast switch from an American to Canadian rules when he let it be known his parents were born in Canada, were the ones to fumble touchdown in the 14-game schedule. Fraser had kicked a field goal in the second quarter and Steve Oneschuk two field goals in the third quarter for Ticats' points.

48 SECONDS AWAY

The loss was a heart-breaker for Riders who had notions of receiving the bye into the finals. They were about 48 seconds from it on a first-quarter touchdown by Tom Dimitroff, three singles by Ron Quilling, also in the opening 15 minutes, and a field goal by Gary Schrieder in the last quarter.

Riders, however, have some consolation. This is their second straight year in the playoffs after occupying last place in 1956 and 1955.

A victory over Hamilton would have put them in a point tie with Ticats at the top of the standings and they would have received the bye into the finals due to a better for-and-against average in games with Tiger-Cats this season. Now, it's either Riders or Alouettes against Ticats Nov. 16 and Nov. 23 as a prelude to the Nov. 30 Grey Cup final against the western champions.

PLAY AWAY FROM HOME

Coach Trimble indicated Tiger-Cats will exercise their option by playing the first game of the final series from home as Ticats stated whom he thinks will win the semi-final between Ottawa and Montreal Wednesday night at Ottawa.

"We expect to play Ottawa," he said.

Alouettes rested or played insignificantly several of their top performers in the season's finale before 20,000 fans at Montreal. Argonauts were in control throughout and touchdowns by Bobby Kuntz, Dick Shatto and Bart Moll, with two field goals and three converts by The Kristaponis, accounted for the scoring points

Western Wins College Title; Gaels Beaten

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Western gathered in its seventh championship in 13 years Saturday as it defeated Intercollegiate Football Union season ended.

Western Mustangs beat McGill Redmen 14-7 in the mud at London, closing out the six-game schedule. Toronto, in the Mimico Each won three and lost three. For Queen's, it was a chance to rage against defeat. The defending champions failed to win a game. Western's undefeated string was the first in the last 10 years.

START WITH FUMBLE

Art Turner's 25-yard single in the first quarter started Western off to victory and Ellis Hall's one-yard plunge in the second was good for a touchdown. Willie Lawrence converted.

McGill, with a chance to force a league playoff if it won, perked up in the second half but the wind bit its passing attack hard and single Eddie Day to Andy Andrusiw was its sole point.

Two single by Jocko Thompson at Toronto gave Queen's a 2-0 lead going into the third quarter but Toronto spread back with a one-man performance by Halfback Pete Kish.

Dave Cresswell scored the first Toronto major in the third quarter and Kish passed to Stan Selby for the convert. Mack added a field goal in the fourth quarter, plus the last touchdown and kicked the convert.

NORWAY BLANKED

BUDAPEST (Reuters) — Hungary defeated Norway 5-0 in a World Cup soccer game Saturday. In another cup game at Belgrade, Yugoslavia defeated Greece 4-1.

Browns Crush Steelers 24-0; Giants Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

NEW YORK (CP)—Cleveland Browns dealt a crushing blow to Pittsburgh Steelers' hopes for the National Football League eastern conference leadership Sunday, crushing them 24-0.

Cleveland remains on top of the eastern conference with six wins and one tie. Pittsburgh has now only a chance to tie for the leadership in third place.

The defending champion New York Giants held on to second place in the eastern conference, defeating Chicago Cardinals 27-14.

TRIP LEADERS

Detroit Lions and Detroit Lions kept the race tight by winning their respective games to tie for second place, two points behind San Francisco.

Cleveland's Washington Reskins 21-17 on a touchdown by quarterback Johnny Unitas with 50 seconds to play, and Lions defeated Philadelphia Eagles 27-14.

TAKE TEAM TITLE

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Roger Claremont of Ontario Agricultural College was the senior 3-man tercollegiate individual barrier championship Saturday as he paced his school to the team title at a meet held at the University of Western Ontario.

The Aggies defeated the University of Toronto by one point. Bob Hudson of the University of Toronto won the intermediate championship. The University of Toronto won the intermediate team title, followed by Western and OAC.

Bisons Blank Cleveland 3-0

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Veteran goalie Harry Lumley of Buffalo Bisons turned back the Cleveland Barons to blanking his old form against Cleveland Barons Sunday night.

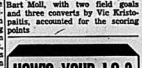
As Buffalo moved into a fourth-place tie with Cleveland in the American Hockey League.

In other games, league-leading Hershey Bears stopped the Providence and Rochester played to a 3-3 standoff.



Harry Wilson, Wally Hergesheimer and Dick Gamble made Lumley's task easier by netting three goals.

Springfield and Hershey scored all their goals in the first two periods. Tony Iasbella, Doug Hillman, Gerry Ehrlich and Orval Tessier scored for Springfield while Arnie Kullman, Len Haley, Willie Marshall and Dunc Fisher hit for Hershey.

At Providence, Marcel Paille made his debut in the nets for the 31-in job with New York of the NHL and turned aside 49 Rochester shots. Ed Shack and Paul Lavivee were the Providence marksmen and Tony Wiel and Earl Baltour replied for Rochester.

Michigan State battered Notre Dame 44-6 in a non-league game 31S UPSET

The biggest upset was William and Mary's 7-6 win over North Carolina State, ranked No. 10 team in the U.S. William and Mary, loser of five of seven starts, came from behind with a fourth-quarter touchdown to win.

Another upset was the Navy-Duke 6-6 tie. Navy had been favored and was ranked seventh in Monday as the class of the East.

In the Pacific Coast Conference, Oregon lost a chance to clinch the Rose Bowl assignment by dropping a 13-6 decision to Washington. Stanford, which licked Southern California 25-7, is in a position to get the bid, too.

In the Ivy League, Princeton whipped Harvard 29-20 with two touchdowns in final quarter and Dartmouth stopped Columbia 7-0.

BAGS ONLY DEER

Archers Allowed to Hunt Deer in Shilo Forest Reserve

By BOB TRIMBEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — Fifty modern Robin Hoods legally hunted the Queen's deer on a Manitoba forest reserve for one week in mid-October, but unfamiliar territory and nippy weather almost blanked their efforts.

For the first time in the province's history a special archery season was held and archers were allowed to hunt deer in the Spruce Woods Forest Reserve, near Shilo, Man., 110 miles west of here.

Mr. McQuade said: "In results you can't say the hunt was successful, but we've got our foot in the door for an archery hunting season and that's the main thing."

The present Canadian open and target flight champion gave two reasons why more archers didn't get their deer. They were unfamiliar with the woods and nippy weather resulted in alert deer-to-be and cold hands for the hunters.

The special season was granted by the province on an experimental basis following a request from the Manitoba Federation of Game and Fish Associations. The Winnipeg Archery Club is a member.

A government spokesman said no decision has yet been made whether the season will be held each year.

"We still are a little doubtful if arrows can make an effective kill," he said. "Archery enthusiasts say arrows are more effective than guns and safer and we set up the experiment to give them an opportunity to prove the point."

RULES FOR ARCHERS

The government stipulated that all archers had to wear red or white suits, having long bows requiring not less than 45 pounds draw weight at a 28-inch draw and arrows marked with the owner's name and with heads no less than seven-eighths of an inch in width. Barbed, explosive or poison arrowheads were not allowed.

Game officials said any archer not getting his kill during the week could use the licence to hunt with bow or gun during the regular season, Nov. 15-30. Either male or female deer were hunted, as long as they were more than one year old.

The special season was sought because hunting with a bow and arrow would be impossible if deer were frightened by gunshot and the lateness of the season would make it too cold on hands to hold a bow steady.

To kill a deer with a bow an archer must be within 75 yards of the animal and must try to get within 40 yards. An arrow fired from the prescribed bow is powerful enough to cut through three inches of bone.

McQuade said, "the only difference in hunting with a bow and arrow instead of a gun is that a gun can knock a deer over."

"However, the V-head arrow cuts a slit and the animal bleeds to death within a minute if not killed outright. A bullet may enter the animal and the muscles close over the hole allowing a wounded animal to escape."

In Canada there are about 850 registered archers, 150 of them in Manitoba. Saskatchewan, Alberta and northwestern Ontario have established archery seasons.

WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT CHEWING GUM

AT THE McCARTHY — A scene from "Hell Drivers" featuring Stanley Baker and Peggy Cummins opening today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. 2nd. action hit is "The Weapon" featuring Steve Cochran and Lizabeth Scott.

AT THE BELLE — Turbulent times face Stewart Granger and Rhonda Fleming as Stewart Granger returns to his ranch home to find that his reputation as a gunfighter and card cheat has preceded him. The scene is from "Gun Glory" exciting new MGM outdoor action drama, in color and CinemaScope, co-starring Chill Wills, playing tonight and Tuesday, with a funny MGM cartoon comedy and variety.

Albion Wins Over Villa 3-2

LONDON (Reuters)—An "explosive" goal by Ronnie Allen gave West Bromwich Albion a 3-2 victory over Aston Villa Saturday and pulled the team closer to the top of the English Soccer League's First Division.

The ball exploded under the force of Allen's penalty kick in the second half after crashing into the Aston Villa goal for the deciding marker. The victory pulled Albion to within two points of the league - leading Wolverhampton Wanderers, held to a 1-1 tie at Portsmouth.

Luton Town pulled into a three-way tie for third place by downing Chelsea 3-1. Manchester United, league champions for the last two years, continued to have trouble and was held to a 1-1 tie by Preston North End. The teams are tied with Luton Town, six points off the pace of league-leading Wolverhampton.

IN FIRST-PLACE TIE

Liverpool moved into a tie for the lead in the Second Division with a convincing 4-0 victory over Notts County. Blackburn, alone at the top last week, was held to a 0-0 draw at Bristol City.

In the Third Division South, Norwich retained a one - point lead by playing to a 1-1 tie with second-place Swindon Town.

Quebec Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicoutimi Sagueneen, beginning to show their heels in the Quebec Hockey League, shut out Quebec 4-0 Sunday while Trois - Rivieres Lions downed Montreal Royals 4-3 in a fast battle.

Sagueneens collected their second win against three losses and a tie to bring their total points to 18. Aces and the idle Shawinigan Falls Cataracts have identical records of six wins, six losses, one tie and 13 points.

Last-place Trois-Rivieres now has 10 points, one less than Quebec Royals, fourth-place team in the five-team loop.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was taking a Saturday walk with pop, and we started to go past the little stationerry candy store, and I said, I'll never buy anything in there again.

Shh, not so loud, the man may be listening, pop said, and I said, I hope he is, he's a big cheater. He told me his courballs were 8 for 5 cents, and when I got home there was only 7 in the bag. It's the last time he'll see me in his store, or any of my freinds if I can help it, I said.

Yez gods, that will practically put the poor chap out of bizzness, pop said. If you had gone back, no doubt he would of rectified the mistake, he said, and I bet you did, not him. He would of claimed I ate the 8th one so I could get the 8th one free. He did it on purpose, and if you ever saw his frown face you'd realize it, I said. Then we'll have the law on the swindler, pop said. We'll take him to court, and the judge will give one look at his face and award you the missing courball. Still on the other hand the judge may decide his apparently meen face is only a case of misplaced wrinkles and then you'll have to pay the judge dammages for waiting his time, he said.

Oh heck, maybe he did actually accidently make a mistake, I said. But if he ever accidently makes the opposite mistake and gives me 9 instead of 8, I'll keep the exter one according" to law? I said, and pop said, Well, I guess so, at least according to moral law.

Being a good enough kind for me.

Hockey's Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Les Freres Richard continued to keep the National Hockey League scoring leadership a family affair this weekend. Maurice, the Rocket, picked up an assist and Henri, his kid brother, collected a goal as Montreal Canadiens downed Boston Bruins 4-2 Saturday.

The leaders:

ALLOWANCES TOPS

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — A special commission reported Saturday the largest single source of income on Newfoundland's south shore is government allowances. The south shore commission, headed by Fisheries Minister John Cheeseman, found total earnings from the inshore fishery were $922,000 a year. With the deep-sea fishery included the returns were less than $1,300,000. Family allowances bring in $1,161,000.

SPORT IN BRIEF

CANCEL GAME

HULL, Que. (CP)—A scheduled encounter between Ottawa-Hull Canadiens and Belleville McFarlands of the eastern section of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series was cancelled Sunday.

It was the third home-game cancellation by Canadiens, whose home ice is not yet ready. They will play their first game in the new Hull Arena next Sunday against Pembroke Lumber Kings. They expect to make up the cancelled games before Christmas with mid-week games.

Astrological Forecast

For Tuesday, Nov. 12, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — While you can get ahead in many ways now, it would be wise to check and re-check before acting. Be sure you are not misled, or that you don't overlook essentials.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — As with Aries, your influences indicate a need for reviewing errors, even minor action. Safety measures can prevent foolish errors. "A stitch in time"... you know. You can make good headway, however.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Don't press too hard for achievement. Rather, go along in a smooth and genial manner and results will come in. Inner tension hampers attainment.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Now all things in their proper perspective you may be able to give due time to vital manners. Eliminate waste motion and secrets, and work steadily.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — You may have many offerings to consider now, but all may not be worthwhile. Look below the surface, and be careful in your choices.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Don't waste time on unessential now. Take care of the "musts" and let other matters go for the time being. Avoid hurry, tension.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — You may have to look twice before you recognize true values, so take sufficient time before making decisions. Enjoy free time intelligently; relax, too.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Avoid strain, haste, quick decisions. However, don't wait too long before making necessary changes or alternations, or you could lose out.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Trying to be spectacular won't be as effective as being efficient and steady. Those who are sensible will think first, and well, before proceeding.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — A triumph of your imagination may be realized now or soon. Consolidate gains where possible.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Some puzzling situations may arise. Watch your moods, the way you approach things. You may be needlessly misunderstood, which can upset the best of plans.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — While you can probably go through this day without a hitch, you may have to consider some matters carefully — and you should. Investigate where necessary. Time saved now will be a great asset later.

You born today have great energy and personal magnetism; also an artist temperament coupled with a practical sense. You can make a go of any undertaking to which you give your wholehearted support, but be careful not to be inveigled into unwise pursuits. Naturally fair-minded, you would make an excellent judge, business or industrial leader. Don't devote your free time to activities which are too energetic or you will delete resources. Birthdate of: Joe Hopkinson, author "Hail Columbia."

ACTRESS FILES SUIT

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A $150,200 damage suit has been filed by actress Signa Hasso over the traffic death of her son, Henry, 22, killed last January. The suit, filed Thursday, named Louis Keith Wills, the driver, and Thomas Brasta, owner of the car in which the actress' son was riding. The car slammed into a power pole in suburban Sun Valley.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was thinking to herself, and she said to pop, There's one thing Bertha, I'm sure glad I bore to be an actress.

You were born, my dear, that's what pop told me, pop said, and ma said, Thank you, William, but what I meen it, even when I was a child and tried to recite some little poem in the presence of visitors, I always broke down in uncontrollable giggels at the 3rd word of the first line.

It must of been a cute site, pop said, and ma said, As a matter of fact it was very embarrassing both to myself and my parents, and probably to the visitors.

I'll bet you were pritty, though, pop said, and ma said, And then later in high school, when my term came to recite in elocution class, my mind went as blank as the blanket paper and I just stood there with my face a speechless red. The point is, some people are natural actresses to the manner born, but I frankly realize I'm not numbered among them.

MISSING TV ENJOYMENT?

Speedy Fix

Over a period of time, any TV set goes down with performance. Then, like a slow leak in your car tire, you don't notice the gradual ease to go unnoticed. But the quality of reception may be only ½ as good as when you first set home.

WE'LL BRING BACK PEAK PERFORMANCE TO YOUR TELEVISION

Don't suspect your TV reception is not as good as it should be. Call us and we'll check over. You'll be amazed at the difference in performance after we've gone over it carefully, and the cost is small compared to the extra enjoyment you'll get from your television this winter.

You'll get satisfaction with an ANTENNA ROTOR

We're experts at installation!

All work guaranteed by factory-trained, technical school graduates in RADIO, ELECTRIC and WASHER service and TV ANTENNA MOUNTING AND INSTALLATION.

GALES

TWO DIE, FIVE HURT

Jacques Trottier, 27, of Montreal and Emile Jolicoeur of St. Martin, Que., were killed instantly in a two-car crash 11 miles east of Cornwall. Five others in the two Cornwall men who were in the other car, James Michaud, 24, Maurice Legris, 23, Jean Francis, 21, Walter Phillips, 20, and Larry Lockery, 19. None was in critical condition.

Hugh Clark, 23, and Lloyd Ewing, 36, of Township, Police said they believed he was hit by a car that failed to stop.

At Bramalea, Ont., Toronto, Carl McDowell, 23, of Claremont died of suffocation. Gerry Green dug gunned face down beneath his car after it collided with a truck on the Toronto-Hamilton highway driver Wilbur Ringham of Markham suffered severe head cuts.

BOY IS DROWNED

Thirteen-year-old George Manley was drowned Sunday when he slipped on a rock and fell into the Hydro canal between Chippawa on the Niagara River and a powerhouse at Queenston.

Two young companions said they were fishing from a boat when home from a hike when George fell into the canal.

William Peterson, 69, of Emeryville was killed Saturday night when his car struck a bridge in collision with a car at Harrow.

SMOKER FELL ASLEEP

Robert Fee, 55-year-old Port Dover fisherman, suffocated in a fire in his kitchen after he fell asleep in a chair while still ently while smoking.

Arthur Hodgkinson, 60, of Bursgeville died Sunday of injuries suffered the day before in a two-car crash on Highway 401 near Woodstock. John Schell, 19, of Woodstock, driver of the other car, was treated at Woodstock Hospital and released.

Alfred J. Croucher, a 61-year-old-CNR trackman, was killed Saturday night when hit by a train in the St. Clair River tunnel connecting Sarnia and Port Huron, Mich.

16ND TORONTO VICTIM

Francis Wilson, 58, died Saturday night of injuries suffered the night before when a car hit him near his home in Toronto.

William Mclachlan, 56, of Toronto was killed Sunday when his truck was in collision with a car on Highway 12. His wife Jane, 53, was severely injured. Minor injuries were suffered by the family in the truck, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Newman and Sheffville, Gail, 6, and Allan 2.

Peter Vanderlugt, 34, of Saltfleet Township was killed when his panel truck was hit by a train in Hamilton. Passenger Herman Koenen, 31, was slightly injured.

Laurent Bolduc, 25, of Hawkesbury was drowned in the Ottawa River near Greece Point, midway between Ottawa and Montreal, when his private plane crashed after hitting power lines.

Quebec provincial police said Bolduc and companion Jacques Belisle, 27, also of Hawkesbury, survived the crash but Bolduc was drowned trying to swim to shore.

WILL REQUIRE

"This statement does not apply to many badly neglected fields where we are doing missile and satellite programs. First and foremost, there is a crying need for more money for basic and applied research in these areas.

"Secondly, while adequate funds are available for the clearly defined missile weapons systems, there is never enough to 'advance the art.' A typical example is that we don't have a real powerful rocket engine today simply because none of our present crash missile programs needs it. But in order to beat the Russians in the race for outer space we absolutely need it—and the development of such an engine requires several years."

Dr. von Braun made it clear that if the U.S. is to overtake Russia in the satellite and missile fields, there are several things which must be done:

Put more in the ballistic missile field the United States, about two years ago, embarked into an all-out program to develop what would be difficult to substantially accelerate beyond its present pace. Research and study on a well-planned, long range national program which would then make maximum use of rocket hardware (propulsion systems, guidance systems and airframes) emerging from our ballistic missile programs.

"This program must be backed up by a firm budget which permits steady prosecution over a period of several years. Even though it is costly, I think it would still be well over five years before we could catch up with the Soviet Union, because they are not likely to idly sit by in the meantime."

Explaining why the U.S. trails Russia, Dr. von Braun said:

"There was no ballistic missile development program in the United States between 1945 and 1951 because there was no obvious need for it, no interest for it and no money for it. And it will be hard to catch up now on those lost six years."

Minor Hockey

The Bantam section of the B.M.H.A. swung into action with four games on Saturday morning. The Browns blanked the Barons 3-0, Maple Leafs whipped the Canadiens 6-1, Rangers and Black Hawks tied 1-1, while Bruins downed the Red Wings 6-1.

Bruce Andrews was the big scorer for the Leafs, firing three goals against the Habs. Norm Richards and Lorne Fitzpatrick also scored with C. Allenby helping on two and Art Lucas on one. Fred Spafford tallied the Habs' consolation marker with G. Reid and J. Rutherford assisting.

John Smith, on passes from R. Jones and Lyle Adams, got the counted for the Black Hawk scoring play. Jim Muir gave the Rangers the lead by scoring on assists from Pat Glancey and Gord Pinder.

The players shared the scoring for Bruins, Ken Nolan, Peter Emerson, Leslie Hall, Terry St. Denis and Jim Langton with a pair each on scoring. Jim Langton assisted on three goals and Billy Carson and David Blakely on one each. Glen Chalmers bagged the Red Wings goal with Gerry Baker assisting.

Toronto Beach Dynamos Win Over Locals 8-7

TRENTON (Special) — The Trenton Junior B's passed test number two here on Saturday night, giving their stalwart followers an unexpected thrill in an 8-7 near win over Toronto Beach Dynamos from a Queen City Intermediate A group. The game was a pre-schedule exhibition tilt.

Trailing by seven goals at the start of the third period the locals turned against their heavier adversaries and in a sustained attack the likes of which hadn't been seen here in years, scored eight goals and nailed at least the tying point before time ran out on them. A switch in the locals goal from Dickie Wright to Bill Moxon of Belleville bolstered Trenton's morale and when the Dynamos got within range which happened not too many times after the B's hit the streak, the product from the neighboring city by the bay held the fort in grand style.

Coach Inspired by loyal boosters, rejoiced as Caume set off the avalanche, bulging the Beach net with Scalding shots from afterwards Toronto, with their backs to the wall, couldn't stop the sharpshooters Drake, Yardy (twice), Lewis and Caume again to end the scoring splurge which found Trenton ahouts in years.

Trenton intermediates own their success to D. Cheeseman, (three times), K. Green (twice), R. Hosking, Mcmullough and Cole.

Faithful observers expressed the opinion that better conditioning permitted Trenton to revive and give a good account of themselves against more experienced and sturdier opponents.

THE TEAMS:

Canadian National Vessels Placed Under Trinidad Flag

MONTREAL (CP) — The eight-place one that expired in September 1956.

vessel fleet of Canadian National (West Indies) Steamships was transferred out of Canadian registry during the weekend, thwarting a four-month seamen's strike.

The move practically wiped out Canadian flag deepsea shipping and raised the possibility Canadian longshoremen would refuse to handle cargo carried by the federal government fleet.

General manager J. A. Sauve announced Saturday CNS had taken the strike-bound ships out of Canadian registry and will register them in Port of Spain, Trinidad. All have been used on West Indies runs.

The move means the striking Seafarers' International Union (CLC) no longer has jurisdiction over men hired by CNS.

Mr. Sauve said the transfer followed rejection by SIU Vice-president Ian C. Banks of a new CNS offer to settle a repeated dispute. Wage terms were said to be 50 per cent higher than those suggested earlier by an arbitration board whose majority report was accepted by CNS but rejected by the union.

In Saint John, N.B., district Vice-President John Gallagher of the International Longshoremen's Association said all locals will have to be guided by member-vote whether to work the CNS ships.

He said if any of the ILA deports voted against handling the ships, all others would be bound by the union constitution to do the same.

The ILA holds contracts on ports in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Quebec. Negotiations are now underway to have the ILA certified as bargaining agent for dock workers in Toronto also.

"As far as I'm concerned," Mr. Banks said, "everything is status quo. We don't know of any transfer and furthermore, we are inclined to believe there will be no transfer."

He said, however, that the ships transferred would come under the jurisdiction of the British Seamen's Union and would not be considered strike-bound. He said he was confident the BSU would have nothing to do with them.

About 220 seamen struck July 1 after prolonged negotiations and arbitration over a contract to re-

Queen Leads British People In Honoring Dead

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth, dressed in black and wearing a poppy at her left breast, led the people of British Sunday in remembering the dead of two world wars.

Prime Minister Macmillan, former prime minister Lord Attlee and opposition leader Hugh Gaitskell also placed wreaths at the base of the white stone cenotaph. Service chiefs went to Westminster Abbey and led a procession to the tomb of the unknown soldier.

RIDDLE SOLVED?

A Quebec Roman Catholic clergyman has uncovered what he believes to be clues to the burial of Louis Jolliet, famed explorer who roamed from the Gulf of Mexico to the Ungava interior and the Labrador coast. Msgr. Rene Belanger (right), who describes himself as an amateur historian, believes he has found traces of Jolliet's home on small Ile Mingan in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, 465 miles northwest of Quebec City. Msgr. Belanger says that on the basis of a letter written in 1740 it is possible Jolliet was also buried on the Island. Site of the grave has been a mystery since the explorer's death in 1700. Msgr. Belanger and an assistant sit near what are believed the remains of Jolliet's home. (CP Photo).

Burial Place of Louis Jolliet, Noted 17th Century Explorer, Believed Found on Ile Mingan

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — Msgr. Rene Belanger of Quebec believes he has discovered the site of the burial place of Louis Jollet, famous 17th Century explorer, on Ile Mingan in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

The tiny island is one of a group about 400 miles northeast of Quebec. They lie north of Anticosti Island where Jolliet lived. The Quebec priest believes Jolliet may also have had a home on Ile Mingan.

His view is based on a document which aroused his interest some years ago and led to two small-scale expeditions in 1956 and last July.

This is a letter written by Rigaud de Vaudreuil in 1740 to the French authorities, mentioning that Jolliet built a home on Ile Mingan "and died there a few years later" in the summer of 1700.

Until now the site of Jolliet's grave has been a subject of conjecture and speculation although historian Adrien Pouliot of the Jesuit Order placed it in one of the Mingan Islands.

Jolliet is a major figure in Canadian and United States history books because of his explorations from the Gulf of Mexico to the Ungava interior and the Labrador coast. He traded furs with Indian tribes and his salmon catches were so large they supplied the Quebec market.

Later he became the French king's hydrographer in New France.

Jolliet's interests were varied. He was probably one of the most energetic and curious men of his day. A native Canadian, he studied for the priesthood, learned to play the organ, but soon became interested in travel and exploration. He searched for copper mines along Lake Superior, learned to speak Indian dialects and studied Labrador's Eskimos and their manners.

Trained by Jesuit missionaries, he never lost his flair for organization and detail. Where others failed he succeeded—as in the Labrador expeditions — and his narratives indicate an unusual sense of humor.

He was granted the Mingan Islands by King Louis XIV in 1679 and Anticosti in 1680. After two trips there Msgr. Belanger figures life on Ile Mingan, which is about a mile in circumference, must have been extremely rugged.

NAKED ISLAND

North shore residents today call it Ile Nue—Naked Island—because its surface is mostly stone weed and grass.

James McKenzie wrote about the island in 1808. He said a chimney and a well indicated the existence of a post there at one time. Today, the chimney is gone but the well is visible. The square foundation of a wooden house can be traced and what look like three small forts still stand though covered by weeds and sand.

Magistrate Draws Blast From Commission

WINDSOR (CP) — Magistrate Angus W. MacMillan has drawn a blast from some members of the police commission for criticism of a machine for testing the breath of drivers to compute the amount of alcohol they had consumed.

Magistrate MacMillan Thursday said the machine test should only corroborate what the officer sees, in dismissing an impaired driving charge against Ernest St. Amand of Detroit.

Chief Constable Carl W. Farrow said at a police commission meeting Friday: "Who does he (Magistrate MacMillan) think he is? Lord High Executioner?"

Crown Attorney J. S. Macdonald said he could see no reason for the magistrate's criticism of the machine or of police handling of it.

Jolliet and his family apparently spent most of their winters on Anticosti Island but there is record of his wife, four children, his mother-in-law and three servants spending one winter at Ile Mingan while the explorer was away.

The Quebec government contributed $125 toward Msgr. Belanger's first expedition. Permission to search the island was obtained from Hudson's Bay Company, owners of the Mingan Islands. Last July the Humanities Research Council of Canada granted Msgr. Belanger $250 to carry out further research.

Msgr. Belanger feels he has gathered enough evidence now to justify a full-scale expedition led by qualified archaeologists.

GOVT. STANDS ON TRANSFER OF CNS SHIPS TO TRINIDAD

Eight Strikebound At Present Time

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Hees says the government has found no acceptable alternative to plans of Canadian National Steamships to transfer to Trinidad the registry of its eight strikebound ships in Canada-West Indies service.

He made clear in a Commons statement Monday that the government regards the alternatives as:

1. Accepting the wage demands of the Seafarers' International Union (CLC), with federal taxpayers underwriting the resulting deficit in the subsidized service, or,

2. Letting the five-month strike continue, which would mean five of the eight ships would be tramped by winter ice at Montreal. The other ships are tied up at west coast ports.

Mr. Hees said the government had been prepared to shoulder deficits resulting from the $200,000 annual cost of the final wage offer by CNS to the union last week. The union, demanding more, has refused the offer.

"Beyond this we were not prepared to go."

The government felt that "under present circumstances" the West Indies service could be best administered under the company's plan to transfer registry of the eight ships.

"I may say that very earnest and careful consideration has been given to all possible alternatives in actual transfer, but they raised such serious disadvantages of one kind or another as to render them unacceptable to the government."

Brotherhood or Extinction Is Man's Choice--Stevenson

NEW YORK (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson says the Russian earth satellites are a sign that mankind has to choose "either extinction or the human brotherhood that has been the vision of visionaries since the beginning of time."

The twice-defeated Democratic candidate for president said Monday night that science has forced humanity "to a cross road from which there is no turning back, no escape—and just one good that leads upward."

Stevenson told the National Conference of Christians and Jews that he was disturbed that the United States did not launch the first space satellite.

"Yet I know," he added, "as a citizen of the world and as a member of tomorrow, that the basic issue is no longer the supremacy of nations. It is the supremacy of man for good or for evil, for survival or suicide.

"I deny that human fulfilment cannot keep pace with material advance. My fear and trust in history rather that what was heralded by the splitting of an atom. What is now proclaimed by the earth satellite, is nothing narrower than man's complete genius—not to exterminate himself but to control himself.

"What the 'bleep-bleep' is saying is that now the world has entered a time when it must turn from narrow nationalism, sectarianism, racialism, that the only conceivable relationship among men is one based on men's full respect for, their love, if you please—for each other."

Pilots of Kingston District Will Likely Continue Strike

MONTREAL (CP)—The leaders of the ships' pilots on the St. Lawrence waterway at Ottawa's run has predicted the men will decide today to continue their work stoppage despite a threat of fines by the federal transport department.

President Jean Guy Chartier of the St. Lawrence-Kingston Pilots' Corporation said he also expects the 52 corporation members will unanimously in favor of sending a telegram asking the department minister to meet their demands or abolish their district.

He said they were advised Monday by the department to return to work Wednesday-Kingston to and take abolition of their district.

"We've still sticking together 100 per cent," he said. They would "definitely" be on strike Wednesday despite a further possibility their licences might be suspended.

They are asking that pilots' fees be made compulsory in their district and that the pool of pilots be increased to save them from overwork. The pilots struck for work stoppage began last Tuesday.

Mr. Chartier said the pilots favor abolition of their federal district because it would free them to bargain directly with the Shipping Federation of Canada as part of the Masters, Mates and Pilots International Organization.

He said Capt. Rolla A. Johnston of Cleveland, president of the organization, and of the organization, attended a pilots' meeting in Toronto Monday night per - cent support" of United States pilots and steelworkers.

At present the federal government sets pilotage fees, collects them, and turns them over to the pilots' corporation. The corporation in turn distributes the money to the pilots.

Mr. Chartier said the pilots average about 19,000 a year, but that those who work up to 18 hours a day seven days a week during the season.

Mr. Chartier said ships in the pilotage district ranging from Montreal and Quebec City and in, "almost every other district in Canada" must pay pilots' fees whether pilots are used or not. "We can't understand why we have to pay compulsory payments," he said. "We have one of the hardest jobs in the work."

Main argument against the compulsory payments in the Montreal and Quebec district covered international waters, he said, but that the district wants the fees to be compulsory between Montreal and Cornwall, all within Canadian territory.

SOCRED POLICIES NOT ACCEPTABLE, MOTION DEFEATED

All Parties Unite Against Money Policy

OTTAWA (CP) — All political parties in the Commons—except the Social Credit group—have registered their opposition to Social Credit monetary policies.

The Commons Monday night defeated by a vote of 129 to 16 the first non - confidence motion against the Progressive Conservative government to come to a vote this session.

The motion, presented by Social Credit Leader Low of Vegreville, called for a "modern financial policy for Canada that will guide the Bank of Canada in its operations, bring about a speedy end to the present tight-money policy and effectively check the ever-rising cost of living."

The vote came on the sixth day of the debate on the speech from the throne, which outlined the government's legislative program. Conservatives, Liberals and Independents voted against the Social Credit group. Another non-confidence motion, proposed by the CCF and calling for social and economic planning to deal with the menace of inflation, rapidly rising unemployment and serious "regional problems" appears doomed to be defeated. It comes to a vote Thursday.

Opposition Leader St. Laurent has said his Liberal party will not support any motion of non-confidence against the government unless Conservatives have placed their entire legislative program before Parliament.

Men Shot Deer on Isle, Boat Tips Bringing It Back

PEMBROKE (CP)—Two members of the Toronto metropolitan police force and three companions were reported to have been drowned Monday night on a hunting trip to Poet Lake, 90 miles west of this Ottawa Valley town.

The victims were identified as Leonard Lambert, 36, of Pickering, Ont., and Sgt. John McLean of Scarborough, both members of the Toronto metropolitan police; William Hayes, 47, and Harold Carter, both Toronto; and George Page, 60, of Cobalcke.

First reports said all five men were members of the police force but these later proved incorrect.

Police said one of the men shot a deer on an island and they took a boat to get the animal.

BOAT WASHED UP

Police said the surviving members of the party said they heard shouts and later found the boat washed up on a nearby island with the deer. There was no sign of the five men. The mishap occurred just before dark.

Pine Lake is about 10 miles north of Whitney in the Algonquin Park area.

Ontario Provincial Police began dragging Pine Lake early today for bodies.

The wife of Toronto said Lambert and his companions heard shouts and later found the overturned boat and carcass of the deer on the shore.

He believed the deer was wounded on the mainland and swam over to an island. The men followed in a boat and killed it on the island.

Warrants Issued In Slaying of Bank Manager

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario provincial police said today they have issued warrants for the arrest of two men in connection with the slaying of bank manager J. Walter Bridges, shot to death Oct. 9 in an unsuccessful attempt to rob a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada at Blind River, Ont.

Inspector W. H. Kennedy of the OPP criminal investigation branch identified the men as Fred Montgomery alias John Chadwick, 41, and his son, Rodney Montgomery, 17. He said they may be headed west.

He said both men have lived in Toronto and in the Sudbury district. The older man also lived for a time in the Blind River area. He said the last trace of the two men was at Sudbury, Ont., some days after the Blind River shooting and that possibly they have headed towards Western Canada.

3 Boys Slain With Hammer, Quebec Mother in Custody

Mother Charged With Murder in Children's Deaths

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Maureen Cyr-Donohue, charged Monday with murder in the hanging of three of her four young daughters, was remanded today to a psychiatric hospital.

Prior to her court appearance the 27-year-old wife of a prominent Toronto lawyer was held in a police station room guarded by a policewoman. She was described as in an overwrought condition and sobbing frequently.

Police said all four O'Donohue children were found Monday hanging in the basement of the family's fashionable suburban Leaside home. One was cut down by a neighbor, revived by artificial respiration and was in good condition in hospital today.

Mrs. O'Donohue was reported about two hours after the discovery.

Attempts to revive Maureen, 4, Eileen, 3, and Kathleen, 2, were unsuccessful. Mary Josephine, six months, responded to hospital treatment.

Police said Mrs. O'Donohue, an ex-nurse from Belleville, was under treatment as a hospital outpatient from Aug. 29 to Sept. 22.

FOUND BY NEIGHBOR

The children were found by Mrs. Jean Turner, a non-practising doctor who lives next door, after receiving a telephone call from Melville J. O'Donohue. He said his wife had phoned his downtown office to complain that she was ill.

Mrs. Turner told police Mrs. O'Donohue, sweeping and distraught, met her at the door and, sensing trouble, she searched the house.

She found the children hanging together by ropes in a basement laundry room. Untying the ropes, she called police and firemen and summoned other neighbors to aid her in applying artificial respiration.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Unseasonable mild weather prevails across Ontario today with clear skies in southern sections but generally cloudy in northern section.

The weather will continue mild on Wednesday but more extensive cloudiness is expected over southern sections of the province and scattered showers will likely develop late in the day.

ST. HYACINTHE, Que. (CP) — Three young boys were found beaten to death with a sledge-hammer in their home on the outskirts of this town 30 miles east of Montreal early today. Police said they are holding the 26-year-old mother of the boys as a material witness.

The victims were identified as Jean Paul, 6, Andre, 4, and Jules, nine months, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Jules Gorga of Rapides-Plats, 11½ miles northwest of St. Hyacinthe.

Police took Mrs. Gorga into custody immediately after the incident was reported and it was believed they were summoned to the scene by the boys' father.

In Quebec no charges are laid in cases of violent death until after a coroner's inquest has been held.

The slayings occurred less than 24 hours after a 27-year-old Toronto mother was charged with murder in the hanging Monday of her three infant daughters in the basement of their suburban home. A fourth child was cut down by a neighbor, revived by artificial respiration and is reported in good condition.

Russia Will Give India Arms Plan Serious Study

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Russia has indicated today his government will give serious thought to an Indian compromise plan to get East-West disarmament talks going again.

Soviet delegate Zorin urged this hint when asked by a reporter if he favored the Indian move to abolish the size of the disarmament commission. The plan would have given the Russians a chance to abandon their threat to boycott the 12-nation body and its five-nation subcommittee.

No More Tests

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan told the House of Commons today that there will be no further British nuclear tests "in the immediate future."

Non-Stop, No-Refuelling Jet Flight Record Is Set by Gen. C.F. LeMay

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Gen. Curtis F. LeMay, piloting a giant USAF B-52 KC-135 jet tanker, set a world distance record for non-stop, no-refuelling jet flight early today. He covered a 6,350-mile trip from a Massachusetts air base to Buenos Aires. He left a record he set mark held by France by close to 5,000 miles.

The 52-year-old cigar-chomping USAF vice chief of staff and a crew of 10 brought the military Boeing 707 jetliner down in the Argentine capital at 5:50 a.m. EST after a flight from Westover air force base, Mass.

The flight took 13 hours and 50 minutes. The previous record of 1,448 miles for a non-stop, no-refuelling jet flight was set in 1956 by a French Mistral.

The USAF in Washington said the flight marked a "new milestone in the history of jet aviation."

A USAF announcement said the KC-135, in addition to its role as a tanker for B-52 heavy bombers and new jet fighters, "is readily adaptable for serving as a transport for troops and vital cargo at jet speeds and high altitudes."

LeMay spent the flight in the cockpit to participate in the observance of Argentina's National Aviation Day.

He helped develop the first B-29 bomber fleet-in-being of the Second World War, directed the Berlin airlift, spent 2½ years in space whipping the Strategic Air Command into shape as a global striking force.

Three B-52 Stratofortresses under LeMay's command made the first nonstop flight around the world by jet planes last January. Their time of 45 hours 19 minutes for the 24,325 miles cut to half the previous record set by a U.S. propeller-driven B-50 in 1949.

Frank Lane New General Manager of Cleveland Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — Frank Lane today was hired as general manager of baseball's Cleveland Indians. He comes here from the St. Louis Cardinals, succeeding Hank Greenberg and gets a three-year contract.

Lane, a 61-year-old jack-in-the-box when it comes to baseball deals, signed with the Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Cardinals in the American League standings, still has a year to go on a three-year contract with the Redbirds. He left because there was expected to come from President August Busch, Cardinals owner, after-season attendance and criticism from the fans were directed at Lane. A director, he controls about 19 per cent of the club stock, and was not voting.

William O. (Bill) Dewitt of St. Louis, now in charge of a major league fund for the aid of the baseball originally had the inside track for the tribe appointment. He said he was "interested" if Lane failed to get the contract.

But Lane apparently made an aggressive move for it, after receiving some dissatisfaction in the way things were going in St. Louis. There were reports he felt his powers had been limited there.

Directors of the Cleveland club, meeting in a special session, announced they were "happy."

FIRE ON STUDENTS

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Security police opened fire on students demonstrating for increased school fees today, killing a 15-year-old boy and injuring another youth.

France, Germany Urged to Act to Balance Trade

PARIS (Reuters)—France and Germany, the two problem children of European trade and payments, both were urged today to take vigorous action to prevent a crisis and a collapse in the whole post - war structure of European trade co-operation.

Two economic reports published by the Organization for European Economic Co-operation said France this year faces "a serious crisis of payments and her accounts." Her total foreign deficit in 1957 probably will reach $1.2 billion.

In contrast, Germany's monthly surplus in the European Payments Union has risen from an average of $67,000,000 in the first half of this year, to $127,000,000 in the first half of this year, to $127,000,000 in the first half of this year, to $127

JUNE IS BURSTING OUT ALL OVER

What's This! Roses in November?

Harold Ramsey, 113 College St., likely thought he was seeing things when he went into the garden and spotted a yellow rose — undoubtedly the yellow rose of Texas. Close observation, though showed him not one but two roses. the second one being a bud ready to burst out any time.

The strange thing about these roses is that they are growing on one of this year's bushes.

SLIGHT DECREASE IN POPPY SALES

A slight decrease in Poppy Day receipts was noted this year, Zeke Digby reported yesterday. Poppy sales in the streets amounted to $1,014.36 with some outlets yet to be heard from. The sale of wreaths amounted to $2,400 with a few sales yet to be reported.

Boy Scouts One Agency in Community Chest

Next time someone asks you what kind of money the organization Belleville has tell him the city is host to 6 Beaver and 6 Cub Packs and 14 Boy Scout Troops.

The Scouting movement in Belleville is enjoyed by 1,000 boys and 100 leaders. Last year there were 900 Cubs and Scouts and 72 leaders in the movement here. These figures show that Scouting is absorbing more and more boys who some day will become fine adults, worthy of representing Belleville in any endeavour.

But to continue operating successfully this local association needs your financial support.

It is only twice a year that Cub Scouts ask for help — Apple Day and during the Community Chest Campaign.

When a volunteer canvasser calls on you next week, give generously. Remember, the boy you are helping may be your own son.

The 1957 Belleville Community Chest Campaign will be held from Monday, November 18, to Saturday, the 23rd.

Other agencies in the campaign are the YWCA, Navy League, Children's Aid Society, the YMCA, St. John Ambulance and Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society.

Glorious Dead Ask Living Guard Freedom They Saved M.P. Tells Canadian Legion

"There is no voice more powerful, no eloquence so moving as the unspoken voices of the dead. They are telling us to guard with our lives the freedom which they saved with their lives," Mr. Walter G. Dinsdale, M.P., parliamentary assistant to the minister of veterans' affairs, Ottawa, said here last night.

Mr. Dinsdale, a former RCAF night pilot, spoke to 150 members and guests at the annual Branch 99, Canadian Legion, at its annual Remembrance Day banquet held in the Knights of Columbus hall.

They would tell us that they dwell as brothers in unity and did us do likewise. They would remind us that they died not as men of British race or French ancestry; not only as Protestant, Catholic and Jew, but first as Canadians, but as men upholding the cause of all free."

There is none more concerned with the needs of the nation than is veterans, Mr. Dinsdale said.

"After all, it was in response to the threat to our way of life that twice in the first 50 years of the century, the cream of young manhood and womanhood at utter personal sacrifice threw themselves into the horror and tragedy of modern warfare."

Mr. Dinsdale said he never ceased to wonder at the magnitude of their sacrifice, yet they were not plaster saints.

"We made of the same stuff as other men. They were ordinary men in most respects. Yet they made them extraordinary was they realized the survival of their way of life was at stake and they faced all else to preserve it.

"Today is," he went on, "a great and growing need for a similar action among us during these days. The veterans who came back should be particularly qualified to meet the present challenge to Christian democracy that confronts us."

NEED FRESH APPRECIATION

"In the face of wars and rumors of wars, in the face of total destruction that faces mankind should the world plunge into the abyss of total war, we need a fresh appreciation of the issues that freedom is the sole possession of those who have the courage to defend it," he said.

Mr. Dinsdale recalled the days that Canada was faced with World War One. It was the war to end all wars according to President Woodrow Wilson. But Earl Grey uttered the ominous words: "The fight is going out all over Europe." At that moment Russia was in the throes of revolution, Germany was preparing to march on Rome. Hitler was planning the overthrow of the German republic and establish Nazism. The impact of these events precipitated the world in a second blood bath. The Russian revolution gave birth to the USSR which continues to menace the free world by its evil propagating its immoral Communism with the zeal of crusading missionaries.

Mr. Dinsdale recalled the motto of his old RCAF night fighter squadron, "Midnight is Our Noon." The success of the night fighters was due to the invisible beams of radar. "By this means," he said, "we were able to turn the blackness of midnight into the dawn of victory for our cities.

"In like manner," he added, "we feel the lights that have gone out all over the world can be rekindled today. History is repeating itself, which has been found mankind repeatedly on the brink of disaster which has to be rescued in the nick of time by a resurgence of faith in the things that matter.

"Read the headlines today," he concluded, said, "and would you not conclude the world is in chaotic, dark, empty with darkness encompassing it. Is the threat of intercontinental missiles with nuclear warheads?

"Why God created it. Let there be light and there was light." That is the way of hope. That was the spirit which seized those whose memories we honor."

The Last Post, "The call which must grip each one of us if we are to preserve the kind of leadership needed today."

ABLY INTRODUCED

Mr. Dinsdale was ably introduced by Bram Humphreys with branch appreciation of the address to follow.

Zone Commander Bill Bailey and Mrs. Bailey, ladies' branch president Bill Heaman welcomed the members and guests. The toast to the Queen was proposed by Ed. Smith and "Last Post and Reveille" was played by Armand Duffy. Community singing of songs of two wars was led by Harry Taylor.

Special guests included Her Worship Mayor Jane Forrester, Major K. D. H. Wilcocks, commanding officer 27 Tech Squadron RCEME; Lieut.-Col. Lawrence J. Thompson, 6RD, RCAF, Trenton; Mr. Lee Grills, M.D. Hastings South; Lieut. Col. E. S. Fairman, zone commanding officer, Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment; Squadron Leader S. E. M. Milliken, commanding officer RCAF Station Trenton, and Captain Edwin Lamb of the Salvation Army.

Mayor Forrester in proposing the greetings of the city, "I bring a warm welcome to your guests," she said. "Thursday it is well known for its willingness to rise to an emergency in peace or war. Loyalty of groups like yourselves reminds us to pause and remember, and recollection leads to the full and great heritage preserved for us by your comrades over the sea."

Greetings from Ottawa and Prime Minister Diefenbaker were expressed by Mr. Grills. "This is a very impressive day" he said "and we remember the sacrifices made by you" and those who did not come back. I would like to see the day when we can remember more fully and I believe that day is not too far away."

Mr. Dinsdale was presented with a Belleville cheese by Les Digby and the memento of the occasion. Thanks to members of the branch ladies' auxiliary who catered to the banquet were voiced by Roy Madden.

Entertainment was given by pianist-songster Sherwin Reid of Roseneath, Reid and George Fountain, whose humorous army skits received a fine ovation.

Obituaries

A. E. BOTTUM (Bobcaygeon)

The oldest native resident of Bobcaygeon, Albert Edward Bottum, 97, died Thursday following a lengthy illness.

Mr. Bottum was born in Bobcaygeon September 6, 1860, the day the Prince of Wales (Albert Edward) visited Peterborough, and was named after him. His father, Elijah Bottum, came to Bobcaygeon from Ogdensburg, New York State, to operate the inland lakes steamboats.

The Bottum family has operated the A. Bottum general store for 82 years. Mr. Bottum's father, Elijah, Sons Roy and Claude now operate the business. A daughter, Mrs. B. E. Kelly (Zetta) also lives in Bobcaygeon.

NAMED KAWARTHAS

Mr. Bottum is credited with naming the Kawartha Lakes at the time when Muskoka was beginning to prove a great tourist attraction. He was then the local editor at that time of the "Bobcaygeon Independent," an antique newspaper, went to the Indian Reserve on Chemong Lake to find a name for the district.

The name given to them by the Indians was Kawartha. Later, due to an error, it became "Kawartha." This name was presented to the Ontario municipalities who were asked to use it in their advertising. It was accepted and from then on the name of the district has developed as a tourist area.

Three generations of the Bottum family have been wardens of St. Andrew's church, Reeves of Bobcaygeon—Mr. Bottum's father, himself, and son Roy.

ACTIVE MASON

He was a past district deputy grand master of the Masonic Lodge, past master of Victor Lamb Lodge, AF and AM, number 265. He had been honorary president of the Bobcaygeon Agricultural Society, honorary president of the Bobcaygeon Curling Society, and honorary life governor of the Verulam Cemetery committee. He was a member of the Anglican Church (Anglican) from the time it was built, and held the post of church warden.

In 1886, he married the former Emily Armstrong, who died in 1934.

The funeral was held on Saturday with service in the Anglican Church, Rev. John Barclay officiating. Interment was in Verulam Cemetery.

The late Mr. Bottum was a brother of the late Mrs. Ida Bottum of Belleville, who died a few months before his brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Bottum's jubilium of this city attended the funeral.

ALBERT JOHN BENNETT (Cambellford)

CAMPBELLFORD — A resident of the Campbellford district all his life, Albert John Bennett died on Thursday in Belleville General Hospital after an illness of about two weeks. He was 59.

Born in Seymour Township, he was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Bennett and Matilda Hendy. In 1921 he married the former Jessie Irene Pettifer, who survives him. During his lifetime, he farmed near Campbellford.

The late Mr. Bennett was a member of L.O.L. 526 of Campbellford, and Campbellford Presbyterian Church and the English Line United Church.

Surviving, besides his wife, are four sons, Murray of Belleville, Oscar of Swift Current, Sask., Roy of Calgary, Alta., and Floyd at home. Mr. Bennet's death was the first break in the family which consisted of four brothers, William, Charles, Fred and Wilfred Bennett, all of Campbellford, and five sisters, Elizabeth, (Mrs. George Kerr), Ida and Sy-mour; Susan (Mrs. Lon Perry) of Warkworth; Emma (Mrs. Arthur Wariman) of Warkworth; Nellie (Mrs. Morley Petherick) of Campbellford, and Miss Elsie Bennett, also of Campbellford.

The Rev. Gordon Whitehorne, United Church circuit minister, conducted the funeral service from the Bennett Funeral Home on Monday afternoon. The Rev. A. E. Toombes of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church assisted.

Bearers were Messrs. Lou Little, Garnet Grills, Reginald Craighead, Andrew Hale, Murray Hutcheson and Clarence Dunk. Burial was in English Line cemetery.

DR. S. W. TENNENT

A Tribute to a Beloved Physician

He was the embodiment of real nature. What amazing interests! He was a doctor, a farmer, a philosopher — a flowery — good old-fashioned — and above all, loved people.

His life was a busy, demanding one — yet, he was never too rushed to consider each sufferer's problem. He knew it was the most important thing in the world — and, in fact, no one's private worries remained private for long. He advised some kindly, some sternly, but all sound suggestion.

Dr. James Tennent was a wonderful, kindly, ethical doctor. May God be good to him and may his gentle influence of us men must go on, without this delightful, perfect friend and adviser.

A friend.

Community Chest Drive Begins in Six Days-Nov. 18

Six days from now and the 1957 Belleville Community Chest Campaign will get underway. The drive will last six days beginning next Monday and ending on Saturday, November 23. In those six days volunteer canvassers and seven worker organizations in the city hope the citizens here help them realize the $35,000 objective.

Counting on your contributions are the Navy League, Victorian Order of Nurses, Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, Navy League, Children's Aid Society, St. John Ambulance and the YMCA.

There will be no one night concerted blitz on city households this year, instead volunteer canvassers will take the whole week to visit every home, business and industry in Belleville.

This year's Community Chest results should shock everyone into action to avoid a repetition. Belleville fell several thousand dollars short of the $35,000 target in 1956. Let's not have a repeat performance of that.

Thurlow Twp. Pays Tribute To Honored Dead

Remembrance Day service at the cenotaph at Thurlow town hall was attended by approximately 100 persons yesterday as local residents and officials paid tribute to the memory of those who died in two world wars.

The service was conducted by Rev. J. D. McCrea of Cannifton United Church, assisted by Reeve Alfred Wickett and township clerk Earl Dafoe. Also taking part were Rev. W. E. G. Dovey of Belleville.

The Ontario government warrant officer, Mr. Wickett and Mr. W. Akey of Cannifton, whose son was killed in the last war. Other wreaths were placed by Parkdale Veterans' Association; the Bay or Quinte High School Board; Quinte Secondary School Board; Council and Local 219 Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers Union at Point Anne.

The Last Post and Reveille were sounded by Bugler James Phillips.

IN MEMORIAM

ARMITAGE, — In loving and affectionate memory of Mr. Dorothy D. Armitage, who died November 12th, 1956.

Those we love on years have passed,
Since death in gloomy shadow cast.
We cannot see the hand that takes,
But feel the pain it makes.

Time cannot dim a shining light.
We loved him dearly, and still do.
Her vacant place there's none to fill,
Down earth we mourn, but not in vain.
God's will be done, we'll meet again.
—Sadly missed by her loving husband and family.

SCRIVEN, — In loving memory of a dear brother, Percy Scriven, who passed away one year ago today, November 12th, 1956.

What would we give if we could say
We'll meet you in the morning,
To hear his voice and see his smile.
That's not to be, but we know
He is over there to see you die,
To welcome you to that bright shore
Where we'll meet and never part.
—Sadly missed by Dad and family.

And then little know the sorrow
That a heart must undergo,
—Sadly missed by Dad and family.

SCRIVEN, — In loving memory of a son and brother, Reginald Scriven, who passed away November 12th, 1956.

He's gone, but not forgotten,
He is not dead but sleeping,
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness will come o'er us,
Friends may think we've forgotten,
But never.
—Sadly missed by Mother, Sister and family.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market was trendless today in light morning trading.

Industrials were ahead a bit more than one-half point on index but a 9-point gain by Canada Packers B to 34 on a single sale was the major influence. Base metals, with International Nickel and Fanshawgate each ahead ¼, were one-half point higher on index. Western oils dipped one-quarter of a point while golds were unchanged.

Volume at 11 a.m. was 407,000 shares compared with 330,000 at the same time Monday.

Lower-priced mines and western oils were active and steady.

Higher-priced mines and oils moved in a fractional range.

Canon McConnell Urges Veterans To Remember Their Honored Dead

Eighty members of unit 201 of the Army, Navy, and Air Force Veterans organization met at a banquet and Remembrance day service last night, at the hall in honor of their comrades who died in two world wars and the Korean conflict.

Veterans were urged to remember their fallen comrades who gave their lives for their country.

"This is the most tragic part of war," said Major Canon A. S. McConnell, MBE, CD, of the Hastings-Prince Edward regiment. "It is a hard thing for a man to learn that his buddy, whom he has lived with for many months, has been killed."

Speaking from personal experience, Canon McConnell also gave a humorous and detailed sketch of a Canadian soldier overseas during World War II, and included his transfogmation from a raw recruit to a seasoned soldier; his activities off duty and during battle, the conditions under which he lived. He also described how his unit (the 8th anti-aircraft) celebrated the signing of the armistice on May 5, 1945, and how the celebration was marred in part by the death of a friend. Rev. Tom Mooney, the night before.

The popular chaplain, himself a veteran, also praised Canada's efforts in providing aid for her veterans.

"We got a good deal . . . . the best deal of any other country," he stated. Canon McConnell was referring to veterans' loans for building homes, grants for education, allowances, and pensions.

Canon McConnell was introduced by Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan, rector of Christ Church, and thanked by Com. Jim Bryan.

The impressive program was under the direction of Com. K. Edgecombe, president of the Bellevile branch. Edgecombe welcomed the veterans, and introduced the distinguished guests. Invocation was given by Archdeacon Creeggan.

The toast to the Queen was proposed by Com. L. A. "Pat" Hamby, M.P., president of Unit 201, and a toast to the forces was given by Com. Frederick Hart of the first overseas battalion, Mr. Hart informed that the 21st Battalion had held the first annual reunion this year.

The response was made by Major Doc Black, of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, who represented Col. H. S. Palmer.

Major Black, in his address, discussed the role of army, navy and air force reserves in civil defence programs and the need for continued reserve training.

The development of rockets, guided missiles, and atomic weapons, has made this training even more important today, he said.

"Everyone hopes we don't have a Third World War, but if conditions will be in the front lines develops, the civilian population of battle. It will be attacked without warning."

In such a case, civil defence units would be called out to aid in search, rescue operations, decontamination and traffic control of stricken areas, he explained.

Major Black stressed the fact that the reserves are just as important today and urged the veterans to encourage their sons to join the reserves.

Lieut. Lees, on the observance of remembrance was given by Archdeacon Creeggan, and the "Last Fost" was played by trumpeter Duncan Carmichael, while the men stood at attention. Lights were turned out and a spotlight was on the cenotaph cross set up in one corner.

Two minutes' silence followed, and as "Reveille" was played by Mr. Carmichael, the lights were turned on again. A poem was then recited by Doug Burley, and the names of three of the fallen members were given.

Bob Temple, representing Mayor Forrester, presented a wreath to be made at tonight's council meeting that Belleville join with communities to request the government to declare each November 11 a statutory holiday.

A brief address was also given by a non-veteran member, Harry Rose. He recalled it was the Army-Navy organization which inaugurated the holding of only one Poppy Day for all veterans, rather than holding separate Poppy Days for the two veterans' organizations.

The program ended with the veterans standing together at the Cenotaph this morning (November 11). If we stand together this great nation will not fall, Mr. Rose declared.

Following the address by the guest speaker, a benediction was given by Archdeacon Creeggan to conclude the service.

Mrs. G. Galbraith, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary and Auxiliary members, will be thanked for the wreath preparation and serving of the turkey dinner.

A social evening followed.

Major A. Duffy Urges Balanced Armed Services

TRENTON (Special) — Major Angus Duffy second-in-command of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment reserve unit, addressed members of Trenton Legion Branch 110 at the Armistice Day dinner here last night that it was very important to train armed forces so that there will be no danger. That is why it is important for people not to be misled by new modern weapons, he said and advocated balanced armed services for Canada.

Major Duffy suggested that the militia be trained for two roles First the militia to be ready to bomb devastating Toronto a militia unit from here could be called upon for help. Then as an unit would gressor followed up with a land attack still be ready for defence if the Calling on the Legion to do something for ex-servicemen who gave their lives in two world wars, Major Duffy appealed for members to get behind the civil defence training program. Unless we take an active part in intelligent interest in this cause we have only created a lip service, he said. It's time we stood up and counted ourselves among the men who are willing to give for the defence of our country, he added.

Branch past-president John Cote, introducing the guest speaker from Belleville, pointed out that while the RCAF has its own Mr. Air Force (John Silver) and the RCN has its own Mr. Navy (its own Mr. Legion (Charlie Baker) the Hastings and Prince Edward regiment has in Major Duffy its own Mr. Hasty P. Branch President John Farrell referred to the visiting guest speaker as the indomitable major Duffy.

In his brief remarks Mayor Ross Burti, welcoming the visitors and distinguished guests, noted that while this would be the last Armistice Day that many of the old soldiers would be believed everybody would enjoy their new home.

Theatre Guild Presents Two One-Act Plays

Last Wednesday evening at Queen Victoria Junior and Senior High Theatre the Guild presented two one-act plays in preparation for the forthcoming drama festival at Peterborough to be held this Friday and Saturday. Even though lacking sufficient third play off the boards, the two offerings were sufficiently different to provide an interesting contrast to one another. The guild will present "The Inconstant Moon" at the festival.

The first play was a very short work by Maurice Baring entitled "Catherine Parr or Alexander's Horse." There is virtually no plot to the play, it is simply an episode in the life of Henry VIII, an argument over the breakfast table between the king and the last of his six wives. It is an ironically amusing treatment of the theme of domestic disharmony.

Costuming and make-up for "Catherine Parr" both excellent. Harold Bankier certainly looked like the traditional conception of the rough, jolly, if somewhat Nightingale produced a quite effective portrayal of the middle-aged queen who's shrewishness smacked more of the suburban wife than royalty. Bill Robinson was adequate as a page in the royal household.

"The Inconstant Moon," the second work on the "program, was considerably more ambitious. In it the audience sees a former actress, one who never really made it to the professional greatness, move through a sordid drunken binge with gin and alcohol to a conclusion which is arrestingly poignant and in its closing moments, genuinely tragic.

Without minimizing the contributions made by the others in the cast, one must say at once that Vicky Dunn, as Miss Dunby, the retired actress, is largely responsible for the play's success. Local theatre goers have come to expect a fine performance from Vicky Dunn, and in this role she has once again lived up to her reputation. To say it as briefly as possible, "The Inconstant Moon" is her play.

Eve Benger was quite convincing as Pottie Danby, Julia's spinster daughter, while Ernest Sulman gave a more than competent performance as Julia's film-mad, Jack Evans as Wilfred Duxbury, Pottle's suitor, came close to Mrs. Dunn's effectiveness at one or two points. One hopes to see more of him in the future. Dave Thomas, as Mortimer Burt, gave a fine picture of the "nouveau riche" businessman attempting to buy social prominence.

Flo Yanovev had what amounted to a walk-on part, but a most difficult one to do well, since, if she were unconvincing, the ending would probably collapse. She played it superbly and acted accordingly, and the play gained by her appearance. All in all, the evening was well worthwhile to those fortunate enough to attend.

The adjudicator was Mr. C. W. Sloan, head of the English department of Quinte Secondary School.

The short business meeting was held immediately after the adjudication of the two plays.

Rotary Club Observes Day Of Remembrance

The horrors of war were recalled vividly Monday by Canon A. S. McConnell, rector of St. Thomas' Anglican Church, who was a chaplain in the Canadian army overseas during the Second World War and is now chaplain of the famous Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

Canon McConnell addressed a special Remembrance Day meeting of the Rotary Club of Belleville. Guests included members of the local branch of the Legion.

Padre McConnell, as he is known in army circles, could not be facetious during his talk "because my mind is on Falaise, Sicily, Singapore and the other places that saw the horrors of war, and I am thinking of those gallant men who died for us."

"As long as this country of ours survives, as long as we live in freedom, these men will be remembered," he said.

The padre was disappointed Monday morning when, at Remembrance Day ceremonies at the cenotaph on Station Street, trucks and cars rumbled over the bridge directly behind the unmindful of November 11 and what it stands for. Only a few stood with some people have forgotten the significance of November 11.

Padre McConnell was the first major in the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, and a few verbal pictures of the horrors of World War II, where, on one particular occasion, he entered a fire-gutted Canadian tank and helped remove the charred remains of the crew, were given. "Sights such as this," he said, "one never forgets. And one never forgets the sadness cloaking a burial detail or the emptiness that strikes when a comrade-in-arms son is lost in battle."

Briefly mentioning the outcome of the recent by-election in Hastings-Frontenac, Canon McConnell said he was pleased that Dr. Smith was elected federal member of parliament for the riding.

HID UNDER PRETENCE

"However, I was surprised to learn the fact that about 200 Communists there who tried to sell their country by casting a vote for a man who hid under the pretence that he was representing the liberal party. Is democratic Canada is rid of those people, the better," he said.

The padre's address was closed with the sounding of "The Last Post" and "Reveille."

Prior to Canon McConnell's address, a few of the visitors spoke briefly to the meeting.

William Heasman, president of the Rotary Club, as well as the Canadian Legion, said it was "gratifying to know that other organizations besides the Legion is remembering our war dead."

Lieutenant - Colonel Everett Fairman, commanding officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, made a few remarks as to your club for putting forth such a special effort to observe the anniversary of the passing of our war heroes."

Walter Dundas, parliamentary assistant to the Minister of Veterans' Affairs and Member of Parliament for Port Arthur, Ont., Man., said: "Congratulations to all Canadian Legion branches for sponsoring such a worthy annual project as the adventure in citizenship. This is a wonderful way to develop true Canadian citizens of the future."

Following Canon McConnell's address and the sounding of the bugles, Len Taylor, public relations chairman of Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion, offered the closing prayer.

Jane Wallbridge One of Ten Winners in Ont.

Is there no end to the talent Belleville presents to the world? This city, in the past, has been the home of song writers, poets, musicians, painters and now critics.

Latest to join the clan is Miss Jane Wallbridge, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Wallbridge, 148 William St., and a grade 11 student at B.C.I.

Jane recently won an essay contest sponsored by a Toronto newspaper, by writing a letter to students interested in journalistic experiments were asked to submit an essay along the theme: What the Queen Means to Me.

One of 10 winners in the province, Jane won a smart desk set and a marker from a car used in the royal procession at Ottawa when Queen Elizabeth visited there last month. She won't receive the prizes until her school principal, Arnold Orr, gets them from Toronto; then he will make a formal presentation at a school assembly.

What does Jane hope to make of her future? Become a journalist? Not a bit of it. She is in Toronto University next year and become a high school teacher.

Launches Bottle At Sea, Found On Newfy Shore

Almost everyone who goes to sea has a desire to throw overboard a bottle containing a note. Bill Mathison, R.R. 3, Belleville, did just that on August 28 as he and members of his family were returning to Canada aboard the Empress of England out of England.

Mr. Mathison put his name, address, date and name of the ship on a piece of paper, placed it in an empty wine bottle and threw the bottle overboard when the ship was one day from Montreal.

Today he received a letter from a 15-year-old lad named Angus, who lives in Newfoundland. Angus said he found the bottle and note at Sheppard's Beach, Newfoundland, on September 23 and wished Mr. Mathison to write to him.

Man Unloading Phenol Acid at Bakelite Dies

Found lying unconscious at the rear of his highway tank truck with which he had delivered a bulk load of phenol acid to the Bakelite plant east of the Gaston Marchand bridge, 29, of Three Rivers, Que., died this morning before he could be admitted to the Belleville General Hospital.

The man was found lying partially in a small pool of phenol acid which had apparently leaked from the valve connection in preparation for unloading.

Cause of the man's death is so far a mystery to Bakelite plant officials and an autopsy has been ordered to determine whether the man died as the effects of the acid or from the effects of a possible fall.

Provincial detective Mr. J. E. Buchan said Mr. Marchand arrived at the plant at 7:25 and began unloading his truck in had driven around to the rear of the plant to connect hose for 8 o'clock unloading when the pl. ot opened.

"We don't know what happened," Mr. Buchan said. "There was no witness and the unloading proceeded in nothing different from normal procedure."

When found by plant workers the man was barely breathing. Plant employees immediately washed him off and called the ambulance and had him taken to hospital. He was said dead on arrival.

Annual Meeting Of Bowling Club In Wednesday

The last bowl has been rolled down the green for the year, the greens have been prepared for their winter sleep and now the members will meet to get ready for another successful year of bowling. The annual meeting and election of officers of the Belleville Bowling Club will be held on Wednesday evening and the place of meeting will be the Parish House of St. Thomas' Church.

President-Austin Watkis will give a review of the year's work, there will be a discussion on new business to be presented and the meeting will be thrown open for any suggestions that in any way will assist the club or its future endeavors.

The year as a whole has been a successful one with the members winning the majority of awards at the several tournaments throughout the district. The Corbin Gold Cup competition was a successful venture, while the tournaments held by the club were well filled and enjoyable. It is to be hoped that as many members as possible will make it a point to be present at the annual meeting on Wednesday evening.

Truck Driver Crushed to Death East of City

Clifford Smith, Division St. Kingston truck driver working for a sub-contractor for Trans Canada Lines, was crushed to death this morning when the dump box of his truck pinned him against the frame of his cab.

The accident occurred in a lane on the farm of William Anderson on the 2nd concession of Thurlow east of Canniffton when Mr. Smith was attempting to repair the box.

Mr. Smith was said to be married with two small children.

It was reported that Mr. Smith had been told by his boss to have the truck dump mechanism repaired. He apparently stopped in the Anderson laneway and as he tempted to make the repairs himself.

Mrs. William Anderson said she was washing the family car shortly before 10 o'clock when she heard what she thought was a dog howling in the distance, but paid no further attention.

A short time later a pipeline foreman passed along the laneway and discovered Mr. Smith pinned under the dump box of his truck.

Bush's Ambulance was called but when the ambulance arrived the man was dead and provincial police were called in.

DR. ROBERT W. TENNENT

The death of Dr. Robert W. Tennent last week has removed an outstanding member of the medical fraternity widely known as a family doctor. He did not win fame as a specialist in any one category of medicine, but was held in the highest regard as a friendly counsellor, not only in medical matters, but on personal problems as well.

In recent years, Dr. Tennent was forced to restrict the scope of his practice because of failing health, but he did manage to act as a physician to a wide circle of families who had been his patients for many, many years. He was unable to resist the pleas of people who felt no other doctor could answer their needs so well as an old and trusted friend.

Like most physicians, Dr. Tennent was not able to take part in municipal affairs to any great extent, but he did act on the Board of Education for one term. He, also, was physician at the Ontario School for the Deaf for many years. In World War One he served with the Royal Army Medical Corps from 1915 to 1917.

Dr. Tennent always had a great love for horses and in the days before automobiles came into general use, he was a familiar figure about town driving a spirited horse hitched to an immaculate buggy. Harness racing always had a great appeal for him and for a time he was president of the Belleville Driving Club.

The good works a man does in his lifetime live long after he passes on. They need not be great undertakings, but rather the courtesies of every-day living. And so it was with Dr. Tennent. The little acts of thoughtfulness, kindnesses and generosity which mean so much to people in trouble will be treasured memories of those who knew him both as a friend and physician. This fine Christian gentleman would ask for no greater tribute than that.

NUMBER, PLEASE

The Bell Telephone Company of Canada is presently installing a central police switch board to handle emergency calls in Toronto. When the installation is completed next spring, citizens of Toronto will only have to remember one telephone number - - Empire 1-1111 - - to get the police and other emergency stations.

But take Belleville, for instance. If someone needs the city police he must dial 968-2-3456; WO-8-5100 will get him the Ontario Provincial Police; WO-8-5511 will raise the hospital; WO-2-4545 will get the fire department; and there are three numbers one can call to get an ambulance, WO-8-5588, WO-8-5735 or WO-8-5053.

Short of taking a course to improve one's memory, it would be difficult, indeed, for everyone in Belleville to remember all these numbers, especially since they are not numbers folks would likely be calling every day.

We do not have to enlarge on what usually happens to a person's composure when he is suddenly faced with grave danger. Suffice it to say that folks do not normally retain their usual calmness. Consider, then, the man, woman or child who is suddenly faced with danger and needs help urgently. Chances are, unless he or she has memorized all the telephone numbers we have mentioned or has a list of them tacked on the wall by the telephone (which is not likely), precious time will be lost before confusion passes and help is called.

A central emergency telephone switch board in Belleville would be a wonderful contribution. But until such a thing is built here, we suggest short family "memory meetings" ought to be held until all emergency telephone numbers become as familiar as one's own name.

Shady nook or bungalow?
Down beside a running stream
Would you want to stay and dream,
Idling all the hours away
With a babe at home, I say?

When a baby's on your knee
Where could greater pleasure
be?
Would you leave him for a show—
Comedy or drama? No,
Would you seek more comfort,
say?

Fishing there upon the bay
Would you put the youngster down
For the luring lights of town?
When a baby's on your knee
Would you wish elsewhere to be?

When a baby's in the home
Father never cares to roam.
All his pleasure, all his joy
Wrapped up in that girl or boy.
All the charm that father seeks,
In the pink of baby's cheeks.
Here's the light that never dies
Sparkling light of baby's eyes.
When a baby's in the home
Father never cares to roam.

London Ocean Not a City

BBC London Letter

"London's not a city; it's an ocean. You can't 'see' it in a lifetime, let alone a week," said Sydney Carter, himself a Londoner born and bred, broadcasting in a BBC program. He gave some advice to visitors who want to taste "the special flavor of the largest city in the world."

The first and cheapest way to make a quick reconnaissance of the official "sights" is the Westminster Abbey, the Houses of Parliament and the Tower of London, was, he said, to take an hour trip from Victoria round the City and Westminster on a double-decker bus. There were no guides on these trips so it would be as well to get a map of the bus and Underground routes issued free at the London Transport Offices, and the visitor could then return later to anything that particularly took his fancy.

good bird's-eye view of London could be obtained from the tower of Westminster cathedral (Roman Catholic) near Victoria, which could be reached by lift, and from the dome on the South side of St. Paul's Cathedral (Anglican). Monuments in London, the City, but the visitor had to walk to the top of those.

The most adventurous sightseer would, of course, begin his visit by looking at a guide book, Carter said, and if he wanted to see films, operas, and theatres — "Shakespeare at the Thomas' Church rectory during his stay in the city to take part in the observance of Armistice Day."

Mr. Clifford Howie, Dundas Street east, spent yesterday in Montreal with friends.

Mr. A. R. Wonnacott's jewelery store on Front Street was entered some time during Wednesday night and early Thursday afternoon when the store was opened after being closed during the morning owing to the Armistice Day ceremonies at the cenotaph. According to the value of $100.00 and a small amount of cash were taken.

Mr. Howard Appleton and Mr. Harold Wood, Jr., have attended a convention of the Garage Owners' Association in Toronto this week.

Miss Mary Forster of this city attended the Masquerade dance at Hart House, Toronto, last evening.

Miss Mary Walbridge and Miss Helen Rathbun will be the hostesses at the Belleville Badminton Club party this evening.

Miss Beth Lynch will spend the weekend in Kingston and will attend the Varsity-Queens game on Saturday.

Hastings County has passed the half million mark in the Victory Loan Campaign.

The work of stocking white fish spawn for the Dominion hatchery here has been completed and 62 million young white fish have been placed in the development receptacles at the hatchery. Forty five million lake trout spawn have arrived at the hatchery from Manitoulin Island and will be developed during the winter months and the fish fry will be placed in the lake in the spring.

Following are the scores made at the shoot at the armouries last night: Alfred R. Symons 99; Arthur Harman 97; J. Douch 97; J. C. Wills 96; J. S. Peck 95; J. Woodley 93.

November 12th., 1907

Many persons in this city will regret to learn of the death of the Rev. M. W. Maclean, who was for thirty years in the ministry of the Presbyterian Church in this city. For a generation almost he was prominent in the religious and social life of the city and he was esteemed as a worthy Canadian gentleman. Mr. Maclean died today at Arlington Beach, Sask. In the year 1873 he came to Belleville as minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and he resigned from active service in the ministry in 1903 and shortly afterwards he left here to reside in Western Canada. For many years he was the popular chaplain of the 15th. Regiment and for a considerable time he served as a member of the Board of Education.

The Y.M.C.A. campaign for new members will commence this week.

Handyman Faces Perils

These are the days when the cult of "do-it-yourself" in relation to jobs required around the house has taken hold of a great number of people. They are told to do by doing jobs themselves, they will save money and accomplish things which would otherwise be impossible.

There is, however, another side to this do-it-yourself business. According to an expert with the American Mutual Liability Insurance Company, "do-it-yourself enthusiasts may get more cuts and bruises and repair bills. What they save on those may have to be spent on doctor's bills."

This expert has some figures to prove his point. He claims that in the United States 600,000 people are injured each year in the process of doing things for themselves.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WHAT OF OUR AGE?

Are we living in an age of enlightenment? In some ways we are; in other ways we are not. Certainly no generation of humanity has known so much or achieved so many useful inventions as this age. Yet knowledge is not always enlightenment. True enlightenment depends upon the discernment we make of knowledge. Nothing is so dangerous as a well-educated villian. Widespread ignorance is better than high intellectual attainment no longer disciplined by moral restraint.

The Dark Ages of ignorance were indescribably terrible, but if we do not watch out, we may make our age of intelligence and research as terrible as those Dark Ages. Everyone knows, of course, that a resort to atomic warfare would ruin everything we have achieved and perhaps put us back centuries. But even more frightening than the threat of atomic war is the danger that we may come so to trust to our own knowledge and the techniques we have developed that we will replace all hold on spiritual things.

To be sure, the churches are now crowded, but don't put too much stock in that as an evidence of genuine spiritual revival. What we must ask ourselves is whether or not we, and the world at large, are being fascinated and overwhelmed by the lure of seen things and thus blinded and benumbed to the significance of the unseen and eternal.

Seeks to End Baggy Pants

Ottawa Journal

The Prime Minister, speaking to Canada by television the other evening, wore a two-piece suit, and that is a sign of sartorial change. A man's suit nowadays more often than not means coat and trousers, and a waistcoat is an extra.

No doubt this added display of shirt and neckwear does something to relieve the monotony of its traditional severity and monotony, but there are disadvantages too. It deprives the two-piece-suit man of four pockets in which ordinarily he carries his pen and pencils, his pocket notebook, perhaps his car keys and goodness knows what else, and an abundance of pockets is to a man what a capacious handbag is to a woman. Lacking it a man has no more than eight or nine pockets and they must share an added burden. That needs to be understood — that extra burden.

And now another part of the male attire is under investigation — an Australian scientist, Dr. Arthur Farnworth, has made it known, and at length he will endow trousers with a permanent crease—a sharp crease proof against wind, rain, and downright raining, against rain and snow.

Dr. Farnworth says that the Australian wool research bureau and gave two years of experiments to finding a permanent pressing treatment for saving his fellowman from the curse. At length he tried something called a weak solution of thioglycollic acid which softens wool fibres and trousers before pressing them. It worked on the mother's clothes, worked on his own and knocked out creases—and wool-conscious Australia hails Farnworth as the man of the year.

For those technically-minded here is the inventor's explanation: "The acid spray and steam-pressing of trousers breaks the molecular structure of wool proteins, which take up new positions when the trousers are pressed and stay that way." A pint of the solution will give permanent crease in 70 pairs of trousers at a cost of about one cent each pair.

So far the trial is sounds, and use of the Farnworth discovery becomes general, baggy pants are on their way out and that is no solution to the problem of fat men with deep pockets.

Here's Way To Age Slowly

Montreal Gazette

Now that man has begun to reach out beyond the earth's atmosphere, travel in space can be looked upon as a future subject a fictional theory. But true space travel involves such vast distances—nearly impossible for the human mind to grasp—that speeds of 186,284 miles per second, or light, 186,324 miles per second, would be necessary.

This, it is believed, could be made possible by the use of photon (light particles) propulsion. That sounds fantastic, but the photon propulsion is already under preliminary study.

It is not for nothing that when we speak of distances the large number we call them "astronomical." The distances between worlds and galaxies of worlds are measured by astronomers in "light years," the number of years it takes light, at 186,324 miles a second, to reach these planets, to reach this earth.

Scientists are now trying to explain to the general public some of the strange things outlined in Einstein's theory of relativity, that such distances at such speeds would mean that we would no longer be a day in a mile a mile. Time, for instance, we are told, might age only 10 years while the earth aged 1,000 years.

Not many of this generation are likely to master the theory of relativity. But one illustrating clue we can grasp.

If a person lives 70 light-years away from earth, then the view of it that we see now has taken 1,000 years to reach our eyes. That is our view of that planet now is 1,000 years out of date.

On that planet, the view of earth which is reaching it by inhabitants (if any) today is our earth as it looked 1,000 years ago.

Misled by centuries-old rays of light, a man might imagine for a space traveller to set out for a planet "a mere million light-years" it is a disconcerting thought.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

The High-Handed Hospital People

"I have had two babies. Different doctors each time. Both doctors said my husband could remain with me if the hospital would allow it. Both times we found the hospital would not allow it.

"Our 5-year-old son had to have something done to his ear. The doctor took him to the hospital and my husband went along. At the door a nurse took the boy and told my husband he'd have to sit in the waiting-room all day, when they came at the boy with the gas mask.

"If you were five and they took you into such a frightful place, with a lot of strangers staring at you and wouldn't you yell? Mrs. T.G.)"

I believe I would yell my head off under such cruel circumstances. You can't put all the blame on the hospital, Ma'am.

The doctors are to blame for it. They, not the hospital, make the rules and nastily duck responsibility by saying certainly your husband can share the misery with you. If one of the hospital will allow it. Tell me, Ma'am, how can you put your faith in a doctor who deceives you like that?

If any hospital superintendent physician, nurse or other "authority" controlled the sanitary or aseptic propriety of an expectant father in the delivery room I'll describe a few observations I have made in respect to that question.

It has been a long while since I have been addled by a woman about indelicacy; and I hope it won't happen again, for my stomach is pretty well settled now.

The reason why certain doctors don't want to keep what goes on in the delivery room a secret is not at all what you poor untutored customers are led to believe. A husband in the delivery room is no more likely to contaminate the atmosphere or to infect anybody than is a doctor or a nurse.

In the hospital they put asunder what God hath joined together because it is more convenient for the doctor to shift responsibility for what he has patient in the hands of nurses or other attendants if the husband is isolated or confined to the monkey cage with other goofs.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The local gossip following on the recent revelations of the vast billions of dollars invested in private fortunes in the United States appears to boil down to this: that is a far better thing your grandpa to leave you maybe twenty, or fifty, or twenty hundred dollars than to leave you a million or ten million.

And also assume that there are more such fortunate people among us than you would suppose. Almost everybody I heard remarking on those fabulous Rockefeller and Ford estates knew somebody, or was personally related to somebody, who had left pretty comfortable. Maybe not in the million class; but pretty respectable, in most instances, it was no more than a few thousand dollars, bringing in a monthly income about equal to what the fortunate heir earns each month at the store clerk, school teacher or a bookkeeper. In other figures, it was in modest sums of perhaps thirty thousand dollars in the custody of a trust company, which yields the capital in mortgages. And lo and behold you, the $1400 this brings in, per annum, spells the difference between a happy man and a harried man, working and worrying unattainably and without hurrah in an insurance office-desk man.

Last week, I was driven through a suburban district of the big city amid countryside that ten years ago was farm land and nearby orchard. In and the little trees were the familiar ranch-type bungalows, each with its garage and—more and more—each exclusive. As far as I could determine, not one of them occupied by young married couples.

"How much do these houses cost?" I asked my chauffeur.

"Oh, $35,000 to $45,000," said he casually.

"Where in the world," I cried, "does anybody get $35,000 or $45,000?"

We must not suppose that the only rich men are sixty or seventy-five with a half a billion each. Our happiest and most numerous class is the ones Grandpa left $35,000 to.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

NEVER STOP WONDERING

I live in a big city but my home is in a section where the trees are all around. Right now it is a regular fairy land of color as leaves. They are everywhere. The wind is blowing them, changes my faith and fills my mind with wonder. In fact everything in nature fills me with wonder.

How tragic that billions are being spent in the most effective way to blow civilization to bits!

A blade of grass and an Autumn leaf fill me with wonder and in fact I can't get through a day that the Creator has placed upon earth for the people to enjoy and admire. And perhaps would remain so unless we are to be discovered.

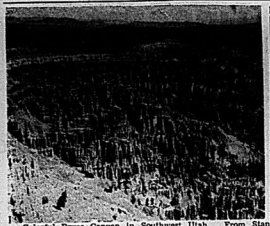
What a world this would be if all the money now spent for war could be spent on libraries and schools and with adequate salaries for teachers in both schools and colleges.

Why should there even be any thought of war? What a beautiful world we live in, and why should millions go to bed at night hungry in the midst of plenty? Even in the town in which I live I recently read of a mother and her two children who had starved to death. Why?

The mystery that of beauty on this earth fills me with wonder, no matter where I travel. I have been watching the last of the beautiful flowers outside my library bloom and fade — and even

City Spoils Apple Pie

New York Herald-Tribune



Let a man's eye rove over the desserts listed on a restaurant menu and he must always choose apple pie.

Numerous chance is unfortunate for man, whose frustrations continue many in a world of both rural and urban discontent an orchard may have done its part. The makers of city apple pie are not uniformly proud in satisfying one of man's chief hankerings. A bough has been bent in an upstate orchard and eventually Manhattan's man bends over a slice of apple pie. But the difference between the sort of apple pie that comes from the heart of a farm kitchen and the pie which emerges as a delusion of item make it unwise and unfair to indulge in taste, if not in cheesecake or lemon sherbet.

Stan Midgley, well known to the local Travelogue audience, will feature his latest film — "Jeep Trails Through Utah" — at the Collegiate Auditorium on Thursday, November 14th, the second of the current Kiwanis Club "World Travel and Adventure Series".

Midgley left his famous bicycle at home when he set out to explore the wonders of Utah. He decided to use a jeep for he knew that it would be "hard peddling" through the deep sands and the high mountains that he was bound to encounter. This colorful and most bizarre area of the United States turned out to be a glorious subject for his cameras, and a delightful opportunity for the famous Midgley brand of "good humor". In addition to what one would expect to see in Utah — Bryce and Zion Canyons, Mormon temples and Salt Lake City, the Great Salt Lake and the huge copper mine at Bingham, the Alta and the Wasatch Mountains, Monument Valley and Navajo Indians — Stan spent much of his time photographing places that are almost unknown to tourists. Included are Arches National Monument, natural bridges, the Colorado River, Capital Reef, Wayne Wonderland, Moab, Fish Lake, Mt. Timpanogos, prehistoric Indian cliff dwellings, Crystal Geyser, Goblin Valley, Cathedral Valley, the Flaming Gorge, and many other natural wonders. And all of it in perfect color.

A few series tickets will be available at the door on Thursday evening.

Economist Believes Money Policy Has Contributed to Recession We Are Now In

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian monetary policy has certainly contributed to the recession we now are in," J. R. Petrie, Montreal consulting economist, said Monday in an address to the annual tax conference of the Canadian Tax Foundation.

"I do not," he added, "place the whole blame for this recession on monetary policy, but a determined enough credit squeeze can take the fresh off any boom, and cause a downward swing in economic activity

"I am not, however, persuaded that the juggling of money rates can halt a business recession once it is under way."

The use of monetary policy in a dynamic economy—whether on the positive or negative slope of a cycle—is, said Mr. Petrie, like giving a patient medicine under circumstances of a diagnosis that may have as much as six or seven months' time lag. Accordingly, the difficulty of timing was a major problem.

Speaking with "the benefit of hindsight," Mr. Petrie said he thought the monetary authorities had "missed the boat" when they lowered the bank rate in early 1955 only to wake up later in the year to find the country in the middle of a roaring boom.

This boom reached its peak last February and if monetary authorities were to be consistent they should have eased money restrictions six months ago.

NOW SEES CONFLICT

"Now," said Mr. Petrie, "we find ourselves with the problem of the Bank of Canada wanting to maintain stringent money while some political leaders are convinced that it should be relaxed.

"From all that I can learn the bank has not changed its views and is still concerned over inflationary pressures.

"It is true that many prices are still rising, but if this be inflation it is not the kind of inflation we had five years ago when the pressure on prices was caused by a shortage of goods in relation to demand. There are no shortages now.

"The situation is a "cost-price-push." Wages are still rising and I predict they will rise again next year. Productivity, on the other hand, is well down.

"Maintenance of tight money is not going to solve the "cost-price-push. While I am not satisfied that easier money will stop this recession now, I am convinced that the maintenance of existing monetary policy will aggravate both its amplitude and duration."

The philosophy of "full employment." Mr. Petrie stated, had economic implications that now bedevilled its proponents, because all the devices used to achieve and maintain full employment were inflationary.

"Inflation is not a political asset," he continued. "So the politician tries to keep it under control. But the means of controlling it (according to the prevailing cyclical theory)—through the use of fiscal and monetary policy—are even more unpopular than inflation itself."

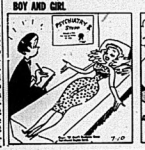
NO NATIONAL PLANE

Mr. Petrie described attempts to control "the so-called national economy" as a "mythical concept."

There were four economies in Canada—Atlantic, Central, Prairie and West Coast and even in the greatest boom in history, not all parts had been as prosperous as British Columbia, Alberta, Ontario and Quebec.

The Atlantic provinces had never shared on anything like an equitable basis with the prosperity of the central provinces.

"Yet," said Mr. Petrie, "in an effort to slow down what Ottawa's monetary authorities have construed to be an excessive rate of expansion in Canada's heartland, the impact of this policy inevitably puts the brakes on threadbare, lagging area.



"If such stringent policy were enforced for any considerable time, serious repercussions on the soft spots in the nation are indicated.

"I am in full sympathy with Maritime business and political leaders who protest against tight money. It is a further example of what the Rowell-Sirois Commission pointed out many years ago, that so-called national policy has often worked against the economic welfare of the Maritimes."

SAYS PLANS SHELVED

OTTAWA (CP) — The Ottawa Citizen says the government has shelved plans for a $10,000 post office headquarters building on Riverside Drive in Ottawa South. The story says the postponement reflects a "go slow" construction policy decided upon as a result of heavier government commitments for social security and other financial obligations.

Wedding

WILDER — O'HARA

In a pretty ceremony at the United Church parsonage October 26, Miss Barbara Ann O'Hara, daughter of Mrs. Mary O'Hara, 77 Station street, became the bride of Mr. David Stanley Wilder, of Plainfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wilder, Rev. R. W. T. Middleton, of R. R. 3 Belleville, officiated.

The bride wore a white brocaded dress, with a blue feathered hat, blue shoes and white gloves and carried a colonial bouquet of red roses.

She was attended by Miss Shirley Wilder, of Plainfield, who wore a pink dress with pink and black accessories, and carried a colonial bouquet of pink chrysanthemums.

A reception was held at the home of the bride, where her mother received the guests, wearing a blue lace dress with white accessories, and a corsage of white mums. The groom's mother assisted, wearing a dress of dusty rose with black accessories, and a corsage of white mums.

Following the reception the happy couple left for a wedding trip to Ottawa, Quebec City. Upon their return they will reside at 281 William street, Belleville.

Guests were present from Belleville, Kingston, and Plainfield.

Prior to the marriage the bride was given a shower by her coworkers from Northern Electric. The shower was held at the home of Miss Carol Conboy, who was hostess. She was assisted by Miss Lorna Gifford.

Among the many gifts received by the bride was a bedspread from the staff of Northern Electric, and an iron from the staff of Hinkle Electric, where the groom is employed.

Relatives ,Friends Surprise Couple on 25th Anniversary

On Saturday evening Oct. 26, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Boldrick, returning from a turkey supper at the home of their neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Treverton, were surprised to find that about 50 of their relatives and neighbors had gathered at their home, to honor them on their 25th wedding anniversary.

During their absence the home had been gaily decorated with streamers and bells. A three-tiered wedding cake made by their daughter Mrs. Glen Elliott adorned the table.

After playing progressive euchre Mr. and Mrs. Boldrick were given seats of honor under bells of white stitch, when burst, showered them with confetti. Mrs. Charles Treverton read an address on behalf of the neighbors of the 6th concession and Mrs. Edna Goodman presented them with an electric frying pan.

Another address was read by Mrs. Arthur Boldrick representing the Boldrick family and the couple were presented with a coffee table and electric sandwich toaster.

Their immediate family, Eileen, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Earle Boldrick, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cronk presented them with an electric tea kettle and electric shaver. They also received several beautiful gifts from close friends and relatives.

Auxiliary Told Of Mission Work In South-East Asia

The regular monthly meeting of the Jubilee Evening Auxiliary was held in Bridge Street United Church on Tuesday evening with Miss Grace Kenny presiding. Following the singing of hymn 329 and prayer, Miss Kenny extended a welcome to all.

Letters from Mr. Tyler, custodian of the Gray Memorial Home, and Dr. Gordon, who is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Locke, of Belleville, expressing thanks for a gift of $100 from the Jubilee Evening Auxiliary, were read by Miss Helen Cook. This gift was toward the building of a hospital in Salburi, Thailand, as a memorial to Mr. Gray. Miss Grace Houston read a letter from Dr. Gordon and Mrs. Gray from Thailand also thanking the group for the gift and telling about their work among the Malays and of the great need of a hospital where closer contact with the patients might be made by both doctor and evangelist.

Miss Kenny read a letter giving the schedule for the coming mission by the Rev. G. Ernest Thomas. The members were asked for continued prayers for the success of the mission.

Mrs. Ralph Wilder was in charge of the worship service conducted by Miss Marion Nichol. After the singing of the hymn, "Peace, Perfect Peace," the Beatitudes were read by Mrs. Locke.

STUDY PHILIPPINES

The study book on the Philippines and Indo China was given in a very interesting and capable manner by Miss Kathleen McPherson and her group. A quick survey of the two countries showed the following interesting facts: the governments of the Philippines is Republic; that of Indo China, Communist and Democratic Republic. The Philippines have a membership in the United Nations, Indo China has not. The Philippines have a population of 21 million, Indo China 37 million. Minority groups in the Philippines are Chinese and Moslem, while in Indo China, they are Chinese. The main industry in both is agriculture. The chief religions are, in the Philippines, Christianity and in Indo China, Buddhism. The standard of living in both the Philippines and Indo China is low. Protestant communities in the Philippines number over 500,000, while in Indo China they number 70,000.

There are many features common to both, the people of both countries stem from a common Malay heritage. Both have a colonial background, U.S.A. and France, Both have low standards of living. The chief occupation in both is agriculture and multi-racial societies exist in both areas.

VISITOR FROM MANILLA

The remainder of the program was in the form of a dramatization. Miss McPherson introduced Madam Sadig, from Manilla, (Miss Helen Sulman), and two delegates, Mrs. Clare and Mrs. Sherman, who had just returned from the Philippines and French Indo China. An interview with Madam Sadig brought out the differences in customs.

Mrs. Sherman, reporting on the Protestant churches, found the strength and vigor of the Protestant churches amazing, considering their numbers.

Mrs. Chappel found that in all countries the same problems of learning to live together are the same.

Look for This Style

By VERA WINSTON

Practically every dress house is busy turning out an interpretation of the chemise dress. It's a style many of us will be wearing before spring.

Ready for wear at holiday parties is this one in black crepe. It is utterly simple in front, high draping terminates in low-placed, looped panels. Short sleeves and a deep, square neckline in back complete the styling.

back as the 17th century, today there is little restriction on religious activity. Christian work needs strengthening in Indo China more than in any other country in South East Asia. Communism thrives on the failure of Christians to be truly Christian.

Miss Kenny gave a very brief survey on Hong Kong, which is an island only 32 miles square with a population of 2,500,000, swelled by refugees from Red China. Conditions are deplorable, she said. Canadian missionaries are working there and in the leper colony at one end of the island.

Miss Kenny thanked the program and supper groups. The last meeting closed with the benediction.

Named U of M Freshie Queen 11 Days After Arrival in Wpg.

By BOB TRIMBEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — Lalla Sultan - Khan, of Indian parentage but born in Trinidad, was named Freshie Queen at the University of Manitoba just 11 days after her arrival in Winnipeg.

The 20-year-old beauty, whose home is in San Fernando, won the crown over 17 Canadian girls in a freshman-week contest.

Winning turned out to be an anti-climax. Lalla was sick with the flu and couldn't take part in the festivities. She got the crown in a special ceremony almost a month later.

She doesn't need a crown to distinguish her in a crowd. Five feet, three inches tall, she has a trim figure, long black hair, long eyelashes, big brown eyes and a flashing smile.

IN ABYS COURSE

One of 53 Trinidad students at the university, Lalla is taking a four-year arts course, and if Winnipeg's cold winter weather doesn't drive her away, she'll take a fifth year to get a teacher's certificate.

Late October snow here gave her a thrill.

"Snow is something you dream about in Trinidad," she said. "All the students who are coming to Canada talk about it. When I saw it for the first time I was really terrified."

Much of her leisure time is taken up watching television and more than once "sore eyes were the result." There is no television in Trinidad.

Life in Winnipeg is a favorite topic in letters home. The friendly people and thousands of street lights have impressed her besides the pace of life.

"People here go out of their way to make sure you feel at home. They do things so fast. They're always rushing and never seem to slow down."

BROTHER AT OTTAWA

Lalla passed university in the British West Indies because she wanted to see the world. Canada got the nod over Great Britain because her brother, Clyde, 28, is studying medicine at the University of Ottawa.

Lalla chose the University of Manitoba after hearing about it from returning students. She also has relatives in nearby St. Boniface.

She plans to return to Trinidad

Her favorite hobby is cake icing and decorating, a popular pastime in Trinidad, and she has won prizes for her work at local exhibitions.

The daughter of a printer and jeweller who left India for the British West Indies, Lalla is one of six children. Three brothers and one sister still are going to school and a fourth brother has entered her father's business.

City and District H. and S. Council Monthly Meet Held

The Belleville and District Home and School Council met at the Corby Public Library November 7 for their regular meeting.

The Student Accident Insurance report was read, and there are 2009 policies issued to date. The individual school totals are as follows:

The traffic safety committee's request was dealt with at some length, but further study is needed before the Associations or Home and School Council can provide a definite answer.

The president, Mrs. Charles Powell thanked Mrs. R. Jones and Mrs. N. O'Neill for taking over her duties at the regional conference, held in Peterborough October 10 when, due to illness, she was unable to attend.

An invitation to the H & S Council to present a program at the Avondale Home and School meeting in November was accepted and a film with a buzz session following will be given.

DANCE — FOR BEAUTY'S SAKE

No on- to whirl you about the dance floor? Stage a solo to improve figure and lift morale.

It seems a pity that so many men, once they've passed their twenties, seem to lose all interest in dancing. Time and time again we've heard women sigh, "Oh, I would just love to go dancing some night, but my husband just doesn't like to dance." Inevitably, too, she goes on to say that she can't understand it either, because when they were "keeping company," you couldn't get him off the dance floor.

Yes, it's too bad — for both of them. There's no — "exercise" in the world that's so slimming and suppling to the body. And dancing has the merit of being "exercise" without seeming to be. It's fun, while straight calisthenics are often boring or tiring.

Well, lady, if Poppa refuses to take you dancing, what are you going to do? Moping about it won't get you anywhere, we know, and "nagging, especially on that basis that dancing's "good for him," won't either. So our suggestion is that you get all the physical benefits and needed relaxation from household chores by dancing without him. It won't be as much fun, of course, but it will do you a lot of good.

Exercise is always more efficacious when it's done to rhythm, so put aside the mops and brooms for a half hour each day and turn on the record player. Pick a waltz tune since waltz music helps to put rhythm and grace into your movements. Just dance about the room for a few minutes to limber up and get in the mood, then try your steps with slimming and suppling purposes in mind. If you can get Dad or the handy man to saw a broomstick in half (you needn't explain), use the stick as a wand. Hold it high over head — bet not stiffly — so that your midriff gets the benefit of the up-and-in pull, and dance away to your heart's content. Not only will your figure improve in a very short time, but you'll be amazed how you'll begin to look forward to your dancing sessions each morning. There's nothing like a half hour of rhythm, music and complete relaxation to send one back to household chores with renewed vigor and enthusiasm.

BOOKS FOR CLUB LEADERS

"How to Run a Club"—Simmons: "While slanted toward the larger, business associated predominantly m asculine club, most of this handbook is equally applicable to all clubs."

"Clubwoman's Book." — Avery: This book contains useful information regarding principles of grammling, administration, finances, committees, public relations and fund raising.

"101 Ideas for Clubs" — Stein: The information given in this book is not easily found elsewhere. There are suggestions for club names, mottoes, insignia, jewel and flower symbols, club colors and their meanings. Suggestions for initiation are included and patterns for speeches.

"New Ways to Better Meetings" Strauss; This book is for anyone who has to lead meetings, large or small, and has an uneasy feeling that they aren't what they might be.

"Rules of Order" — Robert; Rules of order are given based on parliamentary procedure.

"Successful Speakers' Handbook" Prochnow; The author endeavors to point out the essentials which are important in gaining the ability to speak to groups of persons.

"Club Member's Handbook" — Milligan; The duties of the officers of clubs and organizations are given in complete detail and information regarding motions, amendments, order of business, etc.

"When Your Club Picks Yes" — Lang; The author discusses the many problems with which club members are faced — publicity, fund raising, committee work, planning programs and getting members.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Janet A. — My husband's wishes come first.

Mrs. R.R. — That's just an evasion of her responsibility.

* * *

Janet A. — I am in my mid-30's and I have been married a little over a year. Now I am facing an awful problem and I don't know just what to do.

My mother died when I was four years old and my father remarried and moved away shortly afterwards. My grandmother brought me up. She was very good to me in her own way, but she is a peculiar, unfriendly woman and my husband doesn't like her very much.

She is now in poor health and my aunt tell me it is my place to take her in, since she did so much for me. My husband says if she comes, he goes. I don't think he would really do it, but he wishes I would take her first. My aunts screamed at me when I told them that.

* * *

Mrs. N.R. — My sister and I just broke down and cried when we realized how ungrateful Janet is. Her father was ready to put her in an orphanage until our mother stepped in and said she would take her. But when Janet through thick and thin and cared for her as only a mother can. Now this little upstart says her husband comes first.

As a matter of fact, Janet wouldn't even have had a husband if it weren't for my sister and me. She is not exactly attractive, but we managed to find a young man for her. We had to lass him practically to get him to meet her.

Janet's silly excuse about her husband is just an evasion of her rightful responsibility. How selfish can you get?

* * *

Mrs. N.R. and her sister have evidently excused themselves from all responsibility toward their mother, who probably also cared for them as "only"a mother can." Just why is Janet more ungrateful than they are?

It appears to us that Mrs. N.R. and her sister are trying to "use" Janet as a family scapegoat and are trying to cover up their selfishness with a brazen attack on the young woman.

Certainly, Janet owes her grandmother a good deal, but she should point out to her aunts that she is not alone in this debt. She should not permit herself to be browbeaten by these aggressive, older women, but should ask them to show good cause why they cannot care for their aged mother.

Family of Three Have $60 Per Month for Food

By Mary Moore

From now until New Years this column is going to be filled to overflowing with recipes and ideas that demand extra money in the food budget.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

TUESDAY

Creole Wieners; Crusty French Loaf; Delicate Turnip (mashed with Potato and Cream); Spinach; Fresh Fruit Cup; Canadian Traveller Cookies (see Monday); Coffee.

* * *

So I am happy to-day to answer a serious letter (below) on strict budgeting for I am well aware of the unstretchable budgets in our midst.

"Dear Mary Moore . . . We are a family of 3. My husband, myself and our little girl of 19 months. She still eats a great many baby foods in cans, but is beginning to eat our food. Is it possible to eat on $60 a month, and still get all the necessary foods for health. I would appreciate any menus you would kindly let me have . . . Mrs. M. D."

It is possible to manage on $60 per month, and many of our readers are doing it, but the buyer and cook has to be alert and experienced and will sigh a magician — especially with the Cost-of-Living Index rising every Quarter. An excellent reference which I think every reader should have is called Healthful Eating. I have mailed a copy to Mrs. M. D. It has been prepared by budget and nutrition experts of our Department of National Health and Welfare and copies may be obtained from the Department of Health in each province or for 15c from the Queen's Printer, Ottawa.

A cardinal rule when one is forced to economize on food is to avoid monotony and to serve food attractively. Skim milk powder is a big help in lowering the milk bill.

The following menus are examples on which weekly meals could be based.

BREAKFASTS:

To each menu add milk for children, coffee or tea for adults. 1) Orange, rolled oats, milk and brown sugar, whole wheat toast. 2) Prunes, cornmeal porridge, milk and brown sugar, whole wheat toast. 3) Tomato juice, French toast, corn syrup. 4) Applesauce, hot whole grain cereal, milk and brown sugar. 5) Canned grapefruit juice, cream of wheat, milk and brown sugar. 6) Orange juice (frozen), rolled oats, milk and brown sugar. 7) Orange halves, scrambled eggs, whole wheat toast, jam.

LUNCHES

NOTES:

Add milk to each which could be whole, skim, reliquefied milk powder or buttermilk. 1) Tomato Cream soup, whole wheat egg sandwich, celery, apple. 2) Toasted whole wheat cheese sandwich, cole slaw with parsley, blancmange. 3) Homemade beef vegetable soup, toasted dark rye bread, cottage cheese and tomato jelly salad, canned applesauce. 4) Creamed pink salmon on whole wheat toast, celery and apple salad, date oat squares. 5) Liverwurst rye bread sandwiches, shredded carrots with mayonnaise, raisin rice pudding. 6) Fish Chowder, whole wheat muffins, canned plums 7) Salad plate with cottage cheese or cubes of process cheese, cornbread, stewed figs.

NOTE:

Nutritive, economical dinner menus will be given in a second instalment next Tuesday November 19.

"Better Speeches for All Occasions"— Wright; Outlines of many types of speeches are included in this very popular aid. Advice and instruction on better speech making is also given.

"Chairmanship" — Marshall; Chapters are given on Fundamentals of Chairmanship, The Appointment, Duties and Powers of the Chairman, Points of Order, Conduct of Conferences, Differences in Procedure Between General and Committee meetings.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

IS YOUR UMBRELLA A "PUBLIC ENEMY"?

Don't be an "umbrella demon!" This careless breed is increasing terrifyingly, particularly since long-handled umbrellas have become so fashionable. Do watch, please, where you and your umbrella are going. Don't brandish it about, open or closed, with absolutely no regard for the eyes and ribs and backs and shins of co-travellers on streets, buses, trains. Don't drag it along the sidewalk or (as we too often see) along the aisle of a darkened movie theater . . . don't let it obstruct the aisle of a bus or train. Be particularly sure that you are carrying your umbrella most carefully when you see a sightless person approaching with a white walking-stick, or when you meet an elderly person or a crippled person, or a quick-running child. Good Umbrella-Manners are an important Safety Measure!

HOW TO ADDRESS LETTERS TO HER WIDOWED AUNT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother and father died when I was twelve years old, and ever since then, until last year when I came here to this city to work, I have lived with my beloved aunt and uncle. Two weeks ago my uncle died, and I have just returned here from attending the funeral. I am wondering how I should now address my letters to my aunt. I have always addressed them to (for example) Mrs. Charles Hall. Now should I address the envelope in her name, "Mrs. Margaret Hall," or continue to use my uncle's name, Mrs. Charles Hall? — Anne Address your letters to Mrs. Chrles Hall. Your aunt should . . . and I do hope she will . . . use the same form of name she used while her husband was living. That's correct.

MENTION MOTHER'S "NEW" NAME IN INTRODUCTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother has recently remarried. Now when I introduce her, is it necessary that I mention her new surname? — Daughter

Yes . . . in these important introductions after your mother's remarriage, you should mention her present name. If you don't, naturally the person meeting her would assume that her name is the same as yours, and would address her by that name after the introduction.

Millions Pause Around World To Honor Dead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Millions of persons around the world paused Mon. to honor their war dead.

The 39th anniversary of Germany's First World War armistice was marked by unsay peace and solemn ceremonies at many scores of capitals and towns.

In France, which suffered bitterly in both world wars, troops paraded past silent crowds. In Paris, the ceremonies were held under lead-grey skies in chilly temperatures.

Anyone hoping to see a display of mechanized military might in Paris was disappointed. The only thing on wheels in the parade was a tiny command car.

QUEEN WEARS BLACK

In Washington, Governor Joe Foss of South Dakota a Marine flying ace in the Second World War and an air force officer during the Korean conflict was the principal speaker for Veterans' Day ceremonies. The main observance was held at the tomb of the unknown soldier.

In Frankfurt, Germany, U.S. forces held quiet memorial ceremonies. It was a holiday for the troops and some used the opportunity to visit battlefields in France, Belgium and The Netherlands. For the Germans themselves, it was work as usual.

In Algiers, European students broke up the dignity of an Armistice Day parade in which 5,000 troops and 5,000 veterans, mostly Moslems, took part.

FIGHT BREAKS OUT

After the parade was reviewed by Robert Lacoste, minister for Algeria, the students started several fights. They were protesting against a government plan to give the North African state a measure of home rule.

In Seoul, South Korea, the United Nations commander of the area said in a Veterans' Day message that freedom is a "privilege—enjoyed only by those who are willing to fight for it, and, if necessary, die for it."

The commander, U.S. Gen. George H. Decker, said the UN command's purpose in South Korea is in "holding and bolstering this outpost of the free world."

I was a sleepless wreck

My nerves grated from lack of sleep. Indigestion bothered me. I felt jittery, depressed, drained of all ambition and energy.

Some people suffer unpleasantness because their systems are aggravated by elements in everyday beverages. This is particularly true of those with "nervous" temperaments.

While some people can drink tea, coffee, cocoa and some soft drinks without harm, others cannot.

Postum does not contain stimulants such as caffein, theophylline or theobromine which can rob you of sleep, irritate your nerves, speed up pulse with subsequent depressing letdown. Postum does not contain tannin to give you indigestion, nor any other ingredient to cause you harm.

Switch to Instant Postum, the beverage of comfort! Postum tastes and acts like no other beverage. Postum has its own distinctive flavor. Make Postum instantly, right in your cup. Just add freshly boiling water, or hot milk, stir and enjoy.

Try Postum for 30 days. When nerves are soothed, you sleep better, feel better, look better. Get Instant Postum at your grocer's. Costs less than 1¢ a cup. A product of General Foods, Limited.

Glasses Broken 'Blind' Climber Saved From Peak

HOPE, B.C. (CP) — A young climber, nearly blind because he broke his glasses, was rescued from the 7,000-foot level of Mount Hope Mon., after being marooned on a ledge for 36 hours.

Robert Valcier, 20, of King, Ont., told six rescuers he started to climb the mountain, about 100 miles east of Vancouver, Saturday morning.

At the 2,000-foot level, he slipped and tumbled down a 40-foot ravine His glasses were broken in the fall.

Valcier said he cried out for help and someone near the base of the mountain heard him.

He spent Saturday night on the peak in near-freezing temperatures. Drizzling rain fell throughout the weekend.

FIRST TRY FAILED

Two RCMP officers tried to reach him on his rocky perch Sunday and got within 100 feet of him before being stopped by a cliff.

The officers waited through the night for a mountain rescue group which began to climb the peak at 9 p.m. Sunday night.

Future Autos May Be Longer, Wider, but Not Much Lower

By DAVID J. WILKIE

DETROIT (AP) — Passenger cars of the future may vary some more in length and width but they are not likely to be much lower.

Some of the 1958 cars have been cut down to as little as 54 inches in over-all height. Most others do not exceed 57 inches. Road clearance ranges from 5¾ inches to 6¼ inches. By contrast the famed Model T stood 80 inches high and had a road clearance of slightly more than 10 inches.

Generally the lower silhouette has been achieved without sacrificing interior headroom, principally by lowering the seat and flattening out the roof. In some instances, too, the floors have been lowered.

One of the effects of the lower silhouette and the means by which it has been achieved is that passengers sit closer to the floor. In some makes lowering of the floor brings a higher and broader hump through the middle of the floor to accommodate part of the transmission and the propeller shaft.

NO GOOD FOR THREE

This has brought the criticism among some industry analysts that three adults cannot ride comfortably in the front seat. The hump, the critics say, forces the knees of an average adult above normal sitting position. It cannot be straddled without interfering with the driver's essential footwork.

Actual road clearance at the rear axle has not been materially altered. There has been some criticism, however, that some models with longer rear over-hang present problems moving up sharp inclines. This could bring a need for levelling or lifting devices such as are part of most of the newly-developed air suspension systems.

The lowered silhouette has the effect of making the cars appear longer, without actual increase in bumper - to - bumper dimension. However, some of the 1958 models have been increased as much as eight inches in length.

LACK OF HEAD ROOM

Many models were criticized last year for their lack of headroom, both in front and rear compartments. Lowering of the seat level has corrected this in most instances in the 1958 cars. In other instances tops have been widened slightly so that the passenger at either side of the rear seat has as much headroom as the one sitting in the centre.

In any event the over-all effect has been pleasing to the eyes of most industry chroniclers.

There never has been a time in auto industry history when the stylist was more important than now. The industry's merchandising managers agree eye appeal is a major sales factor. They do not underestimate the importance of engineering advances but they say styling attracts many buyers.

It also is fairly well agreed in trade circles that much of the Ford and Chrysler success during the 1957 model year was due to their advanced styling.

House plants need repotting. You can tell by checking root growth. Tap rim of pot against hard surface to remove plant. If contents are mass of roots, plant needs more room. Use pot one size larger than present one. It should be big enough to allow one to one and a half inches between root ball and sides of pot, but any larger can hinder growth.

paring for the laying of eight miles of freezing pipe and installation of compressors and other equipment. It is hoped to have this completed by December 15 when there will be an official opening.

The arena building is being made available by Prince Edward Agricultural Society which erected the $85,000 agricultural and recreational centre at the fair grounds. This will be turned over to an arena commission, composed of representatives of service clubs and other groups, who will operate it during the fall and winter season. As a Class "B" fair, the Society was able to secure grants covering 75 per cent of the cost of the building from federal and provincial governments.

Picton has entered a team in the intermediate league with Napanee, Belleville, Brockville and Smiths Falls. It will be coached and managed by Joe Scott of Wellington and Chris Lockyer of Picton.

Santa Parade Will Not Be Held This Year

PICTON — For the first time in seventeen years, there will not be a Santa Claus parade in Picton. At a meeting of directors of Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce, it was decided to let the annual event drop. It was stated that the burden of arranging a parade had fallen each year on a few people and that there had not been full co-operation on the part of merchants. Another factor was that the local store which owned the magnificent Santa float, also used at district parades, had sold the float. Though there will not be a parade, it is expected the arrangements will be made to have Santa visit the town and provide the children with treats.

LAUNCH SUB-HUNTER

CHERBOURG, France (AP) — The French Navy today launched the second of its secret submarine-hunter submarines. The 460-ton Arethuse is diesel - electric powered, but the number of atomic energy experts on hand for the launching strengthened speculation that the craft is concerned with atomic research.

ROSSMORE — Mrs. Nellie Alyea has returned to her home in Rossmore, having spent a few days in Plainfield visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Clapp spent the weekend in Ottawa and Hull, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Browaly.

Mr. W. Ross and Mr. A. Deline are among the many to be enjoying deer hunting.

Friends and neighbors of this community are happy to honor two well respected citizens and extend birthday greetings to Mr. Charles Reddick — who will celebrate the occasion Saturday with his family and to Mrs. Rook, who will mark the occasion of her birthday Wednesday; both of whom are over 80 years, and enjoy helping with community work. They play a wonderful hand of euchre.

Mrs. Marjory Clapp of Belleville, entertained the members of the euchre club of Rossmore at her home Wednesday night. A pleasant evening was enjoyed and prizes awarded according to score.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Out in Redding, California, they hail him as the next world heavyweight champion. And they could be right at that.

He is Eddie Machen, one of the more promising prospects in the bulldozer division who faces the big test tomorrow night at the Cow Palace out Frisco way.

Eddie who has yet to meet defeat in twenty-three professional bouts, meets the heavyweight windmill tosser Tommy Hurricane Jackson, who absorbed a rugged thrashing at the hands of heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson at the New York Polo Grounds last July. Hurricane's seconds gave up the battle after their fighter had been slowed to a zephyr and was wandering in the mist in the tenth chapter of a fifteen-round bout.

The boys in the backroom are still fingering their satchels of letture wondering if the Hurricane has recovered sufficiently from the Patterson shellacking and if Machen is not covered with rust from inactivity.

Machen hasn't laid a glove on an opponent since May 3 last when he defeated Joey Maxim by a decision in a ten-round affair at Louisville, Kentucky. The experts figure this battle will be one of a straight-forward boxer and hard puncher in Machen against the stamina and windmill slugging of the Hurricane.

Machen has won fifteen of his twenty-three victories by knockouts while Hurricane has won 13 of his 29 wins via the bye-bye route. He had fought 36 bouts, losing six and splitting another.

Jackson is said to be a whirlwind puncher who is continually on the move. He throws 'em from all directions and is exceptionally fast with a yen for clowning. He said his big weakness is his inability to avoid punches.

He stands six feet two in his birthday suit and cannot read nor write, although he attended public school until he was 13. He is deeply religious and has his mother and the Bible to him in the dressing room. His mother Georgia, acts as his second manager and exerts her influence on his career. He has been boxing since he was 16 and earned his nickname because of his ceaseless style. He has a reach of 84 inches, but this is sufficient to get him all the chicken and chops he needs since they are all he eats. He is unmarried.

One the other side of the ring Machen is a clever boxer, who has been soundly instructed by smart teachers. His best offensive is a smashing left jab followed by a solid right hook. However some of the boys in the know are wondering if he has the fighting instinct to fight back when he is hurt.

Machen is three inches shorter than his opponent. He likes expensive cars and when not tossing punches with boxing gloves will be found on a golf links. He won three bouts as an amateur, taking two by knockouts. He turned professional in 1855 and prior to that helped his dad carry Uncle's Sam's mail. Now he mails cheques to him.

The fight will be telecast except in the blacked-out area around Frisco and promoter Bennie Ford anticipates a $60,000 gate.

IT COULD BE

Sportswriters of the National Hockey League circuit are pondering over what might be a miracle or something of that nature. They have written that if Rocket Richard keeps up the sinless seasons he could be in line for the Lady Byng trophy.

But they should keep an eye on a youngster who could be in line for the Rookie-of-the-Year award. He is Master Robert Hull, eighteen-year-old blonde puckster from Point Anne who has the experts in various places a-wondering.

Bobbie apparently is fitting into the National League picture like a hand in an old glove. His first time out with the Chicago Black Hawks saw him mixing things like a veteran, and the bright stars of the big league held no fears for him. We say him via the living room one-eyed monster mixing things merrily in a punching bee on one occasion and young Robert backed up from none.

Over the weekend he scored a pair of goals, one against the Rangers, the other against the Leafs. He is the youngest player in the National League and if he keeps his present efficiency and scoring ability there is no doubt that Bobby is on the threshold of a brilliant professional hockey career. More power to his puck-shooting elbow.

Blair States Fan Pressure Nothing to Do With Deal; Will Take Over in Few Days

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's representatives to the world amateur hockey championship, Whitby Dunlops, have signed former National Hockey League star Sid Smith to a two-year contract as playing coach.

Smith, 32-year-old left winger who twice won the Lady Byng Memorial Trophy for sportsmanship and gentlemanly conduct, was waived out of the NHL Monday by Toronto Maple Leafs.

He had played with Leafs since the 1949-50 season and was team captain two years ago.

George Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said Smith's reinstatement as an amateur player would be a simple matter and he would be eligible to play in the world championships starting in Norway, Feb. 28.

WOULD ACCEPT MOVE

The world hockey organization would accept our definition of an amateur which permits payment for a player and reinstatement of one," he said.

Smith, a native of Toronto, said he has had a coaching job in mind for some time, but never figured I would start at the top with a senior club.

Only one hitch remains in the move. He has yet to be waived by the minor-pro Rangers. But Wren Blair, Whitby manager-coach until Smith's signing, said he anticipates no difficulty. "I've never known any pro club to stand in the way of a player who has a chance to accept a coaching position."

DENIES ANY PRESSURE

Blair had been under fire some weeks ago by a number of Whitby fans who petitioned for his removal, but he denied that Smith's hiring had anything to do with pressure from the fans.

"I have enough to do handling the business end of the club," Smith will do the coaching. Our club is greatly pleased to get him and we are most appreciative to Coach Billy Reay and Staff Smyth chairman of the Leafs' seven-man hockey committee for their assistance."

Blair said Smith will take over his new duties in a week to 10 days.

Smith began his professional hockey career with Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League in 1946 and in the 1948-49 season led the league in scoring with 55 goals and 57 assists.

He graduated to Leafs the following season. His best year with Leafs was in 1954-55 when he scored 33 goals, was selected an all-star leftwinger and winner of the Lady Byng. He also won the trophy in 1951-52.

Blair signed Smith after a two-hour meeting with Leaf officials Monday night. He said he considered the move for some time but only recently received permission from the NHL club to negotiate with Smith.

Tribe Directors Will Select Manager Today

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Indians directors meet today (11 a.m. EST) to pick a new general manager for the baseball club, and the word is out that Frank Lane will quit as general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals to take the job.

If Lane is the Indians' choice, it represents a switch-around by the club from Bill DeWitt, veteran American League front office man who now administers an old to the minor leagues hand. Lane, who has a year left on his three-year contract with the Cards wouldn't confirm or deny he will replace Hank Greenberg in the Cleveland front office.

"I have not been offered the job" Lane said Monday night in St. Louis.

NO FORMAL OFFER

That was interpreted to mean Lane had received no formal offer, and naturally a formal offer would follow probably by the directors, 11 of whom — including Greenberg — are expected to be in today's meeting.

Under a headline Lane To Get Job As Tribe Office Boss, the Cleveland Plain Dealer says vice-presidents Fabe Dolin and George Medinger talked with Lane in Chicago Sunday and St. Louis owner August Busch had given a green light for the negotiations.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat said Lane is dissatisfied in St. Louis baseball circles, and Sports Editor Robert Burnes said Lane feels he has insufficient room too much interference from his superiors and a one-year ago was stripped of some authority, particularly in making trades.

DEALT SCHOENDIENST

Under Lane the Cards moved up from seventh to fourth and then last season to second, but he brought down the wrath of a number of Redbird fans by dealing away popular second baseman Red Schoendienst, a sparkplug in Milwaukee's drive, to a world championship.

A decline in attendance and the Tribe's failure to win first place were behind last month's ouster of Greenberg, whose home-run slugging had placed him in baseball's hall of fame. He had been general manager since 1950.

Hall Second Best 'Fielder' In League

TORONTO (CP) — Chicago Black Hawk goaltending job, once the most thankless in the National Hockey League, has been turned into a more enjoyable task for Glenn and Glenn Hall is taking full advantage of the situation.

For years Hawk goaltenders saw more rubber than any others in the league and Hawks usually had the highest number of goals scored against them.

This term, however, the Chicago defence has tightened up and is giving Hall some good protection. Hall has been paying his mates back with some stellar netminding and leads the league in shutouts with four.

After Sunday night's contests, Chicago was the second least shot-at club in the league and Hall's goals-against average was the second-best among regular netminders.

In 13 games, Hall was tested 362 times and he stopped 334 of those shots for a .922 percentage. Only Lorne Worsley of New York Rangers has a better record—.927 on 370 shots in 10 last-five games with a knee injury.

Montreal Canadiens had the least number of shots fired at their net, 306, but four scheduled games have been action with Habs. Charlie Rayner, who played eight games while regular Jacques Plante recovered from illness, had 20 shots.

New Huddle Over Pacific Coast League

NEW YORK (AP) — Commissioner Ford Frick and other baseball officials will have plenty to try at figuring out a new alignment for the Pacific Coast League today with another attempt at determining damages due the PCL likely in a side huddle.

Frick, representatives of the PCL, Texas League and American Association, along with officials of the San Francisco Giants and Los Angeles Dodgers, the two clubs which invaded PCL territory, and George Trautman, boss of the minors, will be in on the huddle.

The same group met here last week, broke up with no announcement of a decision and returned home to talk over the development with their clubs.

If the PCL, as reported, had an eye on Denver and either Dallas or Houston as replacements for its San Francisco and Los Angeles franchises, the American Association and Texas League already have nixed such a deal.

Frick's office denied the matter of compensation to the PCL for the invasion by the Giants and Dodgers is on the agenda for today's meeting.

Hal Patterson Is Big Four Scoring Champ

TORONTO (CP)—Hal Patterson, pass - catching end with Montreal Alouettes, is the 1957 Big Four Football Union scoring champion with 78 points on 13 touchdowns. Patterson succeeds teammate Pat Abbruzzi who won the 1956 title with a record-breaking 20 touchdowns or 120 points.

Abbruzzi finished far off the pace, a ninth-place tie and 42 points with three others.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show Patterson just 10 points up on sophomore Gary Schrieber of Ottawa Rough Riders. Schrieber scored most of his 68 points on kicking with 33 converts, seven field goals, two singles and two touchdowns.

Third spot went to Steve Onechuk of Hamilton Tiger-Cats with 60 points on one touchdown, 22 converts, nine field goals and five singles. Teammate Cookie Gilchrist followed with 54 points on nine touchdowns.

Billy Bewley of Als was next with 53 points, five more than Hamilton's Gerry McDougall and Ottawa's Bobby Judd. Tommy Lewis, also of Riders, was eighth with 48 points and tied at 42 with Abbruzzi were Pete O'Garro, Bobby Kuntz of Toronto Argonauts and Bobby Simpson of Ottawa.

The Intercollegiate score championship was won by Sandelius of McGill Redmen with 36 points, two up on Britton of the champion University of Western Ontario Mustangs. Third spot with 24 points each was taken by Joe Poirier of Redmen and Dale Creighton of Mustangs.

Canadiens' Big Four Clings To League Scoring Monopoly

MONTREAL (CP) — The Big Four of Montreal Canadiens held their scoring monopoly in last week's National Hockey League action, with Maurice (Rocket) Richard ending a tie with his brother Henri and easing into first place.

The Rocket scored only one goal in Canadiens' two games but picked up three assists and, in official NHL statistics released today, tops the list with 20 points. He has 11 goals and 12 assists. The Rocket is still without a penalty in 13 games.

Henri, the Pocket Rocket, counted twice and contributed one assist. He leads all scorers with 12 goals but, with 22 points, trails his brother by one point.

BROKE DEADLOCK

Dickie Moore scored one goal and two assists to break a third-place tie with teammate Jean Beliveau. Moore has 18 points while Beliveau, with one goal and one assist, has 17.

Bronx pool shark to New York Yankees' Andy Bathgate, whose 37 goal and two assists last week boosted his total to 15. Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings remained in sixth spot, slipped from a fifth-place tie into a four-way tie for sixth spot.

Tod Sloan of Toronto Maple Leafs came with a rush from a fifth-place tie with Howe to lead and three assists to help make up the sixth-place quartet.

Bracketed at 14 points with Howe and Sloan are Bronco Horvath and Fleming Mackell of Boston Bruins. Horvath counted three goals last week and gets top billing among the four with his nine-goal total. Sloan, with six goals, follows Mackell's five goals ran his total to five, one more than Howe, and he also counted two assists.

ONE OF EACH

Chicago Black Hawks, still lowest scoring team in the league despite their eight goals in two winning games, moved into third place in the league standing with a total of 14 points.

Canadiens, also winners in two starts, lead the six-team parade with 20 points. They have piled up 86 goals, compared with only 77 for Hawks.

New York Rangers broke even last week with three of a possible six points, on a win, a loss and a tie, and are only two points behind the front-running Canadiens.

ONE OUT OF THREE

Boston Bruins salvaged one win in three starts—the second win in their last 11 games — and dropped from a third-place tie to fourth place with 13 points.

Toronto Leafs had a win and a tie in four games while the floundering Detroit Red Wings could win only two ties in four starts. The two teams are deadlocked for last place with 10 points but Leafs are ranked ahead of the Wings because they have played fewer games, 14 against Detroit's 15.

Petes' Brisson Leads Junior Scoring Race

TORONTO (CP)—Peterborough TPT's Gerry Brisson edged into a one-point lead in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A individual scoring after Sunday's games, league statistics showed Monday.

Brisson has seven goals and four assists for 11 points. Tied one point behind are Pete Panagakko and Bill Perhan of Barrie Flyers and Chico Miklita of St. Catharines Teepees.

Toronto Marlboros' Len Brodzerick stayed in front of the goal-tenders with 14 goals against in six games for a 2.33 average. Guelph Biltmores' Bruce Gamble was in second place with 19 goals against in six games for a 2.50 average.

Oshawa Juniors Oust Quinte In COSSA Rugby

By ALLAN HILLS

Quinte Little Saints bowed out of Junior A rugby competition following a 16-0 defeat at the hands of Oshawa Central in Oshawa, Saturday.

Right from the kickoff, Oshawa threatened to score. The first quarter was spent from Quinte's 50 in. At one point Central struck to Quinte's six but a fired-up Quinte defence held them from scoring. Late in the quarter, Quinte's chances of winning were dampened following an injury to Richer Locke which sidelined him for the rest of the game.

Oshawa broke into the scoring column in the second quarter. Twice Quinte's defence held Oshawa on tie one but Nicholishin plunged over in a quarter sneak to climax a 53-yard drive.

Early in the second half the Lakeshore champs surged into an undisputed lead following a 13-yard Ld. dash up the centre by Matt Lepa. Mech toed the convert to give Oshawa a 13-0 lead.

Oshawa dominated the final quarter but they were only able to boot a rouge by Mech as Quinte's defensive platoon showed a tremendous effort in holding the strong running Oshawa outfit.

Quinte's offensive thwas stopped cold throughout the entire game as time and time again Oshaws' defenders smacked

Bombers Wallop Stamps 15-3 Clash With Esks in Finals

By RICHARD ANCO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CALGARY (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers advanced into the Western Interprovincial Football Union finals Monday with a 15-3 victory over Calgary Stampeders.

Bouncing back from a 15-13 tie in the first game of a two-game total-points round at Winnipeg last Saturday, Bombers unleashed their vaunted running attack backed by a solid defence.

But Winnipeg paid heavily for the right to meet Edmonton Eskimos Saturday in the first game of a best-of-three final series at Winnipeg. Several players were shaken up and import end Frank Gillum suffered a shoulder separation that may keep him out for the remainder of the season. Gillum counted Bombers' lone touchdown in the first game with Calgary.

NURSES BAD KNEE

League scoring champion Gerry James is also nursing a bad knee. However, speedy halfback Lewis, who missed the semi-finals, is expected to be back in action Saturday.

More than 14,000 fans turned out in clear, sunny weather to see Winnipeg hold back a fourth-quarter drive by Stampeders and win the semi-finals on a 28-16 total. Both teams repeated the style of the play they used in the opener—a tight defensive and cautious game.

All - star quarterback Kenny Ploen scored one touchdown and kicked two converts for Winnipeg. Ron Latourelle added one touchdown and half Charlie Shepard booted a single.

39-YARD FIELD GOAL

Stamps' three points came on a field goal by Bud Korchak from 39 yards out early in the third quarter.

Capitalizing on the running power of Shepard, who was superb with eight-and nine - yard smashes, and James, Winnipeg moved the ball 221 yards along the ground compared with 49 for Calgary. They also held an edge in first downs, 19 to 13, and in average gain, 45.9 yards to 41.

In the passing department Stamps went 109 yards on 11 completions of 23 attempts. Ploen was good on four of 10 attempts for 76 yards.

Only in the final quarter did Stamps' Bobby Witkowski unleash a passing attack. It carried the team from their own 34 to the Winnipeg nine, where a key interception by Ploen on the one seemed to take the steam out of the Calgary rally.

Lords Protest First Game With Dutchies

KITCHENER (CP) — Secretary George Schmidt of the Ontario Rugby Football Union says a special meeting will be held in Sarnia Thursday to hear a London Lords' protest on their first final-series game with Kitchener.

London was defeated 14-8 by Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen Saturday. Lords protested the game, arguing that Kitchener tackle Roger Seizal was not eligible to play because he had not appeared in a regular schedule game.

In last year's final Dutchmen protested London's use of quarterback Jack Conway, brought back by Lords after being released, as a substitute for injured quarterback Jim Hook.

After a hearing Lords were permitted to use Conway, under a rule—since dropped—which allowed clubs to use a substitute for an injured quarterback at any time.

THE LINCOLN PREMIERE COUPE—ONE OF SIX LUXURIOUS MODELS

THE NEW LINCOLN FOR 1958

... now styled and crafted in the classic Continental tradition

Today, you can see the most magnificent Lincolns ever built—inspired by the new Continental Mark III, and crafted in the tradition of every Continental ever built.

Longer, lower, more spacious than any Lincolns before them, these cars have the clean, timeless character of the Continental in every classic line. Inside, there is an elegance unmatched in any motorcar.

These cars are so new that an entirely new plant was built to produce them. The engine is new (so smooth, you can balance a coin on the hood), the transmission is new (the smoothest, most efficient in the fine car field), the suspension is new (soft and relaxing).

And for an extra measure of lasting quietness, they are the only cars in their class with single unit body and frame construction. Doors fit with a new vault-like tightness. Ride is the quietest you've ever known.

By all means, see these new Lincolns today.

American Entry Mahan Wins International Track Classic

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—Allie Reuben of Toledo, Ohio, proved himself to be a shrewd international horse trader Monday.

He pulled off the neat trick of watching Mahan rout 10th in the Washington, D.C. International two years ago, buying him and sending him back to win the $100,000 race. It was no accident.

He bought eighth-place Mister Black from Argentina in the 1953 International. And Monday the sixth International was less than an hour old when he bought the Irish-bred Stephanotis.

Stephanotis finished third in the race behind Mahan and Third Brother.

HAS OTHER INTERESTS

Reuben, whose main business is real estate and securities, prides himself on being a developer of thoroughbreds after others breed them.

He liked the "conformation," "structure and soundness" in the English-born Mahan in buying him from Ralph Strassburger, an American living in Paris. That was after Mahan was impounded by U.S. immigration officials for alleged back taxes owed by Strassburger.

The six-year-old not only beat Third Brother, the other U.S. entry, by 3½ lengths, but six other horses from France, Ireland, Germany and Venezuela in his wake. So Mahan and Third Brother, fifth and sixth choices after the owners of male U.S. stars as Gallant Man and Round Table turned their backs on the race, whipped the best of half a dozen foreigners.

Germany's Nizos was fourth and Venezuela's McKinley sixth. France's Trick Shot Royale, Ireland's Denby wound up fifth, seventh and eighth, respectively.

The crowd of 30,467 made Third Brother the favorite, and as a result, Mahan paid the nice price of $11.80, $5.40 and $4.40. His time was two minutes and 34 3-5 seconds for the 1¼ miles on the grass.

Says Champion Sidestepping Machen Bout

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Eddie Machen's manager has charged that heavyweight boxing champ has "tried in every way in the world to sidestep a title fight and probably will keep on."

Sid Flaherty said he doubted that even a convicing victory by Machen over Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson in their televised 12-round bout here tonight would change the situation.

Machen, the undefeated 25-year-old from Redding, Calif., has won 23 fights, 15 by knockout. He's ranked as the No. 1 contender by both the National Boxing Association and Ring magazine.

Jackson hasn't entered the ring since last July 29 when Patterson banged him a brutal beating and stopped him in the 10th round. The New York boxer currently is ranked No. 6 by the NBA and fifth by Ring.

Stars Paying Big Money To Get Insulted, Like It

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The biggest names in Hollywood are paying night club acts every night to get insulted—and loving every minute of it.

Session of the local night club beat is Don Rickles, who headlines the show at the new Slate Brothers night club.

Most of the stars have come back five and six times as the slow and the insults change every night with the crowd.

Even such columnists Louella Parsons and Hedda Hopper get insulted—and they write up Rickles the next day.

To Hedda, Rickles said: "Get this idiot in the cheap hat" and to Louella: "I read your column, that's weak."

Frank Sinatra doubled up when Rickles said: "I saw you in The Pride and the Passion, Frank the cannon was great."

GROUCHO GOT HIS

When Groucho Marx heckled him, Rickles shot back: "How would you like a harpoon right in your nostril? Let's race it, Groucho, your brothers carried you for years and when you lose that duck on your show, you're off the air."

And Dean Martin got this: "Dean's a lousy singer, a lousy actor, Dean, you're boozed up."

Gary Cooper: "He's so old he can't climb a flight."

Zsa Zsa Gabor: "There's a bus leaving in 10 minutes for Budapest. Get on it.

Harry James: "Your lip is gone. Why don't you hum for a change?"

Milton Berle: "Are you in showbusiness, sir?"

As Lawrence Welk got convulsed in laughter, Rickles said: "Laugh it up now, Lawrence. Let's let you tell the will." And to her husband, Leo Durocher: "Hit a few fungos around the room, Leo, the folks will know you haven't always been a bum."

HEY FELLOW

Rickles offstage is a mild-mannered, shy fellow. He's a graduate of the Actor's Studio, the alma mater of Marlon Brando, the late James Dean and many another top star. During the daytime he emotes as a heavy in a movie with Clark Gable and Burt Lancaster called Run Silent, Run Deep. Tonight he has a TV date as a guest on the Eddie Fisher show.

His acting shtilly shines at the close of his act when he makes a speech that is meant to be serious and then he winds up:

"If you have any animosity toward anything I do on this stage, say to yourselves as you walk out, Rickles is a creep, but he is sick! And I am. I am sick of you and you and you. And in one minute, I'll be on a cord out of my navel and blow this joint up like a Roman candle."

Urges Stiffer Penalties for Junior Brawlers

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto coach has urged stiffer penalties for junior hockey players involved in rink brawls.

Joe Primeau of St. Michael's College Majors Monday night told the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A council "the only way to keep players in line is with stiff penalties."

He said a six-game suspension handed Hamilton Tiger - Cats' Howie Young and a two-game ban against Toronto Marlboro's Ian Anderson for a brawl Nov. 3 were "inadequate."

They used to say the juniors were copying the pros, but not now. The NHL has cleaned up its play and is providing better hockey than ever.

"We're not going to fool anybody, including the players, with a slap on the wrist."

Although tabled on motion, the council divided blame for brawls between coaches and "indifferent refereeing."

Wins Jump Title At Horse Show

NEW YORK (AP) — Riviera Wonder, a six-year-old gelding owned by Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Mann of Port Washington, N.Y., Monday won the open jumping championship for the third straight year—an unprecedented feat—at the National Horse Show in Madison Square Garden.

Thou Swell, an eight-year-old chestnut gelding entered by Elmer Boyles of Toronto, captured the conformation hunter title by winning the class for hunters under saddle, not to jump. That gave Thou Swell 204 points. The horse cannot be overtaken in points in the one class left.

Ted Williams of Britain won the international jumping by scoring 29 points in 59.3 seconds. Each rider was awarded two points for every jump he negotiated within a time limit of one minute. Bonus points also were awarded.

HEALTHY MEALS

A balanced diet, including a good breakfast, helps build resistance to coughs and colds.

Ground-Gainer Title Goes to Hamilton Ti-Cat

TORONTO (CP) — Gerry McDougall of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, a block-busting halfback from the University of California at Los Angeles, won the Big Four Football Union's ground-gaining title. McDougall, classed as a non-import part way through the season when he disclosed his parents were born in Canada, rolled up 1,053 yards rushing and averaged 6.9 yards a carry in topping the ground gainers in his first season in Canadian football.

Individual statistics released by the league today showed that Pat Abbruzzi, who won the rushing title in 1955 and 1956, finished fourth this season with 809 yards and an average carry of 4.3 yards. Cookie Gilchrist of Hamilton was second with 958 yards and a 4.7 average and Dick Shatto of Toronto Argonauts came third with 875 yards and a 4.9 average.

SHARED JOB

Hal Ledyard and Tom Dimitroff, who shared the quarterback job with Ottawa Rough Riders before Ledyard was dropped late in the season, were the top passers. Ledyard compiled an average of 14.4 yards on 55 completions in 105 attempts and Dimitroff averaged 13.8 yards connecting on 98 of 199 passes. Sam Etcheverry of Montreal, who replaced Ledyard, somehow passed 14, was third in the passing division. His average again was 13.8 yards on the 215 of the 408 passes he completed.

Red Quinlan of Alouettes paced the pass receivers, catching 61 for 1,006 yards. Teammate Pat Claridge followed him with 45 catches, one more than Al Pierce of Ottawa. Quinlan of the 13 touchdowns Patterson scored to win the league scoring title with 78 points caught all passes.

TOP KICKER AGAIN

Dave Fleet of Hamilton led the kickers for the third straight season, averaging 46 yards. Ralston Stone of Montreal was second with a 41.1 yard average.

Davey West of Toronto was the best in punt returns with an average of 10.4 yards and in kickoff returns Tommy Grant of Hamilton was tops with a 29.4 yard average.

George Brancato of Ottawa and Ralph Goldston of Hamilton each intercepted seven passes to tie for the lead in that department.

Trappers Bow To Chatham By 4-2 Count

CHATHAM (CP) — Two overtime goals in less than a minute by Ted Hampson gave Chatham victory over North Bay Trappers Monday night and moved Maroons to within two points of third-place Trappers in the Ontario Hockey Association — Northern OHA Senior A league.

Maroons forced the overtime session when Gord Haidy scored midway through the third period. John Charcewski scored the winner after three minutes of overtime and Ted Power added the insurance goal a minute of seconds later.

Bobby Connelly scored Chatham's other goal. Ches Konecny and Bob Barlow were Trappers' marksmen.

GALT (CP) — Three persons have been nominated for president of the Intercounty Baseball Association, secretary Gale Whitfield announced Monday. They are: Ernie Reeve of Galt, the incumbent; Marsh Arles of Kitchener and Earl Cook of St. Thomas.

Fireworks Bomb Proves Dud At Grid Game

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — A fireworks bomb was set off in ceremonies preceding last Saturday's Kansas-Kansas State football game but it failed to explode in the air and plopped onto the gridiron.

Players and officials watched warily from a distance. Equipment men eventually carried off the dud, wrapped in several warmup jackets—but not until the time-saving, which came to light today:

Referee Bob Miller: "Get your demolition squad out here and get rid of that thing."

Chuck Mather, Kansas coach: "It looks like a good job for the officials."

Miller: "We can't do a thing because it looks to me like Spuds ik L. We could do it if it were Kansas U. We've got a rule covering that—no dogs allowed on the field."

Champ Meets Kid Centella

HOUSTON (AP) — Lightweight champion Joe Brown, who has knocked out 37 of his 101 opponents, meets young Carlos Centella here tonight.

Centella said he is counting on his left hook for victory. He has a record of 31 wins, 3 losses and 2 defeats.

Brown said he knows Centella "will be hard to handle. He takes a punch well." Manager Angelo Dundee said Brown had trained hard and was in good shape.

Dundee, however, Brown's manager-to-be, today answered a charge by Sen Potter (Rep-Mich) that the International Boxing Club has discriminated against lightweight Kenny Lane of Muskegon, Mich., by its failure to recognize Lane as a leading contender for the championship.

The manager said Lane had been offered a match with Brown last July but had refused to fight in Houston. Vicount said Lane's management had the right to be held in Muskegon but that he had refused to agree to this for business reasons.

In Washington Potter said that "failure of the IBC to recognize Lane as a leading contender for the championship and failure to allow him the championship match constitute a fraud against the public possible violation of our anti-trust laws."

Riders Ready For Alouettes

OTTAWA (CP)—The battered Ottawa Rough Riders were expected to go through a light running drill today — their second workout since they dropped last Saturday's league - closing Big Four game to Hamilton Tiger-Cats by a 19-13 score.

Riders take on Montreal Alouettes here Wednesday in the sudden-death Big Four semi-final. The winner meets Ticats in a two-game, total-points final series starting Saturday, likely on the home field of Wednesday's winning club.

Coach Frank Clair gave his injury - ridden team Sunday off. Monday they looked at films of the Hamilton game, and later ran through a 40-minute light drill.

Meanwhile, Dr. Fred Davies, club physician, said all the Riders' injured players will be ready for Wednesday's clash.

Wild and Remote Region Of New Guinea to Be Shown

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Tonight armchair adventurers can travel to a wild and remote region of New Guinea with Lowell Thomas in the first of a new series of movies of new television programs, High Adventure (CBS-TV, 8 p.m., EST).

But supposing you were to travel in person to distant, dangerous and inaccessible places. What do you need to make your adventurous trip as easy as such trips always sound in books?

In one word, "character," says Gil Ralston, who has the job of producing the adventure series. Among other duties, Ralston makes all the arrangements for the travelling camera crews.

He makes one trip in advance of the company and a second while it's wrapping. Thus, by the time the series of seven shows is completed, he will have made at least two trips to New Guinea, the Arctic, Venezuela, Central Africa, Morocco, Nepal and the Austrian outback country.

OF BUGS AND HEAT

"There are only three big problems—organization, humidity and heat," Ralston says.

"You don't mind anything except those three things," he continued. "At least you don't if you're 'what' kind of a traveller with character."

Lowell Thomas exemplifies that quality of character, Ralston says. "By character I mean a certain ability to improvise in whom hardship is literally something to joke about. It has nothing to do with a person's muscles. I've known big muscle men who were worse than useless under rough conditions. I know a little guy nearly 60 years old who spent a year in the city and became the driving force of an expedition to rugged country.

MUSN'T COMPLAIN

"You can spot the quality in a person the minute you meet him. He's a person who doesn't drama-tize events, but accepts them and takes about them."

Thomas, for example, never complains about anything. Ralston said. On New Guinea trip Thomas and Ralston flashed down a dangerous river in a dugout for 36 hours. Thomas subsequently read during the day and slept at night with his head barely out of water.

At the end of the trip they split their only food — a can of tomatoes and a can of salmon. "This," Thomas told Ralston, "is the best breakfast I ever ate."

Quebec Hockey

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP) — Third - period goals by Gene Achtymichuk and Bob Dunn Monday night gave Montreal Royals a come-from-behind 3-2 victory over Trois-Rivieres Lions in a Quebec Hockey League game.

The win pulled Montreal into a three-way tie for second place with Quebec Aces and Shawinigan Falls Cataracts. They have identical records of six wins, six losses and two ties.

Trois-Rivieres took the lead in the first period on goals by Claude Vinet and Rolly Leclerc. A second-period goal by Royals' Kelly Burnett narrowed the gap.

Astrological Forecast

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — You should be mentally keen and alert now, but do be careful, kindly. Don't make sudden changes or hasty decisions. Attainment will come through steady action.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Day leans toward productiveness. Don't be selfish or unreasonable, however. Some strong influences may cause irritation. Strive to be. Be on guard.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Grand Mercury influences. You should feel at your best. Give expression to new, valuable ideas. Put your ingenuity to work improving methods, etc.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — A good day for all sound matters, but don't be irritable or overbearing in dealing with others. Be careful about making promises, too.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Friendly influences for dealings in merchandise, machinery, lumber, iron, steel, aluminum, etc. Be careful not to overdo, however, and keep emotions under control. Be cheerful.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Heed Gemini now. Excellent opportunities if you capitalize on bright ideas, work in harmony with rightly ambitious, progressive and artistic persons. Use your imagination.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Familiar matters should be dealt with as you have special talent favored now. Avoid making hasty decisions of importance without due thought or investigation.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Mars' position stresses a need for emotional control, consideration of others' wishes and feelings. You have a good head; use it to further accomplishment.

November 2 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Mildly generous influences. Plan ahead as you work, allocate tasks intelligently and execute cleverly — as you can. Be eager, alert.

December 24 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Your Saturn well aspected, makes your day a brighter, more advantageous one than many others have. Be careful, nevertheless, not to err through carelessness.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Cosmic position now stresses a need for your steadiest action. Avoid ill-considered moves, hasty decisions. By being attentive and conscientious, you can make this period a highly productive one.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Don't launch, unthinkingly, into new or uncharacteristic ideas, study and carefully examine any unprojected undertaking with which you are not familiar.

You born today are strong, shrewd, able and penetrating. You have courage, determination and a magnetic personality with which to win the admiration and trust of others. Be careful not to show disregard of others' opinions. Recognize the value of patience, cheerfulness. Have confidence in those who deserve it — not those who flatter or take advantage of your kindliness.

THREE TO DIE

VIENNIA, Austria (AP) — A Sofia court has sentenced three persons to death and 58 others to prison terms up to 30 years for embezzling from state-owned enterprises, the Bulgarian radio announced.

KILL PROSPECTORS

ALGIERS (Reuters) — The known death toll rose to 18 men Sunday in the first Algerian nationalist attack on Sahara desert oil prospectors. A rescue column found the bodies of seven European civilian technicians. Nine Foreign Legionnaires were killed as eight civilians are missing.

NATO Parliamentary Group Gives Straight, Sensible Talk

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Some of the straightest and most sensible talk on Western military strategy has come from a NATO parliamentary group.

Unfortunately, the NATO parliamentary assembly, like all alliance's chief civilian advisory body, wields practically no influence at all. The real decisions are run by the military and foreign policy spokesmen for the 15 governments concerned.

The 14 - member Canadian delegation to the NATO parliamentary assembly, now meeting in Paris, comprises back-benchers from all political parties in the House of Commons. Previous journeys abroad by the Canadian delegation have been regarded in Ottawa as merely overseas junkets. Not because the members ar insincere but because their words—at least until now—have carried no weight in the high councils of NATO.

DEFENCE CRITICISM

The blunt talk comes in a report prepared by Arthur Gilson of Belgium and L.J. de Koster Calmeyer of the Netherlands for th. parliamentary assembly's military committee.

In essence, it charges that NATO has placed too much reliance on nuclear weapons and far too little emphasis on conventional forces.

The European members of NATO have enough to do without want to conduct an atomic war in Europe. Even if they won, their countries' likelihood would be reduced to radioactive ruins.

Canada has paid lip service—but little more—to the need for strong conventional forces in NATO in Europe. Canada originally was asked to supply a 16,000-man infantry division. It has contributed only a 5,000-man brigade.

NATO now has only some 15 divisions in Europe compared to the original target of 90 and to the soaked-up strength of 175 Russian divisions.

Canadian military leaders believe rational defence of Europe would be needed to force any attacking Russian army groups to concentrate in the Fulda Gap area. Once they were concentrated, they would suitable targets for atomic bombs.

But without strong forces before then, the Russians could advance in deployed fashion right across Europe and months weapons would serve only to destroy the countries through which the enemy was passing.

CLOSER INTEGRATION

The Europeans naturally are also concerned about the fact United States and Britain have nuclear weapons. They believe, and probably with reason, that the U.S. and Britain would employ them as they—and not NATO — saw fit.

The only solution would appear to be closer integration of the NATO members, especially in the political, as a result of specialization spheres. But closer co-ordination was recommended last year by a special NATO committee without evident result.

Now Britain, and the U.S. are reported preparing plans for a linkup of NATO with other free world alliances such as the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

Perhaps it would be a good idea for NATO to get its own strategy in order before it tries to depend on the outcome of the NATO summit meeting in Paris next month.

SOCRED POLICIES

Allan J. MacEachen (L—Inverness-Richmond) said "an Anglo-Canadian free trade area, as proposed by the United Kingdom, should be courageously accepted by the government and supported by Maritimes' lagging economic development to the national level."

Mr. MacEachen was charged he has yet to see evidence that the Conservative party intends to implement their so-called "Atlantic resolutions" or election promises to the Maritimes. These included freight subventions on all coal movements in the Maritimes, the centralization of Canadian industry, a coast guard and special coal consultant to study the entire Atlantic region industrial development.

HITS BANK POLICY

Rev. E. G. Hansel (SC—Macleod), attacked the Bank of Canada, blaming its monetary policies, such as credit restrictions, for "disastrous" results in the Canadian economy.

"Government—the Bank of Canada—was stronger than the government in Parliament."

Douglas Jung (PC—Vancouver Centre), first Canadian of Chinese descent ever elected to the Commons, said the government's immigration policy should be ceased to allow an estimated 6,000 wives and children of Chinese men now in Canada to come to this country.

Mr. Jung, who is planning a trip to China and Asia next year, said Canada ought to take the lead in gaining the admission of the 2 countries in the Afro-Asian bloc.

Searchers Look For Rafts in Philippine Sea

HONOLULU (AP) — Hopes of finding some trace of the Pan American airliner which vanished with 44 persons aboard were pinned today on the carrier Philippine Sea — and swept by its aircraft.

"We have high hopes that the Philippine Sea will turn us up one of the rafts," said Capt. Donald B. MacDiarmid, coast guard search co-ordinator.

"We still feel there is a good chance survivors will be found in the rafts. The sea is calm and the weather is good. We feel we have done a very thorough search with the equipment we have available, but we expect much better success will be accomplished by the Philippine Sea."

METHODICAL SEARCH

The carrier, due in the search area at daybreak, planned a methodical sweep of a 100-mile wide lane from the western part of the area all the way to Honolulu.

MacDiarmid has been co-ordinating search efforts of 40 planes, seven cutters, two destroyers, two submarines and other transients since the big plane vanished silently Friday with 36 passengers and a crew of eight. He left the carrier has equipment "perfect for an operation like this."

As he explained the new search operation, MacDiarmid received several "encouraging reports of an S O S message. He expressed optimism.

"We check every one to the best of our ability but we've been fooled like this before," he said. NOT A CLUE YET

He said many of the sighting reports included the use of dye markers and so on—were found to be not useful in searching. None turned out to have anything to do with the plane, he said.

The fact that not a single identifiable radio signal has been heard from the plane since its last position report has been as baffling as anything else. Something happened to it at 10,000 feet with devastating suddenness and violence.

In San Francisco, although they discount hopes, nothing to indicate there has been a crime such as sabotage, Pan American officials say they had begun investigating for "any evidence of criminal activity" behind the insurance carried by passengers aboard the Romance of the Skies.

PILOTS

He said foreign masters taking ships through the inland waterways without pilots could cause serious accidents.

SMILES AT REPORTS

James P. Boyle, chairman of the pilotage committee of the Montreal Board of Trade, said the walkout affected primarily the smaller type of ocean vessels which normally go right into the Great Lakes from overseas countries.

The object of the pilots was obviously to tie up these ships for the winter, he said. Boyle said owners of ocean vessels normally employed pilots only between Montreal and Kingston and have paid the fees approved by the transport department.

A spokesman for ship owners said about 60 per cent of Canadian lake ships do not take pilots on the run because the ships' officers have the required ticket. Of vessels. The other 40 per cent use pilots "first and on" and officers who were familiar with the waters were taking them through without difficulty.

Mr. Boyle said Monday night, however, that some ships will be tied up at Kingston because skippers were reluctant to go through unpiloted.

Mr. Chartier claimed "ships are moving up and down the river almost almost sideways." He said one ship is reported to have struck a bridge and another to have gone aground.

KILLED BY BEAM

COBOURG, Ont. (CP)—Garry McIvor, 6, died in hospital here Monday half an hour after he was hit on the head by a wooden beam. The accident occurred while Garry, son of Patrick McIvor of Cobourg, was playing in a shed. The beam fell and a falling beam hit the boy.

DIES OF INJURIES

HAMILTON (CP)—Mrs. Beatrice Richardson died Monday of injuries suffered a week ago when she was struck by a car. Her death brought the city's traffic toll this year to 34, compared with 20 at the same time last year.

Finance Minister Hits Policies Of United States

OAKVILLE (CP) — Finance Minister Fleming has denounced the heavy imbalance of trade between Canada and the United States and said U.S. trade policies are forcing Canada to seek to divert trade to the Commonwealth.

He told the Oakville-Trafalgar Chamber of Commerce the Canadian government is far from satisfied with U.S. assurances that measures to equalize surplus disposal systems it would avoid harming or interfering with Canadian trade.

Canada would continue to regard with an anxious and apprehensive eye, fire-sale disposal policies."

"It is for these many reasons that the Canadian government is anxious to expand trade with the United Kingdom and to divert external purchases where economically feasible from the United States to Commonwealth sources.

"We feel that the facts of the situation and the policies followed by Washingon impose this course upon us."

DAMAGED TRADE

U.S. agricultural products disposal policy had seriously damaged Canada's traditional markets and disorganized normal marketing. The advantages obtained by the U.S. in its trade with Canada gave it "a special responsibility to help damage Canadian export opportunities."

"It is to a disquieting degree that Canada has been put all her eggs in the one basket."

Last year $1,340,000,000 trade deficit contained a chronic imbalance of trade with the U.S. with only minor offsetting trade ways with the U.S.

The deficit for the first six months of this year amounted to $1,003,000,000

SHOULD MODIFY

The United States ought to modify policies which impede Canadian sales to the U.S. We should like to see assurance that the administration take serious account of the Canadian balance and also of the way U.S. policies are excluding Canadian finished manufactures from U.S. markets.

"Now we are faced with the threat of increased U.S. tariffs against our cattle and lead."

Canada's trade with the U.S. was equal to 5 per cent of Canada's gross national product, but only two per cent of the American GNP.

Adverse U.S. trade policies thus could seriously damage the Canadian economy, while Canadian policies could have relatively little effect on U.S. interests.

Quebec Liberal Leader Ready To Lead Party

MONTREAL (CP) — Georges Lapalme, 50, reversing a decision to resign the leadership of the Quebec Liberal Opposition, says he will lead the party at the next session of the provincial legislature opening in Quebec City Wednesday.

He made the announcement Sunday night at a banquet closing the annual convention of the Quebec Liberal Federation.

He was called by party unity at national and provincial levels.

Mr. Lapalme, who represents Montreal Outremont in the legislature, also said he hopes to announce soon the date and place of a general convention with delegates from all levels of the provincial party to study and revise the party leadership, revamping of policy if necessary, and relations between the party and provincial organizations.

The decision to call the "plenary conference" within 12 months was taken Friday night at a caucus attended by 30 party executive and the candidates who contested the 93 seats in the June 10, 1956, provincial election.

Mr. Lapalme's plea for national and provincial unity followed adoption of a resolution by the more than 600 delegates calling for affiliation with the national Liberal organization.

Mr. Lapalme said he had offered to resign three times since the 1956 election which saw the Liberal hold chopped to 18 seats from 22. The Liberals were cut to 17 as a result of four by-elections last month.

The Union Nationale, led by Premier Duplessis, won all four, including a former Liberal seat, and now holds 79 seats.

"I'm a nervous wreck since the Philharmonic Orchestra started banking here."

MOTHER CHARGED

Police said Mrs. O'Donohue wandered on the street until she met another neighbor.

"I knew something was wrong with her but I didn't know what," said Mrs. R. H. Loveland. "I walked up and down the street with her until Mrs. Turner and another neighbor picked us up in a car and took us back to the house where Mr. O'Donohue was waiting."

Police reported Mr. O'Donohue then took his wife to St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church where they were met by the curate, Rev. E. J. Last and Mrs. Dr. Gorrie was later arrested.

The O'Donohues were described by neighbors as a happy couple.

Said one: "It was a home filled with love and tenderness."

She recalled that each morning the children would line up in the doorway to wave to their father as he went to work.

Mrs. O'Donohue, the former Maureen Upper, was educated and married in Belleville. She graduated as a nurse from Toronto's St. Michael's Hospital in 1951.

GOVT. STANDS ON

The government did not want to permit outright abandonment of the service, run by a subsidiary of the C.N.R., Gordon said. Since 1938 the government had paid a total $7,000,000 in subsidies to keep it going.

Mr Hees said the union's original demands, made in September, 1956, involved a 50-per-cent pay raise and would have increased payroll costs by 80 per cent. After negotiations, a strike was called for midnight Oct. 15 the company had made an offer of a 15-per-cent wage increase on half as large again as that recommended by a conciliation board.

Last week, with prospects of the ships at Montreal being frozen in, the Oct. 15 offer was repeated, and the company told the union that if it was not accepted there would be "no alternative" but to transfer the ships' registry. The union took no action.

LOSE LAST FLEET

Transfer of the CNS fleet will mean the loss of the last Canadian-registered deep -sea fleet. About seven years ago, under a Canadian-British agreement, operators of most Canadian deep-sea ships transferred to British registry to get the benefit of lower British operating costs.

Mr. Hees said it costs an estimated $100,000 more a year to operate a ship on Canadian registry than on British registry.

With the CNS transfer, only 10 deep ships and coastal tankers remained under Canadian deep-sea registry, mostly in coastal trade or carrying cargoes for industries which owned them.

SEAWAY ARTIST

John Walsh, 50, British-born artist now living in Montreal, puts final touches to a watercolor sketch of a lock in the St. Lawrence Seaway. Also a graduate engineer, Mr. Walsh has combined his professional knowledge with artistic skill to turn out 50 paintings and drawings of the seaway project for Canadian and American magazines. (CP Photo).

Engineer, Artist Completing Set of Some 50 Paintings Of St. Lawrence Seaway

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — John Walsh, both of him, paints the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Engineer and artist, he is completing a set of some 50 paintings and drawings of the seaway-in-building—dynamic night views of floodlit locks, charcoal sketches of black dredgers gulping river mud, gantry cranes silhouetted like ballet dancers.

"I am trying to give an impression of the thing," he explains. "A camera can catch details, an artist captures the dash and vigor."

OVER WIDE AREA

He has travelled several hundred miles up and down the seaway from Montreal to Iroquois, Ont., a 115-mile stretch of the St. Lawrence River where five Canadian and two United States locks are being built.

"I look for the subject, the light, the facilities for painting, and the right mood."

Painting on the spot, the English-born engineer who took up art as a hobby as a schoolboy has produced valuable views of the seaway. They will be reproduced in a U.S. magazine.

First known in Canadian art circles for his night paintings of cities Mr. Walsh, 50, now a Montreal resident, has added a reputation as an industrial artist. His watercolor sketches of steel mills, oil refineries and other plants have been widely displayed often in commercial publications that commission the paintings.

"But I paint for myself," he says. "I try to steer clear of commercial art."

He came to Canada during the Second World War with an admiralty technical mission, and stayed on afterwards. In 1942, he wandered into a New York art gallery with a portfolio of watercolors "to see if they were salable."

WORK WELL-KNOWN

They were. Later he had several one-man shows in Toronto and Montreal. Now his work hangs in private collections and in the Montreal Fine Arts Museum and the Toronto Art Gallery.

"My style has changed since then, though," the pipe-smoking artist says. "I've left my dark period. I like brighter colors, and I'm getting more abstract. But I still like to keep in contact with reality."

Walsh makes sketches quickly on the spot, and then works many more hours in his home studio to finish a painting.

Few industrial artists have his engineering knowledge. But few engineers have his artistic ability. He has painted in Mexico, Britain and Europe, and often used his work as illustrations for travel articles in major magazines.

His non - industrial paintings, chiefly landscapes and street scenes, are bright, simple splashes of color. A favorite spot from which he paints downtown Montreal at night is a fifth-floor window in a newspaper building.

"That's the best view of Montreal," he says. But he also has taken his sketchbook into old Quebec City, down to the Toronto waterfront, into Hamilton's teeming industrial districts, to Vancouver and Winnipeg.

British League Protests Dog's "Hideous" Death

LONDON (AP)—The suppositon that Laika, the dog aboard Sputnik II, had died touched off an angry protest from Britain's League Against Cruel Sports Monday.

The executive committee of the organization issued a statement saying the "wretched dog incarcerated in the Russian satellite had been flown into outer space to die under circumstances more hideous that anything the barbarity of the medieval torturer could devise."

The league expressed the hope that "the world will not tolerate again so foul an experiment on a living animal."

Dramatic demonstration at Quebec Winter Carnival . . .

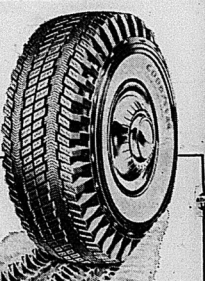
New winter tire climbs ski hill, takes hold where driving seems impossible!

Salaberry Hill as a skier sees it from the top. This hill is so steep it is blocked off all winter. During the Carnival it is used as a slalom speed run.

New Suburbanite winter tires boosted this car UP Salaberry Hill. Goodyear's New Custom Suburbanites had to take hold from a standing start with the car already nosing up the incline. The snow was doubly slick from the constant polishing of skis.

Even on the slick ski run, the New Custom Suburbanite tread—delivered immediate, straight-ahead driving power.

This amazing New Suburbanite Tread boosted the car up and over the ski hill without skids, spinning or fish-tailing. This type of traction is why Quebec taxi drivers rely on Suburbanites when winter comes.



New advances in traction engineering, improving on the original Suburbanite design (for years Canada's most popular snow tire) make the New Custom Suburbanite the finest winter tire ever.

HERE'S THE NEW TREAD DESIGN THAT MAKES SUBURBANITES GREATER THAN EVER

Over 5500 hard biting edges grab hold, claw slick ice or packed snow to give you up to 55% better traction. The extra wide tread surface with V-Grip notches delivers straight-ahead driving power . . . gets you through winter roads safely without tiresome delays.

You get a new quiet toe—Custom Suburbanite's modern new tread whispers along smoothly on bare pavement, no nerve-jarring, fatiguing tread whine.

More mileage than ever before because the two continuous tread ribs carry most of the load weight. Traction notches stay sharp and efficient for extra seasons. Built with exclusive Goodyear 3-T cord, triple tempered for extra toughness to stand up to rugged winter driving. See your Goodyear dealer soon.

Let it snow—you'll go!

Non-Operating Rail Unions Ask Big Wage Boost

35 Cents an Hour Increase For 140,000 Workers Aim

MONTREAL (CP)—Unions representing 140,000 workers have hit the railways with a demand for a big wage boost, sure to precipitate the threat of a strike.

The unions want about 35 cents an hour in an increase, split between 11 per cent and 17 cents an hour, plus some fringe benefits.

It would cost the railways more than $100,000,000 a year.

The demand for the big raise—by the non-operating unions consisting mainly of employees not actually on the trains—was presented to the main carriers Tuesday, it was learned Tuesday night.

ISSUES STATEMENT

Today, Frank H. Hall, chairman of the general conference committee of the rail unions issued this statement:

"The wages of railway employees have lagged behind those of workers in other major industries for many years past . . . The present proposal for an increase of $1.25 per cent plus 17 cents, to become effective Jan. 1, 1958, is designed to correct this situation as well as to maintain parity with wage rates in the other industries during the tenure of the next agreement on the railways.

"The other proposals . . . have the similar objective of bringing conditions of railway employees up to standards and trends obtaining elsewhere in industry."

In addition to the wage boost, which union officials calculated would total $1 an hour, a union letter to the railways also asks for a more liberal vacation time-with-pay deal; an eighth statutory holiday, Remembrance Day, 11; establishment for the first time of the principle of severance pay for railway workers; and no farming out by railways of work normally done by their own employees.

NEED FOR LOANS

The unions also asked for an "open-end" contract with respect to the negotiation of differentials as between different wage groups and for employees who might get take-home pay cuts.

It was the big non-operating unions that tied up the 3-day railways strike in 1950, called off by legislation enacted by an emergency session of Parliament.

In 1954 government intervention again was necessary in a dispute between the railways and the non-operating group. The parties finally were induced into accepting a settlement.

Included in the rail demands—for the first time—is the Midland Railway of Manitoba which is under federal jurisdiction. The unions have also included the Railway and Steamship Clerks, whose employees include a small number of members of the union.

The existing contract expires at the year's end. The unions have had a meeting with the railways not later than Dec. 2.

GOVT. STUDYING PLAN FOR SMALL BUSINESS LOANS

Many Facing Pressure From Chain Stores

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is studying proposals for increasing loans to small Canadian business operators but Finance Minister Fleming says it may be some time yet before any decision is announced.

These operators, he told reporters Tuesday night, are facing the pressure of increasing competition from chain stores and are seeking access to "more credit" than is now available to them.

The problem, he added, is "real enough," but the government so far had made no commitment to anyone.

Mr. Fleming touched on this point following a 50-minute meeting with Graham Towers, governor of the Bank of Canada. Reporters asked whether there was any truth in reports of policy clashes between the minister and the governor, clashes which have led to Mr. Towers's resignation.

DENIES REPORTS

Mr. Fleming said there was not a shred of truth in these reports. The relations with Mr. Coyne were "always pleasant—we like to do business with him."

A number of matters were discussed with Mr. Towers, Mr. Fleming said, could give no details. However, in reply to questions, he said the current interest rates on government treasury bills had declined by more than one-half per cent in the last two months and that the market for government bonds also showed "very considerable strength."

All this was very gratifying," said Mr. Fleming who had strongly opposed the tight money policy of the former Liberal administration.

While Canadian rates had eased, those of United States treasury bills had risen by one-half per cent since mid-July. The gap in Canada-U.S. treasury bill rates had narrowed by eighteenths of one per cent and this appeared to be encouraging increased borrowing in Canada by Canadian corporations and provincial governments, and various levels of government. The overall liquidity of the Canadian situation was "all gratifying and encouraging."

Revolutionary Strike Urged To Depose Batista in Cuba

A bulletin from Castro's headquarters in the mountains of Oriente province calls for a nation-wide walkout by workers and peasants about Dec. 15.

The approximate date for starting the harvesting of sugar cane.

The bulletin, clandestinely circulated among Castro's supporters and sympathizers in Havana, declares "there will be no sugar harvest" unless Batista rules.

Sugar is the keystone of Cuba's prosperity.

Castro's bulletin urged the estimated 400,000 cancelled workers to touch off more sporadic walkouts throughout the island and thus "overthrow the tyranny and dictatorship" of President Batista.

Rebels in Havana construed the appeal as an indication Castro and his fast fighting men would embark upon a series of raids upon Cuban army posts in Oriente province coincident with the start of the sugar harvest.

Castro said civic resistance movements supporting him attempted to start nationwide strikes last summer, but the move failed, and the army and police quickly rounded up organizers and would - be strike leaders.

The government seems confident that it can swiftly smash any new attempt to start general strikes and the harvest will proceed unhindered.

Counsel Expects Decision Soon On Gas Export

WASHINGTON (CP) — N. J. McNeil, general counsel of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited said Tuesday he thinks a decision on the export of Canadian natural gas can be obtained within three to six months from Canada's newly-appointed royal commission on fuel resources.

McNeil also told the Federal Power Commission he has "every confidence" that a trans-Canada will be able to persuade the commission to sever the Trans-Canada case from its general study of Canadian fuels.

If the commission does not consider the case separately, he stated, it might take a year before a decision is reached on Trans-Canada's plan to sell 294,000,000 cubic feet of Alberta gas daily to Midwestern Gas Transmission Company, for sale to consumers in the U.S. midwestern states.

HEARS APPLICATION

McNeil was testifying as the power commission continued hearing of an application by Midwestern for permission to import the Canadian gas.

Insulation will not feel that Prime Minister Diefenbaker, in a declaration in Ottawa last week, "revealed" an undertaking given by former trade minister C. D. Howe to furnish an export licence for the Canadian gas if the federal power commission granted an import licence.

C. S. Coates, president of Trans Canada, said Trans-Canada has arranged to obtain from Canadian sources enough gas to begin this winter.

Human Skull Found in Marsh, Seek Clues

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial police said today the skull of a skeleton identified by police laboratory workers as human appeared to have been fractured.

The skeleton was found Tuesday by a shooting party in the Holland Marsh area, 25 miles north of here, in a section of marsh between Highways 11 and 400.

The find included a skull and several other bones believed arms and hands touched off a province - wide investigation headed by the Ontario provincial police and the provincial crime laboratory.

SEEK MORE BONES

Police are hoping to determine the age of the skeleton and the cause of death. It was impossible to determine the sex by the few fragments of clothing attached to the bones.

Frank Wist and Hans Wichert, both of Oakville, were operators of the machine which unearthed the bones. Police are digging in the area of finding the rest of the skeleton.

The bones were buried in the mud, not far from Highway #26. Wist and Wichert reported finding "something" when they started Ontario Provincial Police Inspector H. M. Purdy has taken charge of the investigation.

Holland Marsh, now a thriving gardening district, was once populated by underworld characters during prohibition days. Illegal stills "were everywhere" in the district at that time.

KILLED PLAYING TAG

OSHAWA (CP) — Carol Sandford, 6, of nearby Pontypool, was killed Tuesday night when she ran into the side of a passing car. Police said the child may have been playing tag with her brother.

M.P. DEPLORES LACK IN NUMBER OF SCIENTISTS

Toronto Liberal Gives Reason for Shortage

OTTAWA (CP) — Dr. Stanley Haidasz says Canadians like to sit in their ranch-style bungalows and talk about science, but won't do anything about it.

The Liberal Commons member for Toronto Trinity, a medical doctor, said Tuesday that unless the government steps in to encourage scientific education, the shortage of scientists in Canada and the Western world will increase.

One reason for the shortage, he said during the Commons throne speech debate, is the astronomical numbers of self-satisfied citizens who seem quite certain that everything desirable in life is to be found in a ranch-style bungalow, a couple of travel and convivial gatherings.

"These people are avoid for the products of science, particularly medicine and entertainment, but they feel no attraction for a life dedicated to intellectual discipline nor for scientists as personalities."

OTHER REASONS

There were other reasons for the shortage of scientists: low pay, emigration to the United States, and a shortage of teachers and research men.

Dr. Haidasz, only Liberal elected last June in Ontario's 24 metropolitan constituencies, said that despite Progressive Conservative election promises, the government proposed no increase in grants to universities—"our very life blood" in science.

He urged the government to increase the $25,000,000 allocated this session and set up a system of scholarships for needy students. He also suggested the establishment of a national education and research committee to advise all governments and universities and to solicit financial assistance.

Dr. Haidasz said there should be tax concessions to encourage large companies to donate money to education, and students' earnings should be free of unemployment insurance deductions.

His was the latest in a number of recent speeches in Parliament expressing concern about the status of science in the Western world. Gladstone Murray's launching of two earth satellites.

APPROVES MEETING

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who has never made any secret of his aversion, said at the opening of Tuesday's sitting he is sure all free countries welcome the news of government conference of world atomic scientists.

Such a meeting has been proposed by six Russian scientists, the Canadian Caldwell said, suggested that the Canadian government encourage the meeting.

Mr. Diefenbaker said it is up to scientists — not the government. But if world scientists do get together, also suggested that a non-political meeting place be provided in the Parliament Buildings where MPs could "ask for guidance which other parliamentarians need today."

Russia Building Huge Navy To Isolate Europe

Indicates Reds Visualize Long War Says Admiral

PARIS (Reuters) — U.S. Admiral Jerauld Wright warned today that Russia is building a huge navy designed to isolate North America from Europe and destroy the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Wright, supreme Allied commander in the Atlantic, added: "All our war plans are prepared, approved and are ready."

He was giving a private briefing to legislators of the 15 NATO countries in conference here. Extracts were later released to the press.

Moscow is building a navy larger than all the others in the world combined except for the U.S. Navy, he said, aimed at the "defeat of NATO at sea and the destruction of our alliance."

Russia now has 500 submarines and is building between 70 and 100 every year, Allied sources say.

Wright said the "clear inference" of the size of the Soviet submarine fleet is that Russia visualizes a long war with the U.S.

The assembly's spotlight shifted to naval power at a day of reports from leaders of the air and ground forces. U.S. Air Force Gen. Thomas White, commander of the Strategic Air Command, stiffened NATO's backbone. He said SAC's aim is to keep one-third of its planes on the air, although the aim had not yet been fully achieved.

Russians Will Shoot More Dogs Into Space

MOSCOW (AP)—Izvestia said today the Soviet Union will launch more dogs into space before risking human life in such experiments.

The Soviet government newspaper said the first Western dogs travellers would not be adventurers but "the best people to be found in the Soviet society."

Scientific methods of protecting future pilots and passengers from harmful air-weather will be created beforehand by means of experiments with animals in space, the paper added. Simulated conditions on earth can test human reactions to conditions in space, it said.

Pravda, the Communist party paper, in a long review of the Soviet earth satellite reported it gave what appeared to be the first authentic report with pictures of the interior of the Sputniks themselves.

But neither Pravda nor Izvestia made any direct mention of Laika, the dog passenger of Sputnik II.

Lawyer Tries To Stall B.C. Corruption Probe

VICTORIA (CP)—Lawyer Alfred Bull Tuesday attempted to stall hearings of a royal commission inquiring into accusations of corruption at a former British Columbia cabinet minister.

The royal commission, investigating the accusations of Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy against former lands and forests minister Robert E. Sommers, opened Tuesday and then was adjourned to Dec. 9 after a 45-minute hearing.

Alfred Bull, former counsel for Mr. Sommers, and present counsel for a lumber firm, said he will probably ask for an injunction to block further hearings.

The one-man commission of Chief Justice Gordon of the B.C. Supreme Court was appointed by Premier Bennett to investigate charges made by Mr. Sturdy's charges. A slander suit brought against Mr. Sturdy by Mr. Sommers in 1955 was thrown out Supreme Court late last month for the non-appearance of Mr. Sommers, Social Credit member of the legislature for Rossland-Trail.

Mr. Sturdy said Mr. Sommers had accepted money in consideration of the issuance of forest cutting concessions while a cabinet minister.

Mr. Bull contended that under the British North America Act only the federal government could order a probe of hearing to investigate what amounts to criminal charges.

Thinks America In More Danger Than Europe

PARIS (AP)—Charles Cannon, a Quebec Liberal member of the Canadian House of Commons, told the North Atlantic Assembly today that Canada and the United States might be in the immediate danger of attack from Russia than Western Europe.

He called for a joint Canadian-U.S. command under NATO.

"There is no reason now come for the defence of North America than participation of Europeans in this defence. Would it not be logical to have the Russians attack Europe via America and then turn on Europe?"

Thinks Sputnik Dog Probably Landed Alive

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—The dog aboard Sputnik II probably has been brought back to the earth alive the Russians aren't talking about it because of military implications, the president of the International Astronautical Federation said Tuesday night.

Andrew G. Haley said he based his belief partly in the difference in the radio code pattern of the two Russian satellites.

Sputnik I gave out signals until its battery wore down, he said. The beeping from the larger Sputnik II ended sooner and suddenly, as if connections were broken or elements destroyed by the ejection of the dog.

ARREST SMUGGLERS

BERLIN (AP)—The West Berlin customs today announced the arrest of 17 persons after 1,000 had smuggled at least $500,000 worth of banned strategic goods into Communist East Germany. Officials said the metals, mostly nickel and cobalt, were intended for use in East German arms factories.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis:

Southerly winds across Ontario are bringing milder air into the province today. In this flow of milder air skies are making cloudy and rain has spread into the western Great Lakes region. Many sections of Ontario have already cloudiness is expected over the remainder of the province today. The rain is forecast to begin in southwestern Ontario this afternoon and to extend over most of the province tonight.

Occasional rain is indicated for Thursday except in far north sections where colder air will produce snowflurries late tonight and Thursday.

Pravda Prints Diagram of Sputnik And Photo of Dog in Its Cabin

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The Communist party newspaper Pravda today published a diagram of Sputnik II and a photograph of the hermetically-sealed cabin in which Laika, the female dog, travelled.

The photograph showed the dog's head peeping from a cylinder-shaped container at the top of the cabin. It seemed to be a small porthole.

An object like a knapsack was placed on either side of Laika's head. The dog appeared to be securely trained and was accustomed to staying quietly in the cabinet for a period of several weeks.

In calculating the life of the Sputniks, Pravda said their flight depended on the resistance they had to overcome in the atmosphere.

"When the orbit shrinks to a height of about 225 kilometres (about 62 miles) the resistance will be so great that it will heat the cabin and the carrier rocket red hot, speed up their destruction and burn them burning up," Pravda said.

It said Sputnik I was expected to burn up at the end of the year while Sputnik II would remain aloft "considerably longer."

An object like a knapsack was placed on either side of Laika's head. The dog appeared to be securely trained and was accustomed to staying quietly in the cabinet for a period of several weeks.

In calculating the life of the Sputniks, Pravda said their flight depended on the resistance they had to overcome in the atmosphere.

The "head," shaped like Sputnik I, contains various apparatus including the radio transmitter, while the "shoulders" are the top part of Laika's cabin.

Then a belt on top of the "head" is the apparatus for studying the sun's ultraviolet and x-rays. The whole Sputnik II is held together by a skeleton metal frame.

POSES FOR POSTERITY

Prime Minister Diefenbaker pauses briefly from his work as Mrs. Dorothy Russell, 52-year-old British sculptor, works on a bust of him. Mr. Diefenbaker went about the day's business during the 1½-hour sitting. Mrs. Russell's three sittings would be required to complete her daughter, said three sittings would be required to complete the three-quarters life-size model. (CP Photo.)

Mirror Jolts Millions of Britons Saying 'You Are Too Damn Smug'

LONDON (AP)—The millions of Britons who read the London Daily Mirror were jolted this morning by a headline advising them they are "Too Damn Smug!"

The entire front page of The Mirror consisted of an eight-deck head reading:

"Wake up, Britain!
"Stop moaning.
"The past
"You're so slow
"Too sleepy
"Too damn
"Smug
"Urgent . . . see today's centre page."

A two-page spread inside the Mirror—which claims the world's largest circulation, one of more than 4,500,000 copies—says the rest of the world thinks of Britain as "stuck in a rut, bumbling, outdated."

"The world is on the move, but we are still marking time.

"Little wonder that we are losing trade. Today it is Germany and Japan who are beating us in world markets. Tomorrow, it may be Russia.

"British is best' is a comfortable motto. But there are many places in the world today where it is no longer accepted as a historic truth.

"There are businessmen from Buenos Aires to Bombay to whom the word 'British' too often means shoddy salesmanship, late deliveries, swollen prices.

"They are tired of unbelievable truths to live with. So we try to escape from them.

"We are living in a historic line: 'Everything will be all right in the end—breeding and good common sense will more important than brains and skill.'

"This complacency is stuffed with old Etonians, and Britain prepares to lose her Waterloo on the playing fields of Eton.

"We try the quaint line: When Britain advertises for dollar tourists in America, what does the British Travel Association tell them?

"It pumps out various products by about Beefeaters, thatched pubs and bargains in olde-worlde antique shops."

West Decides To Give Ground On Arms Issue

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) Hope of averting the threatened breakdown in East-West arms talk grew today as the Western powers decided to give ground to Soviet demands for enlargement of the UN disarmament commission.

The United States, Britain and France agreed privately to relax their stand against changing the makeup of the 12-nation commission. Previously word spread that the Russians were willing to modify their demand that all 82 UN members take part in the negotiations.

Informed sources said the Big Three have not settled on how many members should be added to the commission. They were thinking of five or seven.

Many Deer Hunters Report Season Disappointing One

Unless the deer population comes to the rescue in the majority of northern hunting districts, the 1957 season will go down in the archives as one of more or less disappointment.

The consensus of hunters and Lands and Forest officials is the kill this season will be somewhat lower than last year unless hunting conditions change between now and November 16, the closing date.

At the Kaladar check station, described as a typical one, reported a 27 per cent kill during the first week of hunting. At Millbridge where hunting is reported to be the "worst in ten years" the kill was 18 per cent.

It is expected, however, that the change in weather during the second week of the season, the kill will show an increase.

Don McNevin, well known city hunter, who has been in the Millbridge area with a party of twelve, says hunting this season "is the worst in this district in a decade."

Up to the moment, McNevin said, his party had shot seven deer, two bucks, three does and two fawns.

"The kill would be not there," McNevin said. "I covered an area of five square miles one week-end and spent a night. Other years we have generally had our deer within the first week. It looks like somebody will be disappointed this season."

Ernie Bedford ran across a party of 14 hunters who roamed the Millbridge area for days and their kill in the first week was three deer. They, too, stated they had not been hunting so poor in a number of years.

There was a noticeable lack of signs, Mr. Nevin said. "In some places not even a fern was disturbed. There were few hoof marks." Department officials in the northwest of Denbigh came home with their quota. Included were Ron MacDonald, Gerald Hutchinson, Ted Newman of Belleville, and Ed. Hall and John Hutchinson of Northport.

Included in the kill was a 200-pound buck, a doe and two four-point buck, a doe and two fawns.

Mansfield had a novel experience while out looking for a "buck" morning.

Looking up a runway, he was surprised to see a big bull moose ambling toward him. "It must have weighed around 1,200 pounds," he said.

"I stood there and that moose kept on coming. I could have shot him where I stood but my trigger finger was not too lucky."

That moose must have something over on between its ears than a mighty nice set of antlers. It did not show any fear when finally it got a whiff of what was there, looked, slowly turned around and with a disdainful toss of its antlers walked off into the bush.

"How did that moose know that shooting him was illegal, and besides I did not have a license to knock it over unless I been in the right territory."

Small parties of two and three hunters have returned with one or two deer.

Already Think About Manned Space Ships

WASHINGTON (CP) — A U.S. Air Force general says the United States already is doing some preliminary thinking about a manned space ship—although such a project still is a long way off.

Brig.-Gen. H. F. Gregory, commander of the air force Office of Scientific Research, said in speech Tuesday:

"Although it may be somewhat early to be building manned space ships, it is not too early to be thinking about exploratory research in this area.

"In fact we have been doing it for some time."

Gregory described the USAF project Farside, a recent series of rocket tests, as "One of many high altitude research efforts that will be required . . . for the successful conquest of space."

The USAF has said previously that air rockets have been fired in the Farside tests in the Pacific and that the latest was after Jan. 1.

It reports that the sixth shot went more than 4,000 miles into the sky.

Former President Truman, in Kansas City, Mo., said Monday in his honor Tuesday, told reporters:

"We had a missile program before I left the White House—and it has been going after I left."

Moscow reported Tuesday night that Sputnik II would complete its 1,120th orbit of the earth at 8 a.m. today, but it gave no information on when it had happened to the dog riding in the satellite.

Radio Moscow, meanwhile, said the Soviet Union's satellite will drop into the atmosphere and burn in late December or early January, and that the carrier rocket will come down somewhere else.

In Warsaw, Poland, Professor Alexander Lebedinsky, a leading Russian space scientist, said that all reports in the West about the Soviet dog Laika are "purely speculative." He said there was "absolutely no data" yet about whether the dog was dead or alive.

TV Columnist Refuses to Name Her Informant

NEW YORK (AP) — Marie Torre, New York Herald Tribune television columnist, was adjudged in contempt of court Tuesday for refusing to reveal the source of an article she wrote concerning singer Judy Garland.

Federal district Judge Sylvester J. Ryan sentenced Miss Torre to 10 days imprisonment but released her in her own recognizance pending an appeal.

"I sympathize with you," said Ryan, "but, your position is impossible. You have no right to judicial support."

Miss Torre had been called as a witness in a pretrial examination of a $1,393,333 breach of contract and libel suit brought by Miss Garland against the Columbia Broadcasting System. Miss Torre refused a court order to reveal the name of a CBS executive who allegedly furnished information for an article she wrote last Jan. 10.

Commenting on her refusal to reveal her news source, Judge Ryan said:

"The process of the court must be obeyed, notwithstanding the high motive it may have prompted you to act as you have."

WILLIAM TINDALE

TWEED — The death of William Tindale, 18 Dufferin Road, Toronto, occurred suddenly in Toronto on Friday, November 1st, after a short illness. He had been taken ill on the previous Tuesday and had made his usual trip to be a satisfactory recovery.

Born in Malton 83 years ago, he was married only days, to Miss Marie La Fontaine of Tweed on November 4th, 1957. He was a veteran of the First World War and had been interned as a prisoner of war in Germany for three and a half years.

He came to Tweed in 1935 and began to hold gospel meetings, later forming what was known as the Tindale Evangelistic Centre. His gospel work here formed the foundation of the present Tweed Pentecostal Church.

Surviving besides his wife, are a son, Murray, and a daughter, Mrs. Gwen Bennett, both of Toronto.

The funeral took place on October 5th at Tweed—Service in General Home, Toronto, with Rev W. G. MacPherson of the Pentecostal Tabernacle officiating. Interment was in Rest Haven Memorial Park, Toronto. Attending the funeral were Mrs. J. Coulson, of Thomasburg, and Mrs. Arnold Dyer of Belleville.

LOU CROUSE

PICTON — Funeral services will be held at Napanee for a well-known Picton resident, Mrs. Lou Crouse, 68, who died suddenly while at a hunting camp north of Marlatt's Lake. He was stricken with a heart attack Monday morning and died almost immediately. The body was brought to Tweed and then taken to the Thompson Funeral Home in Napanee.

Mr. Crouse spent his early life in Napanee district but for some years had resided at Northport, 12 miles north of Picton. He was unmarried and was a veteran of World War I.

Survivors are two sisters, Mrs. Herb German, Northport and Mrs. Ruth Rose, Picton, Ontario.

Mr. Crouse had suffered from a heart condition for some time but continued to work. He was accompanied to the camp by Ed. Rabbie of Northport.

DENZILL L. STOREY

THOMAS DAVIS GENEREAUX

TWEED — Thomas Davis Genereaux of Actinolite, passed away in the Belleville General Hospital on Friday, October 25 at the age of 57 years. He had been in ill health for the past three years, but had been patient in hospital only a week prior to death.

Born at Queensboro, he was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Genereaux. He had lived in the Actinolite-Queensboro district all his life, Actinolite and a member of St. Henry's Roman Catholic Church, Queensboro.

Surviving are his wife, the former Annie Lajoie, three sons and two daughters, Arthur Genereaux, Capreol; Charles, Actinolite; Mrs. Glen Fleming (Marie), Actinolite; Mrs. Cliff ford Rivers (Cecilia), and Thomas Genereaux, Madoc. A half-brother, Henry Genereaux, of Tweed, and four brothers and a sister, Nelson, of Camp Smiford; Fred and Ernest, of Trenton; Antoine of Tweed, and Mrs. Edward Castle (Evelyn), Trenton, also remain.

The funeral took place from St. Henry's Church, Queensboro, to Sacred Heart Church (Mass Centre), Madoc, on Monday, October 28th, where Requiem Mass was celebrated by Rev. J. E. Hanley, B.A., P.P. Interment in Marmora, was present in the cemetery.

Interment was in Sacred Heart cemetery at Madoc. The pallbearers were: Ernest Wolfe, Fred Frost, Joseph Kehoe, Joseph Wedden, Leo Nolan and Gerald Quinn.

EDWIN JAMES
Bellerock, Ontario

In failing health for four years, Mr. Edwin James, Bellerock, R.R. 1, Stirling, died in Belleville General Hospital early Wednesday. He would have been 87 on Thursday.

Born at Odessa, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edwin James. He was a member of the Methodist church and during his active years had worked as a farm laborer.

He is survived by his wife, the former Sarah Morrison; two sons, Thomas, Lonsdale, and (Stella) Meeks of Verona; Mrs. Alex. (Verna) Fraser of Canniffton, and two step-sons, Harry VanValkenburg of Belleville, and Thomas VanValkenburg, of Vancouver, B.C.

VON Dedicated To Nursing Says Hong Kong Hero

A plea for the old fashioned virtues and standards in nursing has been made by Brigadier Frederick Crabbe, Director of medical services of the Canadian Army, and one of the highest Canadian heroes after the tragic capture of Hong Kong at Christmas, 1941.

Brigadier Crawford, speaking to the annual meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses in its Jubilee Year, mentioned his concern over what seems to be a new trend in the attitude of young women toward their profession. "Medically speaking," he said, "I grew up at a time when good bedside nursing was one of the mainstays of treatment. Nurses were proud of the fact that they, and only they, could provide the sort of care which did so much toward increasing the comfort and indeed toward saving the lives of their patients. Times and methods have changed somewhat.

"More and more products of our schools of nursing seem to be turning their backs upon this worthy and traditional role."

Dr. Crawford noted that many girls are choosing their talents nowadays to working at desks in offices, in industry, or as aides in hospitals, rather than nursing. "Many are ready to assume status-giving posts in hospitals," he remarked, "but the humble, unheralded nursing seems to be becoming more and more relegated to those best qualified to carry it out, and sometimes feel that the influx of nurses into the patient in danger of becoming all thumbs and no fingers."

While it would be idle to attempt setting the clock back, Brigadier Crabbe said, "I think the passing of the "good old days" is a tragedy, and therefore a matter of much comfort to me to look at the statistics which show that in a group of nurses dedicated to the ideals of nursing nothing is held to be important. The example which they are setting by their deeds and their lives are not entirely justified."

Speaking to members of the V.O.N. They must not be forgotten when the Community Chest launches its annual drive for $35,000 beginning Nov. 18 and ending the following Saturday.

Air Commodore Takes Salute From Veterans

TRENTON (Special)—Trenton remembered the heroes of both wars on Monday, with the largest Remembrance Day parade ever held in the town. The parade, which was held under the auspices of the Canadian Legion 110 BESL formed up in the market square at 10 a.m., and proceeded down Division Street to the town memorial via the post office.

The salute was taken by Air Commodore J. B. Harvey, Senior Staff Officer at Training Command Headquarters, and the parade marshal was Warrant Officer John Silver, MBE, Royal Sergeant-at-arms, Rusty Forbes commanded the Legion color party.

Two squadrons of Air Force personnel, the Cadet corps, the Scouts, as well as Legionnaires, took part in the parade. Flight Lieut. C. W. Bryce, chaplain of Branch No. 110, was chairman for the service at the town memorial, and the address was delivered by Rev. J. S. Neff. Captain W. D. Brown of the Salvation Army read the lesson. Earlier in the day services in Christ Ross Burtt and Legion president John Farrell welcomed those who were present.

MILK DELIVERY STARTS

Trenton housewives were pleased by the commencement of a milk delivery yesterday. Strikers are still parading in the town however, and so far the matter remains at before.

The strike, which began on July 25, involved some 80 employees of Trenton and Belleville dairies.

Hand Mangled When Caught In Rollers

TRENTON (Special) — Lewis Whyte, 19, Frankford, may lose his right hand as the result of an industrial accident at the Bata Shoe plant at Batawa this morning.

Whyte was working in the finishing department when his hand became caught in a roller of one of the mills. He had the presence of mind to stop the machine before his arm became further entangled.

Fellow workers reversed the rollers and extracted his mangled hand. Dr. Ross McMullen, of Frankford, was called and Whyte was taken to Belleville General Hospital. Early this afternoon, Whyte was in the operating room.

COUNCILLOR ATTACKED

TRENTON (Special) — Councillor Clarence Hall was attacked by two, what he believed were teen-agers, in the rear of his home on Bridge Street, last night, when he was locking up he apparently surprised the two who were hidden in a storage room.

One of the pair threw a bottle at him but missed. The two then escaped through the furnace room before police arrived.

Detective Sgt. J. Rutherford is investigating.

Mr. Brown was completely by surprise. Mr. Brown was not able to get a description of the men.

SET FATALITY-FREE MARK

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP)—This city Tuesday passed the third consecutive year without a traffic fatality. Police claim the achievement sets a record for Canadian cities of more than 20,000 in population.

IN MEMORIAM

LAURENSON. — In loving memory of a dear brother, William Laurenson, who passed away November 13th, 1955.

A brother's love is more than gold
Of a brother whose worth can never be told.
No more to see his smiling face,
No more to hear his voice,
It came, a shock we didn't expect,
It left a heart that will be sad.
Happy and smiling, always content,
Loved and respected wherever he went.
Always thoughtful, willing and kind,
These are the memories he left behind.
—Ever remembered by Blanche, Bert, Howard and Mabel.

McINALLY. — In loving memory of our dear father, Malcolm, who passed away November 13th, 1954.
You are not forgotten, Margaret,
Nor ever will you be;
As long as memory last,
We'll remember you.
—Sadly missed by Mom and Dad, Margaret, Jean and Linda.

LATHANGUE. — In loving memory of Mr. George Lathangue, who died November 13th, 1954.
Sadly he passed away,
Gone from us forever;
Gone from us, we were suffering.
His heart was weary, never yet better
In this world's strife.
He sank and sank and was put under,
The hills were hard to climb;
So He closed over weary eyelids
And whispered, "Peace be thine."
Dear Lord, He was Thine at heart,
Who for Thine sake did climb.
We never have and never will Forget you, George.
—Sadly missed by wife and Carl, Vera, Harold, Jean and Linda, Florence and Wilbert also grandchildren Carleen.

Eisenhower Will Outline Training Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower outlines tonight his program for training more youths as scientists in the space era struggle against Russia.

Some key scientific advisers to the president have suggested to him that the federal government grant scholarships or promising students as an incentive. But the White House declined advance discussion of what Eisenhower will recommend.

For tonight's coast-to-coast television-radio address, the second in a "chins up" series, the president travels by plane to Oklahoma City. He arranged to take off aboard the Columbine III at midday on a scheduled 4½-hour flight to the Oklahoma capital.

The speech will be carried live at 10:30 p.m. EST by NBC-TV and all four major radio networks. ABC and CBS television will carry the address from film at 11:15 p.m.

Welland Canal Tolls Opposed

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Board of Trade has protested against government plans to impose tolls on the Welland Canal as part of the St. Lawrence seaway.

At a meeting called by the board to discuss proposed tolls, reporters were given copies of a brief submitted to Transport Minister Hees urging that ships using the Welland Canal be exempt from tolls.

Mr. Hees said in the Commons Nov. 4 the Welland Canal, now toll-free, is included in the Canadian government's support of a policy for tolls on the seaway when finished.

The Board of Trade's brief said this would "place Toronto in a very unfavorable position in meeting competition with ports west of the Welland Canal.

"In the city of Toronto there are many public utilities and basic industries which were built and have been developed on the basis of the Welland Canal's historic freedom from tolls."

Delegation Will Leave for U.K. On November 21

TORONTO (CP) — A 55-man trade delegation, the largest Canada has ever sent abroad, will leave for England Nov. 21 to explore the possibilities of increasing trade between Canada and the United Kingdom, James S. Duncan, deputy chairman of the delegation said Tuesday.

Under the chairmanship of Trade Minister Churchill, the objectives is to explore possibilities of increasing trade between the two countries by switching a portion of Canada's imports from the United States to the United Kingdom.

Mr. Duncan said in no case would imports be encouraged for goods already produced in Canada.

"This is in no sense just an anti-American move," he said in a statement. "If it were, I would not be connected with it."

Old Guard Red Dies in Prague

By MICHAEL WEIGALL

PRAGUE (Reuters)—President Antonin Zapotocky of Czechoslovakia, one of the "old guard" Czech Communists, died here early today of a heart ailment. He was 72.

Zapotocky, once a stone-cutter's apprentice, returned from a German concentration camp at the end of the war to become successively head of the revolutionary trade union movement, premier and president.

Premier Viliam Siroky was being tipped here as Zapotocky's most likely successor.

CLEAR MINE ROCKFALL

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)—The Cumberland Railway and Coal Company's No. 2 mine here is scheduled to resume work Wednesday after a 24-hour lieup caused by a fall of 35 tons of stone. The fall occurred Tuesday morning as the day shift was going into the mine.

MIRROR JOLTS

"True. But that was 17 years ago.

"There are millions of people in the world today to whom Hitler is as remote as Napoleon. They have never heard of the Dunkerque spirit.

"What the world is asking about us today is not what we did in 1940, but what we are doing today and what we are going to do tomorrow."

The newspaper pointed out that tens of thousands of young people wailed for hours outside the Canadian immigration office in London last year.

"Why?" it asked. "Because they had no faith in Britain's future."

"If this article has shocked you," it concludes, "Britain can still be saved. If it hasn't, Britain has had it!"

Garcia Widens Lead in Voting In Philippines

MANILA (AP)—President Carlos P. Garcia widened his lead in Philippine presidential election returns today, but his running mate trailed far behind a popular former congressman and diplomat.

Garcia, 61-year-old Nacionalista party candidate and political heir of the late Ramon Magsaysay, moved well ahead of Liberal party candidate Jose Yulo, 69-year-old sugar king. Garcia was winning almost 40 per cent of the votes in the five-man race.

In the vice-presidential race, Diosdado Macapagal, a Liberal, piled up an overwhelming lead over House Speaker Jose P. Laurel Jr., the Nacionalista nominee and member of one of the Philippines' leading political families.

TOLLS AND THE SEAWAY

The question of tolls on the St. Lawrence Seaway has become the subject of lively controversy.

Recently Hon. George Hees, Federal Minister of Transport, intimated that the Government believes that tolls are obligatory under the arrangement with the U.S. He is reported to have said that he anticipates tolls "will be low enough to allow a net saving in the transportation of a bushel of wheat from the Head of the Lakes to Montreal." The Windsor Star calls this "a modest objective, to say the least," and argues that "the idea should be to keep the tolls so low that the saving will be very real." That idea is desirable almost everybody will agree — it is always encouraging when a way is discovered to get the same amount of work done at lower cost and this applies just as much to the movement of goods as to their production. But to argue, as the Windsor Star does that "a mere 'net saving' of a nominal amount will not be satisfactory" appears to us to miss the main point at issue. What should determine the amount of the tolls levied is the cost of moving goods by ship and this cost must include provision for repaying the loans floated to finance the construction of the seaway. If the tolls do not liquidate this debt, then shipping will be subsidized out of taxes.

It may well prove necessary to fix tolls at a level below that economically sound for a few years, while the canals acquire customers, but in the long run the seaway ought to pay its own way.

AUTUMN LEAVES

Is there anything more pleasant than the odor of burning leaves in the fall when the air is crisp and ducks wing their way southward overhead?

Trees provide men with more than building materials and by-products used in industry. They give us beautiful pictures in spring and autumn, first when new buds burst into bloom and lastly when the season-old leaves turn from familiar green to vivid reds and yellows. And then the sight of smoking piles of leaves becomes common and the nostalgic scent of them drifts quietly through the city.

Strange, but burning leaves seem to have a peculiar power over human beings. One sniff of a burning heap and our troubles and worries seem to vanish.

And, when the last leaf has fallen, leaving the gigantic skeleton it was the first day it poked above the ground, man is forced to stand in awe and whisper of the marvels of Mother Nature.

A stroll through a wood lot can sooth a worried man. The odor of trees and decaying leaves is a scent no manufacturer of sweet perfumes has yet duplicated.

Surely Joyce Kilmer was right when he wrote: "I think that I shall never see a poem lovely as a tree."

PAPERWORK

The United Nations Assembly recently found itself in complete accord with a resolution placed before it, which must have been something of a novelty, as it came from most regions of the world, the which takes place there. Britain had proposed that the output of paperwork be reduced 25 per cent. The delegates applauded and voted unanimously for the resolution, 63-0.

This leads a contemporary to observe that the real test of the Assembly's good intentions will come when it decides to cut the UN staff by an equivalent percentage.

Not necessarily, not necessarily. For while it is true that "reducing paperwork results, in due course, in reduction of numbers of those employed in production of paperwork," to suggest that this automatically means that the size of the staff should, or should, be cut indicates a failure to realize one of the most deplorable results of paperwork. Too often people who are busy writing or reading should be busy thinking or doing. The main dividend to be derived from the elimination of 25 per cent of the paperwork in many an organization is not a 25 per cent reduction in the size of the staff, but a 25 per cent, or larger, increase in its efficiency.

NOVEMBER DREAMS

In these days of bleak November,
Days when all the world grows sober,
And the fields have turned to yellow,
And the leaves to earth have blown,
Oh, somehow, I seem to mellow
And my soul, like some old cello
Hums to strike a chord that's sweeter
Than it's ever before has known,
And a sense of comfort fills me
With that purer, richer tone.

Often then I sit and ponder,
Gazing lazily out yonder,
Dreaming dreams of bygone pleasures
That I knew so long before;
And I think how, with her treasures
Nature kindly heaps our measures

Ere she wraps the dead leaves round her,
Leaving us with bounteous store,
Ere she sinks to pleasant slumber
When her fruitful time is o'er.

In these days of bleak November,
Days when all the world grows sober,
Then I think of one who's sleeping
'Neath the fading grasses there;
And I strive to keep from weeping,
For her memory I'm keeping
And the joys she left behind her
Still are roseate and fair;
Like the fruits of bygone summer
They sustain me through despair.

How to Find Your Niche

Wall Street Journal

My advice to young men trying to decide on a career is to snap up the first offer of a bank presidency. However, if you decide to be choosy, you will welcome this help in answering the question, how shall I make ends meet?

I have compiled a brief list of career possibilities together with their salient strengths and weaknesses.

Steamfitter: This is okay if you know something about fitting steam.

Lion tamer: Excellent portal to portal pay. The only trouble is they shut the portal behind you.

Efficiency engineer: Look into this if you are naturally courteous toward everyone.

Lighthouse keeper: An admirably democratic profession in which all sexes are kept strictly impartial.

Bank teller: Offers fine opportunity for early retirement with pension.

If you are good at being herded into a vault, giving eyewash, and saying "Next, please" to the cage through which the customers shove their checks.

Steeplejack: Salary is high but not high enough to compensate for the fact that you are crazy.

Professional golfer: Earnings are above par for players who break 80.

Nuclear physicist: Bright future currently unlimited, but I've seen the day when they couldn't make a nuclei.

British Show Generosity

San Francisco Chronicle

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan is subjected by his cabinet to constant criticism. He never secrets with the United States.

We heartily express to the British our admiration for their readiness again to reach out this cooperative alive arm's hand which in the past has so often been spurned.

It takes a generous and broad mind to forget all the nasty, mean little things that have been said about British science by arrogant American Congressmen and by stuffy, self-important Atomic Energy Commissioners.

Many people in our midst have been fruitful scientific co-operation with the British have been suits classified. But it is about time.

Sputnik provokes the question as to what extent the two governments suppose they are keeping from each other?

We cannot recommend a better statement of the case for the United States than that of Britain's secretary high horse in dealings with British scientists than this one from The Economist of London:

"It is hard to muster any argument for opposing unnecessary fences around secrets which the Russians evidently already know. Nevertheless, the real objection, it is hampers (and makes more costly) the joint task of keeping abreast of Soviet military power.

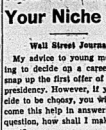
"If the blips from the sky make that clear to all concerned, they will have transmitted a very useful message — and exemplified though in an unexpected way, the old adage that it may take a thief to catch another thief."

TV Changes Opinions

Brockville Recorder and Times

Through the medium of television we are now able to get a more intimate impression of world personalities, people who could scarcely be expected to visit a small town. Today, however, we can have them in our living rooms.

Our opinion of Aneurin Bevan is a case in point. We'd never regarded the man or his opinions with much favor. His recent interviews on television was to Mr. Bevan's advantage. He showed up well. Questions fired at him by leading newsmen were well answered in a quiet and assuring manner.



This new medium has won for Mr. Bevan much more respect on this side of the Atlantic than would have been possible in the days before TV.

Blaming Other Fellow

Charges that Britain is "on the brink of economic disaster" are made by the British Labor party, which at the same time insists that increased wages for workers are not responsible for inflation.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 13th., 1937

The Y's Men's annual Attuckice dinner, which was held in Johnstone's Academy was a most enjoyable event. Over 100 couples enjoyed the evening's entertainment; many guests were present from outside points. The "birthday dance" was won by Miss Margaret Clarke and Mr. Harry McMartin. Spot dances were won by Miss Clarke, Miss Betty Corrigan, Miss Marion McLean, Mrs. Ford, Miss Irene Charlton and Kenneth Gordon.

Mr. J. L. Irwin, Dominion Dairy Grader of this city is in Toronto where he will be a member of the judging staff of the cheese exhibit at the Royal Winter Fair.

Puppy Day Tag donations this year amounted to $222.00 which is slightly lower than last year's collections.

Articles of clothing and household necessities ranging from mattresses to stoves are badly needed at the Children's Aid Bureau office. Officials state that they can not take care of as many needy families as they should owing to lack of clothing and household articles. Citizens so far have not been as generous in sending used clothing as they were in other years as they were last year. They hope for a more generous response soon.

30 YEARS AGO

November 13th., 1927

At the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society the following officers were elected:—Hon. president, H. W. Ackerman and A. E. Bishop; president, W. H. Merry; vice presidents, S. H. Rollins, Tweed, Dr. Embury, Napanee, C. B. Wright, Deloro, Charles Hannah, Wm. Nugent, Rev. George Marshall and Mrs. C. B. Scantlebury, all of Belleville. The Warden of the County of Hastings, the mayor of Belleville, W. E. Summon M. P., W. J. Ireland, M.P.P. and C. F. Hill-M.P.P.; recording secretary, H. H. Ketcheson; treasurer, H. Freeman Ketcheson; hon. solicitor, B. C. Donnan; auditors, Geo. Nugent and Harry Stock.

The Lord Mayor of London, England, Sir Charles A. Hanson, when a young man, was the assistant pastor of Bridge Street Methodist Church here many years ago and Mr. David Price, city assessor, received him a letter of congratulation upon his elevation to the high office of Lord Mayor. In reply Mr. Hanson wrote to Mr. Price a very friendly letter and thanked him for the photograph of the present Bridge Street Church and also of the organ. He sent his kind regards to old friends who may remember him and in closing his letter he said, "Belleville has for me and my wife many charming associations. Without exception we met with nothing but kindness and it is to me a great pleasure to look back on the three years spent in Belleville."

Joseph Templeton, a well-known and highly esteemed resident of this city, died here yesterday in his 58th. year. He was a prominent member of the Forest and Stream Club and an active sportsman.

Mr. Reginald Geen of this city has been appointed organist of St. George's Anglican Church in Owen Sound.

The cold snap last night caused thin ice to form on a considerable portion of the bay.

The three days' whirlwind campaign to secure new members for the Y.M.C.A. was a great success; 262 new members were obtained.

About fifty prominent cheesemen of this district were dined at the Anglo - American Hotel by Mr. John Elliott, manager of the local branch of the Standard Bank.

Mr. F. S. Wallbridge, barrister-at-law, this city, has been elected a director of District No. 3 of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association.

Benevolent Dictatorship

New York Times

The overthrow of Portugal over the last three decades has left all of us who believe in liberty sick at heart. Indeed, it has seemed like an exception to the rules. Every fresh loss and most of the dictates of reason have been outraged and confounded by the placid, benevolent and apparently quite acceptable totalitarianism of the eminent colonial teacher Dr. Antonio de Oliveira Salazar.

There are innumerable democrats in the free world who will sincerely tell you that democracy is not good for Portugal. The other day there was another quadrennial election for the Presidency and the National Assembly. There was no need to await the official results, since no real opposition was permitted. Dr. Salazar will continue as Premier on July 4 to be celebrated his twenty-fifth anniversary in that post) and the 120 members of the National Assembly, all picked by him, will continue to do as and what he says.

Is this bade? By any philosophy or tenet of the political sciences that we Americans believe in the answer is, or should be: "Yes, it is bad."

Of course Dr. Salazar has given Portugal turbulent country three decades of internal peace, although with a moderate measure of social and economic progress. He himself is incorruptible in any material sense. He is simple in his way of life, retiring, overworking and self-sacrificing. By his lights — the lights of an ascetic, scholarly intellect, emperors, kings, mahrajas, dictators and slave-owners since the world began — Dr. Salazar has been a good, devoted, patriotic and wise man.

It has often been argued by political scientists that the material well-being of men and women has at least been served throughout history by those who think and live in a minded and morally good paternalistic ruler. It is also accepted by those who think as we do that "man does not live by bread alone." That people must fight and even die for liberty; those who accept the deprivation of liberty under paternal, and those who prefer other things to liberty. The Portuguese, on the whole, seem satisfied or at least resigned. It is their country.

Outer Space Just Nothing

Kansas City Star

Science's success in sending manned intelligence rockets into outer space is making it easy to get to the moon rather commonplace. Soon one may almost be able to step out on the porch of a medical writers' convention and fancies as facts. For instance, I quote the following statements in an editorial article in the Journal of the American Medical Association Sept. 14, 1957:

"In a critical review Kock in 1930 emphasized that the ultimate fate of infectious agents of rabies through bite or other means was rare and that a conclusively proved transmission has never been reported."

"The fact that rabies is transmissible through the saliva of man from human beings infected with rabies to various species of animals has been proved in many observations recorded in the past 80 years."

Nothing, if you please, that the first statement is ascribed to Robert Koch, that is, not to the famous Robert Koch, who discovered the tubercle bacillus and causes tuberculosis, but the second statement is quite safe, as there are no observations in ancient or modern medical reports and writings or rabies in man.

The fictionists who write about rabies nowadays assume that so-called Negri bodies, large cellular masses found in the brain of rabid animals, are a basic thing in this disease. Others went upstairs, groping, to see if they could find Negri bodies, wherever they had been put after coming home from the cottage. No candles, no flashlights could be found.

The first faint flickers of panic just little shadowy northern lights of panic, began to manifest themselves in us. It was a comfort to step out on the verandah to see the headlights of the cars hustling and bustling.

Then the lights came on as suddenly as they had gone, and a good warm sense of urban assurance returned to us. But it was only two or three minutes before the TV lost its interest for us. For

This is Just Man's Dawn

Ottawa Journal

Sir James Jeans, the astronomer, said years ago that inhabitants of the earth were living "at the very beginning of time. We have seen only the first fresh glory of the dawn, and a day of almost unthinkable length stretches before us of unimaginable opportunities for accomplishment."

He spoke, of course, about the possibilities of exploration of the universe now attained by the Russian sputniks and the United States rocket soaring 1,000 miles or more.

Think for a moment of the satisfaction that we should have known if the Russian satellite now in the sky had been a co-operative undertaking of scientists of many nations. Then we should have been entertaining the world instead of frightening it.

Immediate fears and uncertainties cramp the imagination and threaten to blind us to the wonder thus. When Columbus sailed away and found new lands beckoning, in setting a course for new worlds, we would not be engulfed in what Toynbee has called "the greyness of the morning mist."

Veteran CNR Section Man Has Retired

TRENTON (Special)—David Bulpitt, a veteran employee of the Trenton branch of the CNR, was honored Monday afternoon with a presentation at the downtown railway station. Mr. Bulpitt, who has worked for the CNR for 38 years as a section man, received many good wishes from his fellow employees on the railroad, who wished him good luck in the future. Mr. Bulpitt, who intends to make his permanent home in Trenton on his retirement, has always lived in the town, and is a well-respected citizen.

WILL PLANT TREES

The Quinte Disabled Persons' Club decided at their meeting last week to plant 25 Scotch pine trees next spring, when the proposed landscaping of the two low rental houses in Ramsay Street, one of which has been erected, and one of which is in process of erection, takes place.

Miss Eva Morrison, president, expressed thanks to all who had donated for the scheme, among them James Moon, president of the Trent Valley Rod and Gun Club, various merchants in the town, and especially Roly Whitley, club member, for the many hours that he had spent, and also to Mrs. Marion Dickson. Tea was served after the meeting by Mrs. J. Patterson, Mrs. Dickson and Mrs. Paul.

When edging flower beds you will find that a rigid edging material (metal for curved lines; wood, asbestos, etc for straight) will maintain lines of beds, keep lawn grass from growing into it, and reduce maintenance. Sink edging in ground so that top is level with lawn grass, usually several inches above ground surface.

Minor Crashes Blamed on Roads

CAMPBELLFORD — Several minor accidents were investigated by the Campbellford detachment of the OPP on the weekend. Almost all were blamed on slippery roads.

Two cars collided at the entrance to a bridge at Hoard's Station, nine miles east of here on Saturday, and although damage amounted to about $400, no one was injured.

On Friday night, a Picton man, Paul Henri Paquet lost control of his car, and rolled it into the ditch doing about $300 damage. The accident happened on the Campbellford-Stirling road.

Probably the most lucky driver of all was Robert V. Caverly of Oshawa. He lost control of his car on Highway 7 about four miles east of Havelock early Sunday morning, skidded into the ditch and struck a tree, bounced off and struck a telephone pole. He was not injured, and drove the car away from the scene a short time after it was pulled out of the ditch by a tow truck. Damage was limited to the grill and bumper of the car. OPP Constable M. E. Rutherford of Campbellford investigated all three accidents.

Night Classes Will Be Held

CAMPBELLFORD — More than 375 registrations have been received for enrollment in the night school classes for adult education at Campbellford high school this winter.

Fourteen courses are offered, and enrollment is so great in some courses, that groups will have to be split into two, with one half receiving instruction on the regular Wednesday evening sessions, and the other half on Thursday evenings. Courses split into two parts include those in welding, advanced sewing, typing and needlecraft.

The services of an expert instructor in elementary oil painting have been received, and this course will be started as soon as a few more persons register.

Mrs. J. H. Smith, secretary-treasurer of the night school courses said the committee was more than satisfied with the response to the classes. The venture has proved popular during the past few years, and each year enrollment at Campbellford has been greater than the year before.

THE BIRTHDAY OF BAHA'U'LLAH, NOV. 12

The members of the Trenton, Shannonville and Belleville Baha'i Community celebrated the Birthday of Baha'u'llah, the Founder of their Faith, last night (Nov. 12).

Joining with several million of their fellow believers in some 220 countries of the world, the local Baha'is observed the holy day with appropriate readings from the works of Baha'u'llah, and music. The occasion is considered one of the most significant in their calendar by the Baha'is who believe Baha'u'llah to be the prophet of God for this new age.

Baha'u'llah was born in Iran on November 12, 1817, the son of a nobleman. In his youth he showed remarkable spiritual qualities, and was beloved by all. He was one of the most influential followers of the Bab, and for this was first imprisoned and later banished from his native land. In 1863 he proclaimed himself to be the Promised One of all religions, sent by God to inaugurate a new divine civilization that would establish peace and unity throughout the earth.

His basic teachings included the recognition of the oneness of mankind; the essential unity of religions, in that they are divine in origin and purpose; the reconciliation of science with religion; the equality of men and women; and the necessity of independent investigation of truth. He taught the need for a universal language and for the abolition of all forms of prejudice in order that world government might be established to promote peace and justice. He showed also that spiritual principles could be used to solve the economic problem, and advocated the education of all mankind. Baha'is who have accepted these principles believe that they are both practical and necessary in this present day world conditions, and that if accepted generally, they would lead to improved morals, stable government, and the rise of a wholly new civilization.

These teachings were the cause of his final imprisonment, first in Constantinople and Adrianople, and later in the fortress city of Acca, in the Holy Land, where he died in 1892.

Weddings

BRENAY — YOUNG

TRENTON — Guests from Trenton were present on Saturday, October 5, when a pretty wedding ceremony at Colleys Hill United Church, Belleville, united Wilma Jean Young and Charles Albert Brenay.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Young, Belleville, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Brenay.

The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. W. E. G. Dovey, and traditional wedding music was played by the church organist. Arrangements of fall yellow chrysanthemums decorated the church for the wedding, and the bride's home was gay with pink, white and blue streamers and bells.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in a floor length white gown of alencon lace over white taffeta, with a fingertip veil held in place by a seed pearl headdress. Her bridal bouquet was of red and white roses.

She was attended by Miss Alice Brenay, sister of the groom, who was maid of honor. She was attired in an ankle length gown of powder blue net over blue taffeta, and matching headdress. She carried a bouquet of red and white roses.

The groomsman was David White, Belleville, and the ushers were John Young, twin brother of the bride, and Lawrence Hubble, both of Belleville.

The wedding reception was held at Wallridge Manor Hall, which was decorated with baskets of pink and white chrysanthemums and pink and white streamers and bells overhead.

The bride's mother received the guests, wearing a navy blue cashmere gown with bright gold accessories, and a red corsage. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who wore a green wool dress, pink accessories and a pink corsage.

For travelling around Lake Ontario and to New York State, the bride chose a pale blue faille princess line dress, with a blue velvet bow at the corsage and blue gloves, black shoes and a short grey fur jacket.

Guests were present from Trenton, Belleville, Toronto, Madoc, Marmora, Ivanhoe, Picton, Saginaw, Mich., and Pontiac, Michigan.

Many beautiful and useful gifts were received by the bride and bridegroom at numerous showers held in Belleville and district before their wedding.

WEBB—PAESONS

Bridge Street United Church parsonage was the scene of a quiet, pretty wedding on Saturday, Nov. 2, when Miss Mary Ann Parsons, Selena Street, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Parsons, became the bride of Donald Frederick Gordon Webb, of Weston, Ont., son of Mrs. Webb and the late Rear Webb, Rev. H. M. Davis, 100 Bridge Street East, officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length dress of powder blue crystaline, with beige headdress and accessories, and a corsage of gardenias and pink Sweetheart roses.

Miss Lois Batchelor, of Belleville, was bridesmaid. She wore a street-length dress similar to the bride's in garnet crystaline, with black accessories, and a corsage of Johanna Hill roses.

The groom was attended by Mr. Jerry Lushchuck of Weston, Ont.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a street-length dress of royal blue crepe with royal blue hat and black accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations and white pinochio

The groom's mother assisted, wearing a street-length dress of navy crepe with pink accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations and white pinochio

Upon their return the couple will reside in Weston, Ont.

Guests attended from Toronto and Weston.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Vallis Happily Wed 50 Years

A much travelled couple who divide their time between Belleville and Hamilton, Bermuda, were "at home" to friends in the Belleville district this week as they observed their 50th wedding anniversary.

They are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Vallis, 175 Bleecker Ave., who on Monday were hosts to about 80 friends and relatives as they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

Officially, Mr. and Mrs. Vallis term Bermuda as their home as it is there where Mr. Vallis' business interests lie, but for five months of the year they live in Belleville. Mrs. Vallis is the former Cora Latta of Sidney township.

They were married on November 22nd back in 1907 at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Frank Grills of Sidney, Rev. W. D. F. Wilson, then Methodist minister in Sidney township, officiated.

Following a honeymoon in Montreal and New York the couple made their home at "Adalaide" Pembroke, Bermuda.

MANY VISITORS

Among those present at Monday's anniversary to offer congratulations and good wishes were Mrs. Vallis' sister, Mrs. A. Freemantle and her husband of Bournemouth, England, and her brother, Mr. A. C. Latta and Mrs. Latta of Sidney.

Messages of congratulations were received from Prime Minister John Diefenbaker and a wide circle of friends in Bermuda. Also attending the anniversary were Lee Grills, M. P. for Hastings South, and Mrs. Grills and friends from Peterborough, Lindsay, Trenton, and Newtonville.

Choice of the Ontario Business College in Belleville to complete his business education led to Mr. Vallis meeting the girl he was to marry 50 years ago. He had originally decided on Chatham as the business college, but on a visit there had but was dissuaded by a friend who praised the O.B.C.

Quite a number of young men and women from Bermuda attend business school in Belleville, Mr. Vallis stated.

Manly Macdonald Scholarship Donated By University W.C.

The University Women's club of Belleville and district has presented two scholarships to graduates of district high schools this year. For the first time the new Manly Macdonald Scholarship was awarded.

For a number of years the local club has given a $100 scholarship to the girl, living within a 25-mile radius of Belleville, registered in a degree course in a Canadian university and who has achieved the highest aggregate in any eight Upper School papers in the current year.

Elizabeth Carter of Picton, a graduate of Prince Edward Collegiate, was presented with the first award by Mrs. John Haig, president of the U.W.C. at the recent commencement exercises in Picton.

The Manly Macdonald Scholarship was won by Barbara Joan Fairman of Belleville, and was presented to her at the commencement exercises at BCIVS.

Both girls are presently students at Queen's University.

For many years Manly Macdonald's paintings of buildings and his annual gift of a picture to the local club have been the chief source of income for the scholarship fund. The University Women's Club, by managing the new scholarship, has sought to remind its members, the students whom it benefits, and the public of the generosity of this fine artist and gentleman.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

The home economists of the marketing service, Consumer Section, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, send some timely suggestions which the housewife might use to considerable advantage. Fresh pork and lamb are plentiful in November. "Lamb in the basket" is handy for any family but particularly so for the small family. When you buy this way you secure in a convenient way several cuts at the same time. Actually, all are shoulder cuts but the "lamb in a basket" blade roast or chops, round-bone chops and stewing meat are packaged and sold together at the same price.

The home economists suggest how you can make the best advantage of this feature by cooking the cuts in various ways.

(1) To cook blade roast, roast in usual way (325 degree oven F) and serve with gravy (see decorate with mint glaze. Remove bone, fill cavity with bread stuffing seasoned with either mint or thyme, tie or skewer together and roast in usual way.

(2) To cook chops: panfry, broil or bake-top with stuffing and bake-cook in barbecue sauce — season with thyme and braise in small amount of liquid (e.g. tomato juice) — serve with some of the following in mixed grill: liver, sausage, kidney, bologna, ham or bacon.

(3) To cook stewing meat make ordinary stew but season with thyme. Serve with dumplings, or a border of mashed potatoes. Mince and use in lamb loaf, patties or casserole. Season with onions and a little curry powder, if desired — cook in barbecue sauce-make a curried lamb-make mince pie with pastry or biscuit topping.

We read about a new vinyl carpet protector that is ready on the marketing in Canadian stores this fall. It should be especially useful during the fall and spring rains and the winter's snow. Training people to take their rubbers off at the door is, so the release claims, particularly difficult with men. "I and T would add children. Men's main offence according to the article is that they don't need rubbers over heavy shoes just to hop out the car to walk a few steps into friends' or their own homes.

The new clear vinyl carpet is sold in 30-inch widths by the yard. It may be spread over the hall carpet in bad weather. If the weather is dry it can be rolled up and stored in the hall cupboard easily. It will stay in place on your carpet because it is ribbed for that purpose. It is transparent so the color of the carpet shows through. It is kept clean simply by throwing into a bath tub or by running a mop over it. Also it is convenient in the kitchen or wherever it may be used as a shelf-liner or covering for cover or on the floor in front of the sink and stove.

In a Ceylon News Letter last month nearly two pages of foolscap size are devoted to a Canadian contribution through the Colombo plan in that beautiful island member of the Commonwealth. The Governor-General officiated at the opening of Mutual Fisheries project. He said that Canada's High Commissioner to Ceylon Mr. J. J. Hurley and Mr. St. Laurent will be remembered gratefully. The G.G. was nearest to Mr. St. Laurent during his state visit when he heard over the P.M. remark after a group of children welcomed him, "I must, I must do something for these children." The G.G. states that Mr. St. Laurent kept repeating these words and also through him Canada has more than honored them.

Canada has contributed nearly 60 per cent of all the assistance Ceylon has received through the Colombo Plan. His Excellency declared when he opened the project: "It is a great privilege to be invited to declare open the Mutual Fisheries Project a gift by the Canadian Government to the people of Ceylon and an example of the co-operation and invaluable assistance which Canada is continuing to give Ceylon."

Ceylon's permanent representative at the United Nations is Vice President of the Assembly.

Mr. T. G. Wrightmeyer and his executive will some day earn the gratitude of the whole Hastings County. This fall the groundwork has been laid for an active and energetic Hastings County Historical Society. Several meetings have been held and in January it is planned to get off to a good start for 1958. This is a project which includes everybody. Mr. Wrightmeyer and his executive appeal to everyone interested in the preservation of our history or who has old papers and relics, furniture, old utensils, guns and gadgets, to let the Society know. From out the past, our Hastings story will at last be preserved for posterity.

CAPSULE MAKE-UP CHART TO COMPLEMENT NEW FASHION COLORS

Fall's vibrant fashion shades call for rpecial totes of eye-shadow.

This fall and winter we are entering into a brand new world of costume and make-up color. The women who will be seen at the theatres, cafes and along the world's fashionable avenues will burn the clip and swoop into color riots. There will be as much difference between last year's dull background colors and this year's colorful brilliance, as there is between black and white and 'color' television.

How to make up to the costume colors is the quest of all women. Here in capsule form are some suggestions from Max Factor, Hollywood make-up and costume expert:

If you choose the melting brilliance of true red for your costume wear a light foundation make-up which matches your skin, or even one a shade lighter, green eye shadow and a clear red lipstick.

The vivid light and deep, glowing blues, require a light foundation make-up with a slight rose undertone, blue eyeshadow and again, a clear red lipstick.

The deep 'greens which are vivid and new should be worn with a warm amber-rose foundation. Use green eyeshadow or taupe brown if you are wearing the all wear brown accessories, or green eyeshadow with the upper lid outlined in brown and a sparkling scarlet lipstick.

Browns, beiges and terra cotta tones require a creamy beige foundation make-up, brown or green eyeshadow and a "Calypso Beat" lipstick.

Plaids should be worn with the foundation which is the lightest with your costume harmony. Eyeshadow to pick up the plaid's most outstanding cool color, or to contrast with the color as listed above. Be sure of the brilliance of your lipstick.

The dull nature of black and gray cries for color in the foundation make-up. Let it be creamy with a hint of rose. Eyeshadow may run from blue on green, green on blue, gray on green, and blue on gray. Do not mix these but use the second color in the liner from your automatic eye pencil which is marked above the upper lashes. Here again, don't take chances with your lipstick not having the maximum brilliance.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two lawyers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been, dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Roy R. — Ruth has me confused.

Ruth R. — I just want to be happy.

• • •

Roy R. — Maybe I'm just too dumb to understand women, but my wife really has me confused. We have been married four years and have a one-year-old little girl, but we are as far from settled as the day we were married.

We have moved about six times since we were married and we are always in a state of chaos. Ruth is never satisfied with either the apartment or the neighborhood. At first she said she wanted to wait at least five years before we started a family. Then she changed her mind, but now she says she wants to go back to work.

I don't approve of this idea of working mothers, but I would go along on it if Ruth suggested a sensible plan. The only day worry she has been able to dig up would cost just about as much as she could earn. Does that make sense? She talks of getting a housekeeper, but we have been unable to keep an ordinary maid for any length of time.

• • •

Ruth R. — I thought it was a woman's privilege to be allowed to change her mind. I see now I should not cut out for motherhood. I have no patience at all with the baby and at times I get so nervous I could just scream.

Roy keeps saying, "Well, what do you want?" and he never seems able to understand my answers, which are simple enough for a child to understand.

All I want is for what everyone else wants — to be happy. I can't be happy in an apartment in which there is hardly room to turn around, or in a neighborhood where I don't like the people. Neither can I be happy living in such a way that the only outlet for my energies is to scrub floor or go shopping in the supermarket.

Roy thinks life is so simple for women because they don't have to go out and earn a living, but he doesn't realize how frustrating it can be to have no real goal in life.

• • •

The Council: Poor Ruth! Here is a woman with a husband and a baby who can't figure out what her goal ought to be — a woman who sees absolutely no reason to be happy if she lives in a small apartment or doesn't like the neighbors.

Nobody will come to offer Ruth happiness and goals on a silver platter and so we won't find either by changing apartments or changing her mind. Ruth is a floundering ship in a sea of confusion because she totally lacks any sense of values.

Unfortunately, there are two passengers aboard the floundering S.S. Ruth. They are Roy and the baby. The baby can't help being a passenger, but Roy has no business in that role. He has left the entire responsibility for the conduct of their lives up to his confused wife. Why? Because he, too, lacks a sense of values.

"I don't approve of . . . working mothers, but I would go along on it," says Roy. Well, why, exactly? Doesn't Roy have any confidence in his own judgment? Isn't he willing to fight for his beliefs? Evidently not. They are not important enough to him.

This couple badly needs to gain some sense of values and understanding of the meaning of life. They may be able to profit by talks with a clergyman and/or a social worker. To supplement this, they should be guided toward reading that will broaden and deepen their understanding of life.

CONCERNING ENGAGED ENGAGEMENT-ANNOUNCEMENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Just two weeks ago I became engaged, but Ken and I have as yet told no one but our families. The present plan is to announce the engagement in the first week of December; my parents will send the formal announcement to our local newspapers. On the evening before this is to be published, my parents are planning to give a small buffet dinner here in our home, for the members of the immediate families and a few close relatives and friends. Then I had planned to send out quite a few engraved engagement announcements.

When I told my fiance about this last plan I thought he looked a bit glum, but he didn't make any response. Last evening he told me that he had told his mother about the engagement-announcement cards, and that she had "implored" him to persuade me not to do this, because it is absolutely incorrect and that we would be criticized for it. Of course I don't want to do anything of which my fiance's family disapproves, and I have not and will not place the order for the cards. But I would like to know if they are so "absolutely incorrect." You'll be a very wise girl if, at your first opportunity, you thank your fiance's mother for her kind guidance about these cards. Instead of sending cards, you and your fiance should each write or telephone to relatives and intimate friends, telling them the wonderful news and asking them to keep it secret until the date (tell them this date) of the public announcement. These letters . . . your parents' announcement party . . . the newspaper announcement . . . this is perfect engagement-announcement procedure.

Apples in Some Way Every Day

By Mary Moore

We live on the outskirts but we are fortunate in having a huge fruit and vegetable store near us that is quite unique for the proprietor insists on selling only the best varieties in prime condition.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY

Chicken or Baby Beef Liver with Bacon and Onions; Fluffy Mashed Potatoes; Broiled Crumbed Underripe Tomato Halves; Fresh Fruit Bowl: Grapes, Apples, Pears, Bananas; Assorted Cheeses and Crackers; Coffee.

Each day of late I have plopped Gary in his stroller and pushed him around the corner to this market and selected whatever fresh fruits and vegetables we needed for that day. Outside the display windows in bushel baskets are scarlet and green and striped apples and purple and red grapes covering vast areas. Enough apples for applesauce for an army. I wanted to buy a bushel of every variety, but satisfied myself with one six-quart basket each of Spys and McIntoshes for the present.

So the Moores and Pitts are eating them raw, sauced, baked and dished up in the dessert you will find below — if you keep on reading.

HUNGARIAN APPLE PUDDING:

Six cups shredded tart apples, 1 cup soft, stale breadcrumbs, 1 tablespoon butter, 1/3 cup sugar, 2 egg yolks, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 egg whites, 3 tablespoons sugar. Pare and shred apples using medium shredder. Add breadcrumbs and mix. Cream butter, add sugar, egg yolks, salt and beat very well. Add to apple mixture and combine well. Make a meringue of the whites and remaining sugar and fold into first mixture when stiff. Pour into lightly buttered baking dish. Stand dish in large pan containing hot water and ovenpoach at 375 deg. Fahr. until golden and well puffed — about 1 hour. This is an unusual combination that manages to be rich yet delicate. It should be served hot — as a souffle would be — with

SPICED HARD SAUCE:

Sift together 1 cup icing sugar, ½ teaspoon each cinnamon and nutmeg, ¼ teaspoon cloves. Cream 1/3 cup butter and add sugar mixture gradually until all are blended. Chill. Lovely shaped through icing tube into rosettes if this is to be dessert for a guest dinner. Decorate each rosette with a little snipped or candied cherry.

CREAMY APPLES:

One-half cup each sugar and water, 6 apples cored and peeled, 2 or 3 tablespoons sugar, shake of salt, 2/3 cup whipping cream, 1 egg, 4 drops almond flavoring, ¼ cup slivered blanched almonds. Combine sugar and water, bring to boil, add apples and simmer until tender, carefully turning them once. Lift apples from syrup into stemmed dessert dishes. In top of double boiler mix remaining sugar, salt and cream, and heat. Beat egg. Gradually stir hot cream mixture into beaten egg. Return to double boiler and, stirring constantly, cook over hot water until mixture coats a silver spoon — about 4 minutes. This is a soft custard. Remove from heat, stir in flavoring, pour over apples and garnish with almonds. Serve warm or cold. If to be served cold chill apples and custard separately, and combine at serving time, and sprinkle with almonds. This may be made well in advance.

St. Andrew's Club Holds Successful Tea and Bazaar

IVANHOE — St. Andrew's Presbyterian Club held a successful bazaar on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 6, in the church Sunday School rooms.

Visitors were welcomed by Mrs. A. Hassall and Mrs. William Shaw.

Club president Mrs. A. Hassall, presided over the short program of hymns, prayers and Scripture readings.

Following the serving of afternoon tea, the bazaar was opened.

The booths were attractively arranged and well patronized.

The apron booth, in charge of Mrs. A. Hassall and Mrs. David Fargey, seemed to be the most popular.

The novelty booth supplied all manner of lovely articles, handknitted children's wear, embroidered pillow cases, cushion covers, play togs, towels, blouses and skirts, sox and mittens and a wool afghan made by Mrs. Henry Wallace. One corner was filled with potted plants. This booth was convened by Mrs. J. Mitrow and Mrs. Lindsay Silk.

Home cooking was quickly sold by Mrs. Harry Benson and Mrs. William Donnan. Here she could choose pies, cookies, tarts and cakes.

The candy booth and vegetable table were in charge of Mrs. Milton Shaw.

Church societies represented at this event were St. Peter's W.M.S., Madoc; St. Andrew's W.M.S., Stirling, Fuller United, Fuller Presbyterian Ladies' Aid, Moira, West Huntingdon, Salem, Beulah and Mount Pleasant United W.M.S.

First Women's Canadian Club In West Canada 50 Years Old

WINNIPEG (CP) — The first Women's Canadian Club to be formed in Western Canada, a Winnipeg organization with a proud history of patriotic work and progress, celebrates its 50th anniversary Nov. 15.

Several charter members, including eight who have held the office of president, will attend the anniversary meeting and tea. The first woman secretary of state for Canada, Hon. Ellen Fairclough, will be the speaker.

Today, with Mrs. W. A. Trott as president, the membership totals more than 1,200. The club is a member of the Champlain Society which publishes rare Canadian historical material.

On Nov. 29, 1907, a group of 75 women first met in the Winnipeg YWCA "to consider the advisability of forming a Women's Canadian Club on the same lines as the Men's Canadian Clubs."

RAPID GROWTH

Organization was rapid and a week later Mrs. W. Sanford Evans was elected president. When the club held its inaugural luncheon there were 227 members. At the end of the year, there were 255 members.

Th sixth annual report for the year 1913-14 showed a membership of 1,513, putting the club well into the list of women's clubs of any kind in Canada.

In 1927, president Mrs. John Bracken, wife of the then premier of Manitoba, reported a total membership of 2,946. In the years following, membership remained high, but never again reached the 1927 figure.

The purpose of the club is to "foster patriotism by encouraging study of the fascinating history, arts, literature and resources of Canada, and by endeavoring to unite Canadians in such work for the welfare and progress of the nation as may be desirable and expedient."

Some of the projects of the club which has 14 meetings a year, undertook during the years, included means to preserve the sundials left by Sir John Franklin at northern Hudson's Bay Company posts on his last voyage; establishment of a committee to deal with the preservation of buffalo trails; erection of a tablet in old St. Andrew's Church on the Red River.

HISTORICAL RESEARCH

During recent years the club acquired and preserved accounts of pioneer life from early Red River settlers. This later culminated in publishing by the club of a book Women of the Red River. From money raised, the club recently gave $500 to the Manitoba Historical Society toward purchase of Ross House, the first post office here, which will be preserved.

After the First World War, members raised funds for erection of a temporary cenotaph honoring the dead. The club also had the name of Pine Street in the city's west end changed to Valour Road in memory of the street's three Victoria Cross winners. Members erected a lamp post and plaque at Valour Road and Portage Avenue.

In recent years prizes have been donated for the annual short story contest sponsored by the Canadian Authors' Association, Manitoba branch.

The club keeps a book in which speakers at the various meetings and distinguished visitors sign their names. Included are: Queen Marie of Romania, Sir Robert Borden, Ralph Connor, Sir Arthur Currie, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, the Duke of Devonshire, Dame Clara Butt, Sir Henry Newbolt, Signorina Garibaldi, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Viscount Alenby, the Duchess of Atholl, Charlotte Whitton, Viscountess Willingdon, Lady Baden Powell, Lady Byng of Vimy and the Marchioness of Aberdeen and Temsire.

Jordan's King Renews Pledge To Oppose Israel

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Trying to counter a mounting propa- and Russia, King Hussein has renewed assurances that Jordan will never give in on the Palestine issue.

"We shall continue to defend Arab countries until your usurped homeland is restored," he told the first Arab refugee conference here Monday.

The young king said he was proud of the refugee representatives' loyalty to him in the face of "evil forces which are attempting to shatter the unity of the Jordanian people."

The conference adopted a resolution condemning "the unjust campaign of lies and intrigue launched against Hussein by the trumpets of Egyptian propaganda."

INVITE INSPECTION

Egypt, Syria and other Arab countries were urged to send representatives to Jordan's refugee camps to see "the extent of this misleading and poisonous propaganda of Egyptian radio stations."

Cairo radio a few days ago intensified its attacks on Hussein, charging that he is plotting secretly with Israel against the Arabs.

Lower Hydro Rate in Rural Areas Announced

TORONTO (CP)—A lower hydro rate for consumers in sub-urban areas now paying the rural rate was announced Tuesday by James Duncan, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission. The commission also will connect power free for any farm within two-thirds of a mile from existing lines instead of one-third.

The rate change will be brought about by the addition to the rural-hamlet rate of a third block of 300 kilowatt hours a month at 1.1 cents a kilowatt hour instead of 1.5 cents. With the three-per-cent discount this makes a new rate of one cent a kilowatt hour.

The extension of power lines will affect principally areas around Renfrew County in Eastern Ontario and around the Lakehead. Mr. Duncan said at a press conference about 2,500 farms will be affected. Cost of the extension is expected to be about $7,000,000. He said the commission is prepared to extend its rural lines along a public road at no cost to the consumer. He emphasized that this was as far as the commission was prepared to go and any possible customer beyond the two-thirds of a mile limit wishing electric power would have to build the rest of the line at his own expense.

TEACHERS STRIKE

PARIS (Reuters) — There was no school today for some 600,000 students when French grammar and technical school teachers went out on a 24-hour strike for more pay and in protest against overcrowded classes and shortage of teachers.

Queen Knights Gen. Lathbury

LONDON (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth Tues. knighted Lt.-Gen. Sir Gerald Lathbury, former commander-in-chief, East Africa, and Air Vice-Marshal Sir Lawrence Sinclair, until recently air officer commanding the British forces in the Arabian peninsula.

Each was invested with the insignia of a Knight of the Bath. The Queen also presented the Grand Cross of St. Michael and Commissioner for the Federation of Malaya.

They were among 204 service men and civilians from Britain and the Commonwealth who received honors and awards at an investiture in the ballroom of Buckingham Palace.

Khrushchev Declares War 'Unthinkable'

MOSCOW (Reuters)—A British scientist said Tuesday Nikita Khrushchev told him East and West must reach "an accommodation" between themselves because modern war is "unthinkable."

Professor John Bernal—talked with Russia's Communist party chief Monday on the future of mankind in the light of recent scientific developments.

Khrushchev told Bernal that Russia has "the terrible missile weapons" and that the United States will have them soon if they have not yet got them.

Annexation Not Now Issue In Campaign

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Mayor Ray A. Dennis, under fire for secrecy over city plans to annex parts of surrounding townships, will seek another term of office in next month's elections — but is keeping annexation out of his campaign.

The mayor's announcement Monday night coincided with another by William J. Stone, defeated by Mr. Dennis in 1955 elections, that he will run for mayor, too. And, said Mr. Stone, annexation will be one of the top issues in his campaign.

Since a special report on annexation was prepared several months ago, council has been under orders not to divulge its contents. Secrecy surrounding the issue led to a court action by Arthur R. Ford, editor-in-chief of the London Free Press, seeking to make the report public.

Decision on the action is still awaited.

NOT A POINT

Mayor Dennis said he will not make annexation one of the points of his campaign, following an announcement that the present city council will make no move to deal with it before election.

He said it was decided to take annexation studies out of the hands of the 1957 council because it was felt it would not be proper for council to take action in its closing hours on something it could not carry through.

Council was said not able to deal with the issue because of delays in getting reports from civic bodies which could be affected by it.

Mr. Stone said annexation, even if the mayor didn't want to make it an election issue, could hardly escape becoming one because it now is the most widely discussed issue in the city.

PROTEST AT EMBASSY

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — Some 500 angry demonstrators besieged the Soviet Embassy Sunday night, protesting Russian support of India's claim to Kashmir. A strong police guard outside the embassy prevented violence.

KERENSKY OPINION

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alexander Kerensky, 76, who headed the provisional government in Russia in 1917 said Sunday night he does not think Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev can restore a Stalin-type of terroristic dictatorship to Russia. Kerensky said the reason is that too many people in Russia have been educated. The Communists, he said, "have restored the intellectual classes."

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Ann Taylor (MOTHER OF 5)

Curiosity is second nature to the toddler. But curiosity can often lead a little explorer into trouble if his surroundings aren't safety-proofed. A few precautionary reminders:

- Cupboards are intriguing. Make sure readable cupboard do not contain harmful objects or poisonous cleaning agents.
- Dangling electric cords are a lure to yank. Keep 'em out of reach.
- Fire is fascinating. Lighters and matches should be kept off coffee or end tables.

Change to Be Made?

Some Canadian train engineers may soon be riding alone in their diesel cabs as engineman Eddy Rousse is at left. The present system has both an engineer and fireman — such as in the photo at right as fireman Hubert Bracey completes his crew. The CPR wants to eliminate firemen from its yard and freight diesel locomotives, while retaining them on passenger engines. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC) opposes the change, saying the livelihood of 2,000 firemen is at stake.

New Tieup of CPR's System Depends Largely on Thinking Of Three High Court Judges

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The prospect of a new tieup of the CPR's transcontinental rail system depend largely on the thinking of three high court judges.

These are the members of the federally - appointed royal commission which has been investigating for several months the question of whether firemen are needed on some types of locomotive service.

The issue precipitated a nine-day crippling of the CPR in January.

After hearings that started early this year, the commission now is considering its decision. A verdict is expected two to three months from now. Hearings ended Nov. 5 at Ottawa.

INVOLVES 2,000 FIREMEN

On the judges' verdict will likely depend whether the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC) calls a second strike in support of its contention that there must be no reduction in the employment of firemen.

In its direct impact on individuals, the commission's finding will be among the most important in many years. On it hangs the future of some 2,000 firemen who could be displaced from work.

The commission is headed by Mr. Justice Roy L. Kellock of the Supreme Court of Canada, an expert on labor - management matters, and includes Chief Justice C. C. McLaurin of the Alberta Supreme Court trial division and Mr. Justice Jean Martineau of the Quebec Court of Queen's Bench in Montreal.

When the commission was set up by the Liberal cabinet last winter, former prime minister St. Laurent expressed the hope that in taking into account the judicial stature of the members, both parties to the dispute would accept its recommendations.

The CPR has stated it will do this. The union has not.

FUTURE IN DOUBT

Guesses by well-informed officials here are that the royal commission will go at least part along with the CPR in its move to eliminate firemen from yard and freight diesels.

A possibility is that it will suggest a gradual cut-down, perhaps along the like that firemen now employed on yard and freight diesels be not replaced when they reach retirement age.

How the union would react to this is problematical. It would not accept such a suggestion last winter. Whether it would hold a strike again in the event of a relatively-unfavorable decision is a question mark.

It is known that last winter's strike got only reluctant support from the bulk of railway workers. The big non-operating group had to get strong urgings from some leaders to forgo pay by backing the case of the small number of firemen involved.

Would the non-ops do it again? That's a question that will call for some thought on the part of the firemen-enginemen should it come down to the point where a second strike is under consideration.

WIDER EFFECTS

The question of the Canadian public's attitude also would have to be weighed. In January, the striking union made the mistake of announcing the walkout at international headquarters in Cleveland, Ohio, leaving an impression that United States union bosses were directing the actions of the Canadian membership at a critical move. This met with some criticism.

It has been suggested, too, that the whole struggle between the CPR and the union centres around nothing more than a fronting skirmish for a major-league battle going on between the firemen and the big railways of the U.S. This is denied by the company and the union.

The U. S. companies tried last year to do what the CPR proposes, eventually dropping the idea when they got some concessions otherwise from the union. But the U. S. lines say now they'll cut down on diesel firemen eventually.

In Canada, the government-owned CNR also attempted a firemen - reduction move in its 1955 negotiations with the union. The CNR also dropped the proposal eventually, leaving the CPR as the only North American rail carrier actively pressing the issue.

MAIN ARGUMENTS

The arguments for and against the elimination of firemen on yard and freight diesels are clear-cut.

The railway says they have become expendable and useless with the technological advance of the diesel. At all events, the CPR points out, it would still be keeping two men in the cab of freight engines. The second would be the front - end brakeman, who now rides in the cab. Nor would it disturb the existing setup of two men—driver and fireman—in the cab of passenger diesels.

The union says firemen are needed for the safe and efficient operation of all trains, carrying out duties in connection with the power plant besides helping the engineer with what the union states is a necessary lookout from the left side of the cab.

To weight these arguments, the commission heard scores of witnesses and travelled extensively over diesel lines in Canada, Britain, France, the Netherlands and Switzerland. On the European lines, some high-speed passenger routes are handled with one man in the engine.

The royal commissioners rode the CBS, inspected them thoroughly and, on occasion, took the controls for a short run.

Whatever their finding, it is bound to have a major impact on Canadian railway history.

ATOM GOLF BALL

BRIDGEVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Now they are working on an atomic golf ball. The cover, B.F. Goodrich Company says, is bombarded with high intensity gamma rays. This toughens the cover and gives the ball more bounce. The company says you can hit it farther, and when your club connects there's a louder "click."

POLISH PILOT ESCAPES

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—Swedish authorities today granted political asylum to a young Polish air force pilot who belly-landed his MiG-15 jet fighter in a field in southwest Sweden last Thursday. The plane will be returned to Poland.

European Trading Structure Built Over Years Unbalanced

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Western Germany is a poker player riding a hot streak. She's picking up so many chips the other players will have to find fresh funds, or call off the game.

That roughly is the portent of an economic survey just published in Paris. It warns that Germany is running too big a surplus on foreign trade, and France too big a deficit.

The result is a lack of balance which may menace the European trading structure painfully built up in the last 12 years.

The warning comes from the Organization for European Economic Cooperation, a 17-country body. It counsels France to take "vigorous action" and calls on Germany to pursue a less restrictive monetary policy.

LIQUIDITY ENDS

Greater use, it feels, could be made of German resources, by domestic consumption or investment, without threatening inflation.

The figures are striking. France's foreign deficit in 1957 may reach $1,200,000,000. In Germany reach, central reserves three months ago totalled $5,400,000,000.

Such a rate of accumulation involves serious international liquidity problems," particularly for Germany's European trading partners, the report adds.

Superficially, a large surplus sounds attractive. The cardinable comparison, however, illustrates the worry. If Germany gets a corner on the chips, play deteriorates; "liquidity" becomes difficult. In the world context, United States economic dominance causes similar strains.

WAY OF THE FUTURE?

In Germany, the government is taking some emergency measures, including a transaction with the Dutch finance ministry, which may reduce the surplus. There is also a feeling on the continent that the amazing German economic boom is beginning to pass its peak.

In France, strenuous efforts are being made by Premier Felix Gaillard's week - old government to avert what many observers fear may be a really serious foreign-exchange crisis.

Gaillard seeks special powers to raise taxes and reduce spending. He wants to cut down expense - account lunches, penalize shopkeepers who put up prices without good reason, and hack away at some of the worst outgrowths in the jungle of the French distributive system.

Abuses in food distribution are notorious. Authenticated accounts say middle men often are responsible for making the consumer price as much as five or six times what the grower received.

Gaillard may survive the first round of the legislative battle today but his program is sure to mean a long and bitter battle with right-wing deputies.

Liquor Permit Books Are Out

TORONTO (CP)—William H. Collings, head of the Ontario liquor control board, says small card permits will be substituted March 31, 1958 for liquor permit books used now.

Mr. Collings said Tuesday the change is in accordance with enabling legislation passed at the last provincial session. The cards like the books—will cost $1. They will be renewable yearly.

He said the LCBO does not contemplate reducing the staff at liquor outlets. Men now stamping permits will be moved to counters to provide faster service.

Size of 10-Cent Glass of Beer May Be Smaller

TORONTO (CP)— Clint Melville, managing director of the Ontario Hotel Association, says the size of a 10-cent glass of beer may become smaller.

He blamed rising costs.

Mr. Melville said in an interview Tuesday the association is watching closely the introduction last week in British Columbia of a double-size, 20-cent glass of beer.

No application will be made to the Ontario liquor licence board to use larger glasses until results of the British Columbia experiment are known, he said.

Draft beer servings in Ontario are eight ounces compared to 7½ ounces in the western provinces.

Cause of Death Not Established

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The coroner's office said Tuesday that laboratory tests still are being conducted in an attempt to determine the cause of death Nov. 6 of Victoria Ward, 43, Canadian stage and film actress also known as Joy Lafleur.

An autopsy failed to disclose the cause of death and microscopic and toxicological tests were ordered. There were no signs of violence and no evidence of poison in Miss Ward's West Hollywood apartment, where the body was found by her agent, Richard Segal.

Segal told police he heard a dog barking in the apartment entering he found Miss Ward lying dead on a divan, clad in a nightgown.

Her twin sons, Anthony and Henry Lafleur, 22, law students at McGill University, arrived here Friday. Their father is a lawyer. He and the actress were divorced 12 years ago.

The youths said they last saw their mother when she appeared in September at the Stratford, Ont., Shakespearean Festival.

BRITAIN MAKES UNIQUE PLANE

An in-flight view of Britain's Rotodyne, described as the world's first airliner capable of vertical take-offs. The plane made its first flight this week. It carries 48 passengers and takes off vertically as a helicopter but once airborne flies horizontally, as a normal fixed-winged airliner, at a speed of almost 200 miles per hour. In flight the plane gets its lift from stubby wings as well as from the rotor. The Rotodyne will be ready for service in 1960.

PICTON

Society Raised $2,028,27 for Welfare Work

PICTON — During the year ending October 31, the Canoer, Polio and Tuberculosis committee of the Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges raised $3,028.87 and expended the sum of $1,-381.82. It was revealed at the annual meeting Thursday night. Mrs. Florence Tucker, treasurer, had prepared an interesting account of the year's activity.

Receipts included $1,034.87 from several tag days; $6.80 from mile boxes, $160.18 from card parties, $34 in special donations, $333.05 from Easter Easter draw, $480 from Christmas draw and bingo.

Expenditures included $65.88 for wheel chair, $10.50 to Kingston Cancer Clinic, $100 to flood victims, $337.18 in special donations to aid those in distress, $25 in groceries, $223.77 in all, $112.84 for Christmas gifts for T.B. patients, $146.81 for some needy families, $46 for maintenance, $37.75 for batteries for electro-ear which the CPT purchased, $108 for ambulances and special nursing services, $25 to Tyro Boys' club, $10 in groceries to a suddenly bereaved family, $25 for glasses for a cancer patient, $121.88 paid for bingo and draw expenses, $6.44 for soft drinks, $400 (made up to $500 by the two lodges) to the County arena fund.

HAS SPECIAL ACCOUNT

The CPT has a special account of $588.00 to be used to furnish a room if a new hospital is built. Present bank balance is $1676.84, which will permit Christmas cheer, purchase of a third wheel chair and aid to many who are unable to secure help elsewhere.

Mrs. Edith McGinnis, secretary, told how much the electrocar had meant to the user who is able to get down town and attend church as a result. Chairman Phil Dodds stated the wheel chairs are in great demand, loaned free, and suggested another be purchased.

A letter from a Picton boy attending school through the generosity of a group of ladies expressed thanks for $25 donation, used to purchase glasses.

ELECT OFFICERS

This being the annual meeting, the chairman, Phil Dodds, declared all offices vacant. He expressed thanks for co-operation during his term of office in the past four years, especially yesterday for untiring efforts of Mrs. McGinnis and Mrs. Tucker.

Leonard MacDonald, Ross Jeffrey, Milton Dulmage, Tom May and others joined in paying tribute to the retiring officers who felt that the offices should be passed around and other members encouraged to take the lead.

Tom May, who had been vice-chairman during the year, was named chairman, with Phil Dodds assisting as vice-chairman. Mrs. Wrez Rolston succeeds Mrs. A. O. McGinnis who has been secretary since 1942. Ralph Hubbs succeeds Mrs. Florence Tucker as treasurer; Mrs. McGinnis consented to chair the tag day committee. A former chairman, Milton Dulmage, presided for the election of officers.

Taking over, the new chairman Tom May requested the continued co-operation of members. Plans were made for the Christmas draw and bingo on Saturday, Dec. 14, and the monthly euchre on Monday, Dec. 2. Bingo and draw will be convened by R. Hubbs, M. Dulmage, P. Dodds, Miss Christie Mitchell; card party by T. May, A. MacDonald, Mrs. R. Rolston, Mrs. Rena Foster.

Appreciation was expressed to the public whose support makes this worthwhile work possible.

Fire Destroys Summer Home At Cherry Valley

PICTON — A cottage owned by Roger Blakely, Picton, located in the woods on the Blakely farm on the shore of East Lake, near Cherry Valley, was destroyed by fire Sunday night. All contents were also lost.

The cottage had been occupied by William B. Blakely while he was building another near by. He had put wood in the stove before leaving for town.

The building was a mass of flames when first seen and nothing could be done to save it. Fortunately the breeze was away from cottages closer to the water and recent rains had made the leaves in the woods too wet to ignite from sparks.

The cottage was a large one and covered with stucco. It was well furnished. W. B. Blakely lost many personal possession including a wallet containing $30. The owner, Roger Blakely, was unaware of the loss, being in the north hunting.

Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD — A large number of comrades of Branch 103 of the Canadian Legion here turned out for the annual church parade and Remembrance Day service on Sunday, when they marched to the cenotaph on Queen street for a short service and the placing of several wreaths.

The parade was led by the Campbellford Citizens' Band and members of the Girl Guides, Boy Scouts and the I.O.D.E. took part. Members of the Campbellford town council marched in a body.

Following the placing of the wreaths at the cenotaph, the group marched to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church where a special Remembrance Day service was held.

Retired Chief Of Air Command Most Unhappy

NEW YORK (AP)—A retired chief of the U.S. Strategic Air Command says Russia has better jet bombers and missiles than the United States, which he says has to make "a terrific effort to catch up."

Gen George C. Kenney, who was born in Yarmouth, N.S., further warned Monday night that U.S. overseas bases are "all in range of Red intermediate and short-range missiles" and would be out of commission "the minute they (the Soviet Union) blow the whistle."

Kenney said that "world peace can only be maintained as long as the Russians feel the cost of defending themselves is too high."

Maugham Asks All to Destroy His Letters

LONDON (Reuters) — Author Somerset Maugham has asked his friends, colleagues and family to destroy every letter he has ever written, The Daily Mail reports.

It says the 83-year-old British writer is anxious that none of his letters should be published after his death.

Maugham has charged A. S. Frere, chairman of the Walter Heigmann publishing house, with the task of destroying any documents of a "personal" nature found among his effects.

Maugham was asked by the newspaper if he feared love letters coming to light or any "youthful indiscretions."

He replied through his secretary: "I can assure you that there is nothing of that sort at all. . . ."

Senator Urges NATO Missile Training Centre

By STANLEY JOHNSON

PARIS (AP) — U.S. Senator Henry Jackson (Dem. Wash.) has called for the immediate establishment of a NATO guided missile training centre. He said it has the full backing of President Eisenhower.

The senator told the formal opening session of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Parliamentary assembly such a centre would train soldiers, engineers and technicians from all 15 member countries in the use of missiles.

As the parliament members from the 15 Allies met, France's foremost soldier, Marshal Alphonse Juin, called in an interview for a "real NATO pool" of atomic arms. He said each of the principal NATO members—and France in particular — should have a stock of nuclear arms.

MAY PRODUCE OWN

The marshal, former NATO commander in Central Europe, said France could make her own nuclear weapons and "could even have her own (nuclear) arms soon."

Juin's statements were published in the newspaper Aurore against a background of complaints by other NATO members against the British-American nuclear monopoly.

Jackson, a member of the U.S. Senate armed services committee, told reporters his proposal for a guided missile centre also has the full backing of the U.S. defence department.

Bomb Report Delays Plane, Proves Hoax

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—An Eastern Airlines plane carrying 40 passengers on a flight from Montreal to New York City was delayed at Albany airport for nearly 2½ hours Tuesday as a result of a bomb scare.

The plane, a DC-4, resumed its flight after a search failed to uncover any bomb.

The pilot had been informed by Montreal of an anonymous telephone call saying a bomb had been hidden on the plane.

Will Be Televised

Riders, Larks Joust Tonight In Trails-End Grid Battle

OTTAWA (CP) — Montreal Alouettes and Ottawa Rough Riders meet tonight in a sudden-death Big Four semi-final playoff game that means the end of the 1957 football season for the losing team.

The winner meets Hamilton Tiger-Cats in a home-and-home, total-points series beginning this Saturday, with the final game a week later, to choose the eastern representative in this year's Grey Cup game at Toronto.

Riders held a light, half-hour workout Tuesday night — their second this week. Als arrived in Ottawa after a light workout Tuesday afternoon in Montreal. They had begun practising Sunday, a day Riders had off.

Ticket sales were healthy, including nearly 3,000 picked up by Montreal fans.

FULL GAME ON TV

The full game, commencing at 7:45 EST, was to be telecast, with local stations cut in on the telecast of a home game for the first time this season.

The CBC announced here Tuesday that the full game will be carried on CBC television stations in Ottawa, Toronto and Montreal and will be available to any private TV stations in the Big Four area. The half - hour period after 7 p.m. normally is a commercial period for locally-produced shows on private stations.

The weather forecast was optimistic: Clear skies and warm temperature conditions that should favor the passing offence of Als' veteran quarterback Sam Etcheverry and the versatile Rider attack pivoting around rookie quarterback Tom Dimitroff.

Groundskeeper Eddie Friel pronounced the playing field at Lansdowne Park in good shape. Rainfall, however, could reduce the field to a quagmire.

BOTH HAVE CRIPPLES

But while the field was in good shape both the Als and the Riders were injury-ridden. All the injured were expected to play however.

Montreal's injured included end Hal Patterson, used sparingly Saturday when Alouettes dropped a 27-6 home decision to last - place Toronto Argonauts, fullback Pat Abbruzzi and tackle Ted Elsby.

Riders casualty list included tackle Milt Graham with a sore shoulder, halfback Bill Sowalski with a bad ankle and centre Gerry Selinger with a leg injury. All three missed Saturday's 12-13 loss to Tiger-Cats at Hamilton. Tackle Kaye Vaughan is wearing a cast on a bad knee. But centre Ron Pawlowski said his bruised knee is improving and end Ted Smale appeared in good shape despite a concussion suffered in Hamilton.

Riders finished the Big Four season second to Hamilton, with Montreal in third place.

Pembroke, Chevies Tie 3-3, Dunlops Defeat Ottawa 5-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Veteran Sid Smith, new player-coach of Whitby Dunlops has plenty to smile about today.

The former Toronto Maple Leafs left winger, who signed a two-year contract with Dunlops Monday, watched his new squad continue their back - to - form march with a 5-2 win Tuesday night over Ottawa-Hull Canadiens in an Ontario Hockey Association Senior A game.

The win takes Dunlops into a tie for third place in the standings, with Kingston CKCS.

Smith, who watched the game from the stands, said he was pleased with the team's showing and thought they played very well together.

Only other game last night saw Pembroke Lumber Kings and Cornwall Chevies tie 3-3 after a scoreless overtime period.

AYERSLEY SHINES

Winger Bobby Attersley was the man who caught Smith's eye, scoring three times. Tom O'Connor and Charlie Burns scored the others. Bob Rousseau and Bill Carter were the Ottawa marksmen.

One of the Giesebrecht brothers — this time Jack — earned Pembroke a tie against Cornwall, scoring less than a minute from time.

Bobby Clarke and Bucky Buchanan were the other Pembroke scorers. Reg Grigg, Moe Savard and Guy Henri replying for Cornwall.

Tonight Pembroke is scheduled to visit Kingston.

Quebec Will Stay in League

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec Aces have decided to remain in the Quebec Hockey League, Dr. Bruce Crutchfield, principal shareholder in the club said Tuesday.

Dr. Crutchfield said a week ago that dwindling attendance might force the Aces to consider dropping from the league. At that time he said the three next games might tell the tale.

"We had 4,100 at Sunday's game," he said. "And attendance was up a little at last Thursday's game. Things are getting gradually better."

Dr. Crutchfield said last week the break-even point is about 2,000 fans a game.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And the gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anaesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

TV Public Services Popular Sponsors Look Other Way

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Informative "public service" programming of local origin is a problem to TV stations.

Numerous viewers are interested in serious - minded programs, and stations are obligated to devote some time to "public service" shows. But rarely is a commercial firm interested in sponsoring such programs.

In Providence, R.I., station WJAR-TV has placed the problem in the capable hands of attractive, energetic woman named Jo Adams. Word of her popular week-day morning program had long preceded her on a flying visit to New York the other day.

Her viewers—who write her from 300 to 400 letters a week—take courses in physical fitness and cooking. They learn about Sputnik and space travel from air force experts. They study the U.S. constitution and its meaning. Recently they took a course in Spanish.

A large southern New England TV audience is delighted. Station WJAR-TV is delighted. And Betty Adams, who is raising two children while helping to raise the standards of "public service" TV programming, is delighted—up to a point.

She has problems such as being certain everyone enters the field of television. They go like this:

1. Her program does not have a sponsor. If she had a sponsor, she couldn't expect help from educationists since no educational institution would wish to imply that it endorsed a commercial product. But she isn't getting much help from educators any way. So she might as well have a sponsor.

With some exceptions, notably in the case of educationists at Pence College, Mrs. Adams has had little co-operation because educators pay her program's guests.

"We have a tremendous demand from viewers who want information, who want to be educated on a great variety of subjects," she said. "But I think that many educationists are scared they can't do it. On television they don't have a captive audience. They're not in the classroom. . . . Most educationists don't understand that their basic responsibility is to communicate to others, they don't even begin to understand the nature of communication."

Joan Tabor Making a Business Of Getting Into Business

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Joan Tabor, a red - haired, green - eyed doll, has only been in town a few weeks but she could give lessons on how to become a movie star.

As some starts, notably Joan Crawford, make a business of their business, Joan is making a business of getting into the business.

She has never made a movie —but she will.

Unknown outside of Chicago, where she worked as a TV actress, or her home town of Sioux Falls, S.D., Joan, in a few weeks, has host studios in town interested in her.

HIRED PRESS AGENT

Here's how she did it—and, girls, don't try it, unless you've got Joan's equipment.

First thing she did was hire a press agent. She liked the way Anita Ekberg's career zoomed so she called first-on Miss Ekberg's press agent. He took one look—her—and—on a percentage deal.

Next she sought an agent. She liked the way Jayne Mansfield's career went, in a few months from $150 a week to $75,000 a picture. So Joan met William Shiffrin, who handles Miss Mansfield. Shiffrin took one look and signed her.

FAST RESULTS

Milton Weiss, the press agent, moved fast. An old hand in the business, it was easy for him to get Joan sponsored as a day star at the studios of the make-up artists and hair stylists. It's an important publicity break because most of the town's big people attend and the girls are presented beautifully. Only three years ago, Kim Novak walked down the same runway as Joan—and she was just as unknown then.

Bob Hope annually takes the prettiest of deb-stars for his TV show. Joan made that group and will be on Hope's TV show as soon as he gets his sponsor trouble ironed out.

Shriffin, a top agent, took her around the studios. Practically every one was a color screen test—red hair and green eyes are still a rare commodity. Now the offers are coming in.

SPORT IN BRIEF

RUSSIANS CLEAN UP

TEHRAN (AP)—Russia's Alexei Medvedev and Arkadii Vorobyev swept the heavyweight and middleweight titles Tuesday night to give Russia six of the seven world weightlifting individual championships and the team prize.

A capacity crowd of 3,500 saw Medvedev become the third man ever to lift 500 kilograms (1,102 pounds) and Vorobyev break two world records.

The Soviets won everything but the middleweight crown which was taken Monday by Tommy Kono of the U.S.

REDS' STAR OUT SOON

CINCINNATI (AP)—It was reported on good authority Tuesday that Frank Robinson, Cincinnati Redleg star outfielder - infielder, will be discharged from the Marine Corps within a few days.

Robinson, National League rookie of the year in 1956, and the sophomore of the year in 1957, enlisted for six months on Oct. 1. He was scheduled to be discharged April 1.

The word here is that Robinson's right arm and shoulder, which have given him trouble each spring, failed to stand up under military training.

Barons Shade Rochester 3-2

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Cleveland Barons shaded Rochester Americans 3-2 in an exhibition hockey game between the American League rivals Tuesday night before 2,400 fans.

Jimmy Moore scored two goals for the Barons, and Skippy Butchell got both Rochester goals. The other Cleveland goal was scored by Dan Polizani.

'Sold-Out' Signs Resurrected For Canada-Russia Games

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Moscow's mighty Dynamos have set things humming in Canadian amateur hockey circuits.

Current interest in the Russian one-week tour has run so high in Ontario and Quebec that arena managers are resurrecting their seldom-used sold-out signs.

The Dynamos connect with last year's Allan Cup champions, Whitby Dunlops, at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens to start the tour Friday, Nov. 22.

Just 75 minutes after tickets went on sale Monday, the SRO sign was hanging in the Gardens' box office window.

The Dynamos and the Dunlops will represent Russia and Canada respectively in the world amateur hockey tournament next February in Norway.

SELL-OUTS EVERYWHERE

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen tackle the Dynamos Nov. 26 at Kitchener. They have a score to settle with the Russians, who beat Kitchener in the 1956 world championships.

Last week 8,000 tickets went on sale, and shortly afterwards the Kitchener management announced there were so many fans milling around the box office "we could have sold 20,000 for this one."

Only 400 rush seats were left three hours after seats went on sale for the Russia-Windsor Bulldogs game, Nov. 24 at Windsor. All reserve seats were sold out. Capacity is 5,400.

The Dynamos will play Kingston's CKLCs in the Limestone City Dec. 3. Tickets went on sale Nov. 5 and mail orders have overshadowed the seating capacity. Subscribers may pick up their seats Friday, Nov. 15 as tickets left over—which is doubtful—they will go on sale Nov. 22.

SUDBURY NOV. 23

The Russian tour swings up to Sudbury Nov. 28 for a game against the Wolves, and the management said 2,400 tickets were quickly taken up at prices ranging from $1.50 for standing room to the top price of $2.50. Season subscribers have until Nov. 20 to pick up the 3,000 tickets allotted to them.

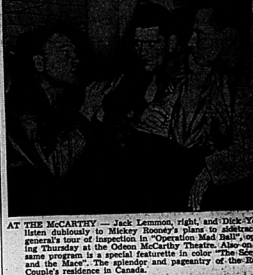
The Montreal Forum expects to sell out its 13,435 seats for the appearance of the Dynamos there, Dec. 1, against Ottawa-Hull Canadiens.

The Russians will wind up their tour with a game in Ottawa, Dec. 5, against the Capital's junior Canadians. The Ottawa Auditorium seats 4,270 and officials fully expect it will be filled to capacity.

Suspend Sentence

TORONTO (CP) — A German immigrant, who upset a civil defence exhibition a week ago when he appeared with a vial which caused civil defence workers' gas masks to react madly, pleaded guilty in court Tuesday to possessing an unregistered firearm. He was given suspended sentence.

Gunder Kuhn, 29, said at the time of the earlier upset that he brought the material from Germany to use for painting luminous dials on watches and instruments.



Police had Kuhn examined by chemists and medical doctors. Later it was said the radioactivity in the radium compound in the vial was not great and posed no threat to his health.

The firearms charge was laid when police discovered he carried a loaded weapon.

COME ON, RIDERS!

The loyal Bytown burghers have recovered from that stunned last-second play that robbed their beloved Rough Riders of victory over the Hamilton Tiger Cats last Saturday and are ready and rarin' to root Frank Clair's gallant gang to victory over the pesky Alouettes from Montreal tonight on the Lansdowne Park greensward.

It is a sudden death affair with the winners meeting the Bengals for the Eastern Canada championship and the right to battle for the battered Grey Cup.

The Riders are not in the best shape physically, and they will have had only a few days' rest. Gary Schreiber has a shoulder separation and St. John a banged up knee, but both youngsters played grimly in that Saturday battle as they will in tonight's tussle.

Down Ottawa way they say what the Riders lack in physical condition they more than make up in fight, spirit and a terrific desire to win. Then, too, tonight they have the benefit of home grounds and a mighty loyal gang of supporters.

With the game practically in the bag, so to speak, the Ottawa hearts were shattered at the unexpected turn of events when a dash of Tiger ingenuity and a spot of ill luck matched the victory from them in the dying seconds. After the game Frank Clair is reported to have hauled off to hit a looker with a kick and mutter "you just wouldn't believe we could have lost that one."

However that is water under the bridge and tonight's tussle should be a thriller with the Riders bound to cop the victory bauble. Alouettes, who were beaten by Argos Saturday via the shortest route, used their regulars sparingly, saving them for tonight's more important tilt.

The Riders have one strike on the Larks if the game should end in an overtime tie. If such is the case they will be awarded the game and go into the home-and-home total points series with the Tabbies from Ivan Miller's lair.

If the squads are deadlocked after the conventional sixty minutes of play, they will play two five-minute overtime periods. If there is no change in the status quo, Riders will get the nod because of a higher rating during the regular season.

Far be it for us to do the habitual limb-crawling but there are a lot of football fans in the close-by hamlets of the woods who are pulling for the Clair men to go all the way to the Grey Cup final. Remember they conceded only one touchdown to the Hamilton Tabbies in two games. They have taken two from the Cats and lost three, and in the losing have been beaten twice by one point and four points in the third game.

"Injuries to the contrary we're pulling the family aside on the South Riders to come through tonight, and against the Tigerish Tabbies from Hamilton in the eastern Canada finals.

MAKES HIS MOVE

Wren Blair of the Whitby Dunlops has made two sudden moves to strengthen his Allan Cup champions before the puck-chasing tovariches arrive from Moscow. As is known he has signed Sid Smith, formerly of the Toronto Maple Leafs, as playing coach, and a later report has it that he has traded Mickey Roth and Billy Flick, Stratford Indians veterans, for school teacher Jack McKenzie of the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

McKenzie is one of the better players in the west-northern senior OHA division. He has been a tower of strength to the Dutchies and besides has had experience in the European theatres of the hockey wars. McKenzie will likely be seen in action here on Friday when the Dunlops tangle with the McFarlands.

BOOSTERS MEET TONIGHT!

Dick Beare, president of the McFarland Booster Club, reminds all members of the general meeting tonight at city hall at 8.00 p.m. As many members as possible are asked to attend as some important business is on the agenda and more news on the Whitby-Russia game in Toronto is expected. City hall at 8.00 p.m. See you there.

NOTE

Tonight's Ottawa-Alouettes football game will be televised starting 7 o'clock.

Imperial Oil will sponsor a telecast and broadcast of the Canada-Russian game at Maple Leaf Gardens Nov. 22. The game will be carried on a national network of radio stations and the interconnected English television network beginning at 8.30 p.m. E.S.T.

Leafs Only Team to Approve, Other Clubs Yet to Report; 'Won't Hurt Us', Says Sloan

DETROIT (CP)—Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs may be together at the bottom of the National Hockey League but they're miles apart in the NHL Players Association.

Detroit players are the only ones to have disapproved formally of the association and its $1,000,000 anti-trust lawsuit against NHL team owners and the league.

Toronto players are the only ones to have approved formerly of the association and its lawsuit.

The Detroit action came Tuesday, when team captain Leonard (Red) Kelly and attorney John A. Hird issued a public statement signed by all 20 Wings. The statement "publicly disavowed" the association and its lawsuit.

LEAFS APPROVE

Last week Toronto players unanimously voted to have the association certified as their bargaining agent. At the same time they expressed approval of the lawsuit against the six club owners and league president Clarence Campbell.

The league's other teams still have to formally declare where they stand.

However, Tod Sloan, Toronto's player representative, said Detroit is the only team against the association. "And we still have five other clubs behind it."

Sloan added:

"I don't think it will hurt our association. We knew that Detroit was the weak sister, especially after they traded Lindsay to Chicago. I certainly know that we aren't going to back out now."

Ted Lindsay, former Detroit captain traded last summer to Chicago Black Hawks, is president of the association.

The Detroit statement said in part, "The president and counsel of the association have acted to detriment to the better interests of the players and hockey in general."

MOUND HOLDS FIRE

The association's counsel is the New York law firm of Millen, M. Mound and J. Norman Lewis. Mound said:

"I will have nothing to say until I hear from Lindsay, or the other officials of the association and until I get more details."

Lindsay, on his way to New York to play tonight, was unavailable for comment. A Chicago source said he probably will meet Mound today.

The Wings said they dropped out of the association because their consent was not obtained before the suit was filed because they could not and did not receive reasons for filing the suit and because they have not received papers to indicate just what the association has to delegal objections to the constitution and bylaws.

The players said they have requested a meeting with team owner Bruce Norris and general manager Jack Adams and suggested other clubs might follow their example of private negotiations

Hurricane Meets Machen Tonight In 12-Rounder

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Boxing followers discover tonight whether Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson has dropped from heavyweight title challenger to trial horse within the short space of two fights.

The tireless warrior battles the No. 1 challenger, undefeated Eddie Machen, in a televised 12-rounder at the Cow Palace at 10 p.m. EST.

It is the first outing for Jackson since July 29 when, as top-ranked challenger, he was shellacked by champion Floyd Patterson. The one - sided bout was stopped in the 10th round. Jackson went to hospital.

Now comes the hard - hitting Machen, a 25-year-old from Redding, California, who is undefeated in 23 bouts. He says he wants to "win big" to impress everyone with his right to battle Patterson. Jackson, meanwhile, has other ideas than being used to build up Machen.

The 26-year-old Jackson from St. Albans, N.Y., has a 29-6-1 record. In his workouts here he has shown the same loose free-swinging style that characterized his fights. He is ranked No. 3 by Ring magazine and No. 6 by the National Boxing Association. He has never been knocked out.

Western Union Breaks 14 Marks

REGINA (CP)—Fourteen team records were broken in the Western Interprovincial Football Union their season's eight of them by Edmonton Eskimos.

Bill Stanfield, chief WIFU statistician, announced today the Eskimos set new marks in total net yards from scrimmage, yards rushing, 4,345, number of carries rushing, 725, best average per rush, 6.01 yards, total first downs, 403, first downs rushing, 272, best average pass 10.1 yards and most points in one season, 475.

Three records fell to the Saskatchewan Roughriders, two to Winnipeg Blue Bombers and one to Calgary Stampeders.

The Riders established new marks for the fewest fumbles, 15, most kickoffs returned, 79, and most points scored against in one season, 438.

The Bomber marks were for most penalties, 108, and most yards penalized, 922, while Stamps set a record for total yards from scrimmage in one game 654.

The total net from scrimmage for Eskimos was 7,075 yards, easily surpassing the mark of 6,020 set by Riders last year.

Teepees Move In Top Spot; Edge Guelph 4-3

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — St. Catharines Teepees moved into first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A standing Tuesday night by defeating last-place Guelph Biltmores 4-3.

The Teepees twice came from behind before winning on a goal late in the third period by Bob Ewer.

Stan Miklis drew three assists to take over the lead in league scoring statistics.

For Guelph, Dave Chambers, Jean Brais and George Ustiola each scored once.

Bruce Gamble, all-star Guelph goalie, turned in a tremendous game, making 28 stops, 15 of them in the last period.

Players Could Help

Hail Smith Man to Bring World Puck Title to Canada

By KENNEDY WELLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The departure of Sid Smith from the National Hockey League closes an era in the history of Toronto Maple Leafs.

The slim, hawk - nosed left-winger who bowed out Monday was one of the last Leafs who could hark back to the late 40s and early 50s when Toronto was a power in the league.

One other from that era is left Ted Sloan—and though only two years younger than Smith at 30, he was never really considered a member of the old guard.

The rest, Ted Kennedy, Howie Meeker, Jim Thomson, Hay Day, Gus Mortson, Turk Broda, Joe Primeau are gone from the player ranks.

TWICE BYNG WINNER

From 1949 until 1955 Smith was one of the best around, and you can prove it by the record book. Twice he won the Lady Byng Trophy for "sportsmanship and gentlemanly conduct," despite the fact that he was playing with the Leaf teams which followed Conn Smythe's dictum:

"If you can't lick 'em in the alley you can't lick 'em on the ice."

He was chosen to the first all-star team once, and the alternate team twice.

His signing this week as player-coach with Whitby Dunlops opens up exciting possibilities of international fame as the man who could bring the world amateur hockey crown back to Canada.

Tonight, the Smithless Leafs are host to Montreal Canadiens and New York Rangers are at home to Chicago Black Hawks.

Toronto coach Billy Reay figures he has a "mighty valuable player" moving in to the slot Smith on left wing. The player is Gary Aldcorn, called up again from Rochester Americans.

PENALTY-KILLING ACE

Reay says of Aldcorn: "You can play him anywhere and he does a good job. At Rochester last year, as a penalty-killer, he scored six goals while we were shorthanded."

Aldcorn started both last season and this with the Leafs but was sent down to improve his skating.

New York has called up goalie Marcel Paille from Cleveland also recalled defenceman Ivan Irwin from Providence Reds.

General manager Muzz Patrick said Tuesday that Gump Worsley, Rangers' regular goaltender, still is troubled by a pulled thigh muscle. In a five-game replacement stint for Worsley, Paille allowed only 10 goals. He was sent back to the minors.

Irwin will replace Bill Gadsby who has a wrenched back and will miss his first NHL game in five seasons.

MORE WORK FOR BRUINS

Boston Bruin coach Milt Schmidt has promised his faltering squad that the practice sessions will be longer and more strenuous from now on. Bruins' 4-3 win over Detroit Sunday was only the team's second in 10 games.

"I'm not accusing anybody of loafing, but there is plenty of work to be done," said Schmidt. "Heavier practices will straighten out some of the problems."

SEEKS EMPIRE CROWN

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Canadian flyweight boxing champion Lloyd Gordon of Saint John leaves next week for Johannesburg, South Africa, where he will fight champion Dennis Adams for the British Empire crown Dec. 11.

Pacific League Still in Air

NEW YORK (AP)—The currently - indisposed Pacific Coast League won't know what shape it will be in next season for another three weeks—if then.

That's what the second meeting called by baseball commissioner Ford Frick to discuss the situation achieved here Tuesday.

Frick said the group of major and minor league officials, their original suggestions in the problem vetoed by the Texas League and American Association, had put together a new plan for the realignment of the PCL, but he doubted there would be a final decision until next month's winter meetings.

Frick refused to reveal either of the realignment plans discussed in the two meetings. Nor would he identify any of the leagues which would be affected by the PCL franchise shifts caused by the invasion of the National League's San Francisco Giants and Los Angeles Dodgers.

The new plan will be submitted to the leagues and clubs involved, Frick said.

Harness Racing

BATAVIA (CP)—Duke Comet won the featured 2 trot for $1,700 Tuesday night and paid $47 for the win when he beat Town Crusader, the favorite, by a half length.

Jarretown Jane, owned by driver Bod Gilmore of Ridgeway, and Frank Adams of Corfu, won the companion feature, a class A pace, for $17.10 in a surprising 3:04, cutting 2 1-5 off her mark. She paid $13.60.

Horse Killed Jockey Hurt In Workout

TORONTO (CP) — Ex-jockey Pat Mulrooney, 41, was injured and his horse Blessed Event killed Tuesday in a collision with a riderless horse during a workout at Woodbine racetrack.

Mulrooney suffered a fractured pelvis and internal injuries and was given several blood transfusions. He is reported in "satisfactory" condition.

Mulrooney was thrown heavily when Blessed Event was struck by Nite Clock, coming up the course the wrong way after throwing Jockey Al Ouellette.

Nite Clock shied on seeing a track cleaner in a white uniform. Studley was thrown but unhurt.

A second horse was lost when Haviland, after finishing last in the second race, collapsed and died after crossing the finish line. The seven-year-old was owned by W. Smith.

THREE WORRY YANKS

NEW YORK (AP)—The Mirror says New York Yankees have ordered clinical checkups this week end for Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra and Whitey Ford, the American League champs' big three.

The Mirror reports that the trio has been ordered to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., instead of undergoing the annual routine physical examination required by the club.

The order was made, the newspaper says, after chronic conditions failed to respond to treatment.

Eastern Senior 'A' Division Standings, Scoring

Cornwall Chevies, led by centre Moe Savard, placed five players in the OHA Eastern senior "A" League's top ten, according to statistics released today. Savard gathered eight points in his club's three games this past week to take over the points leadership with 17. Other Cornwall players listed are Reg Grigg with ten points and Hugh Campbell, Kennie Muir and George Aitken with nine each.

Billy Colvin of Kingston, climbed from nowhere into second spot on the scoring list with 15 points, while Ike Hildebrand of Belleville, and Jack Giesebrecht of Pembroke, follow with 11 each. Colvin leads the goal-scorers with nine; Savard is tops in the assist department with 11. Moe Benoit of Belleville is loop bedman with 30 minutes served.

Whitby's John Henderson has allowed 12 goals in four games to top the goalies' averages with an even 3.00. John Craig of Pembroke, follows with 3.29. Bob Baxter, who turned pro with Springfield last week, was tops before he departed with a nifty 2.50 average. No shutouts have been recorded.

Six Welters Agree to Enter Tourney

NEW YORK (AP) — The six welterweight boxers named to fight in a tournament to find a new champion all have agreed to enter the tournament.

Julius Helland, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission and also head of the world championship committee, announced the final acceptances.

Virgil Akins of St. Louis, Vince Martinez of Paterson, N.J., Isaac Logart of Cuba, Gaspar Ortega of Mexico, Gil Turner of Philadelphia and George Barnes of Australia are the six involved.

"I am urging promoters to arrange matches among these six men immediately," said Helland. "The committee hopes to find a successor to Carmen Basilio (now middleweight champ) by March 15."

Logart is ranked No. 1 contender.

Old Hoss-Trader Frank Lane New Boss Cleveland Indians

CLEVELAND (AP)—An explosive, 52-year-old baseball executive with a reputation for shrewd trading is faced today with making "one final deal" for the Cleveland Indians—and fill spaces in baseball Stadium with fans who will pay to see them play.

Frank Lane, appointed general manager of the Indians Tuesday, with a three-year contract, left St. Louis and his job as the Cardinals' general manager to succeed Fred Hank Greenberg.

"One final job," Lane said after he stepped off the plane here Tuesday night. "It is find out what the team needs."

Ten days after he took over as Chicago White Sox general manager in 1948 he got Billy Pierce and $10,000 from Detroit Tigers for catcher Aaron Robinson. Pierce has become one of the great lefthanders in baseball, while Robinson faded.

Lane said he wanted to talk things over with Bobby Bragan, Tribe field manager, before committing on any possible trades.

He did mention, however, that "from a distance" the Indians looked as if they needed help around second base. He said he talked with John Mollas, general manager of Detroit Tigers, by telephone. Detroit shortstop Harvey Kuenn was discussed.

Lane, has had spectacular success as a baseball executive. After hiring Chicago at the doldrums, he went to the Cardinals and repeated the performance.

Replacing Lane at St. Louis will be 40-year - old Vaughan (Bing) Devine, who had been Lane's executive assistant.

August Busch, Jr., president of the Cardinals, who professed he was "amazed and aghast" at Lane leaving, put Devine on an "month to month" basis. No contract was given him. Busch said that was the way Devine had been working for the Cardinals since he joined them in 1239 as a publicist.

CNS Ships Will Be Worked Only
Under Contract

HALIFAX (CP)—J. J. Campbell, president of the Halifax Longshoremen's Association, says steve dores have not yet discussed the question of working Canadian National Steamships under foreign registry.

"As far as I'm concerned we have a contract and we'll work all ships handled under that contract," Mr. Campbell said Tuesday.

Three ships have lain at anchor here since the crews struck last June. The company announced Monday Trinidad will be the port of registry for the ships.

A CNS spokesman in Montreal said Challenger and the Canadian Constructor will from here Nov. 30, followed by the Canadian Leader Dec. 10 and the Canadian Constructor Dec. 15.

The Observer will come from Montreal where four other CNS ships are tied up. The company said it will hire men "anywhere we can get them." No crew members have been hired here yet.

Canadian National Steamships operates ships in two West Indies runs—one to Bermuda, the British West Indies and British Guiana, the other for the Bahamas, Cuba and Jamaica.

At Toronto, an official of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) Tuesday termed the move to transfer the ships to Trinidad as open strikebreaking.

Murray Cotterill, public relations director of the union, told the Canadian Industrial Management Association that Transport Minister Hees "openly solicited strikebreakers outside of Canada to solve a dispute between the government and its own employees."

The action is the worst example of government interference yet to evade collective bargaining, he said.

Striking members of the Seafarers' International Union of North America (CLC) are demanding from the company a basic wage increase averaging 50 per cent, higher overtime rates, a reduction in hours of work at sea from 48 to 40 hours a week, and additional statutory holidays, a health and welfare plan and other benefits.

FIRE IN SHIPYARD

BELFAST (Reuters) — Five hundred workers escaped injury Tuesday night when fire engulfed the main engine plant of the massive Harland and Wolff Shipyards here. The fire was caused when a 500-gallon tank full of diesel fuel exploded, sending blazing fuel over a wide area.

"O.K., I've taken my tranquilizer—now let's go take a look at the car."

Adlai Stevenson
May Accept
Ike to Paris

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adlai Stevenson held out the possibility today he may accompany President Eisenhower to the Paris NATO "summit" meeting next month.

From a haze of confusion, the role of the Democrat whom Eisenhower twice defeated for the U.S. presidency emerged as that of adviser—and possibly a participant—in proposals Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles will present to a North Atlantic Treaty Organization meeting of heads of government in Paris Dec. 16.

An error by James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, brought on the uncertainty which both Hagerty and Stevenson later sought to clarify.

In a bid for bipartisan support, Stevenson was offered at first a key position in both formulating and presenting United States proposals to strengthen NATO against Russia's growing missile strength.

WILLING TO GO

In New York Tuesday night, Stevenson said he would be willing to attend the Paris meeting. But whether he would go, he said, would depend on the shape of the U.S. proposals. He indicated one condition might be an increase in defense funds that would require a relaxation of the $275,000,000,000 limit on the U.S. federal debt.

Stevenson issued his statement after Hagerty had announced first that Stevenson would limit his co-operation to commenting on the program after it had been developed.

Hagerty conceding later he had made an error, said he had misunderstood the meaning of the word "consult." He agreed Stevenson's role would be to consult and comment while the policies are in preparation. He said he was "red-faced" about his error and had been "overcome" it after he discovered it.

PAIR GUILLOTINED

ALGIERS (AP) — Two convicted Moslem terrorists were guillotined in the prison courtyard here today—the first brought to 97 the unofficial total of executions since the start of the rebellion.

Beer Parlors Not Making Profit in B.C. Consultants Tell Hotelkeepers' Assoc.

By DAVID ROWNTREE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Hotelkeepers in British Columbia are not at a report by a firm of economic consultants.

The consultants carried out one of the basic assumptions of hotel operation: that beer and liquor sales are the profitmakers.

But not in B.C. say more, the report found. They blame the retail price of beer hasn't changed for the past 20 years — remains for a 7½-ounce glass.

All other costs have gone up. The wholesale price of beer is $24.50 a barrel, up from $23 in 1938. The income from beverage rooms is either overturned one on beer parlors or fattening, the profit margin is adequate in most portions.

Joseph B. Ward and Associates' recommendations to the B.C. Hotels Association were: Raise the price of beer by the glass to 12 cents or reduce the size to six ounces, keeping the price at 10 cents.

The government liquor control board, however, approved another alternative—keep the price at 10 cents but sell an alternate five 15-ounce glass for 20 cents.

The larger glass won't be available for sale for at least two months. After a trial period, perhaps a year, another move will be made to see if this has increased profits or if a price boost should be sought.

One man who came out in protest at the larger glasses was Vancouver's traffic superintendent, Ralph Booth. He says imbibing drivers will drink fewer but much. Drinking will still be limited by how much a person has to spend, hotelmen counter.

Dr. John Rienstra, Dutch-born economist who supervised the survey, said he was surprised beer parlors weren't making money.

Beer parlor patrons were even more surprised about the lack of profit when they found out from Dr. Rienstra's survey that the average amount of beer the 7½-ounce glass is only 5.1 ounces. The rest is foam.

POOR ACCOUNTING

Dr. Rienstra criticized shoddy accounting methods which disguises the beer parlor loss. In a good hotel operation, the beer parlor, cocktail bar, restaurant and anything not concerned with renting rooms should pay rent to the hotel, he said.

His report mentioned self-service vending machines as another way of cutting costs. Dr. Rienstra said there are objections to this and to adoption of the stand-up type bar common in most other English - speaking countries.

"There's a danger of getting back to the boisterous days of the saloon bars. It'd be difficult to control inebriates and minors. Both suggestions would require complete redesigning of existing beer parlors."

In his report, Dr. Rienstra said: "One of the few qualities that did not change its price (in the last 20 years) was draught beer. It is the last remnant of the five-cent cigar, five - cent coffee and the 50-cent haircut era."

KILL 68 REBELS

ALGIERS (AP) — Sixty - six rebels were killed throughout Algeria within the last 24 hours and a large quantity of arms and ammunition seized, French authorities reported today.

Young Workers Badly Needed In Medical Field

OTTAWA (CP)—The Association of Canadian Medical Colleges urges progress in medical research may come to a halt in Canada unless more young workers are attracted to the field.

In a brief to the federal government the association asked that the annual budget of the National Research Council's medical research division be increased by $500,000 to $1,500,000.

Recruitment of junior workers is so serious a problem that progress in medical research may well be halted unless a solution is found," the brief, presented Tuesday, said.

Stipends for fellowships were too low to attract the best young medical graduates, many of whom had family responsibilities.

LOSING TO U.S.

Dr. L. G. Stevenson, McGill University's dean of medicine and one of three association representatives presenting the brief, said later in an interview:

"We are losing good people to the United States because of insufficient support."

Additional funds were needed to avoid the stopping of work in research and to remove uncertainty caused by making grants on a year-to-year basis.

A second brief, presented to Health Minister Monteith, asked for safeguards in national hospital insurance legislation to ensure that every medical school hospital have a hospital teaching unit with enough beds that is controlled by the medical faculty.

WINS HONORS

WALKERTON, Ont. (CP)—Murray Cámpbell, 13, of Listowel, Thursday won gold medal for leadership honors at the 4-H calf club show staged at the Walkerton Agricultural Fair. Wednesday he won the open championship in the commercial classes and the Aberdeen-Angus steer.

Reserve grand championship winner was Raymond Barclay of Tara.

Business Daze

River Pilots Facing Fine Of $200 Each

MONTREAL (CP) — River pilots who walked off their jobs last week were to decide today whether to go back to work or face $200 fines threatened by the transport department.

A committee of the St. Lawrence-Kingston - Ottawa District Pilots Corporation, after discussing settlement proposals with Transport Minister Hees in Ottawa Tuesday night, was to report to a general meeting of the pilots today.

Mr. Hees and Corporation Secretary Jacques Saucier declined to discuss publicly Tuesday night the department's threat to abolish the district and fine the pilots. But they said they had "profitable exchanges of views" at the meeting and several proposals for a settlement had been debated.

The pilots left work to back up demands for job security and an increase of manpower in the pilots pool. The stoppage has almost entirely tied up ocean ships that normally take on pilots to get through the St. Lawrence canal system.

Smaller lakers have not been affected to any great extent.

President Jean Guy Gagnon of the Pilots Corporation said earlier its members would like to the district abolished so pilots could bargain directly with the shipping Federation of Canada.

As members of the Masters, Mates and Pilots Union they would bargain collectively with the federation.

The federal government now sets and collects pilotage fees and remits them to the corporation which splits up the total among the pilots.

YOUNG CRIME PARTNERS

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP) — A nine-year-old boy and his 13-year-old girl friend were arrested in connection with a $319 department store robbery here Thursday night entrance was made into the store one night last week through a high window.

Astrological Forecast

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Be aware of the changing scene, new methods, competition. Take advantage of present opportunities to advance. Consult those who may be able to aid, guide you.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Put plans in synopsis form, then develop them according to your best interests — along lines suited to your talents, needs. Take pride in achievement and keep your ambitions lofty.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Handle difficult situations gracefully, diplomatically. Watch for pitfalls that might be overlooked in your rush to get things done. Your likeable personality and keen mentality are fine assets; use them.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Start the day off with a sturdy, encompassing program that will put you well on your way toward your goals. Vision and determination will be helpful. Be amenable to good suggestions.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Buck your efforts with convincing oratory — not the flowery type, but a genuine expression of what you really believe in. Your earnestness can attract desired results now.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Analyze your day's requirements, then, in order of importance, handle all with dispatch, decision, capability — as near so well can. Help others as you advance along the road to success.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Advice to Taurus applies here, too. Generate more enthusiasm for the finer things. Worthwhile accomplishment will give you great pleasure. Avoid aimless rushing.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — As the year nears its end, be sure to give it your best in both effort and ambition. Be mindful of current opportunities which are yours for the taking. Show your spirit and spunk.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Family and business interests should have your unhurried attention now. Leave irrevelent matters out of your schedule. Give associates a feeling of co-operation.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Temper your usual enthusiasm with common sense lest you go overboard in any endeavor or activity. Day requires quiet thought and action to better interests.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Move with surety and pattern now. Avoid controversy, needless criticism in business ventures.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Be cautious in extra-curricular activities. Day lends itself to routine matters, steady progress, careful planning. Enlist the aid of experienced heads if something stumps you.

You born today are generally strong in character, have keen judgment and a flair for directorship. At times your ideas may prove a drain on your physical or financial reservoir. In that case, call on your common sense and a sane analysis to show you the way. Although you are fond of the luxuries of life, if need be you can temporarily turn to the economical side of your nature to see you through. Many excellent doctors, surgeons, engineers, detectives, chemists, textile and secretarial workers were born under this sign. Birthdate of Sir Chas. Lyell, geologist.

Now 'Pretty Close' To Launching U.S. Test Satellite

Vanguard Scientists Soon Will Ask Site Be Cleared

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman for the United States space satellite project, Vanguard, says the scientists are "now pretty close" to asking that the launching pad at Cape Canaveral, Fla., be cleared for firing the first U.S. satellite test sphere.

Project Vanguard operates under the navy. Last week, the navy said it hoped to launch a satellite, using powerful Jupiter-C rockets it has developed.

Announced U.S. plans call for launching small test spheres next month and firing the first fully-developed satellite in March.

DETAILS OBJECTIVE

A spokesman for the Grand Central Rocket Company at Houston, Calif., said Wednesday his firm was notified by the navy that the rocket, 72 feet tall, with a sphere 8.4 inches in diameter, would go aloft Dec. 1.

In Washington, it was said no exact date has been set.

The first Soviet satellite was launched Oct. 4. The second one was sent up Nov. 3 with a scientific instruments equipment on board. both satellites now is dead and the last signal from the second one died inside Sputnik II.

Moscow radio said Wednesday night the Russian scientists are sure Laika "was quite well and comfortable to the end." But the Russian who took part in the dog's prefight training said there is no hope of returning Laika to earth.

FIVE SPACE OBJECTS

Dr. Fred Whipple, director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Cambridge, Mass., officials said analysis of sighting reports indicate there may be five objects whirling around the globe.

They said three of these objects are "definitely satellites," its carrier rocket and possibly the rocket's nose cone.

Observatory astronomers also said there has been a number of false sightings of a second object related to Sputnik II.

Dr. Fred Whipple, associate director of the observatory, declined to speculate whether the second object sighted with Sputnik II might be the result of a premature attempt to return the earth in its container.

John T. Mengel, project Vanguard radio tracking chief, Wednesday said Sputnik II could remain aloft for more than a year before it slows down to an 85-mile circuit of the earth that would spell its death. Sputnik II now is making 14 trips a day.

Mengel said observers for the test satellite to be fired next month will have a near-powerful look. It should last as long as the satellite, perhaps a year.

PM Announces Major Maritime Power Program

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today in the Commons an agreement has been reached with Nova Scotia and New Brunswick for a vast federal-provincial power development program in the two provinces.

The program includes:

1. A $90,000,000 federal loan at 4 - per - cent interest to New Brunswick for additional construction of the Beechwood hydro-electric power project on the St. John River.

2. Federal construction of steam power plants and electrical meeting transmission lines in the two provinces. These will be sold to the provinces.

3. A federal subvention on coal used for power production in the two provinces.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he is confident this program "will have an profoundly beneficial effect on the industrial development of those provinces."

He added that it "carries the full and enthusiastic support" of both Premiers Stanfield of Nova Scotia and Flemming of New Brunswick.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the program will be "largely self-financing and self-liquidating."

It was the federal government's policy to "take action to improve the economic well-being of those parts of Canada that, through no fault of their own, have not shared fully in the economic growth of the country in recent years."

The Atlantic provinces were among these areas. Since power was a basic factor in attracting new industry it is only fair and equitable that the government of Canada should take measures to assist in meeting this basic requirement of the Maritime provinces for industrial growth.

As forecast in the speech from the throne, "the federal government will provide, on a basis of interest will provide, on a basis of full repayment by the Provinces of New Brunswick the necessary financing" for the Beechwood project now under completion.

The prime minister indicated Saskatchewan would receive a long-term federal loan to help finance the power and irrigation project if it can make out a case for such assistance.

Economic Fears Spark French Gold Rush

PARIS (Reuters) — A feverish rush for gold seized the Paris gold market today as a result of widespread fears of a new government crisis, strike threats and a diplomatic flurry over arms for Tunisia.

A wave of heavy buying carried the one kilo (2.2 lb.) gold ingot to 580,000 francs (about $417), a jump of 35,000 francs (about $81) on the day, and the highest price since the 1952 record of 633,000 francs.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis:—Warm, moist air from the southern United States and the Gulf of Mexico has spread rain and drizzle across Ontario. A westerly disturbance moving into the Mississippi Valley is forecast to move towards the Great Lakes region today and into Central Ontario Friday. Rain is expected in the lower reaches, and at times moderate in the path of this disturbance. The rain will let up in the Windsor area Friday morning and in the Lake Ontario region in the afternoon. Cooler air edging into Northern Ontario today will cause some freezing drizzle or light snowflurries. By Friday heavy snow should be anticipated in the area farther north.

LESAGE SAYS PM HAS NO POLICIES FOR HIS PARTY

Strong Attack Made On Throne Speech

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal Jean Lesage has charged Prime Minister Diefenbaker with having no policies of his own and hiding that fact by threatening to call an election.

If the government does call an election, said the MP for Montmagny-L'Islet in the Commons debate on the speech for the admission of failure . . . a retreat from reality . . . a confession of lack of policy."

Mr. Lesage, former resources minister, said Conservatives are giving Canada "government by postponement." Most of their legislation to date was merely an extension, of policies developed by former Liberal governments.

PIPELINE CASE

Even the appointment of a royal commission to study energy resources, including the Trans-Canada natural gas pipeline, was the government's way of hiding the fact that it wanted to adopt Liberal pipeline policy.

"But the government doesn't dare do it publicly . . . they don't have the courage to have the courage to follow our policy," Mr. Lesage said.

Alistair Stewart (CCF—Winnipeg North), following in the debate, said Parliament after 30 years one must have "an illimitable amount of gall" to call itself a democratic party member.

In 13 years in the Commons, he said, every Liberal policy he had seen had been filched from other parties.

SPENDING ATTACK

Mr. Lesage's speech was one of the strongest Liberal attacks on the government of the three-day debate, which today moves into its second-last day.

Tonight Commons sits on a CCF non - confidence motion which calls for "immediate and effective planning" to meet inflation, unemployment and other problems. The minority Conservative government, with assured Liberal support, is sure to defeat.

In the Senate throne speech debate, Senator George P. Burchill (Lib., Saint John-Albert) said Canada's products are being priced out of world markets because of the cutback on the Canadian dollar. He called for a Senate probe of the causes of and the value of the dollar to the Canadian economy.

Senator Jean-Francois Pouliot (Lib.—Quebec) said the leaders of the Liberal party have been especially responsible for the transfer of Canadian shipyards vessels to the Canadian registry. He spoke on a measure, later passed by the Commons, which directed accelerated depreciation rate for tax purposes on Canadian - built ships. The senator said he would be one third of the ship's cost.

Senator Burchill and refer to the planned transfer of the Canadian National Steamships fleet to Canadian ownership, but said the leaders of seamen's unions "have blinded the goose that laid golden eggs."

SHOT AT CAR

WINDSOR (CP)—Clarence Joseph Amond, 19, and Eugene Desjaurlier, both of Windsor, Wednesday were given suspended sentences for taking potshots at a car containing five young Windsorites. Magistrate J. Hanrahan said the intention probably was to scare the five persons but that purpose might easily have gone awry."

HUNTER BAGS WHITE DEER

Albino, or white, deer are seldom seen or bagged by hunters in Canada, so Don Nelson is wondering how to preserve this rare specimen. He shot it on Cockburn Island, west of Manitoulin in Georgian Bay, and brought it back with him to Sault Ste. Marie.

Overturned Boat Only Clue To Multiple-Drowning Case

OTTAWA (CP)—An overturned boat was the only clue to what appeared to be the third multiple drowning in Eastern Ontario in less than three weeks of the same season.

Its occupants—Warren J. Custus, H. H. Bowers and John Moore, all of Minerva, Ont.—have not been seen Friday night. Custis and Bowers were adults; Moore a teen-ager.

Their boat was found Wednesday about 50 miles northwest of here in the Ottawa River in almost the same spot where three weeks ago another three hunters of were drowned after a boat overturned.

Last weekend, another overturned boat was found on Pine Lake, 120 miles west of here. None of the bodies of the three hunters in it have been recovered.

The American trio's boat was believed to have overturned Saturday as they were crossing the wind-tossed river from Quebec to Ontario with the carcasses of two deer.

Henri Bedard, a warden with the Quebec game and fisheries department, found the boat Wednesday. He had begun a search Monday following a phone call from Mrs. Bowers in Minerva that her husband had not been in touch with her Saturday as expected.

The trio had begun their hunt 12 days ago from Stonecliffe, Ont., about 120 miles northwest and had crossed the river to Dez Joachims, a large game preserve. Bowers and Moore were last seen Friday night.

Their campsite on the Quebec side of the Ottawa River. He found the entrails of two deer and assumed the hunters' boat was heavily loaded for the return crossing.

Big Spending in Prospect For Ballistic Missile Defence

OTTAWA (CP) — Big Canadian expenditures are in prospect for a defence against the intercontinental ballistic missile.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said in the Commons Wednesday that the Defence Research Board and the United States Air Force are conducting a joint research program into detection and interception of the intercontinental ballistic missile. He added:

"It is our intention to follow up very closely this joint development and to give this project of creating a defence against the ballistic missile high priority in our defence program."

Officials have said that an effective defence against the missile—if one can be perfected—will cost hundreds of millions of dollars, mainly in electronic equipment. The missile travels at about 15,000 miles an hour and at the top of its trajectory is almost 800 miles high in space.

A radar system would provide only about 30 minutes' warning of the approach of the 5,000-mile-range weapon.

Meanwhile, missiles of another kind were discussed here by Defence Minister Pearkes and Dr. Lauris Norstad, supreme Allied commander in Europe.

The two military leaders talked over re-equipping of the RCAF air division in Europe with new weapons, presumably anti - aircraft guided missiles.

The air division now is equipped with some 300 subsonic jet Sabres and CF-100s. Gen. Norstad has recommended to the NATO council replacement of some fighter squadrons in Europe with ground-to-air missiles in the next two years.

The 50-year-old American general, who arrived here Wednesday was to hold further discussions today with political and military leaders, and address a closed session of the Commons and Senate before flying to Paris, his headquarters.

Compulsory Common Policy For West Spaak's Proposal

PARIS (Reuters)—NATO chief, Paul-Henri Spaak today called for a "revolution in diplomacy" in the compulsory common Western foreign policy.

The secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization also said the West's nuclear deterrent to Russia is a scientific achievement is difficult because "we must have both the Sputnik and the washing machine."

Spaak was addressing legislators from 15 NATO nations attending a conference here prior to the December meeting of NATO government chiefs.

"The necessity of "guns and butter—Sputnik and the washing machine—calls for Western nations to work together. "None of our countries can do it alone," he said.

Last year's Suez crisis showed that NATO must have a common world policy.

"Some will have to give up a long tradition. Others will have to adopt something completely new in their approaches to world problems," he said.

"The beginning of a revolution in the history of diplomacy. We must begin with ad hoc prior consultations and coordination."

He warned that the Western democracies need to maintain their high standards of living as the real defence against Communism.

"The Russians have scored a great scientific success with the Sputnik to the detriment of the Russian people themselves. We in the Western world must have both the Sputnik and the washing machine."

FARQUHAR OLIVER QUITS AS ONTARIO LIBERAL LEADER

Will Carry on Until New Head Chosen

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario Liberals prepared today to search for a new leader and to re-examine policy following the resignation of Farquhar Oliver.

Mr. Oliver's resignation is to become effective when a successor is chosen, probably next April at the Liberal Association's annual meeting here.

In announcing his decision, Mr. Oliver, who has been leader of the Ontario legislature since 1956, said:

"It is my firm conviction that our party has benefited by periodic examinations of its policy and leadership and I believe that such a time is again opportune . . . In the interest of the Liberal party as a whole I would hope that a number of candidates would contest the leadership."

TWO OUSTED FROM CAUCUS

Mr. Oliver's announcement came less than a month after he expelled two legislature members from the party caucus following a revolt by the party executive.

In the 98-member legislature, the Liberals now hold 11 seats.

On Oct. 17 Mr. Oliver ordered Essex North MPP Watson (Lib-North) and Albert Wren (Lib-Lab, Kenora) barred from caucus.

Mr. Wren had described the executive as "a group of fanatics who abuse the people," and Mr. Reaume said the Kenora MPP's conduct in the legislature "have no confidence in the present party executive."

In an interview following his resignation, Mr. Oliver said a by-election in member for Grey South, said he wanted the leadership convention to be "wide open." He said declined to say whether he would stand for election if nominated, but said: "I would not want anyone barred."

He said he expects to continue as party leader during the legislature session scheduled to open Nov. 26.

SEVERAL POSSIBILITIES

Several possibilities as successor have been discussed in recent months, among them Walter Harris, former finance minister in the federal government, and Paul Martin, former federal health minister, if he should be left out in the Liberal leadership campaign.

Also mentioned is Mr. Wren himself. Mr. Wren and Mr. Oliver at the 1955 convention. John Wintermeyer (PC—Hamilton East) is considered a possibility.

Mr. Oliver said he would not be a candidate for the leadership as his successor.

Mr. Oliver first sat in the legislature as a member of the United Farmers of Ontario party, a forerunner of the CCF party, was minister of public works and welfare in the Hepburn government from 1941 until 1942 and held the same post in the Nixon government.

He became Ontario Liberal leader in 1950 and Mrs. Oliver said Thomson was party leader in 1950 and 1951 after Walter Harris was vacant for a few years, until again taken over by Mr. Oliver.

NEW ARMS LAW

CAIRO (Reuters) — Arms can be imported into Egypt without customs inspection under a government bill published today. The measure is designed to help maintain strict secrecy about the quantity and type of arms reaching the country.

Defence Spending Must Be Boosted Says Eisenhower

Drastic Cuts Advocated In Non-Essential Programs

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — President Eisenhower says the cost of weapons in the space age means that there will be a "very considerable" boost in United States defence spending.

As a result, non-essential national programs will have to be cut drastically or eliminated entirely and a balanced budget will have to be sacrificed for the time being, the president said Wednesday night.

He departed from his prepared text to ad di: "My pressure groups will wail in anguish."

In a television-radio address, the president also called for a stepped-up educational program of training scientists to meet the Russian threat. He suggested the program include such incentives as fellowship grants to provide more science teachers. But he did not go into details.

Eisenhower asked for greater concentration on basic research, saying "The warning lies in the fast rate of increase of the Soviet effort" in the field of science.

MEETING CHALLENGE

Making the second of a series of "chin up" talks, Eisenhower said the United States has met and will continue to be met.

He cautioned that Russia's development of weapons of the future means "there is danger ahead but we can overcome it."

The president, addressing an overflow audience in the 6,000-seat Municipal Auditorium, recalled that Nazi dictator Hitler boasted he would burn the free world.

"Not enough people took him at his word," Eisenhower said in likening the situation then to the present Soviet threat.

"We shall not make that mistake again."

Eisenhower's assertion that defence spending on missiles and other weapons of the future must be increased by "a very considerable figure" likely will mean spending hope for a tax cut next year.

Seattle Crater Threatens Homes Of 75 Persons

SEATTLE (AP) — Seventy-five persons were evacuated from homes ranging hole 60 feet deep engulfed a north end boulevard and caused cracks in nearby stone homes and an apartment house.

Police said the huge, jagged ends of broken water, gas and sewer pipes jutting from its sides made the hole "a death trap."

The hole, caused by a break in a trunk sewer 145 feet under Ravenna Boulevard, nearly doubled in size during the night and early minutes. Residents of the area watched as the crater widened—at the rate of about a foot a minute.

The first was being sucked out through the bottom of the hole into the sewer.

Railways Say Union Demands Are 'Shocking'

MONTREAL (CP) — A strike threat appeared as a possibility today after management of Canada's major railways denounced union proposals for a wage increase as "shocking" in their "extravagance."

The 15 non-operating unions represent 140,000 men—127,000 of them yard and maintenance employees of Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways.

They are asking a 17 - cent hourly increase and a raise equal to 11 per cent of their current pay. Both would be retroactive to about 25 cents an hour.

Non-operating employees make about $1.83 an hour under the present contract, which expires Dec. 31.

The unions asked a meeting with the railways before Dec. 1 to discuss including the wage increases and some fringe benefits in a new contract.

"The extravagance of these demands is shocking," the railways said in a brief statement issued by their vice-president for personnel.

The demands would average more than $1,000 a year for each man. That would mean a total bill of $132,000,000, said D. I. McNeill of Montreal, president of the Railway Association of Canadian National.

The extra cost would jump to $220,000,000, he said, if the 50,000 other employees of the two railways received similar boosts they said.

In the face of "drastically" falling revenue, rising costs, and warnings of inflation, the demands are "absolutely unacceptable," they said.

The demands "pose a grave threat to the railways and would inevitably deal a blow to the whole Canadian economy to the personnel directors said.

The non-operating employees received a 10-cent hourly raise last June and an 11-per cent wage increase plus other benefits during the last two years, they said.

Frank H. Hall, chairman of the federal conciliation commission of the rail unions, said the proposed increase is designed to bring railway workers wages to the level of those of other industries and to maintain parity during the life of the contract.

CITY and DISTRICT NEWS

VEHICLE SUSTAINS HEAVY DAMAGE

City firemen were called to Station Street Wednesday afternoon to extinguish a car fire which caused considerable damage to a vehicle owned by a Trenton youth, Donald Smith.

Firemen said flames were engulfing the motor when they arrived on the scene. Hose connections, battery and other parts of the motor were ruined.

POLICE ASSISTANCE REQUESTED TO FIND MISSING GIRL

City police have been asked to assist in locating Shirley Ann Caruk, who will be transferred to the Public Relations Department at C.N.I.B. headquarters in Toronto. Mr. Padden's headquarters will be at 397 Water Street, Peterborough, and the district of which he will be in charge is made up of five counties: Peterborough, Victoria, Hallburton, Northumberland and Durham.

Since coming to this district Mr. Padden has made many friends, not only among the blind people with whom he worked, but also among the members of the Institute's various Advisory Boards and the many voluntary workers. He will take up his duties in Peterborough early in the new year.

Field Secretary Of Blind Moved To Peterborough

Mr. R. J. (Bob) Padden, who has been assistant Field Secretary for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind in the Quinte - St. Lawrence district since March 1954, has received a well-deserved promotion, announced P. I. Timmins, General Field Secretary, Kingston. Mr. Padden has been appointed Field Secretary for the Peterborough District, to replace Mr. J. S. Minister Opens Deseronto's New 10-Room School

Deseronto's new 10-room public school was officially opened Tuesday night at a capacity crowd turned out to see Ontario Education Minister Hon. W. J. Dunlop conduct the official ceremony.

In declaring the new school officially open Mr. Dunlop called for more discipline and a return to an exact grading system where pupils can work to reach each subject as well as their rank in class.

"It is time for a good deal of old-fashioned discipline and report cards which I can understand," he said. "It is time for practical work in the whole system of education and not for theorizing."

Mr. Dunlop said we must realize that basic fundamentals are what the country requires.

Schools must first give attention to reading, writing, arithmetic, spelling, history and geography.

Simcoe Robson M.P.P. for Hastings East introduced Mr. Dunlop, while the opening ceremonies were under the direction of J. Donald Dawson, chairman of the Deseronto Board of Education.

Mayor Dr. D. C. McVicker referred the call to the construction of basic subjects in schools as he expressed thanks to the Minister. Compliments on the new school were extended by H. H. Langford, district public schools inspector.

Following the opening ceremonies visitors were invited to inspect the new school which was built by the H. J. McFarland Construction Company with Alexander Martineau Associates of Kingston as designers. Mr. McFarland was present for the official opening.

Macs Acquire New Defenceman

Bob Paul, former defenceman with St. Michael's Junior "A" squad, the Pacific Coast League and the American League will wear a McFarland's uniform in tomorrow night's game against Whitby.

Manager Drury Burns said today that Paul has been cleared by the Kitchener Dutchmen and the Western Senior "A" division, and will arrive in town this afternoon to don the sweaters tonight with the Macs.

Home Delivery Of Milk Planned For Near Future

Resumption of home delivery of milk in Belleville is being planned by local dairies in the near future, it was stated today by a representative of a local dairy.

Deliveries have been no home deliveries of milk in the city since last July 24th when deliverymen in the Dairy Farmers in Belville and Riverside Dairy in Trenton went on strike in support of demands for higher wages. When the strike was called, other dairies in Belleville and Trenton ceased home delivery by mutual agreement.

Although no settlement between the deliverymen's union and the dairies has yet been made, home milk deliveries were started in Trenton on Monday and Belleville dairies say they intend to follow suit within the next week or so.

Plans were to commence deliveries next Monday but today indications were the move would not be made until possibly a week later.

Plans call for deliveries to commence on the East Hill first with deliveries to be made on the West Hill on alternate days until there are enough experienced delivery men to cover the entire city in one day.

No incidences with the delivery men's union have been reported in Trenton since the resumption of home deliveries.

Wyatt Remanded Till December 12

The preliminary hearing of Robert A. Wyatt, 57, Belleville chiropractor, charged with manslaughter in the death of Patricia Kyle, 16-year-old Toronto district girl, has been laid over until December 12th.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills today granted the request of defence counsel for a month's enlargement and Mr. Wyatt was remanded until the December date with property bail of $40,000 being renewed.

Mr. Wyatt was arrested Oct. 28 by Inspector J. Clair Hayes. The Crown charges the Toronto girl died following an illegal operation.

Police Looking For Car Driver Leaving Scene

City and provincial police today are looking for drivers identified over who yesterday afternoon is said to have left the scene of an accident on Dundas street and later driven away in a hit and run way, when police took up the chase.

Sidney Welch, driver for a local taxi firm told police he had been stopped at Dundas and Ontario streets by the flagman for a firm doing excavation work.

As he stopped the vehicle following slammed into the rear of his car and as he got out to investigate the driver of the other car got out, skirted Mr. Welch in the skins, then got in his car and drove away.

Mr. Welch secured the licence number of the other vehicle and notified police with result that Inspector J. Clair Hayes tried to cut the other driver off but in turn was forced to the shoulder and was forced to give up the chase.

Library Report Shows Many New Members

The October report of the Corby Public Library indicates 238 new readers enrolled to take advantage of the library's facilities. Last month 13,224 books were circulated to make it the highest monthly circulation so far this year.

Five groups used the library for meetings in October and several school sent classes down for book talks.

Saturday's "Story Hour" was very popular last month with 85 children attending it.

The Kinsmen Club donated a copy of the revised standard version of the Bible and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bacon contributed a volume of "Wood Finishing and Refinishing". Both books were donated in memory of Peter Bennett, a young Belleville boy, who died this year.

The library has subscribed to the Ontario Historical Society for membership.

LEADERS MAY MEET

The funeral of the late Harold J. Giffin took place Wednesday afternoon from the John R. Bush Funeral Home, Bridge Street, to the chapel and the committal at Belleville Cemetery was conducted by Rev. Everett Smith.

The bearers were Len Rushworth, Douglas Burns, Russell Post, Arnold Revoy, Norman Dallard and J. Wheeler.

Members of the postal corps at Belleville post office where Mr. Giffin worked, acted as a guard of honor.

HERBERT LESLIE JONES

Haney, B.C. - Roslin

Herbert Leslie Jones of Haney, B.C., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Jones of Roslin, passed away in hospital in Maple City, B.C., on November 1st.

Survivors are his wife, two sons, Harold of Whonnock, B.C., a daughter, Florence (Mrs. W. C. Eaton) of Whonnock and nine grandchildren.

Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Thomas Blackburn and Mrs. Percy McTaggart, of Thomasburg; also one brother, Charles, of Moose Range, Sask. Two brothers, Allen of Thomasburg and Earl of Roslin, predeceased him.

MRS. MACKENZIE ROBERTSON

In ill health for the past year, Mrs. Ethel May Robertson, 174 Bridge Street East died in the Belleville General Hospital, early this Thursday morning.

She was born in St. Marys, Ontario, 75 years ago, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Tracey. She received her early and High School education in that district and came to Belleville, 40 years ago.

Since taking residence in this city, Mrs. Robertson, has taken an active interest in the Church and social life of the community. She was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and took her part in the many church organizations. When the Hospital Auxiliary was inaugurated in this city some years ago, Mrs. Robertson joined actively and was an active worker.

She was a woman of friendly nature, had a cheerful smile and enjoyed a wide circle of friends, who will sincerely regret her death.

Surviving are her husband, Mackenzie Robertson, and one sister, Mrs. Dell Trethewey of Tacoma, Washington.

Resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home, 80 Highland Avenue. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

OWEN WESLEY LUCAS

Following a lengthy illness, Owen Wesley Lucas, Gilbert St., R.R. 8 Belleville, died in the Belleville General Hospital, early this Thursday morning.

He was born in this city, 57 years ago, being the son of George Wesley Lucas and the late Anne Martha Lucas and had resided in this community all his life, where he was well known and highly regarded.

Surviving are his father, George Wesley Lucas of this city, his wife, the former Sadie Myrtle Bell, three daughters, Mrs. Frank (Beale) Huffman, and Mrs. Ross (Beatrice) Cummings, both of Belleville, Mrs. Austin (Bernice) Lusk of Carrollton and one sister, Mrs. George A. Nobles, also of this city.

Resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home, 80 Highland Avenue. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

CUT PHONE PRICES

LONDON (AP) — Britain today cut the price of local and long-distance telephone calls effective Jan. 1. Most calls now costing 3-pence, ninepence or a shilling will be reduced to threepence.

White Placards Reminders of $35,000 Target

You may notice a number of white placards fastened on telephone poles in strategic spots through the city. On the cards is a red number and the words United Appeal.

These shields are helpful reminders urging you to search the Victorian Order of Nurses, YMCA, Canadian Aid Society, Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, Boy Scouts, Navy League and St. John Ambulance next week, Monday through Saturday, when an army of volunteer canvassers tries to reach the Community Chest's $35,000 goal.

The VON's 333 nursing staff (49 meetings over 1956) with an aggregate attendance of 8,659 people.

3,000 HOURS OF SERVICE

The St. John Ambulance Brigade has about 100 junior and senior members and, combined, they spent close to 3,000 hours of about every five homes is a Scout.

The Navy League has a strength of over 40 boys, ages 12 to 18 years, in the city.

The Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society has two mobile units that serve as what the "go" to bring relief to sufferers of arthritis and rheumatism.

These are the agencies in the Community Chest. Help us to help us to see that their financial wants are met next week.

More Than Three Times City's Pop. Used 'Y' in '56

One of the participants in the 1957 United Appeal, the YMCA, has served the youth and adult population of Belleville continuously since 1893. Last year there were 1,873 members on the register. Total attendance for use of the building on Campbell Street in 1956 was 71,737 people — equal to more than three times the population of Belleville!

The YMCA has provided industrial, civic, church, welfare and school groups with meeting room space without charge as one of its community services. Over 50 different groups used or use the YMCA for a total of 335 meetings with an estimated attendance of 8,659 people.

Di Diamantides, the "Y" secretary, said that planning for the YMCA program is planned to serve the needs and interests of boys, girls and adults in many activities. Hundreds of people were given swimming lessons last year and 287 of them passed beginners', advanced and lifesavers' tests. No "Y" member or community group is asked to pay the full course for maintaining the YMCA. They are asked to share the expenses. Every person in the group is accepted by the "Y" regardless of their financial means."

Won't you give generously when a canvasser calls next week?

Ryerson Institute Bans Play 'Bus Stop'

TORONTO (CP) — Officials at Ryerson Institute of Technology have refused to let a student drama society stage Bus Stop, a three-act play by William Inge.

Principal H. H. Kerr and the faculty council said Bus Stop, while has Stop which has been produced on the Broadway stage and the screen, is about a footloose singer and a cowboy in the American midwest.

Will Soon Pour Foundations for Federal Bldg.

Pouring of concrete for the foundations of the new $1,330,000 Federal building at Pinnacle and Station Streets, is expected to commence within the next week or so, it was reported today by Watson and Wiegand, architects for the new structure.

Excavation for the foundation and bringing the lot to grade to accommodate the parking lot has been going on for close to a month and rock blasting to gain sufficient depth will be done shortly, Among four feet of rock will have to be blasted in some places, it was stated.

General contractors for the new Federal building and post office are H. E. Sullivan and Sons Ltd., of Arnprior, who will shortly be completing construction on the new post building at the corner of Herchimer Ave. and Kingston Road.

The family of the late Mrs. Harry Greadidlof wish to thank their relatives and friends for their kindness and for the many acts of sympathy during their recent bereavement.

Negro Ball Star Has Offer to Buy House Rejected

SAN FRASCISCO (AP) — Willie Mays' attempt to buy a house rejected Tuesday because he is a Negro.

His spectacular 27-year-old San Francisco Giants centrefielder offered the $27,300 the owner asked for a new house, but was turned down after a wait of several days. The owner said there was great neighborhood pressure against the deal.

Walter J. Greadidlof, who is still offering the house at the same price—but not to Mays—said:

"I'm just a union working man and I'd never get another job if I sold this house to that baseball player. I feel sorry for him, and if the neighbors say it would be okay, I'd do it."

Greadidlof, a small scale builder and contractor, said two property owners he works for put pressure on him not to sell to Mays and neighbors objected by telephone.

"I've never been through this kind of stuff and I'm not even related. I can't see why they said 'I'd sure like to live in San Francisco, but I'm sorry, we make an issue about it . . . if neighbors don't want you, what's the good of living there?"

Mays' wife, Marguerite, wasn't as philosophical. "I'm not going in Alabama where we come from," she said. "You know your place, and that's something. at least. But up there it's all a lot of camouflage. They grin in your face and then deceive you."

Bright Object In Sky Was Big Meteorite-Filmed

OTTAWA (CP) — A filmed radar recording has helped solve the mystery of a bright object that flashed across Ontario skies Sunday. The film indicated it was the biggest meteorite to pass over this area in 10 years.

The radar recording was made at the National Research Council's Springhill meteor observatory about 20 miles south of here. The object passed over at between 19 and 25 miles a second and about 25 miles high.

Dr. Peter Millman, in charge of NRC's upper atmosphere research section, said:

"It was a slow, twilight fireball which moved across the horizon leaving a trail of vapor or dust in the upper atmosphere. Wind currents in the upper atmosphere transformed the particles into odd shapes which were reflected in the sun. Reports of 'showers of sparks' may be explained by the sun's reflections on these particles as they fell."

Gave Accused $100 for Name Of Contact Man

TORONTO (CP)—Clifford Cumore, a Blind River barber, testified Wednesday at a preliminary trial that he paid $100 trying to collect a $25,000 reward for the seizure of the men who shot and killed a Blind River bank manager last month.

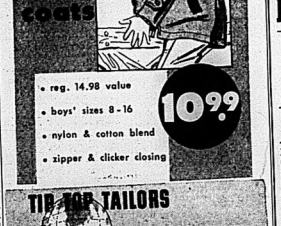
Donald Morgan, 33, of Elliot Lake, pleaded not guilty to a charge of obtaining $100 by extortion. The case was adjourned until today.

Cudmore said he paid "a $90 fine for the accused on Nov. 2, then gave him $100 for the name of a "contact man" who was supposed to know the bandits whereabouts.

Still being sought by police are the men who killed bank manager J. J. Walter Bridges.

Police have issued murder warrants for the arrest of Fred Montgomery, 41, and his son Rodney, 17, both formerly of Toronto. The father and son are also being sought for a later Timmins holdup.

Free Nations Must Accept Challenge--Drew



LONDON (CP)—George Drew, Canadian high commissioner, says Russia's startling achievements of recent weeks may be the "best thing that ever happened" if free nations accept the challenge.

That challenge was to demonstrate the great spiritual advantages of the Western way of life.

EXPECT TYPHOON

GUAM (AP) — Guam is braced for typhoon Lola, expected to pass 20 miles to the south by tomorrow Friday. The typhoon, 545 miles east-southeast at noon today, was moving west-northwest at 17 miles an hour. It has 135 m.p.h. winds near its centre.

DEFENCE

After outlining some individual and specific defence costs, the president said:

"There has been much discussion lately about whether Soviet technological break-throughs in particular areas may have suddenly exposed us to increasingly increased danger.

"As I pointed out last week, this is not the case. But these accomplishments have provided us all with renewed evidence of the vast competence in science and techniques important to modern warfare. We must, and do, regard this as a time for another critical re-examination of our western defence system."

The president indicated some areas of increased spending:

1. The stepped-up dispersal of strategic air command bases.

2. Improvements of the warning system for any possible enemy attack.

3. Development of an active missile defence against missiles.

4. Additional money where needed in the development of long-range missiles.

5. A pay raise for military personnel.

GIVES NO FIGURES

Eisenhower did not estimate how much defence spending will have to be increased after passing the budget wherever possible on non-military categories.

Defence spending in the current fiscal year ending June 30 will exceed $38,000,000,000, the largest originally fixed. As for the next fiscal year, Senator Styles Bridges, R-N.H., has estimated after a conference with Eisenhower recently that the missiles program may increase spending in that field by $1,000,000,000 to $2,000,000,000.

Eisenhower cautioned against trying to find savings in the foreign aid program. He noted the U.S. is linked with 42 countries by military assistance agreements, and said the U.S. could not possibly station its troops all over the world "to prevent the overflow of communism."

Prince Charles Spends Birthday Going to School

NEWBURY, England (Reuters) Prince Charles, heir to the throne, celebrated his ninth birthday today by getting up in a windy dormitory at 7:15 and going to school.

The Duke of Cornwall — boy's formal title—spent his first birthday away from home at Cheam preparatory school, his elite boarding school near this Berkshire community about 50 miles west of London.

Presents and a special cake baked by a royal chef were on hand for the young man — but he had to do his lessons and go through the normal routine of a school day before he could start celebrating.

Charles did not see his mother or father, Prince Philip, today but presents from them were on hand at the school. Just what they are is a secret.

The village postman was weighed down this morning with a sack crammed with birthday cards from friends, family and strangers.

Woman Bites Mail Carrier

NEW YORK (AP)—Most mailmen on their appointed rounds occasionally get bitten by dogs. Not Leroy Hunter. He gets bitten by girls.

Mrs. Gloria Rohan, 21, demanded her relief cheque when she encountered Hunter Tuesday outside her home. He insisted on putting it in her mailbox, in accordance with postal rules.

In court Wednesday, Mrs. Rohan's lawyer said her teeth are false and therefore it couldn't have been much of a bite. Magistrate Neal P. Rottigheri held Mrs. Rohan in $500 bail for trial on an assault charge.

Two-Way Fights In Both Ridings

WINNIPEG (CP) — Voters in the rural constituencies of Hamilton-Morden and Emerson, both in southern Manitoba, voted today in bye-elections to choose members to the provincial legislature.

It is a straight two-way fight in both ridings between Premier Campbell's Liberal - Progressive party and the Progressive Conservatives.

The present government has been in office since June, 1953, and a general election must be held by next August.

Standing in the legislature: Liberal-Progressive 36, Progressive Conservative 8, CCF 8, Social Credit 1, Independent 3, Independent Conservative 1, Liberal-Progressive 1, vacant 2. Total 57, in a jeep.

Former Minister Says He Is Home 'To Stay'

VICTORIA (CP) — Robert E. Sommers, former British Columbia lands and forests minister whose actions during office are under study by a royal commission, says he is home "to stay."

Mr. Sommers is alleged to have taken bribes in return for forest management licences. A royal commission under Chief Justice Gordon Sloan opened Tuesday but was adjourned to Dec. 9.

Mr. Sommers' whereabouts since August have been a secret closely guarded by his counsel and family.

He returned home Wednesday. A squad of newspapermen and photographers took up a vigil outside his home for seven hours before he relented and sent for them.

Mr. Sommers said he could not discuss the charges made against him. He said he had been staying in the United States for the last 10 weeks with his daughter and denied he had been "in hiding."

It "must be obvious," he said, that he had returned home to appear before the commission.

He brushed off a question concerning his health, with:

"A little better, but I don't think you're really interested in that."

NEHRU 68 TODAY

NEW DELHI (AP) — India today celebrated Prime Minister Nehru's 68th birthday as Children's Day. Main celebration was in the national stadium here where an estimated 50,000 boys and girls gathered to shout "Cha-cha Nehru zindabad"—long live Uncle Nehru—and threw flower wreaths at him as he went around the track.

JUNKIES AND JUNKIER

"Things are made prettier and prettier, costlier and costlier, and junkier and junkier."

That observation was recently made by Dorothy Thompson, the noted columnist. The theme, though, is not new. Most of us have heard it before; many of us have played it ourselves.

"I recently parted from a refrigerator that had served my family for eighteen years, and a gas range that had been in use for sixteen," she wrote. "The successor of the first - - which cost twice what its predecessor did - - began to fail apart in six months, and if the second will serve half the time of the old one, I shall be surprised."

Many of us can make similar experiences. For instance there is a toaster in town which had been stoking the fires under the editorial "we" every morning for thirty years, until it was recently retired. Its successor has already developed the whim-whams. Its clicker seems to be weak; every so often its heart fails to function, the toaster dies and instead of popping up perfectly golden toast on schedule it just sits there until somebody massages it into life again. It is only fair to add that turning itself off was something which the 1922 toaster never mastered - - still it is comfortable to know that, unlike Miss Thompson, we did not "part from" this old and faithful servant, but tucked it away on a back shelf for use in emergencies.

The household also contains a radio which is a combination of Thor and Methuselah. For two decades it has been pouring forth sounds, including such tests of a hardy constitution as Adolf Hitler's rantings direct from Munich and Elvis Presley's ravings indirect from Hollywood, with only a few minor mutterings. Of course, it has had to undergone a couple of check-ups and get a couple of new tubes, but the other five are still on duty, just as they were back in 1938. It cost twice as much as the small radios on sale these days - - but how many of the latter will be going strong in 1977?

It is things like these which make the average consumer jump up and cheer when the "prettier and prettier, costlier and costlier, and junkier and junkier" theme is played.

And yet, perhaps we are not fair. Memory, when cross-examined, recalls an earlier radio, nay a succession of earlier radios, which went into the junk pile after very brief service in the household. There was a washer and an electric stove and a refrigerator which are young enough to be modern but old enough to rotate the claim that they are junk. And, as for cost, let us not forget that most of these assertions are as much a snare and a delusion as is, alas, the opposite assumption, that because a paper dollar will not go as far these days, it is worth more. In terms of an uninflated dollar, many of today's articles are cheaper, not dearer, than those produced yesteryear.

A HOME-SEEKER'S DREAM

Since the dawn of the twentieth century, man has taken many giant steps toward improving his lot. Scientists have split atoms and produced terrifying explosives. Engineers have built magnificent bridges and powerful aircraft. Architects have designed beautiful skyscrapers and cosy homes. Medical researchers have found drugs that kill pain and others that cure or prevent diseases.

Truly, though man's environment has improved greatly over the past fifty-seven years, we are sorry to see that fireplaces have had to move out to make room for ultra-modern stoves and ranges in modern homes. People will argue that fireplaces are still built, but we reply: "Yes, but they are not being built like they used to be."

Many people in the market for a new home desire a fireplace in their home. There is something romantic about a fireplace, yet modern architects design them so small that only a tiny fire can be ignited in them. What has happened to the matters of old who designed the fireplaces in grandfather's day? Remember the open hearth fireplaces that covered almost a whole wall? Where are they now? Unless they buy an almost ancient house, people are being deprived of the distinction of having huge open hearth fireplaces in their homes.

What a house it would be that contains all the beauties of modern architecture and a relic of the past - - a majestic open hearth fireplace.

OLD JOE'S METHODS

Old Joe had a method distinctly his own,
But I vow it would help every one of you
If only Joe's notions were much better known
And practised a bit on this old homesphere.
He never spoke evil of friend or of foe,
But said: "If I would I could tell what I know.
Some day in the future perhaps I'll let loose
And tell him his faults and give him the deuce.
But, today ain't the time for a human to scoff;
So I'll just put it off."

And once on a time when the town raced died
We all sat rejoicing because heroes gone;
Old Joe slowly said: "Well, he cut a path wide,
But I'm kinder sorry he had to pass on.
I could tell what he did while he dwelt in his prime,
But the poor fellow's dead, and this ain't the time.
He never wronged me, so I'll pray for his soul,
For maybe God knows how he made his bank roll.
He never meant us at weak brothers to scoff,
So I'll just put it off."

Sputnik No Surprise

By I. NORMAN SMITH
Associate Editor of the Ottawa Journal

It is pathetic to hear the Canadian people and their leaders say that Sputnik II means we must revise our defence plans.

The Americans and British are saying much the same thing, and that is pathetic but sufficiently in the day is our own blindness.

We seem to talk of changing our national defence plans to meet the Russian development as though it were today, not for keeping entry.

Emphasis more on defence and less on railways; and build intercontinental missiles instead of tanks! That's all!

That is, we will just superimpose on our early and glorious Canadian life what the Russians are doing about rockets, and otherwise business as usual.

This is pathetic.

Sputnik, the first and the second and those to come after, is the greatest technical achievement of our time (perhaps comparable to the development of nuclear energy).

But it is more than that.

It is symbolic in a way that even we should be able to get into our complacent skulls the skill and determination behind the work of the Russian people and the Russian regime.

Yet it seems that the immensity of the deed and what it reveals escape us. We just can't, or not or dare not comprehend it. Instead, we are fascinated by the little dog and lament its plight.

* * *

The Russians may have sent the dog along for the ride just to make us laugh. Today that is the main enterprise. If ever they invade us, and they won't, rather, who think we can have our cake without making it.

* * *

The Russians have been working for the world ever since 1917. The key word of that sentence is "working".

Practically all they've been working since 1945; not at absurd gadgets like refrigerators and trash programs on TV.

They've been going to school, digging, planning, building, thinking, reading, scheming.

And not all their building is in rocketry. They've been building in music and art and sport; they've been building a national pride and a desire for achievement.

The measuring stick of their society has not been to do as we do, to have a car, a radio, a refrigerator, a television set, a house, a job.

Apart from the biological advantage that women have over men in their make-up, their chief aid to longer life span is probably their zeal to make full use of modern household conveniences.

The industrial man still tends to be a slave to the machine that it is easy to pay attention to and to practise moderation in exercise or work. Often the machine does not living up to the pretence that he is as rugged he can "stand anything".

Having a larger frame and stronger skeletal structure than men, he may have a sense of physical superiority that is more likely to erode him than to increase his social insecurity he may feel at home.

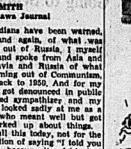
TODAY'S TALK
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DIVIDENDS

Dividends paid by a stock — "tried and true" — over a long term of years, give one a happy feeling that they are paid. It is a good turnabout that pleases you have earned, to work for you! It is the same with all these good things. The appreciation and love of life, for one, return many a valuable dividend in the shape of increased knowledge, pleasure, and satisfaction.

Our friends are always a valuable investment, and they pay dividends of love, and companionship, good advice, and rare understanding, when one is in trouble or discouraged. Anyone can go far in life if he, or she, will carefully choose a friend or two to round out life's great adventure.



Nature is forever giving out dividends, through its harvests, and natural gifts. Look about you. What a dividend creator has the good earth of ours been, ever since man became an inhabitant! In the near future, if he doesn't attempt to blow the earth to shreds, man will have advanced civilization beyond the dreams of the most optimistic.

Henry D. Thoreau and John Muir, the California nature lover, must have been very happy men in the shape of walking and investigating that they might do. Increasing dividends of happiness came to these men and they, in turn, passed this happiness to others. Both were benefactors.

We get dividends from so many sources. Merely to appreciate beauty is to be rich. You can't hoard up ideas, and the dreams of prophecy. Think for a moment of men. Only in freedom is there what a dividend freedom is! Its spiritual dividend alone is beyond anything monetary.

Canadian Man Sent to U.S.

Winnipeg Tribune

The case of Per Holting, the Canadian citizen who was expelled aboard a Scandinavian Airlines plane here and shipped to the United States against his will, should be referred to a court and test ruling. Mr. Holting is not interested in doing battle for his rights, but the minister of justice, Hon. Ernest Fulton, should take the initiative.

What is at stake is something apart from the transport department ruling that SAS can refuel here, but take on or disembark passengers, and the legal fictions that surround it.

The wisdom of this ruling is questionable, but the legality is not. The department has the right to discipline SAS for not abiding by it, and Canada also has a right to protect itself by making landing permits with its passengers not to disembark here, although it is not at all clear that the airline does have a binding contract.

Admitting this, what happened at the airport is that a Canadian citizen, with both his feet planted on Canadian soil, was bundled aboard a foreign airliner against his will and shipped off to a foreign country.

This would seem to be carrying things far beyond the right and duty of public officials and law enforcement officers to enforce regulations against foreign airlines, and beyond the right of the airline to take action against a passenger for failing to live up to a contract, if such a contract did exist.

Officialdom is only too ready to give the public a dose of stereotyped individual rights. Bureaucrats have ever been thus. What is more important is the tendency for individuals to allow them to go their merry way by default.

It is interesting to speculate on what might have been said by the St. James police bundled by young man down the aircraft by airhostess. He could have thrown the book at them. Does a man, thus, forfeit his rights as a Canadian citizen by virtue of the legal fiction that the plane he came in technically didn't "land" in Winnipeg?

This should be cleared up, and reference to a court by the minister of justice would be a lady way to do it.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

The Mystery of Allergy

In the pamphlet Heller for Allergy, I say:

Potassium seems to have an effect similar to that of adrenalin. Indeed, physiologists believe that adrenalin liberates potassium from the tissues, and then when the tissues have somewhat depleted of potassium, the adrenalin no longer produces its effect. From this, I infer that potassium complements or supplements the action of adrenalin — both medical adrenalin and the adrenalin your own hard-working little adrenal glands secrete into the blood or should secrete if you are in A-1 condition.

In the same pamphlet I say:

The adrenal glands contain more vitamin C than any other tissue or organ in a healthy body. This fact prompted the use of vitamin C as a remedy for allergy.

Numerous correspondents have declared that they are allergic to, say, tomatoes or strawberries; that they have found that they can enjoy tomatoes or strawberries at any time if they take plenty of vitamin C.

Remember, all I know about it is what I read in letters.

Well, for that matter, I also know anything about allergy!

In the past, whenever I met one had an idiosyncrasy or peculiar susceptibility to, say, lobster, chicken, strawberries, pork, roses, bedbugs or chocolate. We call it allergy now and charge a fee. This incidentally, makes it more acceptable — like calling rheumatic "arthritis." If you find a patient with insidious joint debility with long standing and has physical degeneration of joint tissues and try to break it gently by calling it rheumatic, the poor heal-soul will probably have no further key with you. Rheumatic, indeed! He will hie himself to the "clinic" where the well advertised specialists will inform him he has rheumatoid arthritis or osteo-arthritis or both. And thereafter, at least until bankroll is depleted, he'll have a lot to tell fellow doctors around here.

Whether your allergy manifests itself as hives, eczema, hay fever, "nervous" headache, angioneurotic edema (giant hives), "sinus" trouble, temperamental rhinitis or asthma, you will find, I am confident, from what many readers have reported, that you get the happiest results from these remedial or preventive measures:

1. Avoiding contact or exposure to the specific allergen if you know what it is — for instance, mohair, canary feathers, ragweed pollen.

2. Following high calcium diet and supplementing your everyday diet with an adequate ration of calcium and vitamin D (which is necessary for utilization of calcium).

3. For relief of the attack, either taken as prescribed or administered by the physician) or two kallon tablets in water (repeated three days for as many doses as may be necessary, as described in the pamphlet.

If it be true that more persons are subject to allergic manifestations today than ever before, a reasonable explanation lies, I think, in the greater refinement of our food. For one calling rheumatic "arthritis" also recognized by nutritionists and even by some physicians that few persons get sufficient calcium in their diet these days to maintain good health.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Doc, who operates my favorite delicatessen, beckoned me to come in back with him. Usually this means that he has received a particularly fine piece of corned beef, and he wants me to sit in the back shop with him for a few minutes to sample it with him. This time, however, he had only a slice of a new Danish white cheese he had imported. We sat us down to enjoy the brief snack. "It is a strange thing," said Doc, "that, in all my experience in my life happened to me this morning. I wanted to tell you about it.

"You know I have been here now eleven years, and in that time, I have found two favorite customers. One, A man and a woman, the name is Mr. and Mrs. Edwards. I never did know her name. I just thought of her as Mrs. Feather, because in her hair she has a stripe of white graying right out across the front. Beautiful."

Doc is not the romantic type. He's a delicatessen man.

"Only these two, of all the dozens, the hundreds," went of Doc. "I made me sort of liking for whenever either one of them come into this shop. By golly, it made the day better. I had had some strange thing about them; not just kind and decent; not just gentle and polite. They give you the feeling that you are their friend. I mean friend.

"Out of all my customers, old, new, I single out these two as my greatest favorites; and sometimes I have thought — 'Wouldn't it be nice if they came in here some time together, and I could introduce the whole of them to the rest of the world.' Often, so help me, after one or the other has been in, I practice what I would say: 'Mr. Edwards, have you met Mrs. Edwards . . .?' Only, I don't know her real name.

"This morning, they came in together.

"They are married. They have been there maybe fifteen years.

The moral, Doc and I have decided, is: the right people sometimes do get together.

CAN'T BEAT THE RAP

Some time ago I complimented an employer on the fine group of workmen with whom he had surrounded himself. "Not a loafer in the crowd," I said. The employer smiled and answered, "The loafers were all fired long ago."

There is something of a pattern about a situation of this sort. Whether the loafers are actually fired or not, they are soon in effect fired for their contribution — if any — is not worth the price. They are not adding to the world's progress.

Admitting this, what happened at the airport is that a Canadian citizen, with both his feet planted on Canadian soil, was bundled aboard a foreign airliner against his will and shipped off to a foreign country.

This would seem to be carrying things far beyond the right and duty of public officials and law enforcement officers to enforce regulations against foreign airlines, and beyond the right of the airline to take action against a passenger for failing to live up to a contract, if such a contract did exist.

Officialdom is only too ready to give the public a dose of stereotyped individual rights. Bureaucrats have ever been thus. What is more important is the tendency for individuals to allow them to go their merry way by default.

It is interesting to speculate on what might have been said by the St. James police bundled by young man down the aircraft by airhostess. He could have thrown the book at them. This should be cleared up, and reference to a court by the minister of justice would be a lady way to do it.

All through life this type of quiet elimination of the willfully unfit is going on. Here is a man in a place where it is not possible to fire the rap. The time comes when the boss can't or won't withhold, an office, a mill, or on the works he is employed and called it good. Life throughout His universe is a great work enterprise. The loafer gets fired.

We live in a universe the basic reality of which is continual action, Jesus said. "My Heavenly Father worketh until now and I work." God made the world and He is still creating and called

Cpl. R.J. Rackham Outlines Use of Camera in Police Work

Photography, an interesting hobby and a lucrative profession, has recently been incorporated into the law enforcement field.

A special branch of the Ontario Provincial Police was set up to instruct officers in the use of the camera in recording fingerprints, traffic fatalities, court evidences, such as "bar marks" found on looted safes or cash registers, and in locating missing persons, Corporal R. J. Rackham, of the Belleville detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police, told So-Ed club members at the fifth meeting of the fall session November 6.

"In police photography, everything must be done carefully and accurately," he said. "In order to obtain this accuracy a camera with a special lens has been developed which gives a reproduction similar to what would be seen with the naked eye."

By looking at the resulting photograph, an experienced person could estimate the distance from one point to another very closely, he said.

Cpl. Rackham explained how photography is proving its worth in producing court evidence.

"Rather than having one man looking into a microscope and telling the courtroom what he sees, a photograph is used and everyone sees it themselves," he said.

He warned, however, that cameras can lie if they are guided to do so (i.e. using the wrong lens opening, misjudging the distance of camera to subject, etc.) and the public photographers must be unfailingly trustworthy.

DESCRIBES PROCESS

The young officer, who has been with the force for the past eight years, also described the process used in recording "bar marks" (found on safes, etc., which have been broken into) and matching them with a photo of a bar mark made by a possible device used for the crime. Thus they are able to determine what device was used.

Cpl. Rackham also briefly described the process used in recording fingerprints of persons suspected of committing a crime. In this process the film is loaded backwards in the camera in order to produce an inversal illaterality, or in other words, so that the fingerprint comes out black instead of transparent.

The location of missing persons, another important part of police work, is made faster and more efficiently by the use of photographs circulated throughout the country, Cpl. Rackham stated.

The OPP photographic branch is also called upon to take pictures of traffic fatalities, and this is one part of the job police officers do not relish, he said.

"I would like to take this opportunity to mention the highway traffic safety campaign now in progress. If those of you who drive obey these rules, you will help to make my job that much easier," he concluded.

Cpl. Rackham was introduced by Diane Whitehead and thanked by Ray Dewborn.

Young Canada's Book Week Will Be Celebrated

Young Canada's book week is celebrated from coast to coast during the week of November 15th to 22nd. Its purpose is to arouse and develop in boys and girls an interest in and a taste for the best in literature which will last throughout their lives. This purpose can be achieved only by providing more good books in libraries, in schools and in homes — and this requires the co-operation of parents, teachers, boards of school trustees and indeed all adults.

To remind adults of the important place good books have in a child's life and to acquaint them with the fine books now available, a special display will be held in the "Boys' and Girls' Room" of the Corby Public Library from November 15th to 22nd. All parents are cordially invited to visit the Library at this time.

The patroness of Young Canada's Book Week this year is Miss Margaret Jean Clay. It was at the Victoria Public Library that she began her career as Children's Librarian and later succeeded Dr. Helen Gordon Stewart as chief librarian. She presided over the Victoria Public Library for twenty - eight years and in 1952 turned it over to her successor.

Young Canada's Book Week is endorsed by the Department of Education in every province, and is sponsored by twenty - three national organizations. Newspapers and magazines through special features provide a nation-wide background to the local community celebration. The CBC network and independent stations across the country carry programs in both French and English.

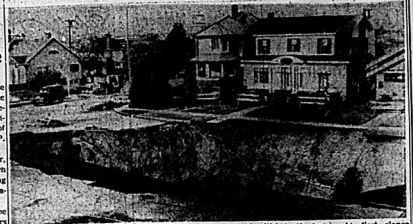
Historical Society Hears Rev. B.P. Squire

"History as Uncovered by the Archaeologist's Trowel" was the theme of an address delivered before the Hastings County Historical Society on Monday evening of this week by Rev. Bowes P. Squire, Consecon archaeologist.

A semi-retired Baptist minister, Mr. Squire has devoted much time in recent years to uncovering evidences of early human habitation on his farm near Consecon.

He described this site as "one inhabited for thousands of years by successive generations of peoples". To date, he has identified remains of three distinct cultures: the Laurentian (which some archaeologists believe may date back to the end of the Ice Age); the Mound Builder era; and finally the period of the later Indian tribes.

Of particular interest to Hastings County residents was his reference to the importance of the Moira River in early times. Even before great timber rafts were discovered at the Consecon site the Trent system) was a main route used by early Indian inhabitants moving northward from Lake Ontario and later by the French fur-traders.



At the same time, Mr. Squire told the society that his research has shown that the slate used for various axes and other artifacts discovered at the Consecon site was obtained by the Indians from quarries near the head of the Moira.

He also drew attention to the relationship between history and archaeology. This is a very close relationship, according to Mr. Squire, since "history tells us what certain men did at certain periods of time", and "archaeology shows us with what they did." "Archaeology often supplements and sometimes corrects history."

At the conclusion of his talk, he invited members of the society to inspect a large collection of artifacts recovered from the site, and explained the nature and uses of the many objects.

Mr. Squire was introduced by G. Boyce, and thanked on behalf of the society by J. Hall, Chairman for the meeting held in Shire Hall, Belleville, was K. M. Bird.

STREETS BECOMES CRATER WITHOUT WARNING

Homeowners on this street in Seattle, Wash., forgot about Sputnik for a disaster on their doorstep when this crater appeared. The crater started with a small hole in the road, then enlarged to a length of 60 feet, to depth of 45 feet and a width of 40 feet. At first glance city engineers couldn't say what caused the hole to appear.

Weddings

SWANSON — JOHNSTON

On Saturday morning November 9 in Sacred Heart Church, Marmora, Rev. W. P. Healey united in marriage Jean Isobel Johnston, R.N., of Peterborough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Johnston, Forsythe St. Marmora, to Mr. Francis Swanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Swanson, of Strathcona Ave. Hamilton, Ont.

The bride was charming in white brimmed autumn brown wool suit with beige accessories and corsage of yellow and bronze baby mums.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Robert P. O'Riordon, of Madoc while Mr. O'Riordon acted as groomsman.

Following a reception in the Parish Hall Marmora the happy couple left on an extended motor trip through the Southern States. On their return they will reside in Winona, Ontario.

Out-of-town guests were present from Hamilton, Toronto, Peterborough, Hanover, Flesherton and Madoc.

Prior to her marriage the bride, a popular nurse at St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, was tendered a presentation by the Sisters of the Hospital. Sr. Ed. O'Hea, of Peterborough was hostess at a china shower and Mrs Joseph Walsh was hostess at a miscellaneous shower.

Christ Church Contact Club Meets

The Parish Hall was a very busy centre on Monday night when Contact Club members first displayed, then packed a wonderful assortment of candy, toys, books, dolls and games.

The destination of this parcel is Moose Factory Indian Residential School to be used in making a happier Christmas for these children. This project has been under the direction of Margaret Shappee, Myra Cresswell and Mary Simpson.

A rewarding effort was also realized in the display of knitted baby sets, nighties, etc., to complete the layette work for this year. Under the convenorship of Nadine Thorne, Frances Anderson the layettes were prepared for shipping to Northern missions.

President Alice Hall then conducted the business period with secretary Doris Stewart reading the minutes, roll call and correspondence.

Members were asked to complete sales of peanuts and turn in the proceeds by the first meeting in December, or sooner if possible to conveners Marjorie Bunnett and Margaret Niles.

Catherine Roulet gave a report on the last Parish Council meeting, which included information on the coming mission, and also organizational Projects in her connection with the new Sunday School hall.

A motion carried to send a letter of congratulations to the Men's Club, in view of their successful ticket sale success.

The next two meetings will be cancelled because of the mission meetings.

Hostesses for the evening were: Aileeen Magahey, Jean McDonald and Joy Savin.

Arts and Crafts Club Plans Fall Exhibit

The Belleville Arts and Crafts Club is completing arrangements for its annual exhibit, tea and sale, which will be held in the Kiwanis Centre on November 22.

This event, which was very successful last year, promises to be even bigger and better this year — the members all having the benefit of one more year's training and experience to improve the quality of their work. Even the newcomers are producing some very professional looking items and these, added to the more detailed and complex articles made by the older members, should make a very attractive and interesting display.

Along with the exhibit there will be for sale several original oil paintings, as well as a wide selection of hand-made articles. These include jewellery, aluminum trays, miscellaneous leather and woven articles, copper pictures, ceramics, Christmas cards, etc. Members of the Arts and Crafts Club are frequently approached by people wishing to purchase their products so it is expected that many people will take advantage of this opportunity.

The weaving, metalcraft and silk-screening classes have reported that the articles for the draw are completed and ready for display. These consist of a handwoven stole; handmade jewellery, and silk-screened Christmas cards. They are being displayed in Earle Darrah's store on Bridge Street.

The Belleville Arts and Crafts Club, which is sponsored by the Recreation Commission, is getting more active and increasing in size every year as more and more people become aware of the opportunities offered by this club. Interesting and creative hobbies are taught and people have a chance to get together with others with similar interests.

As well as the regular classes held each year several evenings are held of the group as a whole. The first meeting this fall was highlighted by an interesting talk and demonstration by Mr. Schuluk, who is the art teacher at Quinte Secondary School. Manly Macdonald, the well known painter and Mr. Squires, Consecon's archaeologist about whom we have read so much lately, have both agreed to be guest speakers at future meetings this winter.

Belleville Nurses' Alumnae Meets

Regular monthly meeting of the Belleville General Hospital Nurses' Alumnae was held Tuesday Nov. 12 in the lounge of the Ritchie Memorial Residence.

The meeting was well attended and enjoyed by all. The business session was followed by a demonstration by Paul Saunders, (formerly of Paul's Beauty Salon, Belleville) on proper technique of hair cutting and setting.

A dainty lunch was served by Mrs. Una Buchanan, Mrs. Isobel McGhee, and Mrs. Grace Aldrews.

VITAMIN-PACKED

Laurel Lodge Holds Birthday Party

STIRLING — On Tuesday evening at the close of the regular meeting of Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 211, a short service of remembrance was held and flowers observed. Mrs. Cora Eggleton and Mrs. Ivah Phelps sang "In God's Keeping Rest" as a tribute to the departed.

The group then retired to the dining hall where tables were laid and decorated in the lodge colors in honor of the thirty-seventh birthday anniversary. The head table was centred with a decorated three-tiered anniversary cake. Twenty - three guests from Campbellford Rebekah Lodge were in attendance.

Following the luncheon, past Noble Grand Miss Mary Hulin read the names of all the past noble grands down through the years and also those who had come to Laurel from lodges elsewhere. Those in attendance stood as their names were read.

Two new members in 1957, Mrs. Agnes Montgomery and Mrs. Helen Hulin, lighted the candles on the cake, while two other new members, Mrs. Muriel Colden and Mrs. Shirley Richardson, extinguished the flames.

District Deputy President of District No. 4, Mrs. Marion Heath spoke briefly and placed the silver knife in the cake.

A past Noble Grand, Mrs. Isobel Good, voiced thanks to Sister Mary Hulin for the lovely party and cake.

P.N.G. Mrs. Mabel Barlow voiced greetings on behalf of the Past Noble Grands Club.

Sister Mrs. Audrey Elliott gave a worthwhile message linking together "Remembrance and a Birthday Tribute." Her thoughts centred around those soldiers who are fallen at life regardless of their war experiences and then spoke briefly of those Sisters who have promoted Laurel Lodge through the 37 years. Sister Mrs. Good brought the Bible message, "The Story of the Good Samaritan."

Noble Grand Sister Ayrhart of Campbellford Lodge brought greetings and a message from Grand Mrs. Olive Whitehead with a pretty gift as a memento of their visit. Sister Mrs. Florence MacMullen read a birthday poem based on "The Three Links, Friendship, Love and Truth."

The group gave a special ovation to register their enjoyment of the 37th birthday party of Laurel Lodge, followed by a social half hour.

SILK STAGES A COMEBACK

The home sewer will be delighted with this season's lovely range of silk fabrics.

Everybody seems to be singing a song of silks for fall and winter — silk tweeds for casual wear, silk prints for practically any time, anywhere. Patterns on the prints cover just about everything. You'll find florals in watery colorings of blue and aqua with touches of white and mauve-gray; gayer tones sparked with black and white; blossoming orchard scenes; Oriental florals.

Many of the prints are all-over motifs that practically cover their backgrounds. Especially flattering are the small roses in shades of pink on lightweight black silk shantung. In fact, silk fabrics are so diversified you can accumulate quite a sizeable wardrobe without repeating yourself once — whether you buy ready-mades or sew yourself. Novelty checks and nubby linen-like weaves are among the good-looking casuals, incidentally.

The recent International Silk Exposition held in New York City was a revelation and, while attending it, we couldn't help but ask one of the exhibitors why, when silk is so beautiful, women seemed to have lost interest in it over the past few years. His answer was simple. The fabric was difficult, in fact, well nigh impossible to obtain during the war years, and it was almost simultaneously that man-made fibers began to cause such a furore.

Feminine interest in synthetic fabrics, he went on, hasn't abated. But women are often misled by one factor — and that's care. The average woman, fascinated by the comforts of drip-dry, no-iron fabrics, to say nothing of their modest cost, has, over the years, come to think of silk as something expensive as well as a fabric that must be sent to the dry cleaner's regularly if it's to be kept in condition.

Nothing could be further from the truth, he said. Beautiful silk fabrics are to be had at the most moderate of prices. And there's no worry about caring for them easily and inexpensively. They're really washable — just like your other favorite materials. It's suds and rinses that are just warm, however, that will keep the feeling their softest and looking their best. Hot water, should never be used.

Well, it's nice to see this fabric coming back into fashion with so much success. After all, there's nothing quite so feminine and charming as the rustle of a silk dress. Ask any man!

When you are making a cake, be sure you preheat the oven long enough to bring it to the desired temperature before putting the cake in. If you put the cake in before the desired temperature is reached, it may be tough when done.

Deseronto C.W.L. Holds Annual Bazaar and Tea

DESERONTO — The Catholic Women's League held their annual bazaar on Wednesday afternoon at the Legion Hall, where Mrs. Joe Walsh, president of the League, assisted by Mrs. Charles Brennan, gave a warm welcome to the visitors.

The tea table with its white linen cloth, centred with a bowl of crystal bowl of yellow and white 'mums, and silver candelabra and yellow candles and silver tea services held dainty small cakes.

Miss Anne Martin poured tea. The small tables were dainty with white covers, centred with small vases of white and yellow 'mums.

The convener of the tea was Mrs. Ernie Dorey and she was assisted by Mrs. Anson Lord, Mrs. O'Bay, Mrs. Ted Murphy, Mrs. John Gartland, Mrs. Jim Graham, Mrs. Edmond Dowling Jr., Mrs. Valiquette, Mrs. Leo Palmer and Mrs. Jack Therrien.

The apron table held many attractive styles, ranging from cover-alls of lovely print, the ballet aprons of organdy and frills, some trimmed with lace, and ribbons. This table was convened by Mrs. Alex Therrien.

The miscellaneous table looking very pretty with tea towels, knitted baby outfits, mitts, face cloths, pillow cases and dolls dressed in satin dress and others in colorful outfits, provided excellent opportunity to do one's Christmas shopping early this year. One doll dressed in a full white bridal gown and veil caused many comments. This table was convened by Mrs. Gordon and Mrs. Tyrrel.

The homecooking table was temptingly arranged with pies, cakes, dainty cup cakes, cookies, buns, also home-made candy. This table was convened by Mrs. Ed. Roach, Miss Nora Fox and Mrs. Edmond Dowling.

The parcel post table was heaped with lovely wrapped packages, which were almost cleared off within a short time after the opening. This table was in charge of Mrs. Jim Gaulin.

Mrs. Black and Mrs. Merven Sherman were in charge of the tickets on the draw.

Women's Institutes

CARMEL W.I.

CARMEL — The October meeting of Carmel W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Stanley Green. The president, Mrs. A. Whitmore presided. It was decided to inquire about a health nurse for the school. Delegates to the area convention were appointed. Conveners reported on agriculture.

The program was in charge of Mrs. C. Brintnell and consisted of a poem and the showing of colored slides depicting events in Canadian history by Ruth Brintnell. They were educational and very much enjoyed.

Lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants.

A sewing course was held recently at Carmel Hall by Carmel Women's Institute. Sewing instructor was Mrs. Lewis of the extension branch, home economics service of the Department of Agriculture.

There were nine members who took the course and completed their project. Each one made a cotton dress. The proper use of patterns and many other interesting features of dressmaking were taught.

The course was completed in one week. Much was learned by those taking part.

Christmas Fruit Cake For 1957 Named "Reward"

By Mary Moore

Knowing all too well that the best laid plans could go wildly a-gley if Gary Pitts had to be fitted into them, I had to hope that the Christmas cake pictures were a success. When Marianne had the fruit cake batter combined and stirred we were to get the photographer a call. Then we put a clean shirt on Gary and as pose and lights were ready, to Gary's amazement, told him to could eat some of the batter. He promptly hoisted a big spoonful to his face and the photographer got the one-eyed shot.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

THURSDAY

Deep Veal and Ham Pie; Mustard Pickles; Creamed Carrots or Cauliflower; Red Cabbage Slaw; Hungarian Apple Pudding (see Wednesday); Coffee.

SUNDAY

Roast Loin of Pork; Fried Apple Rings; Pan Roasted Potatoes; Kernel Corn and Green Bean Casserole; Tossed Green Salad: Chinese Lettuce, Avocado and Tomato; Hot Apples (see Wednesday); Coffee.

The cake was made four weeks ago and we felt sort of abandoned giving it a final taste with our coffee at 7.30 this morning. But we had to have assurance that it was perfect. We have named it Reward Fruit Cake because we had so much success with our efforts against some difficulties you may be able to imagine.

The walnuts and pecans were not chopped in ours and when the cake is sliced the knife cuts through big meaty nut pieces that show pale through the rich dark batter. They give it that toothsome nuttiness that you forever seek. I want you to know we broke 2 lbs. walnuts in the shell to get the 1 lb. called for in the recipe. The nut dealer who imports direct from India said the nuts for Christmas 1957 baking would not reach Canada until mid-November and that the walnut halves they were selling were refrigerator-stored from the 1956 shipment. No wonder walnuts are often rancid. Mine didn't take long to crack two lbs.

REWARD FRUIT CAKE
(1957)

One-half lb. each diced candied lemon peel, orange peel, citron and pineapple; 1 lb. each halved candied cherries (may be green and red), dark seeded raisins, seedless white raisins, walnut meats, pecan meats; ½ cup sifted flour, 1 lb. butter or ½ lb. each butter and shortening, 4 cups brown sugar, 8 large eggs, 5¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons each baking powder, salt, allspice, cinnamon; ½ teaspoon each nutmeg and cloves, ½ cup each grape juice and orange juice. Mix together the fruits, peels and nuts and sprinkle with the ½ cup flour and mix it through them. In your largest mixing bowl or celan dish pan cream the butter until light, gradually creaming in the sugar until both are pale and fluffy. Beat eggs in very well. Sift together the 5½ cups sifted flour, baking powder, salt and spices and add tto the creamed mixture alternately with the fruit juices. Mix very well. Pour batter over floured fruits and mix well again. Turn into pans lined with 3 layers of wax paper, the last one buttered. Bake at 250 deg. Fahr. for 3 to 4½ hours—time depending on size of cake. I baked one in a 10-inch tube pan and it baked nearly 5 hours. I had a water pan in the oven under them all the time.

Kiwanis Auxiliary To Aid in Santa's Workshop Program

The regular meeting of the K.L.A. was held Thursday evening at the Kiwanis Centre.

The treasurer's report showed a bank balance of $229.51.

Anne Finkle, welfare convener, gave her report on the group's activities showing that the group is still very active in its work of assisting those who are less fortunate.

President Elsie gave the names of the directors for 1958. They are: Edna Hume, Laura Hyde, Liane Walton, Rita Lloyd, Wynn Quincey, Joan Lusk, Eva Dustin, Erma Reid.

The president mentioned that the K.L.A. was asked by the Kiwanis club to assist Mr. and Mrs. Eric Cooper in their work of renovating toys for the needy children of the Belleville district by making dolls' clothes, which could be used for dressing-up the dolls after they have been repaired.

This report was followed by a short session.

The evening's entertainment took the form of "Millions Whist," which was greatly enjoyed. Four lovely prizes went to Muriel Joss, Dorothy Argue, Nancy Fozzard and Ethel Lee.

The evening closed with lunch served by Lydia Tripp, who took over for Peggy Drysdale and her group.

SPECIAL FLAVOR

Spices, whether from root, stem fruit or seed of a plant, all gain favor from their essential oil.

LOADED TABLE

TAVISTOCK, Ont. (CP) — Several hundred guests attended the annual sauerkraut supper held by the women's auxiliary of the Lutheran church here. They consumed 60 gallons of sauerkraut, 400 pounds of pork, 100 pies and 200 doughnuts.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

SHE WANTS THEIR CHRISTMAS CARDS TO BE PERSONAL, WARMLY FRIENDLY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have already bought our Christmas cards, because I fortunately found just the kind of simple design my husband and I like, and with a very lovely Christmas message printed on them (a printing that really looks quite like engraving). For the past several years I have ordered imprinted cards for us, but this year we decided to go back to the idea of handwriting our names, because it seems to make the cards so much more personal and warm. About this, I have two questions, please. —

1. I am the one who will sign these cards for my husband and myself. Whose name should I write first? Is it Mary first or John first? (This puzzles me, now that we are returning to the handwritten signature, since, with the imprinted signature, I'm sure I was right in ordering "Mary and John Martin.")

2. When we sent the imprinted cards, I did not write any personal message on them, just addressed them as was. On our cards this year would it be correct for me to write personal messages, as well as sign the printed message? — A Reader

I'm delighted that you are veering toward the personal in your Christmas-card procedure this year . . . I think you're going to like this personal way. Christmas cards should, I agree, be friendly and warm-hearted, appealingly personal. How welcome, at Christmas time particularly, is the handwriting of a friend . . . our hearts leap up when we behold it bringing to us the friend's greeting.

1. John's name comes first when Mary signs the cards . . . it is naturally polite for Mary to write her name last. So it's "John and Mary" or, when necessary, "John and Mary Martin."

2. Write as many personal messages as you wish . . . the more, the merrier Christmas! Relatives and friends will be eager, enchanted to have you share with them your news as well as your greetings.

NAME AND ADDRESS ON INFORMALS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Exactly what should be engraved on the outside page of an Informal? Is it ever correct to include the address on the card? If so, where? — R.D.

On the first page of an Informal is engraved the name with title: Miss Rosemary Davis, for example; or Mr. and Mrs. John Alan Foster. And certainly the address may also be included on this page, entirely proper and definitely convenient. The address is to the lower right corner, in engraving type smaller than the type used in the name.

FORMAL NAME FOR CHARGE ACCOUNTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I've recently been married. When I open a charge account, what form of name should I give on the application — the form of my signature, Mary Brown Robinson, or Mrs. John Robinson? — R.

To open a charge account, give your formal name, Mrs. John Robinson. Your bills to be made out and mailed in that name, your packages to be delivered in that name. And your charge-plate, if any, to be made out in that name.

HANDSHAKE WITH INTRODUCTION?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a man is introduced to a woman, is it he or she who is the first one to offer to shake hands? — Flo

Correctly it is the woman, who is expected to offer her hand first . . . that is, if there is to be a handshake accompanying the introduction. Nowadays, there usually isn't. However, if the man is a cordial person who is naturally inclined to shake hands to express his cordiality, and so offers his hand first, of course the woman immediately offers her hand.

LETTER OF SYMPATHY TO DEAR FRIEND'S HUSBAND

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The other day I received a letter from my best friend's husband, telling me that his wife passed away about two weeks ago. Will you please give me some suggestions as to just what to say in the letter I plan to write him? And please tell me how to start my letter to him? I have already sent a Mass Card and also a card of sympathy. Please help me with the letter. — C. Reader

Your letter to the husband of your best friend might begin something like this:

Dear Bob:

I was heartbroken to receive the sad news that your beloved Margaret had passed away, and want you to know of my deep sympathy and my realization of how difficult these days must be for you. I know how hard it was for you to write me this sorrowful news, for you knew how Margaret and I had cherished our friendship, which we had built up over so many years. Margaret was an ideal friend, always so gentle and so understanding, and I shall always cherish the memory of her goodness and the blessing of her friendship.

"Stop sighing with relief . . . I'm only catching my breath."

River Valley W.I. Learn About Salt At Monthly Meet

STIRLING — Mrs. J. R. Donohoe was hostess on Thursday, November 7, for the regular meeting of River Valley Women's Institute with 23 ladies in attendance.

The president conducted the opening exercises and presided over the business. The correspondence included a letter from "Mental Health" and thank you letter. It was decided to donate $10 to the mental health fund.

The euchre parties began on November 8 at the school house. The November conveners are: Mrs. Gerald Brooks and Mrs. Vernon Harry. Anyone wishing to donate prizes for the card parties should contact the conveners for each month or the president.

The Christmas meeting will be held Thursday afternoon, December 5 at the Rebekah lodge hall, Charlotte Street, Stirling.

The program and lunch conveners are Mrs. Glenn Bush and Mrs. J. R. Donohoe. The hall convener is Mrs. Percy MacMullen and she, with her assistants, will be in charge of decorations. Miss Mary Thomas gave a donation to assist with the expenses. The exchange of gifts, adults 50 cents and children 25 cents, will be a feature of the Christmas party.

Mrs. Stanley Irven and Mrs. Roy Irven will supervise that department. The last half of the membership roll will provide the Christmas menu.

The Friendship Link secretary was authorized to forward the usual Christmas gift to Abbot's Leigh W.I. in Bristol, England at a cost of $6.30.

Plans were made for a quilting next week. The delegates' expenses to the area convention were authorized to be paid.

The program, based on agriculture and Canadian industry, was convened by Miss Marion Carlisle. Mrs. Alex Bush outlined the motto, "The Farmer is God's Partner." Mrs. Vernon Harry gave a humorous reading entitled "The Cow is a Mobile Machine" and Mrs. Phil Conley provided piano music.

Mrs. Gerald Brooks gave a very educational paper on the subject of salt, which is a Canadian industry.

Until the year 1866 Canada imported all her salt from New York State. That year a bed of solid salt was discovered north of Kincardine and southward to Lake Erie. Today all the provinces except Quebec have salt industries.

In 1949 there were 46 million tons of salt used in the world. Canada alone uses an average of 180 pounds per person.

Various kinds of salt were displayed and a list of uses for salt and several pictures dealing with the processing of this industry.

Mrs. Brooks gave a full explanation of how salt is obtained from the sea, from salt wells and from salt mines. She also graphically pictured the advantages and disadvantages of each method.

Salt wasn't always purchased in container packages with aluminum pouring spouts, free running and iodized for the protection of simple goitre.

The original salt packages were wooden boxes filled with damp salt. Then dryers were installed and cotton bags were used. By 1911 great advances were made and the salt was packaged in round cartons. Then came the problem of iodizing the salt and in 1949 the government made it compulsory to iodize table salt.

Canada is the world's fifth largest producer and user of salt. Canada has abundant resources of salt for all times and is renowned for her modern developments and efficiency of operation.

Mrs. Ralph Utman gave a report on the first three sessions of the area convention.

Mrs. Alex Bush reported the last two sessions and gave highlights from her own report on "Historical Research" and from the address on home economics given by Miss H. McKercher.

Mrs. John Kane voiced thanks for hospitality, program, reports and refreshments.

The hostess and lunch committee served sandwiches and cake, and all enjoyed a social half hour.

Fur and Fabric

By TRACY ADAMS

This season the fashions have taken great inspiration from the styles that were the vogue during the "Roaring Twenties." In some cases we have felt that the bag look was one which was to be deplored. But in many other brackets designers have given a modern slant to these flapper-day fashions and they've turned out to be flattering as well as chic.

One of the most outstanding of these innovations is the coat with fur trim, which has not been seen for many a season. We have always thought that a touch of fur does great things for its wearer and so we welcome a coat such as this one. It is a wool wrap-around with silk hip pockets, cuffed sleeves and a beautiful and luxurious blue fox collar.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Don W. — I've struck out three times.

Celia M. — Why not move across the country for a wife.

* * *

Don W. — I am wondering whether there is any place in the world at all for a three-time loser. I am nearly 30 and have been very much in love three times, but I always struck out after courting the girl for several months. It was always the same story — I'm a nice guy, but just as a brother or a friend. I'm no Rock Hudson, I'll admit, but neither am I a freak. I have a good job and I'm no alcoholic — although I've taken to hanging around the neighborhood tavern because I'm so darn lonesome.

My sister, who lives in another state, wants me to come live with her for a while and she says she will get me paired off with someone, but I don't see why I should have to move halfway across the country to get married when other guys do it all the time around here.

* * *

Celia M. — Poor Don has had a very rough time and I think one reason he doesn't get married is that he has no family contacts where he is. When he got out of the army he took care of our widowed mother. She was very ill for a long time and then she died two years ago.

Don is now living in a community where nobody really knows him or anything about our family. Maybe the girls hesitate to get involved with someone who is almost like a wanderer in their midst.

I know that Don has felt very crushed every time he has had a rejection and I don't think it's good for his ego. Maybe he does not approach these girls with enough confidence. The few times he has come to visit me, the neighborhood girls have always shown an interest in him. Why not move across the country for a wife?

* * *

The Council: We think Celia has a very good point. The lack of family contacts may be handicapping Don in his quest for a wife. The mesh of family associations, friends from childhood and school that surrounds most individuals gives them both a wide sphere of contacts and greater worth and weight in the eyes of the world at large.

The fact Don has taken to hanging around the neighborhood tavern suggests he has not made strong, meaningful ties in the community. Girls have good reasons to hesitate about serious involvements with men whose associations are unknown.

If Don doesn't want to make the big move to his sister's home, we'd suggest he get actively connected with a church group and

DISTRICT WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

SPRINGBROOK W.A.

The November meeting of Springbrook United Church Woman's Association, with 26 members present, was held in the basement of the church on Thursday, November 7.

With the president, Mrs. Clayton Burkitt, in charge the meeting opened by singing the theme song and repeating the theme hymn and W.A. prayer.

The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. Reg. McKeown, the theme being "Endurance."

The roll call of handing in the special missionary envelopes was well responded to with a total of $43.10 realized.

Mrs. C. Gordanier and Mrs. R. Wellman reported for the October visiting committee. Volunteers for this committee for November were Mrs. H. Beare and Mrs. G. Webb. Several members expressed their thanks for being remembered with fruit or flowers during their illness. Cards and calls were reported and reports from sick and shut-in conveners were given.

The correspondence was read and dealt with including invitations to a tea and bazaar at St. Paul's, Stirling, on December 6, and one at Hoard's on November 27.

Some community enterprises. This would make him better known and would perhaps make up for his lack of family ties.

A short business period followed consisting of purchasing two books on Japan which will be placed in the literature rack that is being considered.

The treasurer, Mrs. F. Cosbey, gave the financial report of catering to Williams' Livestock Sale on October 21 showing a profit of $134.25. The anniversary turkey supper on October 27 proceeds amounted to $1787.09 despite the flu epidemic.

Mrs. Reg. McKeown reported on the reply from Mr. Bell of Stirling on the finishing of the church floor. This concluded the business and as this meeting was devoted to Missions a very interesting topic was given on "Missions" by Mrs. H. Beare. She outlined briefly the history of Formosa. The first Canadian missionary to go to Formosa was Dr. MacKay, in 1872, under the Presbyterian Church. Miss Gretta Gould, Reg. N., was born at Tamsui in North Formosa, the daughter of missionary parents. Today she serves at Taisan in under the English Presbyterian Mission.

Following the topic Mrs. Beare led in prayer for the Christian work and for the missionaries who serve in Formosa.

A short program followed consisting of a reading by Mrs. Chris. Burkitt, readings by Mrs. G. Burton. Bateman for Mrs. G. Williams, and a duet "In the Garden" by Mrs. H. Haslett and Mrs. G. Bateman.

The meeting closed with the Mispah Benediction.

Lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. C. Gordanier and Mrs. H. Haslett, and their assistants.

The hostesses for the December meeting will be Mrs. Clayton Burkitt and Mrs. T. H. Mc-Keown.

SALEM W.A.

The November meeting of Salem W.A. was held in the church hall in the evening. The president, Mrs. Murney Johnston opened the meeting with the theme song and theme prayer. She also read a verse and a hymn was sung.

The secretary read the minutes of the last meeting. Roll call showed 19 members, three visitors and several children in attendance.

A committee of Mrs. Lorne Hagerman, Mrs. Clements and Mrs. Stan Thompson was appointed to pack the bale of used clothing for Unitarian children.

The Auxiliary received an invitation to St. Paul's W.A., Stirling, tea and bazaar on Dec. 6. An invitation was also received to visit Bridge Street Church, Belleville, where Dr. Thomas' preaching mission is to be held. Roll call for next month will be an exchange of Christmas gifts. Thanks were expressed for sick cards received.

Mrs. Frank McGee was in charge of the program. The Scripture reading 1 Peter 2:19-25 was read by Mrs. Orval Jackson. Mrs. Mayo gave the explanation notes, followed by prayer by Mrs. George Sine. The missionary reading, "Rural Missions on the Food Front," was given by Mrs. Murney Johnston. A poem, "Jesus and the Birds" was read by Mrs. Harold Holden. The topic was given by Mrs. T. Clements, subject of "Remembrance," followed by the poem, "In Flander's Fields" by Mrs. Allan Twiddy. A humorous reading, "Cleaning the Parsonage Stove Pipes," was given by Mrs. Frank McGee.

Mrs. Murray Roy expressed thanks to the hostess, Mrs. Ivan Saries, her assistants, and all who had helped with the program. Mrs. McGee gave a missionary prayer.

New Supermarket Opens in Trenton

TRENTON (Special) — Arrangements are being finalized for the opening of the new Loblaw supermarket this month. Staff for the new store, which will be one of the most modern in Trenton, are being trained in their new duties. Alfred Mulley, the popular manager of the present Loblaw store in Trenton, is manager of the new store. He will be replaced by Glen Brooks, until recently assistant manager of Loblaws in Belleville.

Mr. Mulley, who is a native of Yorkshire, England, has been in the chain grocery business for the past 25 years. He and his wife are both keen golfers, and are also members of the Trenton Country Club. They have one son, Wayne, 15, and a daughter, Heather, 8.

PACK MOTHERS MEET

Pack mothers of the tenth Trenton Brownie pack met at the home of Brown Owl, Mrs. I. Gibson, Alfred street, on Tuesday evening, where they worked hard at preparing novelties for the forthcoming Girl Guide East Trenton Local Association Tea and Sale, which is to be held at the beginning of December.

LADIES' SCOUT AUXILIARY

At the Tuesday evening meeting of the Third Trenton Ladies' Scout Auxiliary, plans were discussed for a Christmas party and rummage sale to be held by the group on Saturday morning in the town hall. During the course of the meeting, Mrs. B. Simmons, president, said a letter of greeting had been received from the former Cub leader of Third Trenton, Mrs. Pickering, who is at present with her husband and three sons in France, where Mr. Pickering is stationed with the RCAF. Mrs. Thelma Simmons, Akela of "A" pack, explained the duties of a cub leader to the members, and said she would be pleased to hear of anyone interested in becoming a cub leader. Refreshments were served by the lunch committee.

Royal Black Chapt. Held Meet in City

POINT ANNE — The Royal Black Chapter of the Royal Black Preceptory, No. 830, of Belleville, was held in the Orange Hall at Belleville Tuesday evening with a good attendance of members and Grand Lodge officers.

Lodge was opened by the Senior Preceptor, Sir Knight Rev. William McLeod. The Most Worshipful Grand Master of the Royal Black Preceptors of British America, Sir Knight Rev. R. J. Skinner of Prince Edward Island, was introduced and given honors and escorted to a seat on the dais.

The other Grand Lodge officers in turn were also introduced and seated on the dais, as follows: Sir Knight Athol Caldwell, G.M. of the RBP of Ontario East, of North Gore; Sir Knight J. Arthur Holden, Petersborough, DGM of Ontario East of the RBP; Sir Knight W. A. Chambers, Ottawa, G.R. of the RBP of Ontario East; Sir Knight F. G. Reid, Belleville, G.T. of the RBP of Ontario East; Sir Knight J. N. Bentley, Belleville, S.B. of the RBP of Ontario East; Sir Knight R. J. Edgar, Calgary, Past Grand Master of Alberta and honorary member of British America of the RBC; Sir Knight Earle Keene, Belleville, County Master of South Hastings.

After business and reports were dealt with several remarks and enlightening speeches were given by Grand Lodge officers and other members of the order. A pleasant meeting was closed and refreshments were served.

Hold Remembrance Service at Ivanhoe

IVANHOE — A Remembrance Day service conducted by Rev. Harold Stobbart, was held on Sunday, November 10, in Bethlah United Church, Ivanhoe. It was largely attended by veterans and their families. The Huntingdon township veterans joined with Madoc Legion to parade to the church for the service. This parade was directed by Don McFadden.

"We are all conscious of the fact that the veterans in this congregation are men who fought in the First and Second World Wars," Rev. Stobbart said in his address. "These men know what it means to engage the enemy in common warfare. They know by practical experience the dangers and horrors of war.

"We are engaged in a spiritual warfare . . . a conflict between righteousness and unrighteousness.

"It is a great honor to identify ourselves with Her Majesty's forces but it is a greater honor to identify ourselves with the King of Kings and the Captain of our salvation. We must show which side we are on and must know what we are fighting for. The only weapon that can combat the evils engulfing the world today is the Spirit of God.

"In successful warfare there is a great necessity of keeping the lines of communication open between our hearts and God. Wars were not won by human effort alone, but by men who in the zero hour kept the lines open to Almighty God. Prayer brought us the victory.

"A good soldier must know the source of his armor. Every soldier of Jesus Christ is promised protection and victory," Mr. Stobbart concluded.

A short service of remembrance and re-dedication was conducted by Don McFadden and the names of those who paid the supreme sacrifice were read.

The silver notes of the trumpet were heard in "The Last Post." Then followed the memorial silence and "Reveille," the National Anthem and benediction.

During the service the jr. choir, under the direction of choir leader and organist Mrs. Keith Bray sang "I would Be True", Hymns — "Onward Christian Soldiers", "Stand Up, Stand Up For Jesus", and "Abide With Me."

Churches in Japan Discussed at Marsh Hill WMS Meet

MARSH HILL — The November meeting of Marsh Hill W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Garnet Searles with 12 members and one visitor present.

The president, Mrs. Leslie Finkle, opened the meeting with a reading and prayer.

The members reported sending 15 cards and three letters and making four calls and one hospital call.

A nominating committee was appointed to bring in a new slate of officers. A report of the sectional rally which was held recently at Foxboro, was given by Mrs. E. B. Finkle.

Mrs. David Hollinger, supply secretary, read a letter of thanks for the bale which had been sent.

Mrs. Hollinger presided over the worship service, the theme being "Unto Him Every Knee Shall Bow."

Mrs. E. B. Finkle gave the chapter from the study book "The Churches in Japan." Mrs. Benson Mills read an article on "Industrialization in Japan"; Mrs. Farley Lindenfield read "Sharing Our Faith With Japan"; Mrs. Allyn Finkle read the story of a "Japanese Suicide Pilot"; Mrs. Frank Finkle read "Blessed Are the Peacemakers."

After the benediction the hostess served refreshments.

DESERONTO

Will Demolish Buildings at Camp Mohawk

DESERONTO — The War Assets Corporation is calling for tenders for the demolition of most of the buildings at Camp Mohawk. Barrack blocks, hospital, and other buildings are to be sold. All that will remain of the former training camp will be the hangars, the guardhouse and the runways.

Camp Mohawk was built during World War 2 and was a training establishment for beam flying. It was active during the war and brought considerable business to the town. The runways are considered among the best in this part of the country. For a time it was hoped the Air Force would put the camp to permanent use but for some years now it has been used only as a storage base.

The land the camp occupies belong to the Mohawk band of Tyendinaga Reserve and is under lease to the Air Force. One of the conditions of the lease is that the foundations must be levelled when the buildings are removed and the area returned to its original state.

2nd Thurlow

2ND THURLOW — Owing to illness of Mrs. F. Mitchell, Mrs. Harry Grills will entertain the Ladies' W. I. on Tuesday, Nov. 19 at her home here.

Mrs. M. Mitchell, Mrs. Robert Atkins were Tuesday afternoon callers of Mrs. G. Atkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell and children called on the latter's mother, Mrs. McMahon of Purdy who is a patient in the Bancroft hospital, on Sunday.

Several members of the Tabernacle Church, Belleville, enjoyed a congregational pot luck supper on Wednesday night.

Mrs. Archie Gregtrix was confined to her bed last week with pneumonia. All hope she will be better soon.

Mrs. F. Mitchell has had a severe attack of the 'flu for the past couple of weeks but is feeling better again this week. Mrs. A. Mitchell, Mrs. E. Vivian and others have been ill with bad colds and 'flu.

Several men from the community enjoyed a few days in the northern district during the hunting season. Among them were Fletcher Reid, Clinton Grills and Harry J. Cecil Keene, with Jimmy and Neil in turn; Robert Atkins, Gordon Atkins, with Donald Jackson, B. Carson, K. Dunsbury, Belleville, and H. Baker.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Keene, were recent callers of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Atkins.

Mrs. Clinton Grills and family spent Sunday and Monday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Yorke, while John and Bobbie Clapp joined their father for a hunt on Monday near Bancroft.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fargey, Stirling, were Sunday night supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Atkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Mitchell had supper and spent the evening recently with Mr. and Mrs W. Gray, Sr., of Belleville.

The Misses Nancy and Maureen Boldrick, Carol and Barbara Goodfellow, Belleville, spent a couple days last week with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Atkins, while their parents spent a few days in Watertown and Syracuse. Mrs. Ron Atkins and Brian stayed at the Goodfellow home on Friday and Saturday and Mrs. J. Boldrick and Bessie stayed with Nancy and Maureen on Saturday in Belleville.

Mrs. Robert Atkins spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. J. Wright, Stirling. Later the men returned from hunting camp and the former spent the supper hour and evening at the Wright home, Stirling.

Miss Kay Whalen, Reg. N., Toronto, spent the weekend at her home here with her mother who is ill. Mrs. Whalen's condition remains about the same and she is still confined to her bed.

Mrs. Everett Jeffery, Mrs. Robert Atkins, who were appointed leaders from the Quinte W. I. attended the "Lamp shade making" training school at Stirling on Monday and Tuesday.

Mrs. Cecil Keene visited with Mrs. Gib Bailey at Remington, on Monday, while the men went hunting. They bagged six deer.

Marmora

MARMORA — Remembrance Day weekend in Marmora was observed by Marmora Branch No. 237, Canadian Legion, Women's Auxiliary and veterans attending divine service in St. Andrew's United Church. Rev. R. W. T. Middleton, Plainfield, Ontario, was guest minister. Music was under the direction of Mrs. Robert Sanderson. The choir used "For All the Saints" as an anthem and Mrs. Muriel Goadsby of Havelock sang "O Valiant Heart."

On Monday the parade of the Legion, Women's Auxiliary, Boy Scouts, Girl Guides and Cubs was addressed by Reverend H. G. Fleming of St. Paul's Anglican Church at the Memorial Hall.

Wreaths were placed by Legion President Stanley Kerr, I.O.D.E. by Mrs. M. Borland, Mrs. Peter Brawley for Silver Cross Mothers; Scouts, by Laurence Bateman; village, by Reeve W. Shannon; Local No. 4854 Marmoraton Mines, W. MacDonald, Percy Gray directed the march past and T. Brooks was trumpeter.

A similar gathering was held at Delora Hall with Reverend E. F. Madden addressing the assembly.

COUNCIL MEETING

Marmora village council held its regular meeting on Monday with all members present. Bylaw to Court of Revision for 1957 tax roll was closed.

The clerk was instructed to write to Water and Sewage Commission for a reply to their October letters to Department of Highways re traffic light at Highways 7-14 intersection and stop signs at intersection of county and village streets.

The Department of Highways has agreed to sell the property adjoining the Legion playgrounds to be used by the village for a park in perpetuity. The clerk was advised to confirm the sale and prepare the deed.

A by-law was passed confirming the naming of deputy returning officers and poll clerks for the municipal election which, if necessary, will be held the first Monday in December.

Accounts of approximately $1,000 were moved and seconded to be paid.

Council is expected to finish the year inside their budget.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. E. O'Brien and Mr. and Mrs. J. Walsh of Peterborough were guests at the Swanson-Johnston wedding on Saturday, here.

Stumbo Clan Runs Into Snag Selling Lots

ROSEBURG, Ore. (AP) — The Stumbo clan, which had temporary success in selling off part of Highway 99 to the public, ran into a fresh setback Tuesday. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Robert G. Stumbo.

The complaint says he failed to have a subdivision acknowledged and recorded before offering it for sale.

The subdivision was made up of two-inch-square plots, part of a 16-foot strip across Highway 99 Western Oregon's principal north-south route.

The Stumbos said they owned it. It turned out they did. The state had forgotten to buy it.

The Stumbos—Robert, two of his brothers and a cousin—barricaded the highway to bring their ownership to public attention.

OFFER SPURNED

When the state wouldn't offer to pay what the Stumbos considered their strip worth, they started selling it off in lots two inches square and disposed of 290 at $2 each. The highway commission filed suit and stopped the sales.

The Stumbos countered with a claim for $250,000.

The Southern Douglas County Highway Association, which got out the warrant for Robert Stumbo, topped that. Association President James Daugherty said the minimum fine on conviction is $50, and that 12,000 such charges could be brought, running the fine to $5,900,000.

Tweed

TWEED — Frank Langevin, of Moira Street, was taken to the hospital on Monday of this week for observation.

Mrs. Simon Lajoie, who has been hospitalized for some time expects to be allowed to return to her home here, on Moira St., some day this week. She is improved in health, after undergoing surgery while in the hospital.

The "200" Club weekly draw, which is sponsored by the Kinsmen Club of Tweed, announced the following winners: Dr. A. G. Allen, $25; George Olson, $10; John McMurray, $5, and Mrs. Betty Harvey, $5.

Visiting recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jones, McLennan St., were Mrs. Bill Woodward and baby of Oshawa, and Mrs. Frank Murray of Whitby, Ont., who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jones.

Guests at the Park Plaza in Toronto last week were Dr. W. A. Paul and Mrs. Paul of Tweed.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Cox, Gerald and Anne, of Minden, spent the past weekend at the home of Mrs. Cox's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Thompson, Colborne St.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Meraw are visiting their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. J. Vallaincourt, of MacTier, and Mr. Meraw is getting a little moose hunting in as well. He hunts with Mr. Vallaincourt and several railway employees.

Mrs. Harold Emerson spent an enjoyable weekend visiting in Toronto.

The winner of the weekly merchandise prize at the store of Kerr and Company, Tweed, was Mrs. Clara Rosenplot, Denbigh, Ont. It is worth $3 in merchandise from the above store, and the draws are on Saturday nights.

A bingo was held on Friday night in St. Carthagh's School, and was sponsored by the Tweed Knights of Columbus. A good crowd was reported in attendance.

George and Joan Pepper, (nee Meyer), of Bloomsburg, Pa., announce the birth of a daughter, Anne Marie, on October 27, 1957, weight 5 lbs., 7 oz. Congratulations.

The condition of Rev. M. W. Heslip is still unchanged and he is on the critical list in the Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Cox were in Peterborough on Monday for the day.

Mrs. H. F. McGrath, of Navan, spent a week with her parents recently, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Langevin, of Sulphide, who have been confined to their home with 'flu.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Reid Plainfield; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Horton, Roslin, and Mr. and Mrs. Milroy Horton, Tweed, were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clare Carney, of Roslin.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Akey, of South Victoria St., have just returned from visiting their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. V. Courneyea, Toronto.

STUDY MAIL SPEEDUP

LONDON (Reuters) — Canada, Britain and the United States will pool efforts to speed up their mail delivery, British Postmaster-General Ernest Marples said Tuesday. The British Post Office now has a team investigating mechanization of the United States mails and the team will go to Canada later.

TEXAS CLEANS UP AFTER TORNADO

This is an air view of destruction left in wake of a tornado that hit Groves, Texas, killing two persons, critically injuring 11 and leaving hundreds homeless. Photos show splintered remains of a few of the 160 homes which were demolished. Note house moved to centre of road from its foundations.

2,452 Delegates Will Take Part In Convention

OTTAWA (CP)—A total of 2,452 official and alternate delegates will be eligible to participate in the national Liberal leadership convention to be held here Jan. 14-16.

This is an increase of 207 from 2,245 that were eligible in the last leadership convention in 1948. Convention officials in announcing this Tuesday said the increase is mainly in representation from women and young Liberals.

Included in the new representation are 1,320 official delegates with full voting powers and 523 alternates who would be able to vote only if the official delegate does not turn up.

The country-wide representation will pick a successor to the 75-year-old Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent and it may be a straight fight between Hon. Lester B. Pearson, 60-year-old MP from Algoma East, and Hon. Paul Martin, 5-year-old MP for Essex East.

The names of these two important Liberals did not appear in the new main convention committees, perhaps an indication that they will be too busy lining up supporters to take on any convention organizational work.

EISENHOWER ON CBC

GIRL WOUNDED

PETAWAWA (CP) — Edith Brindle, 14, was shot in the leg here Monday while dumping garbage in the town dump. The young girl escaped with a crease below the knee. Police believe a group of boys shooting rifles in the dump were responsible.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

RYLSTONE — On Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 6, Mrs. Harry Mumby was hostess to the Rylstone Women's Institute. Mrs. Stanley Kerr, president, was in charge of the first part of the meeting, which opened with the Institute Ode and Creed. The roll call was answered by "A Humorous Kitchen Incident." It was decided to make a donation to the Canadian Institue for the Blind, and also the regular annual donation to the Campbellford Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Alfred Akins, convener for Home Economics and Health, was in charge of the balance of the meeting, which was as follows:

"In Memoriam" by Mrs. Alfred Akins; reading, "Lest We Forget," by Mrs. Ernest Irwin; "Demonstration of Home Nursing," by Mrs. Sanford Wilson and Mrs. Jim Gray; a reading, "When Father Takes the Flu," by Mrs. Donald Kerr; a demonstration of "How to Take Care of a Permanent Wave," by Mrs. Carl Reid; a reading, "A Little of Everything," by Mrs. Percy Reid; a report of the area convention by Mrs. Stanley Kerr, one of the delegates, and a contest conducted by Mrs. Fred Barnum.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and the lunch committee.

ANNUAL S.S. TREAT AND ENTERTAINMENT

On Friday night in spite of the bad weather a good crowd assembled at the Gospel hall for the annual Sunday School Treat and Entertainment. William Hind of Hamilton, was present for the occasion, as he has been for many years.

Following a delicious supper, a delightful musical program consisting of piano, trumpet and accordion solos, songs, recitations and Scripture readings were presented. Those taking part were: Anne Reid, Mrs. Don Stewart, Linda Andrews, Agnes McKeown, Carol Heath, Donna Stewart, Elwood Vardy, Ted Reid, Dorothy and Donna Morton, Donald Andrews, Ross Fitchett, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Broadworth, the primary and secondary classes, and the senior girls.

CELEBRATES 75th BIRTHDAY

On Saturday evening the family of Mrs. G. W. Jones of Stirling, gathered at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jim Palmer, to celebrate with her the occasion of her 75th birthday. The dining room was tastefully decorated with yellow and bronze streamers to blend with the large basket of assorted mums, the November birthday flower. At the end of the dinner, a nicely decorated birthday cake was brought in.

During the evening Mrs. Jones was the recipient of a pearl-set onyx ring from her grandchildren and great grandchildren, and a purse of money from her children. During the day Mrs. Jones also received numerous phone calls and cards.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Bob Jones and Linda of Toronto; Mrs. Helen Martin and daughters Dawn and Diane of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Jones, Rylstone; Mrs. Thelma Tulloch and her daughter, Marian; Thelma, Pauline and Don Stewart, and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Palmer and sons Bob and Jim.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Stewart were Sunday dinner guests of his sister, Mrs. Ottie Hoover, at Wellman's Corners.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Husband of Napanee, were Sunday dinner guests of her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Jones. Both couples were supper guests of their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Mumby, Springbrook.

Will Morton and Mrs. Essie Reid accompanied their sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. C. Anderson of Campbellford, on a trip to Rednersville one day last week, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Walter McLeod.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Jones attended his mother's birthday party at Stirling on Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Palmer.

On Friday evening the home of Will Morton narrowly escaped being burned during the high wind, when the stovepipes caught fire and burned out. At the time only Bill Morton Jr. and his grandmother Mrs. Mary Jane Murray, were at home. To all appearances the fire was out but later in the evening Mr. Morton smelled smoke and found that fire had fallen down the chimney to a boarded-up fireplace, where it had burned through the wall when it was discovered. With the help of his brother Dick and nephew Jim the boards were taken off and the fire put out. The family were fortunate that they were not sleeping at the time.

Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart spent a few days last week with their daughter, Mrs. Albert Holland and grandson Stewart, in Havelock, while Mr. Holland was away deer hunting.

Mrs. John Rowe of Stanwood is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Ray Stewart and family.

Several men from the community have been on a deer hunt.

Thurlow

THURLOW — The teaching staff of South area were entertained by the school trustee board, Douglas Atkins, chairman, Doug McLean, Arnold Mitchell, B. Henderson, K. Greatrix, and secretary treasurer Ross Bailey, and caretakers, to a pot luck supper and social Friday night at S.S. 20 Thurlow.

Following the supper Mr. Darling, principal of S.S. 20, capably introduced the guests. Brief remarks were given by the chairman and trustees, and members of the teaching staff, and an appropriate talk was delivered by the school inspector, Mr. Cummins. Jack Parrott led in community singing. Mrs. Robert Atkins favored with two accordian selections and little Miss Iris Lohnes contributed a tap dancing number and a very fine display of acrobatics.

Later progressive euchre was enjoyed for a short period, but owing to disruption of the lights caused by the high winds, the euchre was postponed till a later date.

Ad Extolling Virtues of Loving Thy Neighbor Being Paid for By a Washington Realtor

WASHINGTON (CP)—In 1953, a full-page advertisement extolling the virtues of loving thy neighbor appeared one day in a big American newspaper.

Since then, the same ad has been published periodically in more than 60 newspapers from Los Angeles to Boston and, three months ago, it made its Canadian debut in the Financial Post. More recently, it appeared also in the Toronto Telegram.

The ad mystifies and intrigues almost everyone who reads it; everyone, that is, except Leon Ackerman, husky, 58 - year - old Washington real estate man who sells property locally and brotherly love internationally. He's the man who foots the bills.

He runs the ad because he believes people were put on earth to help each other.

"I'm just quoting the author," he says. "It's just something that's helped me and I'm just passing it along. I'm only doing the right thing. There's nothing new in it; nothing sensational."

The ad which appeared in Toronto recently was typical.

"Love . . . the greatest gift," it reads in large type. "He who understands love understands God, for God is love."

This is followed by a quotation from John and a few sentences of text, ending with the verse: "Love thy neighbor as thyself."

At the bottom, in type so small that by comparison it appears almost apologetic, is the name: "Leon Ackerman, 910 Seventeenth Street Northwest, Washington 6, D.C." Ackerman didn't include his name in his original ad but the New York Times in 1953 added it to the versions it published.

Ackerman thinks the full - page ads impress the reader into attention and into doing a little thinking. And he's got pleased results—"I get hundreds of letters"—that he says if he had $50,000 he'd spend it all on one mammoth advertising spree.

as 100 salesmen on its payroll.

Then, in 1949, he was "resurrected" and began building his unusual advertising campaign. He joined the Christian Science Church but identifies himself unofficially as a Protestant "because I don't like labels."

Ackerman says stories that he had been a big drinker and heavy smoker — consuming 20 to 30 coffees a day and three or four packages of cigarets—are exaggerated, but he does concede that he had a large capacity for alcohol. Since 1949, he had touched neither liquor nor cigarets. "Don't like 'em," he says now.

Beginning in 1951, he first ran full-page ads in a single newspaper—and in 1953 switched to what he calls his "love" ads. Again, he believes he was trying for personal tragedy which struck the Ackerman family about that time. His son, George, was killed in an airplane accident. He and Mrs. Ackerman have one other son and three daughters.

Ackerman has no particular explanation for his decision to run his ads in Canadian newspapers except again, that he believes he is "only doing the right thing in passing along something that has helped me. He has received scores of letters from Canadians, but he doesn't know how many have read the ads.

How much does the advertising cost? "I don't even bother to count it," he says. "I never question my head of empire, which is God. He is my partner in this undertaking."

Does he write the cost off on his income tax returns? "No. It didn't. I wouldn't be above it though."

Ackerman thinks the full - page ads impress the reader into attention and into doing a little thinking. And he's got pleased results—"I get hundreds of letters"—that he says if he had $50,000 he'd spend it all on one mammoth advertising spree.

Cuban Rebels Burn Sugar Cane, Tobacco Sheds

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Colonels of rebel leader Fidel Castro have put the torch to sugar cane fields and tobacco warehouses in an attempt to bring down President Fulgencio Batista. They were estimated today to have burned crops worth nearly $2,500,000.

So far the dent in Cuba's economy is negligible. Qualified sources said the rebels have fired about one-third of one per cent of Cuba's 2,300,000 acres of cane.

Castro's band of about 600 guerrillas and their supporters started 54 big fires in the last four days. All of them centred around approaches to the rebel leaders hideout in the Sierra Maestra mountains of eastern most Oriente province.

Other fires have been set in the western provinces of Pinar del Rio, the sources said, and more than 50 tobacco warehouses have been burned there.

FOREMAN SHOT

Cane field workers in Oriente made no attempt to extinguish blazes after one field foreman who had tried to fight a fire was reported shot and killed by Cuban troops. Three rebels were killed and two wounded in a clash in the area, a field, the government said.

Castro's new fire offensive was generally believed in Havana to indicate he thinks he has no likely chance of winning over his army. The rebel chief obviously hopes his destruction of sugarcane and tobacco—the island's major crops—will cause so much labor unrest and disaster to plantation owners and businessmen that they will turn on Batista.

The rebels also have called for a "general revolutionary strike" about Dec. 15.

Builders Want Reduction in Down Payments

OTTAWA (CP)—The National House Builders Association, in a brief to Finance Minister Fleming, asked Wednesday for reduction of National Housing Act down payments in the interest and extension of amortization payments to 40 years.

The present down payment on new dwellings for ownership is 10 per cent on the first $6,000 of mortgage and 30 per cent on the remainder. Under a NHA amendment in 1954, $12,800. Maximum mortgage amortization period now is 35 years.

The builders proposed that the problem of providing adequate and economical rental be discussed at the federal-provincial conference in Ottawa on Nov. 25 and 26.

The association also asked for an increase in the loan values placed under the NHA for rental units.

The association said it could foresee no lowering of labor and material costs, new construction and savings through introduction of new building materials or technique.

It also foresaw no likelihood of reduction in NHA interest rates. The brief previously proposed exploration of the possibility of having the interest rate one, lower than the prevailing rate, to apply to low-cost dwellings.

The brief also said the government should ensure an adequate and continuous supply of mortgage funds.

Eisenhower's Talks Attempt To Calm Uneasy Feelings

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

President Eisenhower's talks to the American people on science and education in defence and in general are an attempt to calm uneasy feelings and face stern facts.

Eisenhower wants to let his people in on a frank way that the Russians are ahead on some science projects which have a military significance.

But he also wants them to understand that this is not a matter for panic or despair. He is taking a well - let's - pull - up - our-socks-a-bit line.

There has been evidence of a big swing in American attitudes toward science since Russia launched her Sputniks and announced other scientific and technical advances.

Several years ago the term "egghead" seemed to sum up the U.S. — with a meaning that was often close to scorn or distrust—for those scientists and intellectuals, persons of extraordinary brain power.

Much of this arose from hot-and - bitter security disputes. A suspicion among ordinary folk that scientists in extremely high positions had lukewarm loyalties—or leaned a cold way—between the U.S. and Russia.

Scientists now have labored under difficulties, and it suddenly has been brought home to Americans that the same has been true in Russia.

Eisenhower is dramatizing this by calling for assistance to young scholars and other means of placing science and education high on a higher priority in the U.S.

The United States Office of Education has pointed up statistic differences in the educational systems of the U.S. and Russia, where early education seems to retain aspects of the old theory of the rebuke the rod and spoil the child."

Students go to school six days a week, not five, in Russia, and the government of Russia has decided they will study. Through the whole school and university system, they will be under emphasis on science, and clever students are rewarded in a handsome way.

Although all phases of education receive attention, it is the big share is put aside for the science. The scientists, engineers and technicians are the elite of that country. Boys and girls are encouraged, by prizes, contests and subsidies, to go into the technical fields.

As one example of results, Russia now graduates 80,000 engineers a year, compared with 30,000 in the U.S.

In Russia, science and technical subjects are the main concern of the school system. Seventy per cent of the advanced degrees conferred by Soviet higher educational institutions are in the scientific and technical fields.

From top to bottom in the school system, there is a powerful emphasis on science in Russia. There appears to be little thought given to letting even kiddies "enjoy" their school days.

Pair of Slippers, Pair of Shoes Found Near Skull

TORONTO (CP) — A small-sized pair of men's bedroom slippers, parts of a blue suit while shirt or blouse and a piece of a zippered blue windbreaker were found Wednesday near where a human skull was discovered Tuesday.

Police digging in the Holland Marsh area, 25 miles north, have been searching always 11 and 400, made the fresh discoveries.

The skull and several other bones believed to be parts of legs and arms were found by a dredging crew and the discoveries have touched off a province-wide investigation.

Police said the size of the slippers corresponds with the discovery of a slim hand could indicate the skeleton was female.

SOMETHING TO CRY ABOUT

Being endowed with more neck than any other living thing, a giraffe has a major problem when it develops an ailment in said neck. So here is Gerdi, female giraffe of the German Franz Althoff circus, having a dressing applied by a veterinarian as Prince Minister Macmillan to as circus hand is giving the giraffe pieces of carrot to keep her docile. Doctors diagnosed her ailment as an injured spinal disk. They had to build a seven-foot platform to reach the injured part of the neck.

Cocktails Mellow Khrushchev Making Dulles 'Dear Friend' Zhukov 'Remarkable Man'

By ROY ESSOYAN

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev was in his best Communist party form Wednesday night, tossing off comments on a wide variety of topics. Some remarks of the Soviet Communist party secretary:

"I know the United States doesn't have the kind of rockets we have and you won't have them soon."

President Eisenhower, State Secretary Dulles and all "other U.S. leaders would be welcomed in Moscow "as dear friends."

Marshal Georgi Zhukov "did not turn out well as a political figure but as a military figure he is a remarkable man.

"Does anyone doubt that Britain is a satellite of the United States? Khrushchev immediately apologized for this remark and said he was "ready to take it back."

Khrushchev and most important Soviet government leaders turned up as an Egyptian embassy reception honoring Maj.-Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer, visiting Egyptian minister of war and chief joint commander of Egyptian and Syrian troops.

Khrushchev proposed a toast to our armies—the armies of the Soviet Union, Egypt and Syria. Then the Egyptian and Syrian armies are armed and advised by Russia.

A British correspondent suggested to Khrushchev that the Soviet Union halt firing of big rockets.

"We have to test them," the Soviet leader said. "What can we do, pickle them?"

"Put them in a museum," a reporter suggested.

"No room," Khrushchev replied. "Let's sink them all at sea. We'd be happy to do that if you do."

The party boss said in answer to questions that he would welcome visits of U.S. leaders to Moscow and an invitation to British Prime Minister Macmillan to visit Russia still stands. "Politics is a matter of the head bear grudges" over past differences, he said.

Khrushchev said Zhukov, who was recently ousted from the defence ministry and from high party posts, is in Moscow "on a leave he fully deserves."

"Zhukov did not turn out well as a political figure but as a military figure he was a remarkable man and we always give him credit for it . . . as a good marshal and a good soldier," Khrushchev added.

400 Cases Reported

EDMONTON (CP) — Premier Manning said Wednesday that all last report there had been approximately 400 cases of persons illegally accepting the Alberta government's $20 oil-royalty dividend.

He said reports to the attorney-general's department, which he heads, indicate most convictions were against professional forgers and thieves. He told reporters the department has been investigating one case of a man getting roughly $9 of the dividends.

TEACHERS HOLD WORKSHOP

BURLINGTON (CP) — Five hundred high school teachers from Galt, Guelph, Brantford and Burlington are expected to attend the annual workshop here Friday. The meeting, sponsored by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation, will acquaint teachers with latest teaching methods.

LIKE TEACHER, LIKE PUPIL

"Two bits, or we tell you who done it!"

Whatever doubts there might be about comedian Jack Benny as a violinist, there is unanimous opinion on his fund-raising capacity. Appearing in Toronto with the symphony orchestra to publicize the Israeli bond sales, Benny was responsible for the purchase of $1,000,000 in bonds. As virtuoso Benny has acquired admirers, one of them being Francis Shuster, right, of the Wayne and Shuster comedy team. By coincidence, Shuster isn't much of a violinist either and didn't improve noticeably after a lesson from Benny.

French Oppose Aid to Tunisia By Britain, U.S.

PARIS (Reuters) — Premier Felix Gaillard's new government today accused the United States and Britain of "a breach of Atlantic solidarity" by planning to send arms to Tunisia.

Foreign Minister Christian Pineau made the charge in a private address to the National Assembly's foreign affairs commission.

The commission meeting followed a night of intensive diplomatic activity arising from a U.S. note on arms requested by Tunisia. The North African nation, now independent, is a former French protectorate.

Gaillard, who took office only nine days ago, summoned a cabinet meeting for midnight. Afterward, a government spokesman said France wanted to be "consulted before delivery of arms to Tunisia."

The crisis arose over French fears that arms for Tunisia will reach Algerian rebels. The U.S. note said the North African will turn to Russia for arms if Western supplies are cut off.

BRITAIN INVOLVED

Today's official statement mentioned for the first time that Britain as well as the U.S. plans to send arms to Tunisia.

It said Pineau gave the commission details about the conditions under which Britain and the U.S. are preparing to send arms to Tunisia.

(A foreign office spokesman said in London today that the possibility of British arms being sent to Tunisia "is not a matter that is under consideration.")

Gaillard conferred urgently with British, U.S. and American and British envoys in Paris.

QUIT NATO?

Feeling over the crisis ran so high in Paris today that some disgruntled deputies in the National Assembly openly talked of how France should quit NATO.

French officials said France is willing to supply small arms to Tunisia provided President Habib Bourguiba guarantees they will not go to Algerian insurgents for use against French forces. But the French are convinced Bourguiba guarantee.

Today's statement said Pineau told the foreign affairs commission that France "regretted the Anglo - American initiative contrary to the requirements of solidarity which should come into play in all parts of the world."

Pineau was also quoted as describing the U.S. decision as describing the U.S. decision as "a breach of Atlantic solidarity."

In Washington Ambassador Amory Houghton delivered a note to Gaillard Wednesday stating the U.S. wants to go ahead with arms deliveries to Tunisia. By doing so, the note declared, the U.S. is living Tunisian acceptance of Soviet-bloc arms offered by Russia.

The U.S. note aroused speculation that Premier Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia has received new offers from Egypt or Communist-bloc countries.

Political indications the U.S. might be willing to delay the shipments delivered, to be British were reported, demanding quick supplies for Bourguiba, in face of a stubborn friend of the West.

Finance Minister Did Not Answer Any Questions

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Fleming said Wednesday he is "not aware of anything that could be called a clash" between the Bank of Canada and the government on financial policy.

But he declined to state, in the face of persistent questioning, what he discussed Tuesday in a meeting with Governor James E. Coyne of the Bank of Canada.

To said it would be "highly improper" to disclose details of discussions with departmental advisers.

James Sinclair (L—Coast Capilano) asked about reports of a clash of opinion between the government and the bank. Then, referring to Mr. Fleming's reply, he asked whether it meant the government was in agreement with bank policy.

Stanley Knowles, deputy CCF leader, asked when Mr. Fleming will present either a budget or "budgetary proposals" to the House.

Mr. Fleming said that "what ever it put forward before the House" to carry out government policy will be done in due course.

There has been speculation that the government may not present a budget this session, but instead make any tax changes by separate bills amending the present tax law.

Deadlock May Mean $10,400 In Fines for River Pilots Under Canada Shipping Act

OTTAWA (CP) — A deadlock has been reached between the federal transport department and 52 striking St. Lawrence River pilots, raising the possibility they will be fined up to $10,400 under the Canada Shipping Act.

The pilots, members of the St. Lawrence — Ottawa — Kingston Pilots' Corporation, under federal jurisdiction through the shipping act, in Montreal Wednesday rejected a settlement offer by Transport Minister George Hees.

Corporation president Guy Gaillard, who took office only nine days ago, summoned a cabinet meeting for midnight. Afterward, a government spokesman said France wanted to be "consulted before delivery of arms to Tunisia."

PERSONAL PLEDGE

Mr. Hees told a reporter that at a Tuesday meeting here with a committee representing the pilots he gave his personal guarantee that job security and future earnings at least equal to their pay during the last 12 months of navigation would be written into the Montreal-Kingston run immediately.

He said he also promised that a number of "minor irritations" drawn to the department's attention for the first time would be taken care of immediately.

Mr. Hees promised offers for a mutually - satisfactory agreement would be worked out on future pilotage rates for the whole shipping season opens. He added:

"I'm very sorry that we have not been able to reach agreement when the committee members left here they appeared very well pleased with the proposal I put forward."

Main demand of the pilots, who risked fines of up to $200 each when they quit work Nov. 4, is re-establishment of compulsory pilotage fees for every vessel travelling between Montreal and Lake Ontario. All ships, whether using a pilot or not, would have to pay.

TOO COSTLY

Mr. Hees said he told the pilots' committee he sympathizes with their desire for job security but this demand could not be granted because it would be too costly. Substantial additional cost burden to Canadian ships operating on the Great Lakes, about 90 per cent of which had no need for the pilots' services.

Mr. Hees made no mention of possible fines, but Deputy Transport Minister C. P. Edwards was asked whether they will be levied.

He said "it would expect so."

Ottawa, N.Y., a spokesman for American river pilots said "fines would be levied," "could be expected to follow suit" if Canadian pilots are successful in their demand for higher pilotage.

Capt. John Blank, president of the Lake Carriers' Association, St. Lawrence pilots division of the Tugmen's Protective Association (AFL-CIO) here said his group would not try to take over the Canadian pilots' jobs during the controversy.

NATO Studying Plans to Build Aerial Platforms

PARIS (AP)—NATO's aeronautical research director said today the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is studying plans to build aerial platforms over the land masses of nuclear missiles.

These, Dr. Theodore Von Karman told a press conference, would be in addition to the submarine nuclear missile launching platforms U.S. Senator Henry Jackson (Dem. Wash.) urged Wednesday.

Jackson told the newspaper men today that the United States is going ahead with development of a nuclear-powered intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM). He said it would be a one-stage rocket and more efficient than existing propelled missiles after 2,000 miles.

STILL YEARS OFF

Von Karman, former chief scientific adviser to the U.S. Air Force and now director of NATO's aeronautical research and development program, said plans for aerial launching platforms are still only preliminary. He said the underwater concept is more practical because it is not envisaged before 1960.

Von Karman said Russia's Fly-ing-Sputnik is a weird hovering aircraf—could serve as a prototype for the sky launchers.

The scientist said that missile launching sites would have the advantage of being able to approach close enough to targets to have rockets propelled by solid fuel. These, he said, are much simpler than the elaborate three-stage long distance missiles.

15-MINUTES NOTICE ENOUGH FOR PLANES CARRY H-BOMBS

In Paris, France, Gen. Thoma Power, chief of the Strategic Ai Command of the U. S., reveale that U.S. planes "not armed wit bows and arrows" are in the al at all times and that on 15-min ute notice many other SA planes could load up with hydro gen bombs and head to the ai He was answering statements b Russia's Khrushchev that missile had made airplanes obsolete. Power implied that U. S. bases around the world were well sup plied with hydrogen bombs that would reach their targets.

Record-Setting Jet Flights Show U.S. Air Power

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Air Force today pointed to the record-setting flights of a jet tanker plane as evidence that its far-reaching striking power must not be downrated in this dawning missile age.

The KC-135 jet tanker hops to Buenos Aires and back were part of an apparent USAF demonstration of strength and mobility. There also were distance flights of bombers and fighters far into the Pacific, and a group of B-52 intercontinental jet bombers started on a visit to Argentina.

The Boeing KC-135 and its crew —headed by Gen. Curtis E. Le-May—received special scores from USAF chiefs when it landed here Wednesday after flying 4,904 miles from Buenos Aires in 11 hours, five minutes and eight-tenths minutes. That beat nonstop jet flight between the Argentine capital and Washington was 1,000 miles, an average speed of 469.5 miles an hour.

LeMay, the USAF's vice chief of staff, piloted the KC-135 for much of both trips. He received the Distinguished Flying Cross after his arrival here. Other members of the crew also were decorated.

Mill Workers Strike, Cripple B.C. Industry

VANCOUVER (CP) — Some 6,000 pulp and paper workers in British Columbia went on strike at 8 a.m. today over a wage dispute.

John Sherman of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, said they had tried unsuccessfully to meet the employers "in an effort to avert the strike," and that means all the mills will close down as planned," the two international vice-presidents announced.

The companies, a spokesman said, are ready to renew talks on a conciliation board report which recommended a 6% per cent wage increase. The union, which demanded 13½ per cent, rejected this offer and another suggestion of 8½ per cent made by the union's conciliation board nominee in a minority report.

Basic wage in the industry is $1.72 an hour. The company-approved increase would bring this to $1.85. Average hourly earnings are $2.20, the spokesman said, and would rise to $2.50.

Attacks Of Indigestion— Rheumatic Pain Relieved

Woman Praises Syntona. "Now Nerves Are Calmed Down — Sleep Soundly Once More."

"For a long time I suffered with faulty digestion and Syntona is the first medicine to really help me," said Mrs. Pharilde Vlaene, R.R. 4, Bear Line (near Chatham, Ontario), in a recent report.

Tells Her Experience

"I would get awful attacks of indigestion, gas, and heartburn. Food just seemed to sour in my stomach and cause me misery. I was always run down and many days I felt as though I could not eat a thing. Sleep would not relieve me. I awoken mornings. I was subject to severe headaches.

"More recently pains set into my back and muscles and many days I ached all over.

"I had become discouraged trying one thing and another without getting relief, so you can imagine how pleased I am with the good results I got by taking Syntona. In only a few days I noticed that the aches and pains were relieved and as confidence returned to my digestion, gas, and heartburn disappeared. Now my nerves are calmed down, I eat better, sleep more soundly at night and feel rested when I awaken mornings.

"If you suffer as Mrs. Vlaene did, DON'T DELAY, get to try SYNTONA. It has helped thousands of men and women and can do the same for you.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan the Druggist.

Dog Goes Mad

BRANTFORD (CP) — The society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals appealed Tuesday for information concerning a collie dog which went mad after being hung by a bind leg from a tree for a week.

SPCA officials said the dog was cut down by a man who had heard its howls for a week but did not investigate until the howls became constant.

When cut down "it went berserk" and had to be destroyed, an SPCA inspector said.

"We want to find out who did this. The dog was hung with a wire from a limb with its front paws just touching the ground," he said.

Working on Farm Not as Safe As Believed

CLEVELAND (AP) — Working on a farm is not as safe as commonly believed—even by farmers themselves—the American Public Health Association was told Wednesday.

Richard A. Tjalma, a veterinarian associated with the state university of Iowa, said such statements as "the farm is the safest and healthiest place in the world to live" are quoted frequently in rural areas.

But he commented:

"Although it may be the healthiest, available statistics prove it something other than the safest place to live. The number of farmers killed on the job in 1956 exceeded that of any other single occupational group."

Of a total of 14,200 occupational deaths that year in the U.S., 3,700, or 26 per cent, appeared among farmers, Tjalma said.

THIRD MOST DEADLY

"Assuming there are 5,000,000 farmers out of a work force of 70,000,000 in the United States, we conclude seven per cent of the working population have 26 per cent of the fatal accidents.

"The on-the-job fatal accident rate ranks farming as the third most dangerous occupation; it is preceded only by mining and construction."

He added that the total number of farm injuries reported in 1956 was 1,500,000 and that "tractor accidents alone account for approximately 700 agricultural deaths each year."

One of the problems, he indicated, is that certain farmers "consider safety devices 'sissified' and therefore unacceptable."

"The variety and amount of chemicals in common use on the farm suggests another health hazard," Tjalma said.

He said the University's Institute of Agricultural Medicine is evaluating physical diseases among farmers and other rural individuals in Iowa and plans also a study of rural mental health.

Continued Inflation Seen too High Price to Pay for Full Employment

TORONTO (CP)—There would appear to be something wrong about a system which would penalize 100 per cent of the people in the hope of gaining some benefits for a changing group of say two or three per cent, Graham F. Towers, former governor of the Bank of Canada, said today.

In a speech which challenged the necessity for continuing inflation, Mr. Towers said he believed the lessons of the 1930s would enable governments and central banks to prevent a repetition of the Great Depression provided—but only provided—serious inflationary booms could be avoided.

Mr. Towers, now a director of several financial and business companies, addressed a luncheon of Toronto life underwriters. His remarks were made available to the press in advance of delivery.

FEAR ALTERNATIVE

Mr. Towers said many people felt that the alternative to continued full employment through inflationary measures would be a political swing to the left and that it would be better to accept inflation than to make an abortive attempt to avoid it.

Probably, he commened, massive and continuing unemployment on anything like the scale of the 1930s would produce formidable political reactions.

"But," he asked, "can one assume that the same thing would occur if unemployment rose moderately above the average level of post-war years? Can unemployment go no higher without forcing adopting of policies which impose on everyone the penalties of continuing inflation?"

SAVINGS AT STAKE

Those who had no savings might not attach great importance to a decline in the value of money, but a large and growing number of people had a real stake in the future of the currency.

"They may not yet be an effective fighting force," said Mr. Towers, "but at least the saver or prospective pensioner no longer belongs to the small minority which can easily be forgotten, or which would remain content if an annual two-per-cent rise in prices reduced the value of their savings by a third every 20 years."

Continued inflation, even the so-called creeping inflation, would cause a "run from money," and this would particularly be so if people felt that governments and central banks were displaying tolerance towards inflation, rather than active opposition.

Farmers Take Advantage of Ideal Weather

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario farmers have taken advantage of ideal weather to finish most of their autumn jobs during the last few weeks, says the Ontario agriculture department.

Corn was being harvested in many areas. Turnips were being moved to storage rapidly.

In Brant County 75 per cent of the husking corn had been picked a record for this time of year. Fall plowing was finished.

In Kent County sugar beets and corn were being harvested, with most of the corn high in moisture content. Wheat fields are in top condition.

Recent rains had improved the water supply in other parts of the province previously hit by dry weather.

The Thunder Bay area reported the demand for dairy cows exceeding supply.

Commend Chief For Capture Of Robbers

UXBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — The Canadian Bankers Association has officially commended Police Chief G. L. Chatterley and Constable James Swinton of Uxbridge 17 miles north of Toronto for their capture of two bank robbers July 2.

E. J. Friesen, general manager of the Imperial Bank of Canada and vice-president of the CBA, presided at a ceremony Tuesday night honoring the men.

Mr. Friesen praised Chief Chatterley's courage and skill in following two men into a swamp, exchanging shots with them and capturing them within 10 minutes of their armed holdup of the Uxbridge branch of the Toronto-Dominion Bank.

He also lauded Const. Swinson who aided in the arrests.

Harry Hancox, alias Harold Thompson, is serving two concurrent 12-year terms for the holdup and for holding up the Pickering branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce May 23. David Quigley is serving 12 years. Most of the $5,000 taken at Uxbridge was recovered.

CPA Seeking Traffic Rights In Large Cities

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian Pacific Airlines announced Wednesday it will apply to the air transport board this month for permission to operate a trans-continental mainline route linking Vancouver and Montreal.

CPA chairman W. A. Mather said the application will seek traffic rights at Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton, Saskatoon, Regina, Winnipeg, Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal.

He said the proposed route pattern would "directly duplicate only 10 per cent of the present inter-city services" and would give "a number of the cities concerned . . . more direct as well as more frequent air services."

West Would Add Ten Nations to UN Arms Body

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) The United Nations assembly turned to the thorny disarmament issue today as the West sought to bring Russia back into negotiations by agreeing to add 10 countries to the disarmament commission.

Western delegates hoped to introduce a compromise proposal after the assembly vote on a 24-nation resolution calling for new disarmament negotiations based on the latest Western proposals.

The resolution, which cleared the political committee 57 to 9 last week, was certain of assembly approval.

The compromise plan appeared headed for trouble, however. A Soviet spokesman told a reporter his delegation did not agree with the political makeup of the proposed additions. They include only one Soviet-bloc member—either Poland or Czechoslovakia —and would have pro-Western Tunisia represent the Middle East.

6th Sidney

6th SIDNEY — Maurice Vermilyea, Corbyville, was a Wednesday dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Dafoe.

ALGERIANS CONFIDENT OF VICTORY

Uniformed and equipped with a variety of arms, including a machine-gun, rebels of the Algerian National Liberation front stand guard at Marnie, which the French claim to be under their control. Rebel leaders, who boast that "in another one or two years we'll give you a Dienbienphu in Algeria," welcome foreign newsmen, like the one who made this photo, to their bases, to prove that they are stronger than ever as fighting moves into its fourth year.

CONSERVATION

Ketch's Korner

by the ROVING SECRETARY of the CARLING CONSERVATION CLUB

There has been a good deal of controversey lately, pro and con, relative to reducing the herd of deer in Algonquin Park. Both sides are able to marshal a goodly series of facts to support their claims.

So great is the feeling against hunting the deer, that the original intention of opening hunting in the Park has had to be abandoned, at least temporarily.

Reading reports of the verbal battle, and entering some discussions, gives me a fairly comprehensive understanding of the attitudes some of the combatants have assumed.

Both sides apparently have much to bolster their opinions and, in all probability, have probed every avenue of information to bring support to their cause.

I doubt if anyone who has visited the Park and had contact with the herd as it congregates along the highway, would ever suggest that these deer be destroyed by any means available to man. It is a beautiful sight and has given so much pleasure to so many people that to destroy them is almost unthinkable.

Nevertheless, I doubt that many of those who rise in wrath against any destruction by shooting of the herd never pause to think of how agonizing a death may await these same deer if their population exceeds the amount of food available to them.

It is not difficult to decide to support the claim that these deer are, publicity-wise, one of the Park's most valuable assets. Nor is the fact disputable that grace, beauty and tenderness are personified to a remarkable degree in these animals.

But, and this is a great big but, it is most unlikely that the deer one sees in driving through the Park are those that would be sacrificed. More or less these are tame deer, ones that have been acclimated to the flash of camera bulbs and groups of people passing in motor cars. These animals have learned to assume an appealing pose for the camera fan in the hope of a reward in food.

They do all right during the tourist season but they have a pretty thin time of it during the winter months. This can be best demonstrated by a trip to the park in the early spring and noting the extremely emaciated look of the animals one encounters along the way.

On the other side of the picture, let me point out a couple of facts that may have been overlooked in the haste to rise to the defence of these animals.

For years we all have cried for research by trained mammalogists to provide us with the most advanced information for the protection and preservation of our wildlife.

Now, when these experts in their field offer a remedy for the successful propagation of both animals and the forest which supports them, loud cries against their recommendations are emitted from a sympathetic yet uninformed section of the province.

In addition to these, the future timber resources in the Park must be considered. Without the new growth of young trees, neither the forest nor the inhabitants of the forest can be maintained at a conservation level. My opinion, for what it is worth, is that a new Soloman must emerge to render judgment.

Machen Blows Out Hurricane Trains Sights On Title Bout

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A title fight, low blows and possibilities of retirement, formed boxing topics today after undefeated heavyweight Eddie Machen slammed and battered Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson into surrender.

The 195-pound Machen, a 25-year-old battler from Redding, Calif., wants the championship bout with Floyd Patterson. He has an added talking point since his televised fight with Rackson Wednesday night goes into the record as a 10th-round technical knockout, the same as Patterson scored over Hurricane July 29.

Jackson and manager Lippe Brieghart declared Eddie hit several low blows in taking his 24th straight victory. Machen said he didn't hit below the belt knowingly. Referee Frankie Carter assessed no penalties for low punches.

EYE PUFFED CLOSED

With Jackson's right eye puffed closed at the end of the 10th, Brieghart called Carter over to view the damage and Frankie stopped it. The fight was scheduled for 12 rounds.

"I recommended that the fight be stopped," said Brieghart. Asked if he would have Jackson retire after the two consecutive batterings by Patterson and Machen, Lippe replied:

"He'll have to take a long rest. Retirement is up to him."

The Hurricane, who weighed his heaviest at 201 for this one, had little to say afterwards. Asked what he thought Machen could go against Patterson he said only: "It'd be a good fight. Who'd win? I dunno."

DOWN IN THE FIRST

Jackson went down for a five count in the first round when he took a left and a right to the head. But from then on he remained upright although staggered repeatedly and wincing visibly under Machen's body attack.

"I thought my left hooks to the body and head hurt him the most," Machen declared.

Sid Flaherty, who manages Machen, said: "Our next move is up to Patterson, if he wants to fight us. If Patterson wants to fight Eddie, we're ready to talk business. If not, maybe we'll go to Europe for some bouts."

Cus D'Amato, the champ's manager, long has frowned on Machen as a challenger, claiming a title fight was once offered Machen's handlers and turned down.

Flaherty denies any official offer was made.

Record Favors Eskimos Over Blue Bombers

By BORIS MISKEW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—If statistics mean anything, the defending Canadian champion Edmonton Eskimos should be able to run over Winnipeg Blue Bombers and capture the Western Interprovincial Football Union championship.

Eskimos downed Winnipeg three of the four times the two clubs met in the regular schedule this season. Winnipeg's lone victory was by a mere one-point margin.

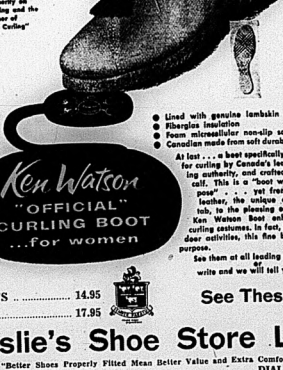
The best-of-three finals open in Winnipeg Saturday. The second game is scheduled for Edmonton Nov. 20, with the third game, if necessary, also at Edmonton, Nov. 23.

TROUNCED STAMPS

The second-place Bombers won the right to meet Edmonton, first-place finishers in the league for the last five years, by trounding Calgary Stampeders 25-16 in the two-game, total-point semi-finals. This will be the fifth time Winnipeg and Edmonton have met for the WIFU championship since 1950. Bombers winning twice.

This season's statistics strongly favor Eskimos. They accounted for eight of the 14 team records broken this year. Bombers were credited with only two new marks—both in the penalty department.

The Edmonton club, which entered the league in 1949, set new marks in total net yards from scrimmage, yards rushing, number of carries rushing, best gain per rush, total first downs, first down rushing, best average passing and most points in one season.



MOST PENALIZED CLUB

Bombers and Eskimos met previously in the western football finals in 1955. Edmonton took the championship in two straight games, defeating Winnipeg 29-6 and 26-0.

In 1954, Eskimos won the series 2-1 after dropping the series to Winnipeg 2-1 the previous season. Edmonton lost the first game of the 1953 finals but squeezed past Winnipeg in the final two games. The 1950 playoff between the two clubs was taken by Winnipeg two games to one.

NEVER SAY DIE IS HER MOTTO

The ball already is in the net—it's a goal for the English team, but the German goalie refuses to admit defeat and, while lying on the ground, she clings to the leg of the British girl who shot the goal. The defeated goalie seems to be either laughing or crying, or maybe a bit of both. The British gals won the ladies' European soccer championship game, 4-0.

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Yummy Mummy, a two-year - old filly owned by W. R. Beasley of Toronto, won the featured $1,600 Purse at New Woodbine Wednesday. Recording her third win of the season, Yummy Mummy beat a field of juveniles by four lengths.

With seven days of racing remaining, Beasley is making a strong bid to head the Canadian list of money - winning owners. Beasley is locked in a three-way battle for top honors. His rivals are E. P. Taylor and the partnership of Conn Smythe and Larkin Maloney.

Yummy Mummy hung little diff iculty in winning Each Last Date hung on stubbornly to finish second. Charm Song was third.

Wonder Horse From Australia To Race in USA

SYDNEY Australia (AP)—Australia's few wonder horse Tulloch, acclaimed greater than the famous Phar Lap, is being readied for a campaign in the United States with the ultimate object a match race against some American champion.

"We hope next year the United States turns up with another outstanding champion like Native Dancer, Swaps or Nashua" said Tommy Smith, Tulloch's trainer today. "Then we could have an international match race which would be a beauty.

Smith, Australia's leading trainer for the last five years, makes no bones about declaring Tulloch the greatest race horse he ever saw.

"I am willing to dig down to my last shilling to back him against any runner in North America or Europe," he says.

INVITED TO TOURNEY

CHICAGO (AP)—Canada's top bowler, Gabriel Bihary of Hamilton, Wednesday was accorded a berth in the $30,000 "world" invitational match game bowling tourney at the Chicago Coliseum, Dec. 4-13.

Bihary, 34, won the Ontario masters singles championship last season and later added the Dominion masters' title.

Kingston Whips Pembroke 8-2; Tied for Top

KINGSTON (CP) — Kingston CKLC's moved into a first place tie with Belleville McFarlands for the second time this season when they defeated Pembroke Lumber Kings 8-2 in an Ontario Hockey Association Senior A eastern division game Wednesday night.

Kingston received excellent goaltending from newcomer Ron Davis, who turned aside 31 of the shots. Plummer Craig of the Pembroke nets, stopped 32 shots.

Don Bellringer scored two for Kingston, Roy Partridge, Bill Colvin, Ken Linesman, Brian Anderson, Don Thompson and Ted Toppazzini scored singles. Jim Farrell and Lionel Barber scored for Pembroke.

Vic Lynn Quits As Coach Sudbury Wolves

SUDBURY (CP)—Vic Lynn, veteran National Hockey League player, has resigned as coach of Sudbury Wolves.

Lynn's resignation came following a meeting with the club executive Wednesday. Wolves currently are in last place in the combined Ontario Hockey Association-NOHA Senior A series.

Jack Gordon, veteran forward and perennial all - star in the league, was signed to coach Tomiuk, 22, is in his sixth season with Wolves.

Wolves president Stan Brunton said Lynn resigned after finding a job of coaching, managing and playing too much for one person to handle. Wolves purchased him from Brandon of the Western Hockey League for $2,500 during off-season.

Wolves had been under fire from members of the Sudbury fans after the team managed to win only three of its first 13 games.

Minor Hockey

Squirt and midget sections of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association opened their 1957-58 season at Memorial Arena last night with seven games being played.

Midget action saw Team Six edge Team Five 5-2, Team Three and Four battle to a 2-2 deadlock and Team One whip Team Two 5-1. The Rangers, the Black Hawks fought to a 1-1 tie in the first squirt affair while Bruins shelled the Red Wings 7-2. Maple Leafs edged the Canadiens 2-1 and the Barons defeated the Browns 2-1.

J. Lewis, M. Hunter and P. Brown scored in Team Six's victory with J. Graham drawing an assist. S. Muirhead and D. Duggan fired the Team Five goals with D. Dafoe and D. Hallam earning assists.

Team Three scorers were B. Morton and L. Hull with B. Spafford helping on one goal. J. Kidder and L. Phillips tallied for Team Four while D. Sinclair and B. Pringle picked up assists.

Bucky Ethier fired two goals in Team One's 5-1 triumph while Terry McCabe had a goal and assist. Paul Zakos and R. Sine also scored while R. Gerthorpe, J. Sheridan and B. Lattimer had single assists. Jack Deuler tripped the lone Team Two marker.

Stephen Thorne of the Hawks and Ross Drysdale of the Rangers traded goals in the squirt tilt. John Scott, Harold Wishart and Joe Brown were the Bruin marksmen with Bob Butler and John Pringle scoring for the Red Wings.

Charges Battle Rages Between Dutchies, Lords

KITCHENER (CP) — Claims and counter-claims flew back and forth Wednesday between Kitchener Waterloo Dutchmen and London Lords, contenders for the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union championship.

President Keith Butler of Dutchmen said Lords have been deliberately conducting a campaign to injure star Dutchmen quarterback Bob Celeri.

Coach Jack Jacobs of Lords denied the statement.

"Celeri is a cry baby," Jacobs said in London. "He protests to the officials every time he gets tackled . . . maybe there should be one set of rules for Celeri and another for the rest of the quarterbacks."

At the same time Jacobs accused Dutchmen of making an all-out effort to maim Lord Star

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"WELL DONE, THOU GOOD . . ."

What probably will be the greatest convention event in the long and honorable "career" of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association takes place in the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, Saturday, when delegates from far-flung spots of the province will gather in conclave.

This association, rated the largest and best of its kind in the world, can well lay claim to the "boast" that its argumentary and debating sessions are the shortest of any sports organization in the country. This, thanks to the splendid administration of a long line of able presidents and efficient executive members.

What marks this year's confab and which will bring tinges of regret to every delegate present and a host of other minor hockey men in the province will be the retirement of President Jack Christie, who for years served as secretary before being honored with the presidency, and who can well bear the title "Mr. Minor Hockey."

Sportswriters, sportscasters, managers, coaches and all and sundry who have anything to do with minor hockey will mark Jack's passing with figurative and in many cases, literal, lumps in the throat. For, to paraphrase a famous historical statement "Never in the history of sport has one man aided so few to help so many."

Jack's guiding hand has been seen in every phase of the growth of the association from its early toddling stage to the husky, lusty manhood it has now reached.

The present healthy condition of the OMHA and the bright future that stretches before it can well be termed a monument to Christie's work as an OMHA official. Nor did he do it alone. Presidents come and go, and in the process of their passing, each and all have proved able, efficient men who have worked hand-in-hand with the secretary to bring the OMHA to its present proud position in the realm of sport.

No man is indispensible, yet somehow or another the OMHA won't be the same without the smiling face of Christie somewhere in the offing. As pal Chick (Stratford Beacon Herald) Agar writes: "He will become the immediate past president and if a suggestion from this humble observer be permitted, it is that Jack be retained in some active advisory capacity by the incoming executive, because he knows all the answers when it comes to minor hockey." Second the motion.

But no club can operate successfully without its retainers. The rank and file of the OMHA from city, town, village, hamlet and community, or wherever organized minor hockey is played, has contributed its share to the success of the OMHA. And thanks to these men behind the scenes, the most of them unheralded and unsung, the OMHA is stretching its tentacles of activity farther and farther beyond the outer fringes of former operation.

These are the coaches, managers and others who assist them. These are the men who love boys and hockey. These are the men who give long hours of work, who strive early and late, often at personal expense, to develop and instill into "Young Hockey Canada" an understanding of and the spirit of good sportsmanship. They know that organized sport under proper jurisdiction leads the value of clean living and thinking, teamwork and co-operation. Under their guidance the youngsters learn that respect for the rules and authority are necessary and desirable if they are to succeed in the sterner game of life.

It is expected some 300 of these men and OMHA officials will gather in Toronto at the convention this week-end to lay plans for yet another successful season.

They will acclaim Jack W. Oakes, of Strathroy, as their new president. They will give rightful accolades to incoming first vice Jack Sibbald, Toronto; second vice Ted Elmes, Galt; third vice George Simmons, Gravenhurst; secretary Gary B. McLeod, Toronto; treasurer Dr. L. Hipwell, Toronto, and registrar Jim Whiston of Scarborough.

Nine will offer their services as members of the executive. These include present members Doug Patterson, Stirling; Albert Watkins, Peterboro; Jim Austin, Stouffville, and Bev Schram, Fort Dover. Newcomers to the lists are George Haskell, Newmarket; Gordon Hawes, Whitby; George Kodatsky, Fort Colborne; Harlan Lea, Stoney Creek and Stan Stokes, London.

A strong delegation from Eastern Ontario is expected to attend. From Belleville will go "Red" Doran, Bill Gault, Mel Richards, Bill Brennan, of the BMHA and others.

Star Cuts Achilles Tendon In 4-2 Win Over Toronto; Rangers, Hawks Play to Tie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Canadiens fattened their lead in the National Hockey League Wednesday night but now face the blank prospect of a month without Maurice (Rocket) Richard.

The Habitants collected two points with a 4-2 victory over the Maple Leafs in Toronto, while New York Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks tied 2-2 in New York.

The draw left New York still four points ahead of third-place Chicago, and now three behind Montreal.

Canadiens paid dearly for their fourth straight victory as the Rocket will probably be out of action for at least a month. He cut the achilles tendon just above his right heel in a fall early in the second period.

MARSHALL OUT TOO

Don Marshall also was injured. Dr. Jim Murray, Toronto team doctor, said Marshall's ankle was probably sprained when he was checked against the end boards by George Armstrong later in the period.

Marshall scored the first goal of the game in the first period, Jean Beliveau made it 2-0 for Montreal early in the second period, and then Toronto got its first goal by Nick Stasiuk.

Canadiens boosted their lead in the third as Andre Pronovost and Marcel Bonin scored. Toronto came back with another goal by Frank Mahovlich just before the period ended.

The work of Montreal goalie Jacques Plante robbed Leafs of several goals.

X-RAYS TODAY

Although Richard's tendon was not severed, 15 to 20 stitches were required to close the gash. He was scheduled for x-rays today in Montreal.

At New York, a low, hard shot by former Ranger Ron Murphy at 6:20 of the third period gave Chicago a draw with Rangers.

Black Hawks trailed from the middle of the second period when Camille Henry put New York into the lead with his ninth goal of the season.

FAST GOAL

Both teams ended the first period with a goal apiece. The first was scored by Rangers' Dean Prentice less than two minutes after the game started. Hawks got their goal five minutes later when Eric Nesterenko whacked home a short drive.

With two minutes left in the game Creighton and Ed Litzenberger swapped punches and touched off a melee in which 10 players from each bench participated.

Chicago has a chance to close the gap behind New York tonight in a game with fourth-place Boston Bruins. No other games are scheduled.

ROCKET RICHARD

TORONTO (CP) — Colorful Maurice (Rocket) Richard may have missed his chance of winning the National Hockey League scoring crown this season — a feat he has never accomplished — through an injury Wednesday night.

The 36-year-old Montreal Canadien right winger slashed the achilles tendon in his right leg after taking a second - period crack at the Toronto Maple Leaf goal.

He was injured as Leafs' defenceman Marc Reaume fell over him near the net.

MAY MISS A MONTH

Toronto team doctor Jim Murray said Richard "received a nasty cut on the Achilles heel, just above the right heel." He estimated the Rocket would miss at least a month of league action, possibly longer.

Before the game—won 4-2 by Canadiens—Richard headed the scorers with 11 goals and 12 assists. But during the game his younger brother, Henri, moved into a tie with an assist. Both have 23 points.

The Rocket, 15 to 20 stitches closing the gash, returned home with Canadiens. Today he was to have x-rays and visit the club doctor, probably to have a cast put over the wound.

MADE FAST START

Dr. Murray said Richard was lucky the tendon was not severed.

Richard this season got off to one of the fastest starts in his 15-year NHL career. He scored his 500th regular season goal a few weeks ago.

One ambition he has failed to realize, in a career splashed through the record books, is NHL scorer's title.

He has twice come within one point of winning it, losing to teammate Bernie Geoffrion in 1954-55 and to Max Bentley of Chicago Black Hawks in 1946-47.

HALF-LENGTH VICTORY

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Motivative Wednesday won the 11th running of the $7,500-added Pimlico Stakes by half a length over Milday Dares as the Maryland Jockey Club opened its 28-day fall meeting. Sew It Up was third.

Smythe Bans Gerry James From Hockey

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs say football player Gerry James can't play hockey with New Westminster Royals in the Western Hockey League or with any other hockey club.

Stafford Smythe, member of the Leafs' management committee, Wednesday night rejected Royals' coach Al Laycoe's request for the services of James during the remainder of the season.

James began playing hockey with Toronto in the National Hockey League in 1955 and was suspended this season for refusing to report to training camp. As a halfback with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, he set records for touchdowns and scoring in the Western Interprovincial Football Union this year.

Smythe said: "James is suspended. He can therefore not play with any other club."

Indians Blank Buffalo 4-0

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Springfield Indians scored a 4-0 shutout over Buffalo Bisons Wednesday night in an American Hockey League game.

It was the first shutout of the season for the Indians with Al Millar doing Stellar work in the Springfield goal.

Bob Bowman, Buddy Boone, Orval Tessier and Al Nicholson were the scorers.

Lindsay Charges Red Wings Bowed to 'Outside Pressures'

NEW YORK (CP) — Hockey star Ted Lindsay says his former Detroit Red Wing teammates bowed to "outside pressures" in booting the National Hockey League Players' Association.

Lindsay, who is president of the association, released a statement Wednesday through the law firm of Lewis and Mound, in connection with the withdrawal of the Red Wing players from the association Tuesday.

"It is obvious that the Detroit players are not free agents, but are being compelled to do and say things," said Lindsay, who was in New York with Chicago Black Hawks for a game against New York Rangers tonight. Lindsay was traded by Detroit to Chicago last summer.

"OUTSIDE PRESSURES"

Lindsay didn't spell out just what he meant by "outside pressures" but association lawyer Milton Mound said that NHL owners are putting the players under "extremely heavy" pressure because of the union-like organization.

The Red Wing players Wednesday took unanimous action in backing out of the association and accused Lindsay and the association of a "complete lack of good faith." Wings also repudiated the association's $3,000,000 anti - trust lawsuit against the league and club owners.

Lindsay's statement countered: "The Detroit players said they were not consulted about the bringing of the anti-trust suit. The truth is that the last meeting of our board of directors was held in Montreal Oct. 4 and that meeting was attended by four of the Detroit players — Alex Delvecchio, Gordie Towe, Red Kelly and Marcel Pronovost.

"The complaint in the lawsuit was circulated and discussed and it was unanimously agreed that the suit would be filed by Oct. 10 unless any director, after consulting with his team, reported they were opposed to it.

"To make doubly sure, every director, including the representative of the Detroit team, was contacted again Oct. 10 by telephone and confirmed his approval before the lawsuit was filed."

Lindsay added: "All of the officers and directors of the NHL Players Association were surprised and keenly disappointed by the action of the Detroit team . . . since then, we have been trying to arrange for the Detroit players to clear up any misunderstanding."

Mound said he would try to arrange a meeting with Wings' players in the near future.

Als' Ground Attack Defeats Riders 24-15

Abbruzzi, Wells, Stone Spark Brilliant Running Offensive Scoring All Lark Touchdowns

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The running attack that Montreal coach Doug Walker boasted about during the regular Big Four Football Union schedule finally bloomed Wednesday night as Alouettes defeated Ottawa Rough Riders 24-15 in the league semi-final playoff.

The victory, before 14,950 spectators, carried Montreal into the Big Four two-game final against Hamilton Tiger-Cats who got the bye into the total-points series by finishing first in the standings. Ottawa was second and Alouettes third.

The final opens Saturday at Montreal with the second game scheduled for Hamilton Nov. 23.

LED THE ATTACK

Alouettes' ground attack, spearheaded by Pat Abbruzzi, Joel Wells and Avatus Stone, gained a total of 291 yards, breaking the Montrealers own league record of 290 yards, established in 1955.

Alouettes' touchdowns were all scored on running plays from inside the Ottawa five by Stone, Wells and Abbruzzi.

Rough Riders line was crippled by injuries that kept tackles Jaye Vaughan and Milt Graham on the bench. They appeared in a few plays and Graham's underpinned homebrew Gilles Archambault, played with the flu and a temperature of 102 degrees.

Montreal went on a 61-yard touchdown march after taking the opening kickoff and never were headed. although Riders, fighting desperately in the last three minutes, even within a touchdown of overtaking them.

HAUNTS OLD TEAM

Montreal's first touchdown was by Stone, an Ottawa castoff who was picked up by Montreal and came back to haunt his old teammates with a terrific all-around performance.

Bill Bewley converted and Stone made it 8-0 at the end of the quarter on a single, Bobby Simpson being rouged on a long punt.

Ottawa made it 8-1 at half time on Ron Gaillian's long punt as Bewley conceded the single.

Quillian and Bobby Judd were the main Ottawa ball carriers, chalking up a total of 305 yards on the ground but fumbles hurt Riders on at least four occasions when they got within scoring distance.

TOOK BIG LEAD

Alouettes went ahead 20-8 in the third quarter, on touchdowns by Wells and Abbruzzi. Wells' TD capped a 49-yard march after a short Ottawa punt, and Abbruzzi's four-yard touchdown run came after Bewley intercepted a pass and ran the ball back 35 yards to Riders' 45.

Judd's touchdown later in the quarter came after Art Powell fumbled on Riders' 30 and combined on a 80 - yard drive. Gary Schrieder converted.

In the fourth quarter, Bewley was credited with a single when Simpson was rouged on a wide field goal attempt.

Riders seemed to take fire late in the game, with quarter Tom Dimitroff hitting George Brancato with a pass for a 51-yard touchdown play. Dimitroff threw from his 27 to Brancato on the Ottawa 49 and the latter raced all the way. Schrieder converted.

KEY INTERCEPTION

Riders threatened again the last minutes of play but Hal Patterson snuffed out a drive with an interception on his 15-yard line and a runback to the Ottawa 25 where a spectator stepped out on the field and threw a block just as the speedy Montreal end seemed on the way to a touchdown.

Referee Harry Bowden penalized Riders half the distance to the goal line, setting up an 11-yard field goal by Bewley in the last minute of play.

Dimitroff had by far a better air attack, scoring on 10 of 25 pass attempts for 227 yards. Sam Etcheverry was successful on eight of 13 tries for 88 yards.

Ottawa moved the first down sticks 27 times to Montreal's 21 times.

Prime Minister Will Attend, Speak at Grey Cup Function

TORONTO (CP) — The Grey Cup dinner Nov. 29 will have an extra glitter when Prime Minister Diefenbaker takes the platform as a guest.

Participation of the prime minister and his wife in the Grey Cup festivities was announced by the dinner committee Wednesday.

The Diefenbakers are in for a busy time.

Marking the first time the active head of government has taken part in the classic since the trophy was first put up for competition in 1909, the prime minister will speak at the eighth annual Cup dinner.

The same night he and his wife are scheduled to attend the Miss Grey Cup beauty contest where Mrs. Diefenbaker will crown the winner. On Saturday the prime minister will make the kickoff.

WILL SPEAK

Carl Cronin, playing coach of Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union from 1935 to 1938 and later a player with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, will share the speaker's platform.

The dinner started as an annual event in 1950 to help the family of a coach who died suddenly. Proceeds have been administered by a board of trustees and more than $30,000 has been spent in help.

Since 1952, the trustees have awarded Canadian Rugby Union plaques to men who have contributed to football.

Five men are to be honored at this year's dinner. They are:

Moe Ekleberman, past president of the Grey Cup champion Edmonton Eskimos and manager of the 1921 Eskimos, first Western challengers for the cup. He joined the club after playing as quarterback with the University of Alberta and was elected president of the WIFU, in the early 1930s.

ACTIVE EXECUTIVE

Dr. E. N. McCusker, Regina, former president and treasurer of Saskatchewan Roughriders and a former president of the RIFU and the CRU.

The late Frank (Ike) Commins, famous Toronto Balmy Beach halfback of the 1930s who was president of the Ontario Rugby Football Union at his death this year.

C. M. D. Kinsella of Toronto, long-time Toronto Argonaut executive and former president of the CRU and Big Four Football Union.

Col. D. Stuart Forbes of Montreal, former director of athletics at McGill University and a former president of the CRU and of the International Intercollegiate Hockey League.

Booster Club Membership Now Exceeds 1,000

Dick Beare, president of the McFarland Booster Club, announced at last night's meeting that there are now 1008 paid up members of the club "and our goal is 1200 by Christmas."

Secretary Bob Temple also announced that 160 tickets for the Kingston-Brussels game of December 3 have been obtained by the Mac Booster Club. These tickets may be purchased from Secretary Temple on a first-come, first-served basis to club members only. The tickets are selling for $1.75 and $1.25.

The tickets for the "Christmas Cheer" draw, being run by the Booster Club are now available. Tickets can be obtained at the Front Street stores of Jack Diamond and Don Stanton.

Booster Club member Newt Wilmot has announced that he will present a shirt each week as a "player of the week" award. The player will be chosen by a press box panel, the first award winner to be named at tomorrow night's game here against the Whitby Dunlops.

AT THE BELLE — Leader Jon Hall heads an expedition into deepest Africa in "Phantom of the Jungle," co-starring Cornell Borchers. Cagney Says Kids Were Tough In His Day But Not Organized

By BOB THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP)—James Cagney, flanked by two New York policemen, walked to the end of Pier 17 through a crowd of tough longshoremen.

The workers greeted him warmly, shouting comments to calm. He answered them back in kind, and they were delighted. It was obvious that they accepted him as one of their kind.

Cagney was reporting for a scene in his new movie, Never Steal Anything Small, which was filming near the Brooklyn Bridge. It's a musical satire in which he plays a tough guy who sings his way to control of a corrupt labor union.

When we did his campaign interview before the rugged-looking audience on the wind-swept pier —some actors, some not—he was immensely convincing. James Cagney, ex-hoofer, an actor who has earned millions, still could act the mug.

"That's what growing up in this town did for me," Jimmy said as he sat in the shelter of a truck and surveyed the skyline of New York. "Imagine me trying to play a tough guy if I hadn't been brought up in a tough part of town! Believe me, it has paid off well over the years."

SCENES OF BOYHOOD

Being back in the scenes of his boyhood prompted some nostalgia in his part. He talked about his early days around 79th Street on the east side.

"Sure, the kids were tough in those days," he said. "They used blackjacks and knives then, too. But there didn't seem to be the organization that there is today. We traveled in packs, but every guy was fundamentally a freelancer.

"Today, the kid gangs seem to have taken a note from the mobs in organizing and demanding protection money and that sort of thing. It's vicious."

Was Jimmy ever in trouble with the police?

"Oh, the Cagney boys never got a chance to," he said. "We were always working too hard at our job. Besides, we had a mother who kept drumming into us the idea of education, education, education."

Jordan's King Assails Syrian, Egyptian Rulers

AMMAN, Jordan (Reuters)—King Hussein says the defence treaty Jordan signed with Egypt and Syria last February provided for subsidy payments to bolster the Jordanian economy "is not worth the paper it is written on."

The king delivered scathing indictments of the rulers of Egypt and Syria at a press conference Wednesday night on the eve of his 22nd birthday. He said they are "tools of international communism whose attempts to overthrow him only served to unite the Jordanian people.

Egyptian and Syrian newspapers and radios have recently stepped up their scurrilous criticism of British-created Jordan.

Hussein claimed his enemies have tried to oust him from his throne since last April. They tried everything, including lies, rumors and money to foment trouble, he added. But all this did was to unite the people behind the government.

COMMUNIST TOOLS

The king said: "Neither the Egyptian nor the Syrian people are Communists.

"But, unfortunately, there are some opportunists who have taken control and they are definitely tools of international communism and I doubt if they will last a long time."

The object of the propaganda campaign against Jordan, he added, is "to spread Communist authority in this part of the world."

Hussein claimed it is clear that Egypt and Syria do not intend to supply Jordan financial aid to replace the annual subsidy formerly received from Britain. The money is used primarily to support the Arab Legion.

"The agreement is not worth the paper it is written on," he said.

The king said that so far Jordan has no definite plan to seven diplomatic relations with Egypt and Syria. He outlined his country's course as one of positive neutrality. This means no participation in any form of military agreements or pacts.

In London, The Daily Telegraph says that if Iraq and Saudi Arabia fail to rally to Hussein Egypt and Syria will redouble their efforts to "fire" a revolution in Jordan.

"How acute the danger has become is shown by King Hussein's personal intervention in the campaign which Egypt and Syria have launched against him."

ANGRY AT IKE

BASTROP, La. (AP) — Residents along Eisenhower Drive in this northeast Louisiana paper mill town of 17,000 wanted the name of their street changed, and they got action. The city council Wednesday changed it to Cullen Drive, for the late R. J. Cullen, who founded the paper industry here and later became president of the International Paper Company. The residents were irked at Eisenhower's action in sending troops into Little Rock, Ark., during the integration flareup.

Tony Bennett, at Top of Field, Does Not Want TV Program

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—In a season when every singer wants his own television program—and nearly everyone has a show—Tony Bennett is an exception. He doesn't want his own program—yet.

All jazzophiles know Bennett. Hit records, a popular night club act, frequent guest appearances on TV . . . Bennett's away at the top in his field. He's a pleasant, modest, articulate guy who reminds you of Perry Como before he absolutely everybody knew Como.

Here's what we mean: Three of Bennett's friends, seated around him the other day, were telling a fellow that Bennett had turned down several offers for his own show when Bennett said:

TRY

"Look, don't give the impression that the networks were clubbing each other over the head to get me. There was an opportunity and if I'd tried hard for it maybe I'd have got it, but I didn't want my own show."

That's interesting. Why not?

"I'm not ready for it yet, feel," Bennett said. "I have a lot to learn. You might say I'm trying to study television, and there's no better opportunity to do that than appearing in guest spots.

Sunday evening, for example, he will appear on the Ed Sullivan Show (CBS-TV, 8 p.m. EST). Last Sunday he appeared on the Steve Allen Show (NBC-TV, 8 p.m. EST). He's been a frequent Como guest.

"It may be two or three years before I'm ready for my own show," Bennett said. "I don't want to go on just as a name after a network has given me something to do. That just doesn't work out."

SAYS REDS WERE SPIES

LONDON (AP) — Sir David Kelly, former British ambassador to Moscow, charged Wednesday that waves of Soviet trade delegations sent in 1955-56 under the guise of seeking business and if I'd tried hard for it were industrial spies. Kelly, chairman of the British Council, a semi - official group that promotes cultural relations with foreign countries, made the statement in an annual report.

MISSILE NOSE WITHSTANDS HEAT

The nose cone of the IRBM (intermediate range ballistic missile) with its parachute still attached, is recovered from the water after a successful U.S. test of the problem of air-friction heating. The nose cone was mounted on a three stage rocket and fired to an altitude of 250 miles and to a distance of 1,200 miles. In its final phase the nose cone plunged into the target area at a speed of 14 times that of sound. Navy ships recovered the model nose within a few hours. The Jupiter-C has been readied to launch the army's satellite.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

(Author of the new "Astrology and You")

Thursday, November 14, 1957

"The Stars impel . . . They do not compel! What you make of your life is largely up to you."

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Be less preoccupied today with the material problems connected with job and possessions, and show more friendliness, willingness to co-operate in worthwhile endeavors. This will gain you much for the future.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Keep away from irate, difficult associate who is terribly angry about some situation over which you have no control. Just be sure you are ethically right, and don't go on how to expand, and quickly.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Take particular care on the road today. Or, other than that, the day is fine for coming to better meeting of minds with associates, setting up better working plans close to home, job, friends, et al.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — Wilfully venting your anger on someone you love, or spending money foolishly today would be very unwise. Change your attitude to one of sweetness and light and you will gain instead of lose what is closest to your heart.

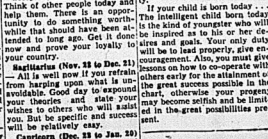
Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — Go away from home as quickly as possible this day. Keep your thoughts elevated, and the fine things of the world are within easy grasp. Wear most apparel, be the soul of sociability and state your wishes kindly.

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 23) — Step out of the very limited sphere in which you usually operate today and mingle with highly successful and sparkling personalities. They will aid you materially. Drive carefully. Help those in real need.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 22) — You are tempted to be extravagant with money on unnecessary things today. Instead, save for the future. Be altruistic and fair.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Think of other people today and help them. There is an opportunity to do something worthwhile that should have been attended to long ago. Get it done now and prove your loyalty to your country.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — All is well now if you refrain from harping upon what is unavoidable. Good day to expound your theories and state your wishes to others who will assist you. But be specific and success will be relatively easy.



Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Try to get away from that pal who is ever at complicated schemes, endeavoring to use his or her willpower over yours. Either be by yourself or with true friend and make good plans.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Though the proven pal of longtime standing doesn't appear to have a sparkling personality, it behooves you to seek his or her advice today. Then you can put wise ideas in motion quickly, let others know of them.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — There is a great deal of labor awaiting your attention, and now is the time to get it done instead of rushing off to some unproven activity. Also fine for giving your environment the added touches that will enhance beauty.

If your child is born today . . . The intelligent child born today is the kind of youngster who will be inspired as to his or her ideals and goals. Your only duty will be to lead properly, give encouragement. Also, you must give lessons on how to co-operate with others early for the attainment of the great success possible in the chart, otherwise your progeny may become selfish and be limited in the great possibilities present.

CLERK'S NOTICE

CLERK'S NOTICE OF FIRST POSTING OF VOTERS' LISTS VOTERS' LISTS 1967
MUNICIPALITY OF TOWNSHIP OF HUNTINGDON
COUNTY OF HASTINGS

Notice is hereby given that I have compiled with Section 9 of the Voters' Lists Act, and that I have posted up at my residence at Halloway, R. R. 2, on the 14th day of November, 1967, a list of all persons entitled to vote in the Municipality at Municipal Elections and that such list remain there for inspection.

And I hereby call upon voters to take immediate proceedings to have errors—if any—corrected forthwith according to law. The last day for appeal being the 24th day of November, 1967.

Dated this 11th day of November, 1967.

W. J. C. WRIGHT, Clerk,
Township of Huntingdon. N14-2t

NOTICE

TOWNSHIP OF THURLOW

In the matter of The Municipal Act, and in the matter of the proposed By-law of the Corporation of Township of Thurlow, to authorize the Corporation to construct certain drainage works as a local improvement and to borrow on the credit of the Corporation the amount necessary therefor.

Notice is hereby given that the Council intends to pass the above mentioned By-law on the 21st day of November, 1967, at 1.00 p.m., at the Council Chambers, Foxboro, and that the road allowance between Con. 8 and 9 in the said Township is described as follows:

That portion of unopened road allowance between Concessions 8 and 9 in the Township of Thurlow lying easterly from Highway No. 37 a distance of approximately 2,640 ft. measured along the northerly boundary of the said unopened road allowance, and a distance of approximately 2,640 ft. measured along the southerly boundary of the said unopened road allowance, both measurements extending from the westerly boundary of Lot 24 in Concession 8 to the Bay of Quinte.

AND FURTHER TAKE NOTICE that before the said By-law is finally passed it will be held to be necessary to make the above mentioned, the Council of the Corporation of the Township of Thurlow shall then and there hear and receive such representations as may be made by any person interested in the said By-law and who applies to be heard.

Dated at Foxboro, this 2nd day of November, 1967.

H. DAFOE,
Clerk, Township of Thurlow

Remembrance Service Held at Stirling

STIRLING — The Remembrance Day service was held on Monday November 11th at the Community Hall. Douglas Patterson in charge of the ceremony of laying the wreaths.

Those in attendance besides the citizens of the district were members of Stirling and Rawdon Councils, Legion members, Girl Guides, Brownies, Boy Scouts and Cubs.

Rotary, O.D.D.E. and Fraternal groups were all represented. Stirling District Band provided the music and the ministers of the village assisted with the service.

Later a group of folk made their way to the Cenotaph at Harold where wreaths were laid and a short service held in honor of the Rawdon boys whose names are inscribed on the cenotaph.

Mrs. S. J. Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barrons of Rawdon Township, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Elliott attended the funeral of Mrs. Richard Townsend on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. George Heasman entertained the Young Ladies Bible Classers at a girls club and the girls made muffins as part of their cooking assignment.

Rev. A. S. McConnell, Belleville, gave a address on the Remembrance Day at the regular meeting of the Rotary Club.

Douglas Rose, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kane, Stirling R. R. 1 and a student at Queen's University has recently took part in a selling competition and won a scholarship and a large list of students worked in co-operation with their employers and have provided with up-to-date equipment for the presentation of films.

Mrs. Gordon Carlisle spent a few days last weekend in Toronto and attended the annual meeting of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, at the King Edward Hotel.

BIG SPENDING

Mr. Diefenbaker also said Wednesday that Canada will play a more responsible role in development of further defensive measures against the menace of nuclear submarine, including new long-range detection techniques and improved methods of killing undersea craft.

PEARSON INQUIRES

Hon. L. B. Pearson, former external affairs minister, resumed opposition questioning concerning establishment of a new Canada-U.S. air defence command headquarters at Colorado Springs Colo.

Mr. Diefenbaker said events leading to the establishment should be known by Mr. Pearson because they occurred while the Liberals were in office.

He said former defence ministers Pearson approved establishment of the command last February but in reply to questions said that Canada could not give its formal approval until June 15 — five days after the general election—because it might become a political issue.

Mr. Pearson said Mr. Campney might have approved setting up of the command but that neither the cabinet nor cabinet defence committee had considered it and therefore could not have been approved by the government.

"Miss Brown, put Saidley down for a ten dollar week raise, and when you have time bring in some smelling salts."

TALE OF ROCKET

After the USAF explained about the bears, there was a request a pig had died in a demonstration. The story was that it had been fastened in a catapult-like sled and sent down a track to a violent stop such as a human might undergo in a head-on auto collision. It was to show automakers how safety devices can save lives in accidents.

Col. John P. Stapp, chief of the Aero Medical laboratory at Holloman and himself a recent "human guinea pig," gave assurance that most of the risk is still being taken by men. There was no dead pig.

Which leads to another jingle: Last night I saw upon a shelf,
A pig that was much dead.
He wasn't dead again today.
gosh, I wish that he'd drop . . .

POINT ANNE

Canada Cement Club Holds Banquet

POINT ANNE — The annual banquet of the Twenty-Five Year Club of the Canada Cement employees, their wives and friends, was held in the Point Anne club house on Tuesday evening, with all tables being filled.

J. H. Legate acted as chairman for the occasion and Fred Clark gave the invocation before the dinner. The tables were beautifully decorated with yellow mums and many varieties of foliage to match.

After dinner Mr. Legate asked all present to observe two minutes silence in memory of those who have passed away. The ladies were then presented with lovely, silver mesh purses and the men with cigars and cigarettes. Mr. Legate then called on Dr. S. Dryshek, superintendent of the plant, to read the many telegrams received from other plants from coast to coast.

Those present from other plants were J. M. Howe, vice-president and sales manager of the Canada Cement Company, from Montreal; G. A. Grant, vice-president and sales manager of the Canada Cement Company, Toronto; Taylor Kennedy, superintendent of plant No. 1, Montreal and several other members of the plant were present.

Mr. Legate then extended a vote of thanks to Mrs. Buchanan and her helpers for the lovely dinner served.

The remainder of the evening was spent in renewing old acquaintances.

DRILL STUCK IN LUNG

Reds Announce Space Dog Died Painless Death

Suffocated When Oxygen Gear Stopped Working

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet scientist announced today that Laika, the dog in Sputnik II, suffocated when the oxygen regenerative equipment aboard the earth satellite stopped working.

The scientist, Ahmet Pokrovsky, told a press conference there never had been any plan to bring Laika back to earth. He said she died painlessly of oxygen deficiency when equipment designed to regenerate oxygen had completed its program.

There has been speculation that Laika died of a drug or poison administered with her last food. There also had been speculation that the Russians intended to bring her back to earth; and even one report here that she had been parachuted back.

Tass's press conference apparently was intended to set at rest all this speculation about the dog living thing to get into outer space.

Soviet scientists said.

1. The Russians have not solved the problem of shielding man from the earth's atmosphere.

2. The Russians will launch several real moon rockets.

3. They eventually plan to send a rocket to the moon.

4. They are working on a new super-fuel to power future rockets and Sputniks.

The scientists would not say what fuel was used for their first two Sputniks but maintained the same fuel was used for both.

They said the Soviet Union is in advance notice of future Soviet launchings.

Seven Soviet scientists, headed by academicians Ivan P. Bardin, Anatoli Blagonravov, Pavel Dukhov and Eugene Fedorov, spoke. The three-hour affair was attended by 200 Communist and Western reporters and photographers.

They said that the Soviet space flight has no unsuccessful launchings. It is said Sputniks were placed in orbits on the first attempt—Sputnik I on Oct. 4, Sputnik II on Nov. 3.

Expanding on the Sputnik research problem, Fedorov said scientists would have to be several more launchings with animals before the first human space flight was attempted.

"We must first solve the problem of returning animals safely to earth before we can risk his life and life," he said, and added the problem of successful re-entry is still very complex.

(There was no hint whether his remarks also applied to re-entry of the ICBM nose cone. Some Western scientists have expressed doubt the Russians have solved that problem either. Objects re-entering the earth's atmosphere tend to catch fire from the friction.)

In answer to another question, Blagonravov said the Russians expect future satellites to attain greater speeds and to go orbits "which will include the moon as well as the earth." He said calculations for such flights are now being worked out.

Married Women Placed on Same Footing as Men

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Starr today announced the end of an unemployment insurance regulation which, he said, had "seventeen years of discrimination" against married women.

From the start of next month, he told an applauding Commons the married women in the labor force "will be on exactly the same footing as all other claimants" for unemployment insurance.

The regulation being revoked required that any woman claiming insurance benefits within two years after her marriage had to have made 10 weekly contributions to the insurance fund. Further, if she was working at the time of her marriage, those 10 weeks of contributions had to be made following her first separation from her marriage-time job.

Mr. Starr said the government's action will extend insurance coverage to some 12,000 married women now barred from benefits by the regulation.

CITES BACKGROUND

He said that when the regulation was adopted in 1950 it was argued that many newly-married women who had ceased to depend entirely on their own earnings were nevertheless supporting themselves as seeking work for the purpose of getting unemployment insurance payments.

"I have always felt that this was a highly dangerous argument, since it implied that one knew . . . what was in another person's mind."

It had also been suggested, in defence of the regulation, that married women were making more claims for insurance, proportionately, than single women or men.

"This again was a dangerous argument since it involved casting the shadow of suspicion on an entire class—numbering in the hundreds of thousands—because it was held, though it couldn't be proved, that there was chicanery on the part of a few."

Body of Hunter Found in Bush Near Pembroke

PEMBROKE (CP) — The body of a hunter from the South Renfrew area was found today in a bush near Stonecliffe, Ont., 60 miles west of here. The man's name was withheld.

Police were called by residents of the community, who said a dog had been left unattended since last Sunday in the cab of a truck. They followed footprints into the bush and found the body near the remnants of two deer.

Police said they believe the man had suffered a heart attack while hunting.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Today's weather in southern regions will be windy and turning cooler with a few scattered showers. A storm centre is moving through central Ontario this morning causing strong winds over the entire province. Rain continues to fall in the path of the storm which is still moving northeastward, while cold air moving in behind the storm is causing moderate to heavy snow in regions north of Lake Superior.

FINANCE MINISTER SAYS PC'S HAVE DONE MUCH GOOD

Claims Inflation Threat Now Has Been Checked

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Donald Fleming, in the face of vigorous Liberal and CCF attacks, says the Progressive Conservatives have done more for the people of Canada in five months than any previous government.

In a Commons speech Thursday night, he also had some reassuring words about the Canadian economy.

"The threat of inflation in Canada has been checked," Mr. Fleming declared.

His speech was a reply to Deputy Leader Stanley Knowles (Winnipeg — North Centre), who earlier had called the Conservative administration "a bitsy-boppy government without purpose, without a purpose, without a purpose, without a

CITY and DISTRICT NEWS

THREE CALLS KEEP FIREMEN BUSY

Two overheated stoves and an overheated chimney kept city firemen on the go last night and early today. No damage was reported.

One of the overheated stoves was at a vacant dwelling on the concession of Sidney and the other in Foxboro. The chimney run was to a Station street residence.

Seeks Shelter At Police Dep't., Faces Charge

Bernard Kirley, 40, Belleville district man, said to have left the scene of an accident on Dundas street after kicking a local taxi man in the shins and then eluding police, came to the city police station Thursday afternoon seeking shelter for the night.

The man's request was granted and police said he would face a charge of assault against Sidney Welch, local taxi driver.

Kirley's car was said to have struck the taxi in the rear after it had been stopped by a construction firm flagman on Dundas street.

Mrs. R. Baptiste Of Baptiste Lake Burned to Death

BANCROFT (Special) — Mrs. Rosetta Baptiste, 58, of Baptiste Lake, 12 miles northwest of here was burned to death early this morning when the log home in which she and her husband lived burned to the ground.

Her husband, Samuel Baptiste, 84, suffered burns about the hands and face, but was able to escape from the burning house.

The blaze was noticed shortly after four o'clock this morning by Mrs. Raymond Lush, from her home across the lake in Baptiste village. Mrs. Lush notified provincial police at Bancroft and Constable Leonard Phillips is investigating.

Details of the fire were lacking at press time as the investigating officer was away from his police cruiser and there is no nearby telephone.

The officer went to the scene of the fire by crossing Baptiste Lake from the village.

Mr. Baptiste was said to have been taken to the home of his son, Jackie, who lives nearby on the same side of the lake.

Natural Gas Company Man Is Target of Questions at Commerce Chamber Lunch

Representatives of the Lakeland Natural Gas Company were among the guests Thursday at a Chamber of Commerce "get acquainted" luncheon in the Knights of Columbus hall.

Mr. Lowe was the target of a number or questions put to him by Chamber members.

Mr. Lowe said that fall was the "wrong time of the year" to start selling natural gas in the city to lay natural gas pipe lines but "several factors" entered into the picture making it necessary to start the job then.

John Trafford, Underwood Ltd., asked if the pipe line would be laid on every street in Belleville.

Mr. Lowe replied: "We hope so. We're in this to make a little profit, you know."

The natural gas company representative told Mr. Trafford, that if pipe is laid on all streets but "several factors" entered into the picture making it necessary to start the job then.

Harold Seldon, proprietor of Seldon's Drug Store, referred to the few explosions in natural gas lines in Western Canada and asked Mr. Lowe what insurance in the event of a similar explosion along Front Street, the gas company has to pay for damages, since ordinary fire insurance does not cover an explosion that rips off the front of a store.

Mr. Lowe said: "You are well covered."

SAYS DITCH UNMARKED

Mr. Seldon was "amazed" to have seen along Dundas St. East a deep ditch left unmarked at night. He was also curious to know why a few bad bumps on Dundas have not been repaired.

Mr. Lowe replied that he was not aware of any ditch being left unmarked and said, "it certainly hope it won't happen again." But as for the bumps, he said the city has instructed contractors to fill all ditches, lamp them solid and pour concrete to put streets back in normal shape. However, Mr. Lowe believed this order was a mistake because workmen will only have to tear the streets up again this winter or next spring to lay feeder lines into the various buildings that will use natural gas.

Ben Cork, chairman of the retail section of the Chamber of Commerce, commended workmen on their "speed and efficiency" in laying pipe along Front St. in the face of "several problems."

Mr. Lowe said that no more digging will be done along Front St. after November 15, because of the expected Christmas shopping rush.

Chamber of Commerce secretary Robert G. Hamilton introduced a new film issued by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce entitled "The Story of Creative Capital," which, with the assistance of animated characters, showed that anyone who invests his savings wisely contributes to his country's economic success and thus improves his own position as householder, citizen and investor. Bill Barnett, of Eaton's, was the projectionist.

Prior to the luncheon, A. O. Drysdale, president of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, outlined the projects on which the chamber had embarked last January.

Remarks heard after the meeting indicated that the "get-acquainted" type of luncheon meeting well-received by members. Many blasted such luncheons should be held more frequently.

Mrs. O'Donohue Committed to Mental Hospital

TORONTO (CP) — Crown Attorney W. O. Gibson said Thursday Mrs. Maureen O'Donohue, 37, has been committed to the Ontario mental hospital at Whitby.

Mrs. O'Donohue was arrested Monday after her four children were found hanging in the basement of their suburban Leaside home. Three were dead. The fourth has recovered.

She will remain in the hospital until declared fit to stand trial, Mr. Gibson said. She has been charged with murder.

He said two psychiatrists had examined Mrs. O'Donohue and found her in need of mental treatment.

Community Chest Campaign Opens Early Next Week

Only two days to go! ... Toronto couldn't do it this year.

Belleville can.

There are only two days left before an army of volunteer canvassers embark on a week-long bid to collect $35,000 for the Community Chest.

The $35,000 goes to Ambulance, Children's Aid Society, Navy League, Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, YMCA, Boy Scouts and Victorian Order of Nurses will benefit from your contribution.

Once a year they band together and ask you to give generous assistance.

The 1956 appeal fell several thousand dollars short of the $35,000 objective. Will that happen this year?

Next week, Monday through Saturday, is Community Chest week in Belleville. Please remember that when you go shopping today or Saturday.

Police Blotter

A rear door was found forced and a broken electric iron was found at the base of a step apparently dropped when the thief made good his escape.

An out-of-door motorist lost a jacket, pair of trousers and shirt from his car while it was parked on Front street. The clothing disappeared several days ago but was reported only yesterday.

Police said the clothing was found in the suites of William H. Mitchell, Ottawa, who had been arrested on a drunk charge.

And a Napanee man, Clayton VanAlstine, suffered a bruised knee when he was struck by a car at the upper bridge. Ross Thompson, Marmora, making a left turn after crossing the bridge, said he failed to see VanAlstine who was working as a flagman for a construction company.

Financial Drive For $50,000 To Be Started

At last night's meeting of the Board of Governors of Ontario Homes for Mentally Retarded Infants, Inc., Mrs. Jessie Dawson, was elected chairman of the membership committee.

A membership drive will be launched immediately and assistance was assumed by many members of the Board.

The Bahiel Convalescent Home is now operated by the OHMRI and all land, buildings and equipment have been officially transferred to the new non-profit corporation. The Fire Marshal's office inspected the premises yesterday, to facilitate compliance with the Charitable Institutions Act 1956.

A financial drive for $50,000, will get under way in the very near future and assistance from the present membership will be invited to help carry the deficit until the financial drive will be an accomplished fact. Bowerman's W. A. sent a donation of $10. from the Hallowe'en party fund off. The Crofton W. A. sent a donation of sleeping bags for the latter children.

Mr. George Tripp, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia is honorary treasurer and with Lorne McDougall and D. Lunn, chairman, form the Finance Committee, form the trusteeship for incoming finances, from donations.

A resolution was passed to employ the services of a local accountant as auditor of the OHMRI.

WELL OFF, DIES ALONE

BALTIMORE (AP)—Neighbors thought 60-year-old Emilian Kimlek was destitute. Police found him dead Thursday night in a second-floor room where he lived alone. They discovered nearly $2,000 in cash, 21 government bonds worth $25 each and bank books showing deposits of $18,938.01.

START SCIENCE DRIVE

NEW YORK (AP)—The city board of education has authorized a new bureau of science and mathematics instruction. The board also instructed the superintendent of schools to begin immediate studies aimed at establishing the need for additional science high schools.

Obituary

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market surged ahead in heavier morning trading.

Wall Street opened strongly and gave an optimistic leadership to the market but industrials gained more than 4¼ points on index; base metals climbed nearly 2½ points. Western oils were ahead two points and golds one-half point on index.

Sales at 11 a.m. totalled 551,000 shares compared with 355,000 at the same time Thursday.

Page-Hersey Tubes had the best gain among industrials, up 3⅝ points to 105. Trans Mountain jumped 3¼ points to 65¼ and a dozen other key stocks gained at least a point. There were few losses and these were fractional.

Base metals were strong. International Nickel, tradeless-declined, jumped three points to 74⅛ while Hudson Bay and Falconbridge gained at least a point.

Pacific Pete and Home Oil A were among the higher-priced oils. Several other stocks had major fractional gains.

Taxi Driver Hurt When Car Hits CNR Locomotive

TRENTON (Special) — A Trenton taxi driver escaped serious injury yesterday when the car he was driving was in collision with a CNR steam locomotive at the Wragg Street crossing at the south end of town.

Joseph Regan, 27, of Spring Street was rushed to the Trenton Memorial Hospital suffering abrasions and other injuries. His condition was not regarded as serious, although he was kept in hospital under observation during the night.

The train engine southbound toward the centre of the town was noticed by the driver seconds before it reached the crossing. The taxi driver in making application of his brakes caused the car to skid directly in the path of the oncoming locomotive. Then when he tried to jump to safety he was thrown under the car, which was knocked to the side of the tracks a distance of 29 feet from the point of impact. Regan was moved to the hospital by Weaver ambulance. He is under the care of Dr. W. A. L. McDonald.

Estimated damage to the taxi was $200. The investigation was carried out by Constable Bruce Westfall.

Labor Congress Backs Seafarers In CNS Struggle

MONTREAL (CP)—The powerful Canadian Labor Congress has lined up its weight behind the striking Seafarers' International Union in its fight to keep eight Canadian freighters from sailing under a foreign flag.

The CLC pledge, representing 1,100,000 members, was made Thursday by CLC President Claude Jodoin in a hotel-room meeting with SIU director Hal C. Banks.

The eight Canadian National Steamships vessels, tied on the Canada - Caribbean run, have been tied up since the SIU called its members out on strike to back demands for a 20-per-cent wage increase.

The CNS told the striking seamen that if they rejected a 15-per-cent increase which they said—then the ships would be removed from Canadian registry and transferred to Trinidad.

U.S. DEMOCRATS

Davies pointed out that France had never brought up this matter to any of the regular weekly meetings of the NATO council and consequently it appeared France was on weak grounds to say the Anglo-American move was breached Atlantic solidarity.

Harsh words accompanied the French walkout from the first country NATO assembly. Pierre Schneiter, chairman of the French delegation, said it would no longer take part in the cooand unwarranted" decision to the National Assembly later today on the full history of the countries during the last two months.

HITS DECISION

Foreign Minister Christian Pineau called the decision by London and Washington to supply Tunisia with arms contrary to the conception of Atlantic solidarity.

A source close to Gaillard said there did not seem much that France could do to stop the shipments but if French soldiers found any British or American weapons in Algeria we will collect them and ship them back to London and Washington."

SEE PRESSURE

Some French diplomats said that Britain was already under pressure from Tunisian affair by pressure from Washington during Macmillan's recent conference with Eisenhower.

A senior French diplomat who refused to be quoted, had this to say:

The American attitude in Tunisia really means that the state department is trying to make France as a North African power. But the state department knows it is useless to try and get driven out of Algeria we shall by an inevitable revulsion of public opinion also be driven out of the Atlantic alliance."

Major Paris newspapers today blasted the British-American action. From right to left there was not a single dissenting voice, and most of the attacks singled out the United States with Britain mentioned only incidentally.

Willie Mays Buys $37,500 Home in All-White Area

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie Mays, the San Francisco Giants' great Negro outfielder, has a home in exclusive, all-white residential area here—but only after overcoming objections of some of his neighbors-to-be.

"Man, I'm glad this is over," Willie said as he and his wife closed the deal for the $37,500 home overlooks the Pacific and adjoins exclusive St. Francis Wood in the western San Francisco hills.

Earlier, pressure from certain neighbors, despite efforts of civic officials, made it appear that Mays and his wife, Marghurite, would be defeated again in their second attempt to buy a home here.

Walter A. Gosedillof, the owner who finally sold, told The Associated Press, "I had several other offers, but Willie's was the first and I decided to do with it. I couldn't take the commission."

It would have been $1,100.

Mayor George Christopher said he was relieved because "the reputation of San Francisco, always renowned as a cosmopolitan city of brotherly understanding, was at stake."

Mayor Mays continued, "I am happy that our true metle has been shown for all the world to see."

Willie took the dispute calmly but has lashed out at the "concealed prejudice in northern and western cities which professes to be relatively free of such things."

Willie and Mrs. Mays will leave for New York this weekend to sell their plush apartment house-home there. In January they will move into their new home in San Francisco.

MUST SUPPLY WATER

CHICAGO (AP) — A judge Thursday told the village of Maywood to supply water to a Negro family until the court settles the question of whether the water was turned off because they are Negroes. The suit brought by Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Carmichael, two leaders of the suburban community denied them water because of their race.

EVIDENCE OF FIRE

Removing the shoes is routine pre-ditching practice for planes at sea.

Asked why the big plane, Honolulu-bound from San Francisco, had sent no radio call after a routine position report at 5:04 p.m., Macdiarmid said:

"So many things could have caused it, it's foolish to conjecture."

He said there have been cases where planes have "tried to land themselves" after their crews have been knocked out in action but that this seemed "highly unlikely" in this instance.

THREE POSSIBLES

An navy officer who has been participating in the search said there could be three reasons why the plane sent no distress signal. "That's the big mystery," said the officer.

He said there could have been a fire, a propellor could have let go or the crew members have hit the plane.

He considered the loose propellor the likeliest cause. He said a propeller once came through the fuselage of a right-angled turn and sliced through the entire plane, knocking out all communications.

The bodies were found 88 miles north of the plane's course to Honolulu. The navy said this was due to natural drift and the time lapse between the time the bodies have risen to the surface. If the big plane sank, the navy said, there was no hope of recovering it from 16,500 feet of water and would be of no use in attempting to locate it at that point.

NO EMBALMING

The navy limited strict instructions to preserve the remains by refrigeration, since embalming might interfere with pathological tests which might throw some light on how the victims met their fate.

In San Francisco, Pan American investigators continued to search plane records and personal backgrounds of the 44 persons aboard for some clue to the big riddle.

How could a four-engined plane with the most modern radio and safety equipment vanish as it gets a fair deal and a square shot?

Reds Reject Canada's Plan For Arms Body Compromise

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) The future of United Nations negotiations on disarmament appeared today to hinge on a Western - neutralist agreement rather than direct overtures to Russia.

The Russians made it plain Thursday that a Canadian-sponsored compromise proposal aimed at keeping Soviet delegates at the conference table was not acceptable. But they indicated that a solution involving certain suggestions for extension of the UN's disarmament bodies could woo them into postponing their threatened walkout.

A hardening Western stand against any more concessions to Russia's demand for extension of the disarmament commission was reported. This would nullify the resolution circulated by Canada and Japan calling for 10 more countries to join the commission.

The disagreement among the non-Soviet powers was centred on just how far the West could go along with Russia's extreme asking price of full representation on the UN's working disarmament groups by all 82 members of the world organization.

The West turned down this idea as unworkable, since it would not allow any private negotiations among the powers most concerned.

Canada, as a member of both the 12-power commission and its key subcommittee in which the Western Big Three and Russia have been the chief protagonists, fel in the efforts to reach an agreeable compromise which would meet the Soviet demand at the same time make clear that the West was not backing down.

While Russia remained more or less aloof, the compromise idea ran into opposition from both France and India. France, as a major Western power, threatened a walkout of her own if there were any more concessions, as the Russians position.

Basically, the dispute arose over which countries should be added to the present 11 Security Council members and Canada to broaden the membership representation.

The General Assembly scheduled a meeting for 3 p.m. to take up the Canadian-Japanese resolution. Indications were almost certainly for a withdrawal of this bid, and possibly for an indefinite postponement through the weekend to allow some new attempt.

Obituary

JOHN IRVIN DELYEA
(Madoc)

The funeral of John Irvin Delyea, lifelong resident of the Madoc district was held from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Grace Donnelly on Thursday afternoon, November 14th, with Rev. W. Giovetti officiating, assisted by Rev. J. F. Lane.

The service was largely attended and there were many floral tributes, testifying to the high esteem the deceased was held in, in the community.

Graveside Orange service was under the direction of the Royal Black Preceptory, Queensboro, of which the deceased was the last of its charter members. Members of the Lodge formed a Guard of Honor at the Home and Cemetery. Interment took place in Lakeview cemetery.

Bearers were: Harry Love, Fred Fleming, Earl Sexsmith, John Thompson, William Glover, Walter Wannamaker.

THE COMMON MAN AND SPUTNIK

This century has many claimants.

It was to be Canada's, according to Sir Wilfred Laurier.

And the Common Man's, according to President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Probably now, according to Nikita Khrushchev, the twentieth century belongs to Sputnik.

There'll probably be another claimant before 2,000 A.D. rolls around. Or perhaps no claimants at all.

Be that as it may, Sputnik and the Common Man are now staging a quite violent duel. The Common Man has been under fire before. He was not, if memory serves us right, FDR's offspring, but Roosevelt, if not the father of the phrase, was certainly its godfather. He nurtured it -- and many of those who have been gunning for the Common Man have, we suspect, been attempting to punish him for the sins imagined and real, of his godfather.

Sputnik has released a new flood of claims that this is no age for the Common Man but for the uncommon man. What is needed is not mediocrity but genius.

But was Roosevelt wrong? Was he trying to wed mediocrity? All he meant, all those who echoed his championship of the Common Man ever desired, was that the welfare of the average man and woman should be the first concern of our civilization. If they had ever dreamed that this would be interpreted to mean that the value of and the needs of genius must be ignored, they would have been shocked.

The friends of the Common Man never jousted with genius but with autocrats.

Basically, there is no reason why the interests of the Common Man and the uncommon man cannot both be served. The Common Man depends on the uncommon man for his future welfare, perhaps even for his future existence. And the uncommon man, more often than not, is the progeny of the Common Man, and would himself remain a common man had the cult of the Common Man not provided him with opportunities uncommon for one of his class a few decades ago.

DIFFERENCE OF OPINION

Life - - it's interesting.

The Russians, they chuck a couple of Sputniks up above the clouds, and then, just to prove that two can play at that game, U.S. rocket experts fly off in all directions.

Take Saturday's Ontario Intelligencer, for instance. It reported that U.S. Defence Secretary Neil McElroy had reversed former policy and had ordered the U.S. Army to go ahead with preparations to put a few more moons in the sky, using its Jupiter-C test rocket.

Since some of the U.S. Army scientists were on record as saying they could have launched a satellite long before Russia if they had been given the chance to do so, this was interesting news.

Now, though, you take Monday's Ontario Intelligencer and there you can read that Dr. Wenner von Braun says that it will "be well over five years before we can catch up with the Soviets again" even with a "no holds barred" program. Restrictions which still are to be barred, of course are the snatches which the Army will have to put on the taxpayer's wallet to finance its work.

All this would just amount to a difference of opinion between some Army scientists and Dr von Braun, were it not for the fact that Dr. von Braun just happens to be the director of the development operations divisions of the U.S. Army's Redstone arsenal, or in other words the U.S. Army's top rocket expert.

It just might help if the U.S. scientists got together and decided where they are before they determined where they want to go and what is the fastest way to get there.

There seems to us to be a rather clearly defined distinction between already possessing the ability to launch a satellite and requiring five years to catch up with the Russians, who launched their first Sputnik only last month.

Keeping Natives Primitive

Toronto Globe and Mail

Speaking at a meeting in the University of Zurich last week, South Africa's Minister of Economic Affairs, Dr. A. J. R. van Rijlin, attempted a rational defence of the system that overstitched racial policies. They were justified, he claimed, because South Africa had to deal with "a numerically large non-white population occupying many different ethnical groups who are emerging very gradually from primitive tribal life into the primary stage of civilization." The implication was that tutelage and supervision by the white are necessary to guide them to a higher stage.

* * *

This is a quite plausible and respectable argument. But a curious light is thrown on it by an earlier speech the same week by Dr. van Rijlin's Cabinet colleague, Labor Minister de Klerk. This minister stated a number of skilled occupations in South Africa's textile industry were to be "work-ers. The minister complained of the "growing encroachment" of Africans in such skilled trades as tists and cutters. Presumably non-whites who have mastered these trades will be pushed back into the ranks of unskilled labor.

It is hard to reconcile action of this sort with the idea of helping Africans advance from the "primary stages of civilization." Most of the essential steps by which a backward race rises from barbarism is by learning the skills and technology of more advanced peoples -- as our own remote ancestors learned fromkind for everyone concerned.

Barrymore's Best Exit Line

By Harold Weir in the Vancouver Sun

Mamie Moloney has remarked, in one of her columns that the Diana Barrymore epic in this newspaper was running into a tearwhining display of self-pity. And Mamie places entirely right.

But Diana's capacity for being sorry for herself is shaded by her greater capacity for just being sorry. Her own account makes her seem the most sorrowful soul whose eye ever unwittingly salted his or her own tissues.

Personally I thought that Diana's disclosure that during their very lowest ebb last week when she saw a large white crab crawling across the bed-room ceiling. That white crab was pretty plebeian stuff to encounter with the somewhat hectic imagination of the First Family of Filmdom. I've never had a peek into the delirium records of the Barrymore clan, but I'd think Diana's father, in similar case, would have seen a whole shooting gallery really worth while, such as a dinosaur on a tricycle.

That particular installment, however, was enlightening. For instance, it established to learn that pancreatitis, from which Diana's husband was suffering at this time, was an "illness of the liver," and not, as I had always fondly believed, only inflammation of the pancreas.

G. K. Chesterton has written, wisely I think, that one should drink, if not to excess, then in celebration of joy, never in mitigation of sadness. Somewhere Barrymore fills seem to have violated this rule in thirty-hysterical days. Another formula for living appears to have been to drink for misery and then go on a bender of such depressing squalor that the next evening's drinking alone could dream up was a lethargic return to work.

The truly joyous man or woman would find even his or her D.T.'s fascinating. I'm willing that Diana inherited this morbidness in her cups from her father. I can offer only one very authentic bit of evidence in support of this view.

A certain licensed club, now in plushier circumstances on a the Romans. By denying African textile workers an opportunity to learn and practise the more difficult processes in their own industry, the authorities are slowing down a natural civilizing process.

* * *

This is not an isolated instance. Throughout South Africa industry the more skilled trades are systematically closed to Africans and their entry into professions like medicine and law severely limited. Among their own people — is cunningly hindered. Recent educational reforms" which substitute Government-controlled schools for the old mission schools, seem designed to prevent Negro children from learning anything not considered to be suitable a subject and inferior race.

Indeed it is the African who has shown a capacity to learn and advance himself who is the target for the Government's special hatred and fear. A sustained effort is being made to push men and women of this type down to the level of the most primitive of their race.

* * *

It is difficult to avoid the conclusion that the real object of the South African Nationalists is to form sort with the idea of helping Africans advance from the "primary stages of civilization," and to keep them in a state of primitive and barbarism, as a source of cheap manual labor. It is his attempt to put the clock of history back. The experience of the past suggests that it will be only folly with consequences of the most tragic

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO
November 15th., 1937

Mr. Norel Loney of Ingersoll spent the weekend here with friends.

Mr. Fred Lee, East Bridge Street, is spending a few days in Campbellford.

Mrs. J. D. Collip will leave this week for Florida where she will spend the winter.

Mr. Robertson Collins is home from St. Michaels College, Toronto, to spend the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Bernard Collins. He has as his guest Mr. James Coughlin of North Bay, who is also a student at St. Michael's College.

Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Leggitt have returned home after spending a short visit with the former's cousin, Prof. and Mrs. E. Colin, of the Western University, London, Ontario.

Miss Esther Laird attended the 40th. wedding anniversary of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson, the ceremony occupied the chair for the first part of the proceedings which was presided. Miss Margaret Hayes, presided for the latter part of the evening. Mrs. A. Bernard Collins expressed to Mrs. Egan the League's appreciation of her fine address. The Rev. C. E. Baker also gave an interesting short address. Mrs. G. Clapp and Miss Anna Lafferty accompanied by Mrs. Alex Gordon contributed delightful vocal solos.

30 YEARS AGO

At the annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. it was reported that 360 members are enrolled, the increase over last year being 123. Money raised during the year amounted to $1,306.00; the expenditures were $1176.00, leaving a balance of $1,130.00, which will be appropriated to the furnishing of the new Y. M. C. A. building which, it is hoped, will be an established fact in the near future. The following officers were elected: president, Mrs. C. Hoyle; first vice president, Mrs. F. E. O'Flynn; second vice president, Mrs. John Ketcheson; third vice president, Mrs. C. J. Fairfield; fourth vice president, Mrs. Hitchon; treasurer, Mrs. C. Clapp; recording secretary, Mrs. F. Aselstine; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Mark Sprague; pianist, Miss Berkley.

Mr. Arden Betts has accepted a position with the Canada Cement Company at Point Anne.

HISTORIC BELLEVILLE

(Article six in a weekly series contributed by members of the Hastings County Historical Society).

In recent articles we have discussed the importance of lumbering and milling and agricultural implement industries to Belleville's prosperity in the mid-19th century.

Also very important were a number of smaller industries such specialized metal goods as gauge cocks, springs, skates and guns.

Perhaps the oldest and most prominent of these establishments in the 1850's was that owned by Ellis E. Hurwell, situated on the east side of Moira Street, just above the Upper Bridge. For a number of years this firm had manufactured axes and edge tools, and by 1860 it was necessary to enlarge the building and increase the number of forges to meet the constantly increasing demand for these products.

A second firm which also specialized in axes and edge tools and underwent expansion at this time, was that of A. E. Proctor, situated on the west side of Front Street in the new building on Coleman's Dam (located to the east of the intersection of Coleman and Moira Streets.) Proctor advertised that his firm could turn out "as good an article, and at as low a price as can be obtained in foreign markets."

Farther up the Moira, at Reed's la

Dam, P. J. Warren carried on the manufacture of hammers, forks and shovels.

Among the town's newest industries in the 1860's was an establishment for the manufacture of "carriage and car springs" owned by John Lewis. This gentleman, whose descendants operate a business on Front Street to-day, also was "largely engaged in the manufacturing of skates, of which he made a great variety of patterns." In addition, Mr. Lewis operated a thriving hardware business on the west side of Front Street, importing all types of paints, glass, putty, etc. for local trade.

On the opposite side of Front Street, Lloyd Bros. carried on a rifle factory, which manufactured "all kinds of gain twist rifles, top and bottom, or any other kinds of gun."

These industries all contributed to the prosperity of Belleville when it was still a town of 6,000 inhabitants.

Are You Having C O This Winter?

Inexplicable aviation disasters are sometimes attributed to "pilot error." Among the familiar effects of oxygen deficit, anoxia, as in altitude flying, are lowering of powers of sight, smell, hearing, memory, judgment, without the individual being aware of his condition. He may also have irrational moods, uncontrolled outbursts of emotion and impaired muscular co-ordination.

Similar effects occur in anoxia (lack of oxygen or Insufficient oxygen in the cells and tissues) in mountain sickness and in various illnesses such as pneumonia, septicemia and fever.

Identical effects are familiar, though not always recognized as anoxia, in mild carbon monoxide poisoning. After all, inhalation of carbon monoxide is lethal, dangerous or indisputably evil because the colorless, odorless gas displaces oxygen and cut oxygen from blood and tissues.

With the arrival of cold weather, regrettably many houses are peated warnings, we shall have the usual number of fatalities from carbon monoxide which is due to the use of unvented gas burning appliances or stoves burning other fuel.

It is fairly well known that the use of a portable gas, oil or kerosene heater even for a little while "to take the chill off" on a small room may give off enough carbon monoxide to make the bath or sleep the victim's last.

As little as three parts of carbon monoxide in 1000 parts of air will cause death within a few minutes unless treated promptly.

Any kind of fuel, burning slowly or smouldering or with closed draft or restricted supply of air, may give off carbon monoxide. Any one who says this or that type of burner can't produce carbon monoxide or burns all such "fumes" and is therefore absolutely safe is irresponsible or presumes upon your ignorance.

Burning charcoal gives off deadly carbon monoxide in abundance. The gas may pass right through a red hot cast iron stove. If the burner of a household water heater becomes rusted (carbon, charcoal), it becomes a menace to health and life in the household.

Less than one part of C O in a thousand parts of air will cause tightness across the forehead, headache and flushing of the face. Sometimes throbbing in the temples.

Carbon monoxide (C O) is the dangerous gas in the exhaust of the automobile or other internal combustion engine. Not only the driver or passenger but also the mechanic or attendant in a garage or service station or the local worker in the adjacent shop or factory is unnecessarily exposed to this hazard from day to day, particularly in very cold weather when fresh air circulation is disregarded because of fear of cold or draft.

For bedrooms, offices, workrooms or shops heated by gas stoves, large screens of unbleached muslin should be used to shut off the worker or sleeper without warning or gradual loss of health through carbon monoxide poisoning.

FOUR INCHES TO CALAMITY

An insurance broker was telling me recently about a claim he had just settled. A man was driving along in his car, going no more than forty miles an hour, and a truck operating on a short in the same speed was coming in the opposite direction. Either the car driver or the truck driver failed by a scant four inches to judge the distance. The truck was hurled off the road and the two occupants killed. The car was ruined and the driver of the car killed also.

A terrible tragedy had taken place. No one was reckless, and apparently there was no drinking involved. It was the failure to judge a passing distance by about four inches, and, as a result of this failure, death to everybody concerned.

It is amazing to everyone who reads history to realize upon what little circumstances great issues depend. The enemies of President Johnson failed to impeach him by just one vote. The circumstances which ripped into the body of the Archduke of Austria in 1914 started the First World War. Over and over again, it has happened that things of the most tremendous consequences have had their origin in what seemed to be circumstances of the most trivial significance.

There is no such thing as a minor circumstance in God's universe. We should always remember that between ourselves and calamity there is a very small, narrow area which, if we misjudge, will be our ruin.

Therefore, widen the margins of safety; trust the Lord in whose hands all matters rest. Do this, and even our appalling lack of knowledge and inability to foresee the future may be of no tragic consequence.

TODAY'S TALK

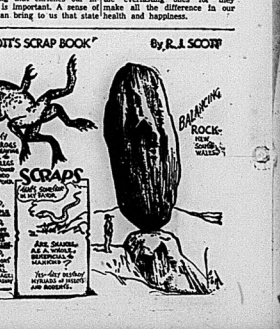
SENSE OF VALUES

Failure and unhappiness have come to many a one for no reason than that there has been no sense of values. We let ourselves apart when we follow our selfish desires, or for some material gain, sell ourselves out for a mere "mess of pottage." To gain a sense of values early in life is one of the most important decisions in life.

How often I have reminded myself of that well known phrase, "what does it profit a man if he gain the whole world and loses his own soul." Mere wealth does not bring satisfaction in a person's life. It often makes such a one lonely and friendless. Spiritual wealth is something that any of us may attain, and be happy in its gift to us.



Anything that enriches our inner life is important. A sense of values can bring to us that state where we intelligently choose a way of life that sets us apart, but to be alone is not to be lonely or close to others, to share their problems, and make them feel that we are with them.

I have often thought the joy and happiness that the writer of these talks have brought about have given to me greater richness in life than anything else could have done. Far greater than any monetary gain. But we should cling to close to thoughts of readers, most of whom I shall never meet. Even a friend I look for sincerity, graciousness, and genuineness. God's origin, by the way, in His does not bother me. It's the overall appraisal that matters. This wealth is something that any of us may attain, and be happy in its gift to us.

Anything that enriches our inner life is important. A sense of values can bring to us that state

City Teachers Hold Convention At Q.E. School

The 1957 convention of the Belleville Teachers' Institute was held at Queen Elizabeth School on Friday. Present were the staffs of the Belleville Public Schools and the staffs of the Belleville Separate Schools.

The convention convened in the auditorium for morning devotions. Following the singing of O Canada, Principal W. G. Anderson read the Scripture and led in prayer. Mr. J. Carswell, president of the Teachers' Institute, welcomed the members and guests to the convention. Mr. L. A. Kelly, Inspector of Belleville Public Schools, addressed the meeting briefly.

The morning program consisted of four discussion groups. The staff members were divided into four groups with each group moving on a rotary system to visit all four workshops at some time in the morning.

The topics and leaders of each discussion group were as follows:

Guidance — Miss H. Thompson, Miss B. Wallbridge, Sister Mary Andrew.

Primary Unit Program — Mrs. W. Sine, Miss E. Malcolm, Miss J. McCurdy, Mrs. D. Marner, Miss M. Weddell.

Pupil Planning — Mr. J. M. Cousins, B.A., Mr. J. E. Bateman, B.A.

Testing — Mr. L. A. Kells, B.A., B.Paed, Mr. M. M. Hackett, B.A., M.Ed., Mrs. D. Blakely, Mr. A. Downes.

During lunch hour, a very sumptuous dinner was enjoyed at Centre Church, Prince Edward County.

At the afternoon session held also at Queen Elizabeth School, staff members visited two workshops, from a choice of four. They were Music, Art, Physical Education, and a Teachers' College Discussion Group.

Leaders of these groups were:

Music — Miss P. May, A.R.C.T., Mrs. J. Desserbs.

Physical Education — Miss N. Hazen, Miss L. Howes.

Art — Miss O. Elson, Mr. D. Julian.

Teachers' College — Miss B. Brown, Mrs. P. Downes, Miss J. Bowerman, Miss A. Gaylord, Miss G. Hopman, Miss P. Lally.

A convention of this type has the advantage of permitting new staff members with policies and trends of our Belleville system and, in addition, proves a refresher for older staff members. Our 1957 Convention proved very profitable in both aspects.

Hold Convention

QUEBEC (CP) — Georges Lapalme, Liberal party leader in Quebec province, announced today the general convention of the provincial Liberal federation will be held in Quebec City next March 21-23.

Mr. Lapalme said purpose of the convention will be three-fold: To choose a leader, to draft a party program and to reorganize the party.

Asked if he would be a candidate to continue as leader, he replied: "I have nothing to say."

ONLY ONE OF ITS KIND IN THE WORLD

Pretty Susan Brown takes advantage of the unusual front end of the Aurora automobile as she uses the air scoop for a seat. The car, designed and built by Rev. Alfred Juliano, a Roman Catholic priest and student of fine arts at Yale university, was unveiled in New York. Called "the world's safest automobile" the Aurora features heavy shock padding, shock-absorbing bumpers and a fiberglass-laminated body and floor.

Graduation Pins Presented to Grade 8 Pupils

TRENTON (Special) — Graduation pins were presented to 128 grade eight graduates of Marmora street Senior School at an impressive ceremony on Wednesday evening. High school entrance certificates were also presented. Graduation pins, which were presented for the first time, were financed by the joint efforts of the Home and School association and the students themselves, who collected and sold baskets. Proceeds turned out in full force to see the ceremony.

Stewart Kirkpatrick addressed meeting, and told of the benefits both he and his fellow students had enjoyed while attending Marmora street Senior School. Music was provided by Graham Dowden's orchestra, with Bonnie Leppard, Judy Telfer and Margaret Fiskle singing musical numbers.

Rev. D. C. McLelland, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and C. E. McMullen, school inspector, gave brief addresses. Refreshments were served to the graduates and parents after the program.

TCA Announces Toronto to U.K. Non. Stop Trips

TORONTO — Trans-Canada Air Lines announced today the introduction of weekly non-stop flights between Toronto and the United Kingdom beginning Sunday, Nov. 17. The new service, eliminating stops at Montreal, will reduce flying times in both directions by about two hours.

The announcement also said TCA's Super Constellation aircraft now on the trans-Atlantic routes, will be equipped for the first time with wing tip tanks. Addition of the tanks, each carrying 500 gallons of fuel, allows faster flight times owing to the use of higher constant power over longer distances, greater flexibility in flight planning and operations at more desirable altitudes. The long-range Super Constellations are also in the process of being outfitted with weather radar enabling the pilot to detect and avoid en-route bad weather.

The service will provide a direct link between Toronto and Glasgow (Prestwick) leaving each Sunday afternoon. These flights will then proceed to London. Flying time to Prestwick will be 11 hours. Non-stop flights westbound from Prestwick will operate Mondays in just over 13 hours.

In addition to the direct flights overseas TCA will maintain its regular overseas schedule of 8 flights a week from Toronto and Montreal to the U.K. and Europe throughout the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Ashley, were among the many who attended the Remembrance Day service at Stirling and later attended the beautiful and impressive service for the Rawdon boys who had paid the supreme sacrifice, at the cenotaph at Harold. Mr. Ashley, who is 92 years of age, had the honor of planting one of the wreaths in memory of his sons, and all others who gave their lives in both world wars, at the Harold cenotaph.

Dr. W. S. Melvin Guest Speaker At Kinette Club

The regular dinner meeting of the Kinette Club was held Monday evening at St. Thomas' Parish House. Several guests were present including Mrs. Ken McMurray of Toronto, Mr. Harold Meyers, of Belleville, and several members of the Trenton Kinette Club.

President Phyllis Fraser presided and Sgt.-at-arms was Eva Ketcheson and song leader was Marg. Bullock. Past President Maude Rollins introduced two prospective Kinettes, Jessie Mitchell and Jackie Stewart.

Perfect attendance pins were presented by Maude Rollins to the following girls: 1 year, Dorothy Hamill, Marion Jeffery, Norma McIntosh, Isabel Miller, Mary Stark, Barbara Whaley, Grace Burford; 2 years, Jean Slater; 3 years, Nell Farrow, Elsie Smith; 4 years, Eileen Martin; 5 years, Margaret Bakay, Edna Brenot, Phyllis Fraser, Ruth Goldberg; 8 years, Jean Smith; 7 years, Betty Sullivan; and 8 years (charter members), Mary Hallam, Mary Lang, Helen Wilbur and Maude Rollins.

Guest speaker, Dr. W. J. S. Melvin from Kingston, was introduced by Jean Slater.

Dr. Melvin is an orthopedic surgeon and is also on the medical advisory board of the Canadian Foundation for Poliomyelitis. The subject of his talk was, "Orthopedics" and the Kinette Centre", which is being established in Kingston for disabled persons.

He said the most important thing was to emphasize the psychological impact on a person becoming disabled or handicapped and to help him to adjust himself in the right direction in order that he might get the most out of life. He explained the purpose of this Centre was to teach a disabled person a trade which would be physically possible and at the same time something he enjoys. One of the things done there for example, a woman confined to a wheel chair would be taught to run a home.

In closing he mentioned that some of the money collected from "Tags of Dimes" would be used to operate this Centre.

In thanking Dr. Melvin for his very constructive address, Helen Wilbur, on behalf of the Club, presented him with a cheque for $25.00 as a gift toward the Centre.

Mrs. Betty McMurray, executive secretary of the Canadian Foundation for Poliomyelitis, spoke briefly on the Mothers' March on Polio to be held January 29th.

The Kinette Club unanimously agreed to take on the forthcoming Mothers' March on Polio.

The Trenton Club advised Mrs. McMurray they would conduct the Mothers' March in Trenton, as Kinsmen Clubs across Canada will be undertaking this worthy project.

Women's Activities

TABERNACLE E.A.

The November meeting of Tabernacle Evening Auxiliary was held at the home of Dorothy Aitchison Wednesday evening with Ruth Petitfor presiding.

Jean Miller read the minutes and roll call was made and sick calls were recorded. A bale is being packed to ship by the end of November.

Debbie Smith assisted by Wilma Eakins, presented the study book, "Men in Japan."

Madeline Powell was presented with a cup and saucer prior to her departure to Lunenburg where her husband is taking up his duties in the ministry.

The meeting was brought to a close with refreshments and a social half hour.

ST. THOMAS W.A.

The senior members of St. Thomas' A.W.A. held their monthly meeting on Thursday, November 12 in the parish house, with the president, Mrs. B. Peck, presiding.

The meeting opened with a Scripture reading by Mrs. Brunton followed by prayer led by Canon A. S. McDonald. A short business meeting followed.

Highlight of the meeting was the presentation to Mrs. Feather of a life membership in the organization by Canon McDonnell, Mrs. Austin Smith and Mrs. Robert Bogle.

Mrs. Harry Taylor was hostess and served a delicious tea which brought to a close a most enjoyable evening.

College Hill United Church Bazaar, Tea, Most Attractive

The Women's Association of College Hill United Church held its annual bazaar and tea in the Sunday School room on Wednesday afternoon.

A festive atmosphere was created by small decorated Christmas trees, evergreens and ornaments.

The president, Mrs. Jean Thomson, welcomed the guests and Rev. W. E. G. Dovey complimented the ladies on their outstanding display and thanked everyone concerned. He then declared the bazaar officially open.

The receptionists, Mrs. Dovey, and Mrs. Jean Thompson, welcomed the guests and Mrs. Eva Jenkinson, the treasurer, received the dues.

The home cooking table was a picture, with its display of pies, cakes, cookies, bread, buns, tarts, doughnuts, etc. Those in charge were Mrs. Ning Neal, Mrs. Doris Sine, Mrs. Flossie Ritz and Mrs. Bongard.

The guests visited the attractive home - made candy table, in charge of Mrs. Florence Watson and Mrs. Lila Belcour.

Mrs. Lila Watson presided over a touch and take table.

As usual, the fish pond was a hive of activity and Mrs. Alice West and Mrs. Pine were kept busy with the little fish.

The sewing booth offered for sale—every variety of aprons, made in a wide range of styles and colors. There were also doll outfits, mitts, gloves, crocheted articles and novelties. Mrs. Leona Bailey, Mrs. Nellie Greenwood and Mrs. Alice Tuer displayed this merchandise.

The tea table was lovely with its lace cloth centred by a Christmas candle ornament misted with snow, with assistant hair. Presiding at the silver services were Mrs. Janet Brown and Mrs. Alice Thornton.

Convener of the tea room was Mrs. Dorothy Martin. Those serving were Mrs. Bessie Clark, Mrs. Audrey Flunder, Mrs. Dorothy Pryor, Mrs. Marion Sproule, Mrs. Millie Townsend and Mrs. Hattie McMullen. Replenishing the altar tables were Mrs. Helen Hunter, Mrs. Nina Walker, Mrs. Jan Smith, Mrs. Bessie Waite and Mrs. Florence Brown.

Madeline Powell was presented with a cup and saucer prior to her departure to Lunenburg where her husband is taking up his duties in the ministry.

The meeting was brought to a close with refreshments and a social half hour.

Youth Group's Music Features Revival Rally

A "Youth In One Accord" group from Houghton College, Houghton, N.Y., presented the gospel in music and testimony in a revival rally Saturday and Sunday at the Wesleyan Methodist Church.

Revival, the theme of each service, was carried out in song by a quartet, duet, trio and soloists, who rendered many familiar hymns.

The group, under the direction of Dr. Wells, director of athletics at Houghton College, included Norm Parks, song leader and soloist, Sharon Everest, pianist, Nancy Sacks, alto, and Annette Hotchkiss, first soprano.

Dr. Wells, who holds a master of education degree from Spring-field College, and a doctor of education degree from the University of Buffalo, gave an outstanding address entitled "The Life That Pleases God." In it he listed 12 characteristics as present in the church today. These include impatience, jealousy, pride, rudeness, a condemning spirit, evil thinking, worldliness, uncontrolled spirit, a realistic point of view, hopelessness, powerlessness and lovelessness.

"Youth in one accord is not just a title," said Dr. Wells. "It is a purpose and a desire in each of our lives for the glory of God."

The group has travelled 75,000 miles ministering to 325 groups of 25 different denominations.

Centenary WMS Holds Nov. Meet

CENTENARY — The November meeting of the Centenary W. A. was held at the home of Mrs. R. Edmondson with a good attendance. Mrs. G. Noles opened the meeting. Mrs. W. Lewington read the minutes and Mrs. Bernard Hay read a letter from Jim Ray. A letter was read on Dan D. Thomas preaching mission to be held in Bridge St. Church from Nov. 17-24. All are cordially invited to attend these services.

Mrs. C. Sills led in the devotional period. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Percy Sutherland. Mrs.-G. Sills gave a thought-provoking paper on being a good neighbor. Mrs. E. Ray read a poem. Mrs. Fred Aikens gave a reading. Mrs. E. Hagar read an Armistice poem. The meeting was closed with the Mizpah Benediction and Mrs. Sills extended the thanks of the members to Mrs. Edmondson for her hospitality of the afternoon. Mrs. Sills and her group served delicious refreshments and a social half hour was enjoyed.

The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. R. Per-

Christianity In Japan, Topic of St. Andrew's WMS

The November meeting of St. Andrew's W.M.S. was held on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Bondy presiding.

The minutes were read by Mrs. D. Fleming and the treasurers report by Mrs. Diamond.

Mrs. Darval had the worship period and Mrs. Weir and Mrs. Bondy assisting. The theme was "What Has Our Christian Church Accomplished In Japan."

There are 222 Protestant schools in Japan with a total enrolment of 127,961 students. These schools, through their emphasis on character building, are training leaders for the future. Over 50 of their educational institutions are girls' schools. A number of schools intended for boys have opened their doors to girls.

When the war between United States and Japan broke out, the young pastors marched to the front and in many cases the wives of these pastors stepped into the pulpit, conducting services, ministering to their communities and consoling bereaved families.

Since World War II new freedoms have affected their religious life. The day is gone when Shinto can legally demand the allegiance of every Japanese.

Although deep-rooted social customs and the insistence of conforming to family traditions still exercise a binding influence, the law of the land points to religious freedom.

The Christian saga in Japan is a story of intermittent flaming winds and foul weather. Francis Xavier, a Jesuit missionary, entered Japan on the trail of a Portugese trader and won the first converts to the Christian faith in 1549 and in a short time 150,000 people were converted. Later, trouble rose in Xavier's ranks and much persecution followed. The Christian movement was set back for nearly three centuries. The light that had been lit by the early missionaries continued faithfully, even in many local and isolated places and the loyalty of the Japanese Christians stands out as a beacon light in the history of Christian tradition east and west.

Mrs. Bondy read a closing Scripture reading and a poem. The meeting closed with prayer.

Mrs. Darvel and her group served lunch.

cival, Bayside parsonage.

Following is the slate of officers for Centenary W.A., 1957-58: as presented by Mrs. Fred Aikens on behalf of the nominating committee: hon. pres., Mrs. M. Nobes; pres., Mrs. R. Center St. United Shows Graham Film

On Wednesday, October 9 in Centre Street United Church, the Youth for Christ showed the impressive film "Wiretapper", the dramatic story of the conversion of Jim Vaus, a criminal, under Billy Graham's preaching. It revealed the power of God to lift a man out of the depths of sordid sin and crime.

Rev. W. Dovey introduced Douglas Stark, who conducted the singing of old time hymns, to open the program. Miss Norreen Brooks sang a beautiful solo during intermission. The Church hall was filled for the occasion.

PIE SOCIAL

A pie social, sponsored by the W.A. and the Y.P. was held in Centre Street United Church hall on Wednesday, Oct. 16. Mrs. Vera Frid provided music for the occasion on his steel guitar.

A substantial sum was realized for a new heating unit for the church hall.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

A Hallowe'en party was held in the Centre Street United Church hall for the Sunday School on Wed. Oct. 30. About 125 children were in the S. School and community attended.

Prizes were awarded for the best costumed young children. Mrs. C. Wood, J. Ward, Mrs. E. Calvert and W. Moon were the judges. Lunch was served by Clifford Belch, superintendent of the S. School and Achilli was also given a bag of Hallowe'en candy.

Games and refreshments brought to a conclusion a most enjoyable evening.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICE

Centre Street United Church held its anniversary service on Sunday October 20th when the Day for Christ organization was in charge.

Jim Blackwood, YFC director, gave an inspiring address on the subject "The Call of Christ".

Special music for the service was contributed by Douglas Stark, who rendered a violin solo, Darel Powers who sang two baritone solos and Lee Leonard who played the piano. A large congregation attended the impressive service.

RED NAVAL SPIES

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — A former Russian naval officer said Thursday the Soviet merchant navy is a front for spy organization. Lieut. Lev I. Predtetshevskii told a press conference Russian merchant vessels carried Red navy officers who carried out mapping activities in U.S. coastal waters to facilitate possible operation of some 500 Soviet submarines.

Centenary WMS Elects Slate for '57-'58 Season

CENTENARY — Mrs. R. Edmondson was hostess to the members of Centenary W.M.S. for their November meeting. Mrs. H. Hancock, president, opened the meeting. The minutes were in charge of Mrs. P. Sutherland and the offering was dedicated by Mrs. Hancock. The treasurer, Mrs. G. Sills, brought in an up-to-date report and also read a letter thanking the members for goods and money sent in for overseas relief. Mrs. Hancock gave a short report of the W.M.S. Presbyterial meeting, held at Stone Church. Mrs. P. Ray, supply secretary, had yarn to be knit up into children's sweaters and socks. Mrs. F. Edmondson reported the school children had collected $25 for U.N.I.C.E.F. on Hallowe'en night.

Mrs. W. Shortt and Mrs. D. Douglas read a chapter of the study book entitled "Men in the World," which is a study of the Christian missionary work among the men of Japan.

Mrs. Hancock presented a slate of officers from the nominating committee and following are the officers of Centenary W.M.S. for 1957-58:

Hon. president, Mrs. H. Hancock; president, Mrs. Byron Harder; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Bernard Hay; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Fred Edmondson; secretary, Mrs. Phillip Ray; treasurer, Mrs. G. Sills; literature secretary, Mrs. Lloyd Pearson; Christian citizenship, Mrs. C. Skinkis; temperance, Mrs. D. Holton; study book group, Mrs. Thrasher, Mrs. H. Hancock, Mrs. F. Aikens and Mrs. W. Shortt; Mission Band superintendent, Mrs. F. Edmondson; assistant, Mrs. P. Sutherland.

Tabernacle Aux. Holds Monthly Meet

The November meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Tabernacle United Church was opened by the president, Mrs. W. B. May with a special prayer for the Preaching Mission being held the week of November 17 in Bridge St. United Church. The various reports were given.

Mrs. Osland read a letter from Missionary Miss Frances Long describing her work and conditions in Newfoundland.

The program from the study book on Japan was given by Miss Hotson and Mrs. Geraldine and told of Naomi Kituli, one of the $50,000 widows of the recent war. She was a third generation Christian, educated in a Christian missionary school, and after being left a widow set up a sewing shop which eventually became a shopping centre helping many other women to dispose of their hand crafts. Thus she brought new hope and help to other Japanese widows who found it hard to earn a living.

Owing to economic reasons, Japanese women today are being emancipated from the home. The Japanese women have now earned the right to vote, to hold property and have equal status with men in business and political life.

Christianity through Christian mission schools has given many Japanese women and girls an opportunity for an education. Many of these women are leaders in the educational field and hold major executive positions. Many have been elected to the Japanese parliament and upper house and have been appointed to important posts in the government.

Mrs. Slavin led in the worship service and Miss Ethel Horton was pianist.

LOOKS TIPS FOR THE FOOTBALL FAN

The vintage raccoon coat and plaid scarf of yesteryear are just right for collegiate chic this season.

Fun now until close to Christmas, football games will be fun through everything from mud to dirndls to blizzards. Nothing, but nothing, can that pigskin in its flight, but what it's encrusted with.

Meanwhile, back in the stands, decorate young girls who normally burn blue at a drop in temperature heroically freeze while the school team fights mud-ankle on the field. If they like their pop paper chrysanthemums at the end of the game (the gift to the team) it's just a peril of sport — like being trampled in the rush toward the goal posts. It's hopeless to try and persuade a true football fan to keep her hair combed and make-up intact during a game. Even if she takes a few stabs at taming her slicker-blown look, a little rain freezing wind will soon undo the efforts. However, she should be sensible about protecting herself against chills and chapping.

One is to dress warmly. It isn't exactly mean to pile layers of sweaters and mpy woollies. You can keep head, neck, body and feet fly warm and still be reasonfashionable — in a sort of sual way.

At this point you can give three cheers and a tiger for the sudden popularity of antique raccoon ats. These mangy pelts are not ly warm, but practically therproof. Wear one and you be smug as a bug in what lly looks like a rug.

Full-length woollen stockings in plaid shades are both smart and ently cozy. Even the stoic who abhors ankle-socks in all kinds of ther will admit that a pair of colored cable-stitch hose are very attractive with cold, bare of purple knees.

One of the easiest methods of cking up a head cold is to bare r neck to the damp and cold. Then drape a muffler against a way breeze by wearing an extra. Woollen scarf that can be ped over your head and wound veral times around your throat. ll be fashionable as well as rm if you choose one striped h your school colors.

Before you embark for the me and even before you put on r make-up, rub a good cream r your entire face. Massage it o the skin until it disappears. apply your make-up. This ll give your skin a protective er that no wind or rain will re to penetrate and chap.

Question: . . . I shall very much appreciate it you will mail me the formula for making pickled pork. I have just made your jellied veal which calls for 1 pickled pork hock. For some reason it does not seem possible to purchase pickled pork here in the West, so I would very much like to know how to pickle my own. I also intend to omit it in making this recipe, but we liked it very much as it was . . . Mrs. G.H.

Rev. R. Middleton Delivers Address To Women's Club

The autumn thank-offering meeting of Plainfield W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Garnet Denyes with the president, Mrs. Clayton Hall, in charge.

Rev. R. W. T. Middleton gave an address based on the 16th chapter of Romans. He said Paul wrote this last chapter to the church at Ephesus, where he had labored for years. Every church should be a missionary church. It is the one talent (members) that explains the name of Christ. Our first woman missionary was Priscilla, wife of Aquila. Paul said they were his helpers in Christ Jesus.

Mrs. Middleton presented Mrs. Fred Hall with a life membership certificate on behalf of Plainfield W.M.S. Mrs. Hall thanked the members for their confidence and it was a pleasure to attend the meeting again. She thanked Mrs. Middleton for her kind words.

Mrs. Violet Elliott closed this part of the service with prayer.

Mrs. Garnet Denyes read an autumn poem. A reading on Christian stewardship was given by Mrs. Clarence Hall and a short prayer was offered for the missionary, Miss Olive Shaw, of Winnipeg. The meeting was closed by Mrs. Wilbur Sills.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

TODAY'S TIP . . . ABOUT "BOUQUET"

Bouquet is a delightful word, charming in sound, delightful in meaning. Bouquet should be pronounced boo-kay. But how often it is mistreated, both in pronunciation and in spelling. So often it is mispronounced boo-quet (to rhyme with go) and so often it is misspelled bouget. Let's give it its full charm . . . spell it bouquet, and pronounce it boo-kay.

SHE'S ORDERING GENERAL-UTILITY LETTER-PAPER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

For a long time I've wanted, very much needed, some letterpaper for my general use — my name and address to be printed at the top of the sheets and on the flaps of the envelopes. What form of name should I use: "Mrs. John Davidson" (for example), or "Mrs. Mary Davidson," or should it be Mary Brown Davidson" (for example), or "Mrs. John Davidson," or should it be Mary Brown Davidson," the form of my signature?

"Mary Brown Davidson" is the best form. You should use Mrs. John Davidson. The 2nd is that, on paper of this general-utility kind, the name and address should read like a postal address:

Mrs. John Davidson
123 Fourth Street
Haven 17
Ontario

FIANCE'S AND FIANCE TO GIVE WEDDING PRESENT TOGETHER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My fiance's brother is to be married next month. Would it be correct for my fiance and me to give his brother a bride-and-groom present together? They and we have many "Foursomes" together, we are great friends . . . and we know of one special article which they very much need and which would have a special significance as a joint gift from us. — W.C.

It's entirely proper for you and your fiance to give this wedding present together.

PRESENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Because of my very long illness I was not able to send a wedding present to a very dear friend of mine at the time of her wedding several months ago. But now I am planning to send it quite soon. Should I address it to her only, as I would have addressed it if I had sent it before her wedding? — S.L.

No. When a wedding present is sent after the wedding it should be addressed to the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Ann B. — I want to go out with an older man.

Mrs. B.B. — She could have her head turned.

* * *

Ann B. — I am a 17-year-old girl and quite mature for my age. Everyone takes me for at least 20. My problem is I don't like to go out with boys of my own age or only a little older. I find I start acting just as silly with them as they usually act.

A man of 26 is very much interested in me and I have gone out with him a few times. I enjoy it so much because he makes me feel like a real lady. He is really wonderful — so intelligent and already successful in his field.

My mother wants me to stop going out with him because she says he is too old. Is 26 really too old for me?

* * *

Mrs. B.B. — I understand how Ann feels because I felt the same way at her age. Because I understand, I realize how easily she could have her head turned by an older man.

Ann is mature in some ways, but others she is still only a little girl. I want her to go to college and to grow up a bit before considering marriage. It is very flattering for her to have this man so interested and I'm afraid she could easily be persuaded marriage is what she wants — right now.

All of Ann's friends go out with boys of 18, 19 or 20 at the most. These boys are very nice and Ann shouldn't spurn them.

The Council: Mrs. B.B. appears to have a good understanding of the problem and of her daughter, and Ann should consider herself lucky to have such competent guidance over the treacherous adolescent seas.

It would be best if Ann could be persuaded to ask for herself that the man of 26 is a bit too old for her. Perhaps she would be willing to sacrifice the better times she enjoys with him for her own ultimate good. If she cannot see the correctness of her mother's point of view, Mrs. B.B. should try not to make an issue of it, but simply to control the number of dates she has with this man.

Certainly Ann should also be with boys in her own age group at the same time. Most of them may suffer by comparison, but if she is encouraged to discuss her friends and her dates at home, she can be brought to see the desirable traits beneath the rough exteriors of the younger boys She may suddenly find that her style is a bit cramped when she plays "a real lady" to a man of 26.

Red Cross Plans to Provide Scheme for Home Nursing Care

By MARY FRAN BUSKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — A study of nursing care in the home in Canada is now being carried out by a national nursing committee of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

Helen McArthur of Toronto, assistant director of nursing service for the society, says the national health insurance plan develops nursing care must be forthcoming and the number of patients that demand attention at home is bound to increase.

Miss McArthur has just returned from the Canadian Nurses' Association conference in Ottawa where it was recommended "that more attention should be given to the provision of nursing care in the home as a means of achieving more effective use of hospital and nursing resources."

PLAN WIDE STUDY

The study of ways and means of providing home nursing care will be conducted by Kathleen Russell, past director of the school of nursing, University of Toronto, and former adviser on nursing to the Canadian Red Cross.

She will assemble data from across Canada concerning existing services and will outline recommendations to be presented at the annual meeting of the society in May.

The Red Cross plans to provide a scheme for home nursing care that will be tried out in one or more centres and be adopted later, it hopes, by other communities.

The situation needs immediate attention, Miss Russell said, "so far as my thought has been given to the matter it has been felt that the nursing profession should organize this service.

POINT THE WAY

Voluntary services such as the St. Elizabeth Visiting Nursing Association, the Red Cross Society and the Victorian Order of Nurses, with their satisfied staffs, have pointed the way.

But the catch is that their nursing services cannot offer resident care and are limited to very few communities, Miss Russell said.

"Someone must carry on nursing in the home all day—and night—and every day.

It is this continuous and prolonged character of nursing that makes it too costly for the majority. The cost would be met if shared publicly, she said.

To obtain adequate nursing care in the home Miss Russell feels that communities need a staff of nurses on salary.

She believes that future home nursing service will need a form of organization to which the family may turn to immediately when sickness occurs.

Also, she emphasized, that a community nursing organization will require an auxiliary nursing service to save the time of highly skilled nurses for patients who need them.

The hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past" was sung. Scripture lesson by Rev. V. O'Brine, Pentecostal minister; prayer by the Rev. Alfred Poulter, United Church; he also gave the benediction. Reveille was sounded by a bugler from the School of Artillery band, Picton. Many wreaths (43 in all) were placed at the

Biologist Views 100,000-Bird Flock of Greater Snow Geese Arrive at Breeding Grounds

QUEBEC (CP)—A federal government biologist has located the breeding grounds of the world's largest flock of greater snow geese.

Louis Lemieux of the northern affairs department disclosed details of a trip to the far north he made last spring, when he watched the 100,000-bird flock arrive for the summer months.

Bylot Island, at the eastern entrance to Lancaster Sound, is the main breeding ground of the birds, he said in an interview, but there are also breeding areas on Ellesmere Island and on the west coast of Greenland.

FAVORITE SPOT

The big white birds are well known to Quebecers. After spending the winter months on the Atlantic seaboard near New Jersey and North Carolina, they fly to the St. Lawrence River mud flats at nearby St. Joachim, where they feast on early spring weeds pushing through the snow.

Early in June they wing their way 2,000 miles north to hatch their young.

At the start of October they fly back to the St. Lawrence, and late in November resume their southward migration.

Quebec is the only place where they may be hunted. Between 5,000 and 6,000 are killed annually. Rigid hunting regulations are jointly enforced by provincial game wardens and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

It had been suspected for some years that the birds spent the summer near Baffin Land and Ellesmere Island, but no precise location had previously been established.

AGE-OLD CYCLE

Biologist Lemieux left Montjoli for Pond Inlet by air last May 15, before the big flock started northward. Accompanied by two Eskimos, he travelled by dogsled from Pond Inlet to Bylot Island, where he witnessed the arrival of the great "barking" birds.

The birds are white, with black wingtips, and their honk sounds like a puppy's bark. Their eggs, two to three inches in diameter, hatch about July 10, with an average of three chicks to a brood.

Mr. Lemieux says the birds liken shed their feathers over a two - week period. During this time he was able to capture some 500 specimens, which he released after they had been banded. The provincial game department asks hunters to report information about any banded birds shot during the brief season.

The young start to fly about the end of August but the families remain together until the end of September, when the young ones are strong enough to venture out alone.

The "bachelor" birds are the first to leave for the south. These "scout" birds arrive here about the middle of October. The hunting season runs from Oct. 7 to Nov. 15, with a limit of five birds daily, and a possession limit of 10.

Late in November, the flock will fly back to the Atlantic coast, closing another migratory cycle.

Americans May Have to Give Up Small Freedoms

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Secretary Dulles says the American people "may have to give up some small marginal freedoms" to cope with Soviet world pressures.

He did not say what freedoms might have to be relinquished but indicated they were connected with forming an international front against hostile communism and making financial sacrifices to keep the West strong.

He was addressing a group of business men Wednesday.

Failure to maintain the U.S. foreign aid program, Dulles said, "would involve the 'giving away' of large parts of the free world and would leave the United States encircled to a point of strangulation."

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor reported earlier that the U.S. Army is making "encouraging progress" in the development of a weapon capable of knocking down Soviet intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Canadian Force For Hong Kong Called Blunder

LONDON (Reuters) — An official war history published Thursday says the dispatch of two battalions of Canadian troops to Hong Kong three weeks before the Japanese attacked Britain's crown colony proved to be "a lamentable waste of valuable manpower."

The few extra days of resistance against invading Japanese forces by Canadian reinforcements had no effect on the course of event, says the book, which was written by a panel of three army officers, an air vice-marshal and a naval officer.

In the event of war with Japan, the isolated colony always was doomed to fill, the book says. Hong Kong had no strategic importance.

It says the decision to send two battalions of Canadian troops totalling 1,973 officers and other ranks was taken in Ottawa Sept. 25, 1941, after a request from the British government.

CHOSE TWO GROUPS

The Canadian Army selected the Winnipeg Grenadiers, commanded by Lt.-Col. J. L. R. Sutcliffe, and the Royal Rifles of Canada, commanded by Lt.-Col. W. J. Home, and placed them under the over-all command of Brig. J. K. Lawson. The unit landed in Hong Kong on Nov. 16.

The war history adds: After 17½ days of heavy fighting, with water and ammunition running short, the colony surrendered on Christmas Day, 1941.

Of the 1,973 men who went to Hong Kong, 555 never returned to Canada.

The British war history reaches the same conclusions as were made on Hong Kong by Col. C. P. Stacey, the Canadian Army's official historian.

In his book Six Years of War, published in 1955, Col. Stacey wrote:

"We can see today that the decision to reinforce Hong Kong was a mistake. The idea that the arrival of two Canadian battalions in the Far East could exercise an important deterrent effect upon Japan was shown up, in the event, as an egregious absurdity."

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government has announced it is prepared to provide loans and subsidies amounting to $150,000,000 or more in the next 10 years for power development in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

In outlining the program to the Commons Thursday, Prime Minister Diefenbaker indicated that it will be the basis for federal aid to other provinces for similar projects in future.

When CCF Leader Coldwell asked about similar assistance for Saskatchewan, Mr. Diefenbaker replied:

"The basic concept and the spirit of this policy will apply wherever a case by provincial governments is made out."

In his announcement he said the government's policy is "to take action to improve the economic well-being of the people of Canada that, through no fault of their own, have not shared fully in the economic growth of this country in recent years."

INCLUDES DREAM PLANTS

The Nova Scotia-New Brunswick program includes:

1. A federal freight subvention on coal for use in steam power plants producing power for industrial use in the two provinces. It will range from $1.04 to $1.76 a ton depending on coal quality and cost an estimated $1,600,000 annually for each.

2. A $30,000,000 federal loan at 4% per cent interest to New Brunswick for its Beechwood hydro-power development on the St. John River. It is repayable in annual instalments of about $4,500,000 over the next eight years.

3. Federal construction of steam power plants and interconnecting transmission lines between the two provinces as the demand for power warrants. These are expected to cost more than $100,000,000 and will be sold to the provinces with payment over a long period at the same 4% interest rate.

DIFFERENT SCHEME

Essential differences between the Progressive Conservative program and that offered by the former Liberal administration last spring are provision of the Beechwood loan and the coal subvention and operation of the thermal units and, transmission lines by provincial agencies rather than a federal one.

In Antigonish, N.S., Premier Stanfield of Nova Scotia said the generating plants will be paid for over a 30-year period and the transmission lines over 40 years.

Both he and Premier Flemming of New Brunswick greeted Mr. Diefenbaker's announcement with enthusiasm.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the program will be "largely self-financing and self-liquidating."

TO BE OUTRIGHT

Only the coal subvention of possibly $1,000,000 a year will be paid outright by the federal government. Costs of the other projects are eventually to be repaid to the federal government with interest.

But Fredericton Mr. Flemming said the federal program "introduces a new concept of equity and justice into Canadian life." It would mean "tremendous things to our provinces in the days ahead."

Premier Stanfield said it will "substantially reduce" power costs and encourage expansion of existing industry and attract new industry.

In Regina, Saskatchewan Premier Douglas said his province can present a good case for getting federal help in financing the Saskatchewan River power-irrigation dam. Mr. Diefenbaker said earlier this will be discussed with Saskatchewan officials after the Nov. 25-26 federal - provincial fiscal conference here.

Many Champions In Livestock Named at Fair

TORONTO (CP)—Earl B. Zavitz of Aldershot Thursday showed the champion live market hog in hog judging at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair which officially opens today. The reserve champion also was owned by Ernest Pritchard of Roland, Man.

Mr. Zavitz's winning hog was one of a pen of three bacon breeds he showed in the barrows or sows class.

The breeder Knight and Sons of Mull, Ont., Thursday won the grand champion carcass award. Reserve champion was shown by Bert Gardhouse of Bowmanville.

The champion pen of three lambs was shown by Lloyd Ayre of Bowmanville.

Mr. Gardhouse also showed the best wether lamb under a year and over 90 pounds while Clarence Ireland showed the best one in the same class under 90 pounds. Mr. Ayre showed the best pen of six lambs and the best pen of three under 90 pounds.

BEST POULTRY

The Parkland Hatchery of Yorkton, Sask. won the grand championship for the best box of dressed poultry.

Reserve grand champion box was shown by the Community Farm of the Brethren, Bright, Ont., whose entry, a single goose, was also named champion box of waterfowl.

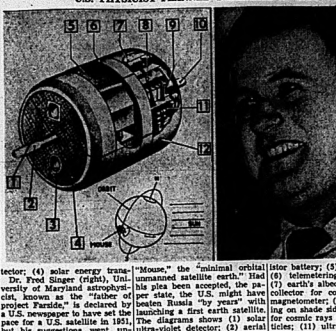
Dunn - Robertson Limited of Winnipeg, who showed the champion box of turkeys, shared the Stoffel Scals of Canada Limited awards with A. Allen Potter of Arkona, Ont.

The Ketchum Perpetual Challenge Trophy and the Jamesway Perpetual Trophy went to Cold Spring Farms of Thamesford, Ont., for the champion box of fowl.

HONEY JUDGING

The Canadian Beekeepers' Council Trophy was won by K. E. Mitchell of Creemore, Ont., for the best exhibit of honey.

Reserve champion was Jacob Nott of Kitchener, Mr. Mitchell won the liquid dark and liquid golden honey sections and the premier exhibitor award. Mr. Dick won the liquid and extracted white sections and the F. W. Jones and Son, Ltd., Trophy.



Mrs. J. W. Lund of Pambun, Sask., won the Council Challenge Trophy for the best granulated honey. Reserve premier exhibitor was J. F. Anderson of Alliston, Ont., who also won the liquid amber section.

Best commercial pack was shown by the Henderson Apiaries of Carleton Place, Ont.

H. Abrahams of South Porcupine, Ont., took first in the class for honey from Ontario, Quebec and the Atlantic provinces.

JUST MISSES TRUMAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Former president Truman almost was hit by an automobile while crossing 8th Street and Park Avenue Thursday. As he crossed with the green light, the truck signal changed, a car which had stopped for the light rolled slowly toward him, coming to within two or three inches of Truman.

"Moune," the "minimal orbital unmanned satellite earth." Had his plea been accepted, the paper state, the U.S. might have beaten Russia "by years" with the diagrams shows (1) solar ultra-violet detector; (2) aerial housing on side toward sun with counters for electrons and heavy particles; (3) solar X-ray detector; (4) solar energy transistor battery; (5) power supply; (6) telemetering storage hoop; (7) earth's albedo detector; (8) collector for cosmic dust; (9) magnetometer; (10) aerial housing on shade side with counters for cosmic rays and aurora particles; (11) ultra - short wave telemetering transmitter and (12) is the radar beacon.

Could Have Prevented Far East War Says Historian

LONDON (Reuters) — Concerted Allied action could have curbed Japan and prevented the Far East war, an official British history says.

It said that Japan's lightning attack and conquest of British held territory in Southeast Asia was not much of a surprise to London as the Pearl Harbor attack was to Washington.

The first volume of Britain's part in the Far East phase of the war was written by five British army, navy and RAF officers.

It said "many tragic blunders" led to Japan's conquest, starting with the invasion of Manchuria in 1931 and the full-scale invasion of China six years later.

The 568-page volume blamed lack of unity among the U.S., British, Dutch and French governments for the steady Japanese advance.

"On more than one occasion, concerted action on the part of these powers might well have prevented the war," it said. "The story is one of 'might have been'."

One of the most revealing sections of the history said that British officials in the Far East misjudged both Japan's intentions and military power.

It said: "The opinion was general throughout the Far East that war was unlikely and that even if it came, there was little to fear from the Japanese armed forces."

FIND BODIES

TORONTO (CP) — Police have recovered bodies of four of five hunters drowned last Sunday at Pine Lake in the Algonquin Park area. It was learned here Thursday night. Still missing is that of George Page, 60, of suburban Etobicoke. The other four are Leonard Lambert, 36, John McLean, 37, William Hayes, 47, and Harold Carter, all of the Toronto area.

Stafford Foods Fined $12,000

TORONTO (CP) — Stafford Foods Limited, one of the largest food manufacturing firms in Ontario, was fined $12,000 Thursday after the company pleaded guilty to 12 offences under the Food and Drug Act of Canada.

Magistrate Crawford Guest fined the company $1,000 on each count, the minimum fine, because the company "had never been up before." Maximum fine on each count is $5,000.

The magistrate also ordered the firm to forfeit about $7,000 worth of strawberry jam around which the charges hinged.

Prosecutor Colin Phillips said that none of the jam samples taken measured up to the requirements of the act. The Stafford jams contained less than the minimum requirements of insoluble solids.

Bernard van de Kamer, general sales manager for Stafford's said the situation has been rectified and the chemist responsible for the trouble has been discharged.

ISRAELIS, SYRIANS MEET

JERUSALEM (AP) — Syrians and Israelis met at a United Nations mixed armistice commission session Thursday for the first time in two years to consider a Syrian complaint of Israeli border shooting. Col. C. F. Moe, UN chairman of the group said afterward that the group agreed both sides should comply with the UN armistic terms and settle differences by peaceful means.

Sent for Trial On Murder Count

BLIND RIVER (CP) — Lyle Hart, 31, of Elliot Lake Thursday was committed for trial on a charge of murder in the slaying of James Taylor, 41, on Sept. 28.

Charges of being accessories to the murder were dropped against four other Elliot Lake men—Murdoch Desveau, alias James Irvine, Stewart Remington, alias Steve Gillies, 32; Ronald Kelly, 23, and Allan Cline, 32. Remington remains in custody to face another charge at North Bay.

Hart is scheduled to appear at the spring assizes of the Supreme Court of Ontario in Sault Ste. Marie, 65 miles west of here, in January.

Taylor, from the nearby Algom Quirke mines development, was found dead alongside Highway 10 Sept. 28 about 13 miles east of

TV OUT OF RED

LONDON (AP) — A British commercial TV company reported today it is moving out of the red for the first time after losing nearly £1,000,000 ($2,800,000) in the fiscal year ended last April. Directors of Associated Rediffusion which puts out programs Monday through Friday in the London area, said it now is operating at a satisfactory profit.

Winter Fair Wheat Crown Goes to Britain

TORONTO (CP)—The international theme of the 1957 Royal Agricultural Winter Fair was crystallized on the eve of the fair's opening as Canada lost the world wheat championship to England.

The wheat championship, which has been held by Canadians for most of the 35 years of the fair's existence, was won for the first time Thursday night by England with an entry by A. Davidson of Manningtree, Essex.

Mr. Davidson's entry — a sample of the Cappelle Desprez variety of soft red winter wheat was the unanimous choice of the four judges. They said they found it superior to any of the hard red spring wheats, which usually win the world championship.

The results of the grain judging—which was held in conjunction with one of the eight world championships—were the prelude to today's official opening of the big annual agricultural exhibition by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

ANOTHER ENGLISH WIN

Another English exhibitor, Bowen Roberts Farms of Cambridgeshire, won the forage seeds championship, while R. W. Hummel of Milk River Alta., won the world barley title for the third year in a row.

An Ontario winner was A. C. Stewart of Greensburg, Ind., who took the corn crown. The top championship went to Jack McBride of Benallo, Alta., who also won the junior title. Junior title went to William Whitelock of Kelwood, Man.

The soybean crown stayed in Ontario with a win by G. L. Clugston of Edgeworth.

Attracting the widest international notice is the horse show which features 24 of the world's finest riders and their mounts. The teams—from Canada, Great Britain, the United States, Ireland, Mexico, Chile and Argentina—competed during the last two weeks at two national horse shows in the U.S. and will jump off tonight on another eight-day show.

CATTLE READY

Hundreds of cattle from stocky shorthorns to the feather-legged Clydesdales in the Royal's cattle barns and cattlemen have shorn and combed the animals to show perfect appearance for the start of judging.

HEADED BOWLERS

TORONTO (CP) — William F. Kelly, a past president of the Ontario Lawn Bowling Association, died Thursday. Born in Hamilton, Mr. Kelly organized the first junior championships. He was a manufacturer's representative.

Attlee Warms Govt. Indian Situation Needs Attention

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

India is fighting a quiet but desperate financial struggle that is all but lost on the Western world in these days of spectacular news and noisy controversy.

Britain's Earl Attlee called attention to the plight of the Indian government with a warning to the West that the situation holds an incipient danger of communism.

He pointed to India's state of Kerala, which went Communist in the last general election, and said this may be an omen of things to come despite the country's well-known determination to follow a so-called neutralist line.

What is happening is that India is paying out about $17,000,000 a week more than it is taking in, a staggering amount even for that vast country.

RUPEE DWINDLE

Attlee, who as prime minister of Britain helped India to independence in 1947, recalled that then it had $1,500,000,000 in sterling reserves—truly the riches of the Indies.

This has melted away until, when it is at about $680,000,000, the Indian government has decided to take drastic action by freezing $630,000,000 of its sterling assets held in Britain to meet bills for imports in a season of economic balance.

India still hopes to keep in reserve some of the sterling held in Britain, banker for the sterling bloc, but according to the terms of its amended law it has the power to restrict currency held to $240,000,000 in gold which is held in New Delhi.

The agreement was signed late Thursday night after a day and night of bargaining on behalf of 20,000 workers in Chrysler's Detroit stamping division which produces car bodies for both American and Canadian plants.

Chrysler Strike Threat Averted

DETROIT (CP) — Officials of the Chrysler Corporation and the United Auto Workers announced today they have reached an agreement preventing a strike that would have affected more than 70,000 auto workers in Detroit and Windsor.

Cookie Back in Ti-Cat Oven Dispels Rumors He Had Quit

HAMILTON (CP)—Cookie Gilchrist, the wayward fullback, returned to Hamilton Tiger - Cats Thursday night, a few hours before the team left for Montreal to prepare for their Big Four Football Union final with Alouettes Saturday.

Though both coach Jim Trimble and club president Jake Gaudaur had insisted Gilchrist was permitted to leave camp Tuesday to attend a funeral in Philadelphia, rumors he had broken with the club were not scotched until his return.

Trimble, however, reiterated his decision to shift the giant Negro from fullback to a defensive position, replacing him on the attack with 215-pound Tony Curcillo.

Gilchrist has carried the ball five times this season but Trimble has expressed dissatisfaction with his recent work. Queen's University grad Jim Hughes and Gilchrist will fill Curcillo's defensive spot, and the coach thinks the switch will give the offense variety.

"There we'll be able to make use of his (Curcillo's) passing and running ability on option sweeps. He should make a good pair with (quarterback Bernie) Faloney," Curcillo was Ti-Cats' pivot last season.

Tiger-Cats are reported in good physical condition after a week's layoff. They played last Saturday, defeating Ottawa Rough Riders 13-12 in the last regular schedule game to clinch first place.

Montreal defeated the second-place Hough Riders 24-15 Wednesday night in a sudden-death semi-final for the right to meet Hamilton in the two-game, total-points final. The winner will meet the Western Interprovincial Football Union champion for the Grey Cup.

Meeker Still In Doubt Over Contract

TORONTO (CP) — Howie Meeker said Thursday night he has not yet signed a coaching contract with the St. John's Stadium Commission, but "in all probability" will sign one soon.

Earlier the commission announced that the former Toronto Maple Leaf coach and National Hockey League player had signed to direct two all - star teams for the Newfoundland finals and help train 2,000 junior and senior hockey players in the area.

However, Meeker said, he has agreed only to return for a month's "trial run" to learn the system.

"They made me a terrific offer, covering 10 years if I want it. It would be real security and those Newfoundlanders are wonderful people.

"Right now there's a better than 60-per-cent chance that I'll take the offer, but I want to get to understand their system first."

Braves' Hammerin' Hank Given National MVP Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Hank Aaron, who slammed 44 runs and turned a city upside down with one of them, today held the National League's top honor for 1957—the most valuable player award.

The 23-year - old Milwaukee Braves outfielder who hit the 11th-inning home run Sept. 23 that brought Milwaukee its first pennant, won the balloting conducted by the Baseball Writers' Association of America by a scant nine points over the St. Louis Cardinals perennial, Stan Musial.

Aaron, league leader in home runs as well as in runs batted in (132), drew 239 points.

Musial, winner of his seventh batting title with a .351 mark, finished with 230.

Aaron's teammate, second baseman Red Schoendienst and the acknowledged spark of the champion Braves, was third with 221 followed by the New York Giants' Willie Mays with 174 and Milwaukee lefthander Warren Spahn with 131.

Completing the top 10 candidates were shortstop Ernie Banks of Chicago, sixth with 60 points; first baseman Gil Hodges of Brooklyn Dodgers, seventh with 54; third baseman Eddie Mathews of Braves, 45; outfielder Frank Robinson of Cincinnati, 42; and Jack Sanford, Philadelphia's ace rookie righthander, 39.

Don Newcombe of the Dodgers, the 1956 MVP after winning 27 games, failed to draw a single vote this time.

DECLARE DIVIDEND

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Directors of Buffalo Bisons Thursday declared a dividend of 10 cents a dollar share in the International League baseball team. Total payment to the community-owned club equalled $19,397.70.

Dodgers Are Having Trouble In New Home

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A band of citizens intent on heading Walter O'Malley off at the ravine has just given the Los Angeles Dodgers more trouble than a league full of Milwaukee Braves.

The trouble arrived at city hall Thursday afternoon in an armored car with a shotgun and plated-packing guard. Inside the truck were assigned petitions, which critics of the city's real estate deal with the Dodgers hope will force a city-wide election on the transaction.

If 51,767 of the reported 85,000 signatures prove to be valid, the city ordinance approving transfer of 300 acres in Chavez Ravine to the Dodgers as a site for a baseball stadium is automatically suspended until an election is held. This could throw the timetable for the site out of joint.

"We will have to meet this challenge," Dodger president O'Malley shot back by telephone from Brooklyn—former home of his team.

Dodgers plan to play their 1958 home games in either 22,500-seat Wrigley Field or Memorial Coliseum. O'Malley had hoped to have his 50,000-seat dream stadium operating by the 1959 season.

Quebec Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The high - flying Chicoutimi Sagueneens survived a late drive by Shawinigan Falls Cataracts in a Quebec Hockey League game Thursday night to defeat Cataracts 5-4 and strengthen their hold on first place.

Another game saw Quebec Aces down the tail - end Trois-Rivieres Lions 4-1 to advance into a tie for second place with Shawinigan Falls. Aces and the Cataracts have 15 points each, six less than Saguenneens.

WHITBY TONIGHT!

The Whitby Dunlops, plus Jack McKenzie, late of the Kitchener Dutchmen, plus one Sid Smith, not too late of the Toronto Maple Leafs, and minus Mickey Roth and Billy Flick will be the guests of honor of the McFarlands at a puck feast here tonight.

Mr. Smith, who has been appointed playing coach of the Allan Cup champions without benefit of parchment from any recognized college of coaching, will likely view the proceedings from the press box. That hive of activity, it seems, is Sir Sidney's favorite observation post. Later when the minor professional hockey league, and if the NHL brass says so, they will, give him the green light of "no wantum," Sidney will take over the command post down in the Dunnies' dugout, when he is not cavorting along left wing with a couple of team-mates.

The Dunlops, who have not been convincing Ontario and Canada too impressively with their performances in three league and exhibition games to date, have hit some kind of a stride lately since acquiring some new strength.

Their most impressive victory to date, as far as the score goes, was that 10-3 defeat of the Cornwall Cherries a week or so ago, but it was not generally known that the Cornwall crew had only ten men in uniform with four of their biggest guns down with illness or injury, or both.

The general criticism of the Dunnies regarding their showings to date has not improved with the bumpers any, and tonight they will go all out to administer a sound trouncing to our side. Blair will throw his heavy artillery, field guns, mortars, and the pick of his snipers at the Mans in an effort to whomp them, but good. Look at the added prestige if the daily prints announce tomorrow that the Allan Cup champions bejabbered the daylights out of the leaders of the Eastern Ontario senior "A" division.

However, the Mans will have something to say about it. They have been idle, as far as scheduled games go, all week, but Coach Ike Hildebrand has had his workhorses in harness and the results have been no pasture field thrills. The McFarlands are said to be in good shape and if the mooted defenceman Bob Paul, who practiced with the club last night, gets his clearance from the western division teams (he has his release), they should be tougher than the blueline, which has appeared from time to time to be one of their weak spots.

It should be one of the classics of the season. The McFarlands will toss their offensive potential to the full at the champions in an effort to maintain their position at the top of the league standing. Whitby cannot afford to lose in view of their added strength.

Up in Whitby the other night, Sir Sidney Smith was giving forth, as Jack (Toronto Telegram) Dulmage wrote, "pearls of wisdom from the press box." MacGregor was in action and came in for a lot of watching from the local faithful, as well as Sir Sidney and the rest of the press-box occupants.

Dulmage was convinced, as have been a lot of other visiting sports writers, that the Whitby press box will never be mistaken for a morgue or a back-fifty pasture field on a quiet Sunday morning.

He wrote: "When the action started in the second period the following was cloned into the stunned ears of the listeners (Dulmage): 1. The French-speaking broadcast. 2. The English-speaking broadcast. 3. The pointed remarks of Mr. S. Smith in respect to the action below, and 4. the various announcements of the PA system and occasionally the remarks of Wren Blair, reciting coach of the Dunnies as they drifted upwards from the players' bench."

Some of Mr. Smith's "pearls of wisdom" were: "Wrex is thinking of forming a new line with Charlie Burns, Jack McKenzie and myself."

"They tell me the ice surfaces in Europe are twice this size. How can I tell what those fellows can do.. They looked bunched up here."

"I've been sitting on the bench so long I am out of shape."

"I've coached a midget team in the THL. The parents caused me more trouble than the kids. I don't think these fellows' parents will bother me."

If Smith is cleared today, he will likely see some action tonight against the McFarlands. It should be a whale of a battle, Smith or no Smith.

Newt Wilbur will donate a shirt each week to the player rated the most valuable to the McFarlands over a week of play. The winner will be judged by a person not named. The first selection will be made tonight since the McFarlands did not play any scheduled engagement this week. Anyway it is a nice gesture on the part of Mr. Wilbur, one greatly appreciated by the players and management.

Hang 5-2 Setback on Hawks For Second Loss in 9 Starts; Strengthen Hold on 4th Spot

By MARTY GOODMAN

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Boston Bruins, a hot and cold team this season, show signs of warming again.

Bruins defeated Chicago Black Hawks 5-2 Thursday night for their second straight win and moved one point back of the third-place Hawks in the National Hockey League.

Bruins won four successive games to open the season and then lost six in a row. This win moved Boston four points ahead of Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs, tied in last place.

The loss was Chicago's second in nine games after a slow start.

ALL IN ACTION

No action is scheduled tonight but all teams play Saturday. New York is at Montreal, Boston at Toronto and Detroit at Chicago.

Boston coach Milt Schmidt was most pleased Thursday night by the fact that his team's scoring was distributed among five players. Don McKenney was the top point-getter with a goal and two assists.

McKenney and Larry Regan scored in the first period, then Jerry Topparzini and Real Chevrefils counted in the second for a 4-0 Bruin edge. Chicago's Nick Mickoski scored before the period ended.

The teams matched third-period goals with Chicago's Ted Lindsay making it close before Vic Stasiuk left Bruins with a three-goal edge.

Chevrefils, Regan and Stasiuk each had a goal and assist.

Chicago's Glenn Hall stopped 37 shots while Boston's Don Simmons handled 32.

GUMP GOES DOWN

At New York, coach Phil Watson's unexpected praise this season of goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley hasn't stopped Worsley from his lot-of-work-at least lately.

Worsley was sent Thursday to Providence Reds of the American Hockey League. He has been out of action since the last six Ranger games because of a leg injury.

Marcel Paille, who took over for Worsley and since has lost eight straight, will continue indefinitely with New York.

Worsley played the last three seasons with a constant threat of being demoted in place of Johnny Bower. Watson the last season has been easier on Worsley but the result has been the same, planted a left hook on his jaw, May 1, at Chicago. Fullmer is a 3-to-1 favorite.

Odds Favor Edmonton Eskys By 2 TD's Over Blue Bombers

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Frank Ivy and Ray Prochaska weren't in Canada when it happened, but the memory of 1953 lingers with them as they prepare Edmonton Eskimos for the Western Interprovincial Football Union final against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

"Trouble is with the people, they've already forgotten what happened in 1953," said Ivy, grimacing at any suggestion the 1957 series will be a walk-away for Edmonton.

It was four years ago the favored Eskimos of Darrell Royal met Winnipeg in the best-of-three league finals. After the first game-away, then lost two in a row at home

SHORT MEMORIES

"Memories are too short," said Ivy, who became head coach of the club in 1954 and who has won the Grey Cup title in each of the last three years.

"We've beaten the Bombers three times out of four," Prochaska, Ivy's assistant, offered. "Well, they beat Calgary Stampeders four times straight, then got the tar whaled out of them at Winnipeg last Saturday. Don't think it can't happen again."

Prochaska referred to the 13-13 draw between Bombers and Stampeders in the first game of the home-and-home total points semi-final, won 28-15 by Winnipeg, and he made his remarks to point up the sincerity of his and Ivy's belief that the odds in the final are even.

Eskimos, winners of 14 of their 16 games during the schedule, are conceded the series in straight games by nearly every outside observer in the West, including most of those in Winnipeg, and the early odds favor Edmonton by about two touchdowns a game.

The first is scheduled for Saturday in Winnipeg. The second will be in Edmonton Wednesday and the third, if necessary, in Edmonton next Saturday.

Rookie coach Bud Grant of Bombers, an offensive end with that 1953 Winnipeg squad, hasn't made any predictions on the outcome, but when his club upended Stampeders 15-3 Monday, he said Bombers were "out of the frying pan into the fire."

He must face the fire with a string of injuries that will keep limped Frank Gilliam out of action and slow down such stars as halfback Leo Lewis and fullback Gerry James.

Faulty Taping Blamed for Richard Injury

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says Montreal Canadiens' Maurice Richard suffered a cut Achilles tendon in a National Hockey League game here Wednesday because his tendon guard was not properly taped in place.

The Globe says that contrary to other reports, the skate which cut the Rocket's tendon and almost ended his hockey career did not slice through his boot, but slipped between the guard and the right winger's leg.

The accident occurred in a goal-mouth collision with Marc Reaume, a Toronto Maple Leaf defenceman.

Protest Bout Adjourns With No Decision

SARNIA (CP) — The Ontario Rugby Football Union's executive ended a three-hour meeting here Thursday without a decision on a London Lords' protest.

President M. J. Chilton of Sarnia said both sides of the controversy have been heard and a decision should be reached today.

The London protest is against Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen's use of import tackle Roger Selbo. The first game of the best-of-three ORFU senior final, won by Dutchmen 16-8.

London contends Seibal, who was playing for the first time this season, should have qualified for the playoffs by performing in a league game.

Boys in the Back Room Make West Favorites for Grey Cup

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—It's taken a long time, something like 36 years, but the boys in the back room who try to make a living by wagering, have eventually decided that the West can beat the East in the Grey Cup final. Their odds now are 12 to 5 on the West in the Nov. 30 classic.

If these odds stick, and there's no apparent reason why they shouldn't, it will mean that for the first time since this East-West rivalry started in 1921, the westerners will go into the game as favorites.

Furthermore, the bettors don't seem to care who represents the West or East.

LOVE THOSE ESKS

They like the West, whether its Edmonton Eskimos or Winnipeg Blue Bombers, but they give the Blue Bombers practically no chance against the Eskimos for the best of a three-western final starting this weekend: "We don't anticipate any trouble except Edmonton to come East," said one professional bettor.

The gamblers, after three years of watching Eskimos whomp Montreal Alouettes in the final, have adopted the Edmonton club as their own. The Eskimos have cost them a lot of money since 1954 and the bettors now say they've seen the error of their ways.

Of course, there were times when the West and Eskimos were dirty words in gambling circles.

An Edmonton-Eskimo team started this autumn East-West madness in 1921 when it came to Toronto and lost 23-0 to Toronto Argonauts. At that time they were just a bunch of fellows who hit town practically unnoticed and decided underdogs.

The Edmonton Eskis followed in 1922 and lost to Queen's University 13-3. Easterners took the West challenge more or less as a joke until a Winnipeg club upset Hamilton Tigers 18-13 at Hamilton in 1935.

LOYAL TO EAST

That western victory didn't mean a thing to the betting mob. They continued to make the easterners favorites year by year although the West won the cup in 1939, 1941 and 1948.

Western sports writers beat the drums for the Eskimos in 1954 and there was hardly an easterner who would take them seriously. Eskimos beat Montreal Alouettes 26-25. It was the same story the following year in Vancouver, only this time the Eskimos came up with a much more convincing triumph over the Als, 34-19.

The Als again were favorites in 1956 and Eskimos finally convinced the professional gamblers that they were by far the best club in the country. They knocked over the Als 50-27 at Toronto.

How as clubs East and West get down to the serious business of playoffs, the green and white colors of the Eskimos keep flashing in front of the bettors' eyes. They say the Eskimos can make Grey Cup history by becoming the first club to win the cup four consecutive years and, although it may break their hearts, they're willing to back it up by offering the odds.

Peahead Shakes Off Alibis of Poor Season

MONTREAL (CP) — Halfback Earl Wells and tackle Ted Kluby are doubtful starters for Montreal Alouettes in the opener of a two-game total - point series against Hamilton Tiger-Cats for the Big Four Football Union championship here Saturday.

Wells, an import, bruised his ribs severely when Montreal downed Ottawa Rough Riders 34-15 in a sudden-death semi-final at Ottawa Wednesday night.

Kluby, a Canadian, has a personal problem. His father died Thursday in Galt after an illness of nearly a year and funeral services will be held Saturday.

CONDITION COUNTED

Meanwhile, Montreal coach Doug (Peahead) Walker said the physical condition of his players was the deciding factor in the win over Ottawa.

His said the game was the first in three weeks or more in which all Montreal players who had been sidelined or handicapped by the flu appeared to have shaken the illness.

Walker put his club through a light drill Thursday and the players decided to work out again today in preparation for the game against Hamilton, which is one of five games against Montreal in the regular season.

CAUGHT MY BALANCE

The second game of the series will be played in Hamilton Saturday, Nov. 23.

Of the Ottawa game, Walker said Montreal's stress on ground play, rather than passing had caught Riders off balance. He said the ground offence was planned in advance to surprise Ottawa since Montreal quarterback Sam Etcheverry is generally known as a passer.

Walker singled out three players he thought had played particularly well—fullback Pat Abbruzzi, defensive end Doug McNichol and tackle Norm Hudson.

Canadiens Will Lose Rocket For Six Weeks, Officials Say

MONTREAL (CP) — Maurice (Rocket) Richard, the National Hockey League's most prolific scorer, entered hospital Thursday night in considerable pain with an injury that almost ended his 16-year professional career.

The 36-year-old right winger, tied for the league scoring lead with his brother and linemate, Henri, is expected to be sidelined for at least six weeks.

He was cut on the right Achilles tendon Wednesday night in Toronto when Maple Leaf defenceman Marc Reaume accidentally stepped on his foot. The skate blade knifed through the Rocket's hockey boot.

CHANGE PLANS

A Canadiens spokesman said it was originally decided to let Richard stay at home for a few days and have the injured foot placed in a cast, but the injury was so painful plans had to be altered.

Dr. Jim Murray, Toronto club physician, took at last 15 stitches in the tendon after the accident and said Richard was "lucky."

"Just a shade more and the tendon would have snapped," he said. "He would have been off his feet until March and, at his age, it is unlikely he would have been able to make a comeback."

MARSHALL ALSO OUT

Donnie Marshall was also lost to Montreal in the game. He suffered a severely-sprained right ankle. Marshall, used as a penalty-killer by coach Hector (Toe) Blake for three seasons, has blossomed into a formidable scorer this year. He has scored six goals in Montreal's last four games.

The Montreal management will likely make a decision today on whether or not players in the club's farm system will be called up as replacements for the sidelined regulars.

Blake, meanwhile said he might have to shift his line. Marcel Bonin filled in for Richard after the injury in Toronto. He may be retained on the line with Henri Richard and Dickie Moore.

London Cops Want Pay for Football Duty

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Inspector Findlay Carrol of the London City police says that football teams playing in London can have as much police protection as they want — provided the teams are prepared to pay off-duty policemen.

None of the city force is assigned to Labatt Park to keep an eye on either the spectators or the players.

To date four off-duty police men have patrolled home games of London Lords but they have been paid by the club.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen president Keith Butler said he will seek police protection Saturday night and accused Lords of attempting to injure quarterback Bob Celeri.

Inspector Carrol said, "I don't think it's as serious as it might appear. If trouble breaks out, we'll certainly send officers."

Did you Know?

—That the Lord Chancellor of England sits on a woolsack in the House of Lords.

—That when Richard Coeur de Lion was released from imprisonment after his disastrous crusade his ransome was whole year's wool crop.

—That Henry VII made a law that every person above 7 yrs. of age had to wear on Sunday and Holy Days a cap of wool made in England, and a fine of three farthings was imposed for each day's neglect.

Frankly speaking, at Wilbur's we feel that no one will ever be fined for NOT wearing one of our Towne Hall Suits. But we do feel that our Towne Hall suits are really tops and will be delighted to show you our selections.

Susan Strasberg Given Rave Reviews in Broadway Play

By BOB THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP)—Hollywood in Manhattan—though she could write her own ticket in films, Susan Strasberg is content to tie herself down to another season on Broadway.

It's no wonder, judging from the reviews she got in Time Reporter, which opened Tuesday night. But still, the lure of films is strong.

"I want to do more films," she admitted in her dressing room. "But how could I resist this play? I might wait all my life to be able to work with Helen Hayes and Richard Burton. Now I get to work with them both at once.

"Besides, I get a chance to grow up. Movies never let you realize that I am 19 now."

So far, the public's conception of her has been as Kim Novak's kid sister in Picnic and as the tragic teen-ager in Diary of Anne Frank. Her other film, Stage Struck, hasn't been released yet.

Susan herself is a mixture of teen-age impulse and mature judgment. Daughter of her father, Lee Strasberg of the Actor's Studio, her reflections on acting can be profound. But she can also be giddy about such matters as the single red rose she receives daily from an admirer. Is he ended Hall of Fame comes on NBC-TV (5:30 p.m.) with a 90-minute dramatization of On Borrowed Time, starring Ed Wynn and Claude Rains. This is a drama about an elderly man who chases death, in the person of a mysterious Mr. Brink, up a tree.

One of the most expensive and potentially most interesting programs of the season comes on NBC-TV Sunday evening (8 p.m.) as the two-hour General Motors 50th Anniversary Show. Among the galaxy of stars are Kirk Douglas, Ernest Borgnine, June Allyson, Pat Boone, Helen Hayes, Dinah Shore—and just about everybody you can name.

Dog lovers should take a look at Disneyland (ABC-TV) Wednesday evening (7:30 p.m.) when Walt Disney pays a tribute to The Best Doggone Dog in the World. The same evening Steve Hour (CBS-TV, 10 p.m.) presents a musical version of Huck Finn, starring Jack Carson and Basil Rathbone.

Thursday evening Project 20 presents The Innocent Years (NBC-TV, 10 p.m.), an account of life in America at the beginning of the century based on films of the period.

Borden Stevenson, son of Adlai? She wouldn't say.

She still lives at home with her parents in an apartment overlooking Central Park. But she has two rooms to herself and appears to cherish her independence. For that reason, she has declined offers to sign with film studios.

Not everything has gone her way. She admitted to one disappointment: Not being chosen to play in the screen version of Anne Frank.

Add Wayne Morris to the transplanted-Hollywood-Broadway critical acclaim in the new William Saroyan play, The Cave Dwellers. It was his Broadway debut, and Wayne reported the advance sale warrants rescuing for his family to live in the East until next spring.

Accepting congratulations back stage, he grinned: "It's a wonderful play, isn't it? Tell me what it's about."

One of Big Weeks in Current TV Season Begins Saturday

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the big weeks of the current television season begins Saturday.

Here, according to your tastes, are some of the things worth viewing:

For sports fans Saturday afternoon hockey, one of the thrilling sports on television, is visible on CBS-TV (3 p.m.) when Detroit Red Wings meet the Chicago Black Hawks.

The first of three special musical reviews to originate in Las Vegas comes on NBC-TV Saturday evening (8 p.m.), with Ann Sothern as hostess. Guests will include Jayne Mansfield, Sammy Davis Jr., Tony Randall and Vic Damone.

On Sunday you really need two TV sets and two pairs of eyes.

Omnibus (NBC-TV, 4 p.m.) will devote its full 90 minutes to American Trial by Jury instead of splitting time with a filmed account of Conductor Leonard Bernstein's visit to Israel, as previously announced.

An Omnibus spokesman said that both were found to be "such rich and valuable entertainment", that there was a last minute decision to make each a full program.

Before Omnibus has run its full course, The Seven Lively Arts comes on CBS-TV (5 p.m.) with a study of mass evangelism in 20th century America. Entitled The Revivalists, it was originally called The Evangelists — until church groups objected that "evangelism" has a wider meaning than the revivalist methods examined on the program. Among other features there will be filmed spots of Billy Sunday, Aimee Semple McPherson, Oral Roberts, Billy Graham.

Hamilton Cubs Whip Marlies By 7-2 Score

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Low - ranking Hamilton Tiger Cubs set the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series buzzing Thursday night with a four-goal-in-five-minutes burst to defeat second-place Toronto Marlboros 7-2.

Gerry Sullivan, with a pair, spearheaded Cubs attack and helped push the Hamilton squad into fourth place in the standings.

Three goals by John McKenzie paved the way as St. Catharines Teepees downed Peterborough Petes 6-2.

Cubs scoring burst came in the first period. They gave Marlboros a further hammering in the second, scoring twice, to take a 7-1 lead.

ALSO SCORED

Brian Smith, Lloyd Haddon, Ed Cooke, Garry Luyben and Pat Baker were the other Hamilton scorers. Bill Kennedy and Bob McMaster replied for Marlboros.

St. Catharines' win gave them a three-point lead at the top of the standings, leaving Ted Kennedy's squad in third place.

Ed Hoekstra, Matt Ravlich and Rino Robazza were Teepees' other scorers. Pat Carey and Dave Besse scored for Peterborough.

Tonight's schedule has St. Michael's at Guelph and Hamilton at Barrie.

Puckminks Will Arrive Here Next Wednesday

MIDLAND, Ont. (CP) — Russia's hockey team is scheduled to arrive in Montreal by plane early next Wednesday, secretary-manager George Dudley of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association said Thursday. The CAHA is sponsoring the Russians' seven game exhibition tour in Ontario and Quebec.

The Russians are due in Toronto by train from Montreal at 8 a.m. Wednesday. They open the tour at Toronto Friday, Nov. 22, against Whitby Dunlops, Canada's representatives in the world amateur championships at Oslo next February.

CURLING DATES SET

TORONTO (CP)—Two major bonspiels are included among 37 events for Ontario's women curlers this season, it was announced Thursday.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER
Author of the new "Astrology and You"

"The Stars Impel . . . They do not compel! . . . yes make of your life is largely up to you."

Friday, November 15, 1957

Aries (March 21 to April 19) This is a splendid day for devoting all your energy to labors that must be performed, regardless of how they are. Get filing, writing, repairing, etc., done well. See that house is in pink of condition, too.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Be sure to devote any spare time to matters of personal daintiness, home decoration, and keeping abreast with your heart interest ideal. P.M. do not be resentful, disapproving with closest family tie. Be kind instead.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Morning is time for anything in connection with house, home ties, real estate, and also for beginning new advancement in career. P.M. take care not to get involved in [illegible] between family member Tonight, be careful driving, also [illegible] and acquaintance. D o what you have promised.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) Step out early and finish off shopping, calls, for these can be done with alacrity and ease today. Letter, contact all partners for a long conference and working out ideas. P.M. be careful how you look and feel. Rest.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) Those things you have neglected of late that would increase the evaluation of your real estate can be attended to easily today. Also, get personal appearance up to par. P. M. don't be tempted to splurge. Economize instead.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) Scrutinize self and environment now. Contact those who can help you advance your station in life and tell them of your desires in a straightforward fashion. P. M. is fine for getting housework done, though you detest it.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Either by quiet, solitary meditation or by communing with closest friends, you can today arrive at a better solution to your present conditions and begin fine upswing. Tonight, be careful driving, also [illegible]

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) This is the day you can be with those successful, powerful personalities who will be in a position to understand your dreams and how to realize them, give you an opportunity to do so. P. M. ward off that money problem.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Step right out and call upon that manager, adviser, agent who will give you the monetary assistance you require immediately to safeguard your security, reputation. P. M. be objective, don't use brute willpower.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't be narrow-minded about the many fine ideas possible to you today via your paper, TV, radio. At least put a few to the test. Meet new people, be alive. Tonight, that private problem will be solved by worry.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) See that you finish off week's activities in business by getting all money problems and bills properly attended to, also relationships with other people on more ideal basis. P.M. temper must be controlled or there will be a fight with pal.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) By conversing at length with very precise authority, unrelenting associate today brings to light much valuable data impossible to get [illegible] strict adherence to law is fine. If your child is born today . . . The fine child born today is the type who will insist upon having his or her surroundings in pink condition at all times, and will be very precise about keeping toys in order and following routines. The desire for cleanliness which is next to godliness will be an absolute must for your progeny. So give a fine education that will bring out the doctor, the nurse, the dentist so found in this chart.

FINANCE MINISTER

It was learned later that Mr. Lacroix intended to introduce a non-confidence motion criticizing the lack of action on provision of a distinctive Canadian flag.

COULD EMBARRASS

Such a motion could embarrass the Liberals. Party Leader Louis St. Laurent said at the outset of debate that his party wouldn't propose a non-confidence motion and wouldn't vote for any such motion against the government.

Mr. Lacroix also has departed from his party's stand on previous occasions this session, was one of four Liberals who backed the CCF motion. The others were Hugh Proudfoot, Pontiac-Temiscamingue; Jean Boucher, Chateauguay-Huntingdon-Laprairie, and C. W. Carter, Burin-Burgeo.

Mr. Fleming's speech, which followed briefly at the beginning of general comment, dealt with a wide range of topics.

He listed several factors, including falling interest rates and the imposition of the counter-cyclical price index, to back up his contention that the inflation threat has been checked.

He said it is "still not satisfied" with those encouraging economic signs, but gave no hint of possible future government moves.

At the federal-provincial tax conference Nov. 25-28, he said, the government will carry out the principle of "recognizing provincial needs "in a much more Canadian manner" than did the former Liberal administration.

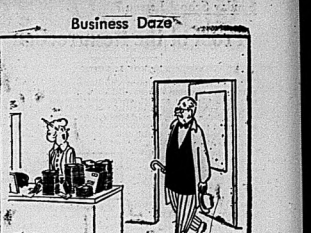
WILL CARRY OUT PLAN

And he said that, in any time and the people's confidence, the government can and will carry out Prime Minister Diefenbaker's proposal to divert to Britain 15 per cent of current imports from the United States. But it couldn't be done overnight, it a year or two.

George Marler, former Liberal transport minister, charged that government "uncertainties" had engendered fears and lack of confidence which are Canadian economy.

He said the economy was at a high level when the Conservatives took office in June. Now there were a high level of unemployment.

Hon. James Sinclair (L—Coast-Capilano), former fisheries minister, urged a federal subsidy estimated at $27,000,000 to keep British Columbia's big British columbia farmers in operation copper prices rise. The same plans ending operations thereby throwing thousands employees out of work.



Mr. Sinclair said the subsidy would keep the mine, 30 miles north of Vancouver, open, it would contribute $1,125,000 monthly in income taxes and avoid payment of $80,000,000 in unemployment insurance.

Labor Minister Michael Starr said a similar proposal was made today by the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) and that the government will consider it.

E. Davie Fulton (P.C. - Kent, Ont.) asked that the period in which the revenue department may reexamine income tax returns be reduced to two years, from the present four.

"That would place the taxpayer and those concerned with his return in a preferable position insofar as explaining the entries is concerned," he said.

Sunday School Lesson

Proof of the Resurrection

BY ROY L. SMITH

If one were to listen to many of the radio programs that emanate from Christian sources, or read the publications that come from Christian presses, he might be excused for thinking that the central theme of the Christian faith was the virgin birth. The truth is, however, that the chief attention of the early Church and the New Testament writers was centred on the resurrection. The Apostle Paul staked everything on it, saying "if that is not true, then all our faith is a delusion."

TELLING "GOOD NEWS"

The first century Christians captured the attention of the world with the good news that Jesus of Nazareth, though crucified and buried, had been raised from the dead. The pagan world had heard of many miraculous births, but a miraculous survival of death was something astounding. No serious minded man could ignore it.

The testimony in the case was very significant. A long list of credible witnesses were ready to testify that they had met their Lord, held conversations with Him, and otherwise assured themselves that they could not be mistaken. And it was with this glad news that they went racing to the ends of the earth, enduring hardships and even defying death.

REPORTS WERE FIRST HAND

In Paul's first letter to the Corinthians (chapter 15) we have the first authentic report of the amazing event. Years afterwards the gospel writers produced additional accounts, but as we read the Apostle's letter, we have primary evidence in the case.

Dr. Kenneth La Tourette, the world famous historian, has said that the resurrection of Jesus is "the best attested fact in human history." Had there been no such great event there would have been no Christian Church. Men do not go to their deaths as martyrs for the sake of a delusion.

It was because the men of the first Christian generation believed that the resurrection was a fact that they stood ready to go to their annihilation rather than recant their conviction. And thousands of them did.

Those who died were not men who had invented a clever theory, a shrewd guess, or a brilliant deception. They were inspired men whose lives had been transformed by their faith. The success of the Church in redeeming the life of this world, will not depend upon those who are able to argue for their doctrines, but upon those who have been transformed by their faith in the great Christian facts.

PROOF OF RESURRECTION

The proof of the resurrection of Jesus does not rest with those who can prove by logic and reason that the major doctrines of the Church are credible and true. Rather, the abiding evidence is that which is provided by those who have been transformed and have lived redeemed lives.

The preaching of the gospel in the city of Corinth had the effect, in time, of producing a Christian congregation out from which went some of the greatest saints and the bravest souls of which the Church could ever boast. The amazing fact in that connection was that Corinth was the least likely place in all the world to go in search of saints.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for November 17: "The Resurrection and Our Faith," I Corinthians 15.

Not the least proof of the divine character of the Church is the fact that it has been able to survive so much humanity.

There is an old gospel song which we used to sing that could well be revived and sung by today's congregations. "Look and Live, My Brother, Live!" the chorus rang. The music may not have been of the best, and the poetry was not immortal. But there was an eternal quality about the theme that makes it as significant today as it was the first day it was sung. The Christian who achieved a triumphant faith is not one who has bolstered his position with unanswerable arguments, but one who has caught a vision of the Eternal that does not fade. And the transformed lives of those who have "looked and now live" is the best evidence of the power of the living Christ to redeem any world that will give Him an opportunity.

CCF Leader Against Vote of Hog Producers

TORONTO (CP) — Donald C. MacDonald, Ontario CCF leader, says the Ontario government has placed the future of farm marketing in jeopardy by putting the Ontario Hog Producers' Association marketing scheme to a vote scheduled about April 1, 1957.

He told a CCF provincial executive meeting Thursday:

"... The government has put the future of all farm marketing in jeopardy by calling this vote prematurely."

Mr. MacDonald, member of the Ontario legislature for York South, said the government has "plunged the hog producers into this vote campaign at a most inopportune time for getting a realistic test of producers' views."

The government had "plunged" the farmers into the vote "before at least a year's experience can be gained to see how the plan will oprate."

Mr. MacDonald said Agriculture Minister Goodfellow has stated he is on the side of the farmers in the battle in which farm marketing will be put to the test.

"It is obvious that the government has bowed to the interest of the packing industry.

"It now becomes clear that the packers' lobby is more influential at Queen's Park then the producing a whole of organized agriculture."

Tyendinaga Twp. Council

The Court of Revision of the Township of Tyendinaga met at 10 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 2nd and dealt with seventeen appeals against the assessment for 1958. Seven appeals were due to buildings burned, four for buildings torn down or removed, three appeals against assessment or land and three on buildings.

The regular monthly meeting of the Municipal Council following Court of Revision. Ways and Means Committee approved payment of roofing Township Hall $356.15, indigent funeral $135, direct relief $135., wolf bounty $20, fire protection $75., sheep valued $32.40 and livestock killed by dogs or wild animals $312.15. Up to October 31st dogs or wild animals have caused $1,583.35 damage to livestock. Road voucher for October of $1,117.01, presented by road superintendent, Lorne Izzler, was approved for payment. This brings to $27,-231.04 amount spent on roads of a $30,000.00 approval by-law.

Council adjourned to Monday, Dec. 2nd at 2.30 p.m.

W. J. Walsh, clerk-treasurer.

Shannonville

SHANNONVILLE — Members of L.O.L. 242, Shannonville, attended church parade to Holy Trinity Church on Sunday afternoon. The Rev. L. A. Page, minister in charge, preached a most inspiring sermon.

A turkey supper, with all the trimmings, was enjoyed by the members of Holy Trinity Church recently. The supper was held in Shannonville United Church hall.

D. G. Houston, of Glencoe, a former resident of the village, was renewing acquaintances here last week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Robinson entertained company from Niagara Falls, Ont., during the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rose and Mr. and Mrs. W. Gow of Kingston, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Stratton.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Bateman, Firth, Bonnie and Glen of Stirling, were Monday evening callers of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wescott.

The Women's Association and Missionary Society held a joint meeting at the home of Mrs. Raymond Clarke on Tuesday afternoon.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. A. Pfefferle on the arrival of a daughter at Kingston General Hospital.

SEVENTEEN DIE IN NIAGARA FALLS FIRE

Crash Kills 43 Of 53 Aboard U.K. Flying Boat

Plummets Into Hillside Shortly After Taking Off

NEWPORT, England (CP) — Three honeymooning couples and a child on holiday were among the 43 charred and broken bodies in all Britain found in the wreckage of a British flying boat that crashed in flames near here Friday night minutes after taking off from this Isle of Wight coastal city for England en route to the sunny Madeira and Canary Islands.

Among the victims was stage, ardess Angela Kitcher who would have been 22 today. It was her first flight. There were 58 persons aboard.

The four-engined Solent, owned by British Aquila Airways, developed engine trouble and crashed shortly after it took off from Southampton for Lisbon, Portugal, with 39 passengers and a crew of eight. Many of the passengers were beginning vacations.

All those on the plane were killed, a police spokesman said. The dead included the engineer, two of the stewardesses and 37 of the 39 passengers were recovered in the grey mist and darkness.

All 15 survivors were taken to a hospital. six of them severely injured.

ENGINE FAILS

A spokesman for the civil aviation ministry said the pilot had radioed he was turning back to Southampton after one engine had failed. He apparently crashed about 15 minutes later. The plane had set out on its usual route in cloudy weather.

Trees were set ablaze where the big plane dropped on this popular resort island in the English Channel across a stretch of water, also named the Solent, between Southampton and the mainland. Soldiers, firemen, farmers and police pulled survivors and charred bodies from the flaming wreckage.

"Bodies were scattered everywhere. Sometimes they've been us we pulled out five women and six men.

The soldier "were marvelous," Berryman said. "They dashed into the flames. They were singed but they didn't hold back. They pulled out body after body. It was hell."

Author J. B. Priestley, who was on a motor trip in a nearby farm in a car, said he had heard the plane flying low.

W. A. Robinson, Former Deputy Speaker, Dies

The 59-year-old former member of Parliament for Simcoe East entered Toronto General Hospital two weeks ago.

A lawyer in Midland, Mr. Robinson was the Liberal member for Simcoe East from 1945 until his defeat in the June 10 election by Dr. F. B. Rynard, Progressive Conservative.

Mr. Robinson acted as chairman—he called it a "hot seat" at the time—in May of 1956 when the Commons in committee of the whole expelled Donald Fleming, then minister of finance. His presence was often tested as opposition members challenged five of his rulings in a single day while the pipeline bill was being studied.

Mr. Robinson was born and educated in Penetanguishene, attended Upper Canada College and graduated from the University of Toronto in 1925.

After graduating from Osgoode Hall Law School, he practised law later he entered a legal practice carried on until he sold it three years ago.

Reeve of Midland in 1944 and mayor in 1945, he was highly responsible for the development of the town as a ski-jumping centre through his interest in the sport.

He was a past director of the Ontario ski zone committee, a branch of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Lorne Pratt of Toronto and Mrs. Margaret of Midland. His wife, the former Berenice Letherby, died in 1953.

ISSUE OF NEW NATIONAL FLAG EASILY DEFEATED

Motions Made Viewed As Non-Confidence

OTTAWA (CP)—The issue of a new national flag for Canada lived and died the dying hours of the dra wn- out Commons throne speech debate.

Two motions seeking a decision on the flag—two of them sponsored by a Liberal who jumped party lines to do so—were defeated late last night minutes after taking off from this Isle of Wight coastal city for England en route to the sunny Madeira and Canary Islands.

Both were defeated by votes of 132 to 23. Their sponsors' requests that the proposals be dealt with on their merits were rejected with an announcement by Speaker Roland Michener, Conservative House leader, left the government virtually committed to the motion of non-confidence ones.

As a result, the voting was almost entirely on party lines.

Opposition Leader Sc. Laurent was defeated on the motions by Wilfrid LaCroix (L — Quebec Montmorency), and said the Liberal party would stick to its stand of not voting against the government on any non - confidence motion in the speech from the throne.

REALLY TWO GO ALONG

Forty-one of the 105-member Liberal party were present in the end and only two of them went along with Mr. LaCroix in backing the proposals.

The motion of Mr. LaCroix demanded immediate government consideration of "a truly Canadian flag." A milder amendment presented by CCF whip Hazen Argue asked the government to allow Parliament "to render a timely decision" on such a flag.

Support for them came from the CCF party, the Social Credit Independents in the House, and the three Liberals: Mr. LaCroix, Joseph Proudfoot of Pontiac-Temiskaming, and Joseph Langlois of Bonaventure-Gaspe-Matane-Deladauiere.

Combined forces of Progressive Conservative, Liberal and Social Credit members defeated the motion although Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC—Macleod) voted for that of Mr. LaCroix.

Crimed Record Queen's Speech To Be Televised

OTTAWA (CP) — The CBC plans to televise on Boxing Day, Dec. 26, a filmed record of the Queen's Christmas Day broadcast.

In London the BBC announced Friday films of the Queen's annual address, which will be broadcast for the first time, will be flown to Canada and Australia, and that the speech in Canada was carried only by radio.

A CBC spokesman said the films will not arrive in Canada in time to be telecast here on Christmas Day.

However, as in previous years, the CBC will carry the queen's radio broadcast on both its national radio and TV networks, using a still photo of the Queen for the telecast.

25 Persons Killed as Two Trains Collide at Chantonnay in France

CHANTONNAY, France (AP) A freight train and a passenger train collided at a small station here today killing 25 persons and injuring 12 more, railway officials said.

The passenger train was a diesel-powered "autorail" — the type used on short haul or com-muter runs. The scene of the accident is north of Bordeaux, in a rolling coastal area.

Railway officials said the passenger train was just pulling out of the little station of Roche-sur-Yon when the freight rolled in on the same track and crashed it.

Say Macmillan Will Fly to Paris To Soothe French

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan Friday night was reported planning to fly to Paris to try to soothe France's anger over arms shipments to Tunisia.

Informed sources said the prime minister has offered to go to Paris in about 10 days—provided an invitation is extended by the government of Premier Felix Gaillard.

British officials were deeply concerned by the violence of the French reaction to the decision which sent a token shipment of machine guns and small arms to North Africa.

May Find Way to Halt ICBM By Nuclear Blasts in Space

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Air Force says a scientific team is studying the possibility of nuclear explosions in space as a possible weapon against intercontinental missiles.

An announcement Friday night from Kirtland air force base, N.M., said a group of 16 scientists in search of a major scientific breakthrough, the key to America's defence against an intercontinental ballistics missile.

Col. McPherson Morgan, head of the group, described it as "a real dilly" of a blast might be used to knock out an ICBM. But he said:

"There are several interesting phenomena of a nuclear explosion, and some are more affected by the presence of air than others.

We feel that we have ways of destroying nuclear and non-nuclear rockets and in space."

Officials in the defence department had no immediate comment. But Rep. R. Luedecke, who will conduct the U.S. nuclear tests in the Pacific next year, also declined comment.

Disclosure of the Kirtland project followed by a few hours the announcement by Defence Secretary Neil McElroy that he is creating a special new post to co-ordinate space-age weapons projects of the future"—including anti-missile missiles.

McElroy announced plans for the new job at a press conference Friday. He also said that next month he is meeting in Paris, the United States will seek agreements for advance missile bases overseas.

He said the United States wants a range ballistic missiles, that will reach at 1,200 miles, on foreign bases within range of "our prospective enemy," obviously meaning Russia.

McElroy conceded that it "seems rather obvious that we are behind the Russians" in missile and satellite development.

But, McElroy added, the United States "can close the gap and even leap ahead."

McElroy also announced that his missile czar, Donald Quarles, who was being given expanded authority and the new title of director of missiles. The secretary said Holaday will have authority over all existing missile programs that are too far along to be absorbed by the new job, and will help him handle "weapons projects of the future."

Shortly after the McElroy conference, the USAF disclosed that its intercontinental missile, the Snark, delivered a simulated hydrogen warhead at a target 5,000 miles from its launching.

The announcement said the missile arrived at target "with unprecedented accuracy" in an Oct. 31 test.

The flight was the world's first known demonstration of a true intercontinental missile capability, the USAF statement declared.

The Snark, now in production for the Strategic Air Command, is a swept-wing weapon that operates at about the speed of sound.

U.S. Is Hoping France May Handle Tunisia Arms Supply

Special talks said today they would be delighted if France would take over the task of providing guns to Tunisia on terms acceptable to the Tunisian government.

The possibility of getting the materials to meet Tunisia's fur-ther arms needs appeared to offer the best hope for easing the split between Washington-London and Paris over this issue in advance of next month's North Atlantic "summit" conference. That conference was stalled by the week-greater unity among the Western Allies.

State Secretary Dulles and Foreign Minister Christian Pinay-neau are scheduled to meet in Paris for a discussion of Tuesday for a discussion of NATO problems and the Tunisian controversy. Their talks are expected to show whether and how quickly the closing of the gap between the principal NATO powers may be achieved.

French Premier Felix Gaillard said in Paris Friday that the December NATO meeting would be held in the French capital if will fail to achieve its aims. He said the Tunisian issue is settled first and settled to the satisfaction of France, adding that NATO is in danger of "falling to dust" because of U.S. officials are not certain that a settlement is in sight. They said, for example, that there is no way of undoing what has already been done. Within the next 24 hours, France and the United States have delivered to Tunisia close to 1,000 tons and several thousand of rounds of ammunition

A Tunisian petition was taken despite angry French protests that such weapons, moving to Tunisia under the U.S. military aid for France, might find their way across the border into the Algerian rebels fighting French troops.

The governments involved in the transaction are dealing with a closed situation. The U.S. announcement was made only after it had agreed to send arms to Tunisia, in cooperation with Britain, said this was "an initial response" to President Habib Bourguiba's request for help.

The decision was justified on the ground that Bourguiba had given assurances that what he did not receive weapons from Western sources, would be diverted to turn to Soviet Communist suppliers.

Finally, the number of guns supplied so far falls short of the several thousand Bourguiba said he needed. As have requested, more Western arms shipments are expected to follow, and the hope is the United States intends to live up to its commitment to see that Tunisia gets the weapons he needs for defence.

NATO Council Meets to Try To Smooth Tunisian Affair

PARIS (AP) — The permanent council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization met in tense session today to try to smooth over the controversy between France and Tunisia and make plans for the NATO summit conference next month.

Among the representatives on the 15-nation council was Sir Edmund de Crouy-Chanel of France, who could be expected to raise France's strong objection to Friday's British-American delivery of arms to Tunisia.

Friday French delegates to the advisory NATO parliamentary assembly here in Paris here walked out in protest over delivery of arms to Tunisia.

An air of futility hung over the assembly since all its resolutions stressed Atlantic solidarity and the vacant French chairs indicated that at the moment such solidarity did not exist.

Assembly President Johannes M. Pens of The Netherlands told other delegates he spent valuable hours urging the French delegates to locate intermediate range ballistic missiles, those with a reach of 1,200 miles, on foreign bases within range of "our prospective enemy," obviously meaning Russia.

McElroy conceded that it "seems rather obvious that we are behind the Russians" in missile and satellite development.

But, McElroy added, the United States "can close the gap and even leap ahead."

McElroy also announced that his missile czar, Donald Quarles, who was being given expanded authority and the new title of director of missiles. The secretary said Holaday will have authority over all existing missile programs that are too far along to be absorbed by the new job, and will help him handle "weapons projects of the future."

Shortly after the McElroy conference, the USAF disclosed that its intercontinental missile, the Snark, delivered a simulated hydrogen warhead at a target 5,000 miles from its launching.

TIGHT MONEY, HIGH INTEREST RATES GOING OUT

Development Bank Lowers Rate to 6 P.C.

OTTAWA (CP)—Tight money and high interest rates are on their way out, the question remains: Did Canada's monetary authorities act soon enough?

More tight - money demanding came Friday night with the announcement that the interest rate on loans by the Crown-owned Industrial Development Bank will be dropped Monday by one-half per cent to six from 6%. It had been at the high of 6% for the last 14 months.

This institution, a subsidiary of the Bank of Canada, makes loans to a variety of small and medium - sized enterprises. The Government recently was badgered by pleas of this category of business for "easier credit" to meet increasing competition from chain stores.

There were hints, too, of an increasing flow of federal funds to housing. Works Minister Howard Green told the Commons Friday night Parliament is $150,000,000 program for small-homes construction loans. Previously, he said there is a need for an additional amount" About two-thirds of the money has been distributed in the last nine weeks.

INDICATE EASIER

These and other developments indicated an easing of federal monetary restraints. The industrial development rate decline may be a pointer to other chain of lowering the drop their charges, too. Undoubtedly the Bank of Canada was beginning to operate in the bond market, prices and reducing yields.

This may eventually work to reduce the six-per-cent interest rate on National Housing loans. This charge is set at 3¼ per cent higher than long-term government bond rates.

James Coyne, Bank of Canada governor and president of the Industrial Development Bank, said the drop in the industrial rate reflected a revision "in view of the substantial decline in yields on Canadian government securities and other interest rates in Canada during the past three months."

One Man Killed In Train Wreck In Michigan

WHITE PIGEON, Mich. (AP) One man was killed and at least 27 other persons injured in the wreck Friday when 11 cars of the New York Central's eastbound flyer, "The Chicagoan," were derailed.

Hospital officials at nearby Three Rivers said 27 of the injured were released after treatment. Seven remained and the other injured was in critical condition.

The man killed was identified as Henry Nichols, 54, Chicago, fireman on the train.

Cause of the derailment was not immediately determined. A railroad crew members said there appeared to be a certain amount of construction and maintenance equipment mingled with the wreckage.

Victims Include 14 Children From 2 Families

Fire Discovered by Police Too Late to Give Warning

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Seventeen persons were killed early today, including a mother and her 12 children, when fire raced through a three -storey frame building occupied by two Negro families.

Nine other persons were injured.

Fourteen children were killed in the fire which destroyed the second family in the old, partially-abandoned building.

The fire was discovered at 4:25 a.m. by patrolmen in a cruising police car, but it was too late to warn the occupants.

TRAPPED IN BEDS

Stairways to the upper floors were blocked by the leaping flames and many of the young victims were trapped in their beds on the upper floors. At least one of the victims was killed jumping to the ground.

The victims, in addition to the one mother and 14 youngsters, included two adults who apparently were staying with the two families.

Killed were Mrs. Mary Ewing, 32, and her children: Barbara, 14; Jr. Horace Jr., 8; Arline, 6; Linda, 4; Gloria Jean, 3, and Bonnie Patricia, two months.

Also killed were the children of Mrs. Alfred Reid. They were Mary Louise, five months; Sanford Jr., 2; Wayne, 3; Harvey, 6; Carson, 10, and Walter, 12.

The two other adults were identified as Jack Thomas and John Johnson.

AWAKED BY EXPLOSION

Mrs Frances Haynes, who lives across the street, said she was awakened by the noise of an explosion. She said she got out of bed and looked out a window, thinking the noise might have come from a nearby chimney fire.

"I saw flames pouring out of a window on the second floor of the house across the street," she said. "I ran to wake up the other girls in our house. By the time we looked again, the entire building was in flames."

Firemen said the flames roared through the building so fast that the two occupants probably had no time even to reach a window. One mother and some of the youngsters might have been killed without ever waking up.

The building was formerly the Moonglo Hotel.

The cause of the fire could not be determined immediately.

HEATER EXPLODED

Firemen said the blaze might have started when a heater exploded.

Initial condition in Memorial Hospital was Herbert Reid, 27, who was burned, injured, but admitted to St. Mary's Hospital, were Mrs. Louise Reid, 38; her son Sanford, 15, and Horace Ewing, 35.

Treated and released were Harold Reid, 27; three other children, Anna Louise, 7, and Reid children, Anna Louise, 7, and Reid children, and Lalla, 18, plus one unidentified fireman.

The building is located at 2449 Allen Ave.

The owner, William Dietz, said the building had been under eviction notice. Deitz, a building demolition contractor said that the property already had been closed to occupancy once but that the tenants moved to accomodate the two families temporarily after they had been evicted from a housing project.

L. N. Broome of Winnipeg won a second prize of $13,000. Third prize of $9,000 went to Roger Gagnon of Roberval, Que.

A total of $83,000 is to be distributed in prizes in the sweepstake.

Thirty-seven persons are to share $13,000 for holding tickets on starters. Another $15,000 is to be split among five persons holding tickets on non-starters.

Corn and Sugar Beets Still Being Harvested

TORONTO (CP)—The tail end of the harvest is still in progress in several sectors of Southern Ontario but most farmers are completing fall plowing and making preparations for seeding and equipment in preparation for winter. The Ontario Crop Report Department said Friday that many farmers are bringing their livestock particularly dairy cattle, into the barns at night and leaving them out to pasture by day.

In Halton County in Western Ontario, corn picking is still underway and in the eastern section of the province in Dundas County the corn crop is almost all harvested. In Southern Ontario corn and sugar beets are being harvested.

PLANES COLLIDE, KILL 3

Snark Carries Simulated H-Bomb To Target 5,000 Miles From Base

CHICAGO (AP)—The U.S. Air Force has disclosed that its intercontinental guided missile, the Snark recently carried a simulated hydrogen warhead to a target 5,000 miles from its launching.

The announcement Friday termed the Oct. 31 test flight "the world's first known demonstration of a true intercontinental missile capability" and said the Snark hit "with unprecedented accuracy."

In its first detailed description of the flight, the USAF said "the range demonstrated by the Snark places any target in the world in range of United States bases."

It described a test flight mentioned briefly by President Eisenhower in his "state of science" address last week.

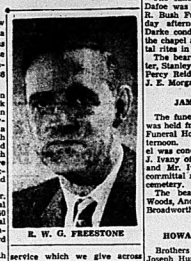
R. W. G. Freestone Manager Of New Imperial Bank Branch

The manager of the new Imperial Bank of Canada branch, R. W. G. Freestone, has arrived in the city to complete the arrangements for the opening of this new office at 286 Front Street.



Mr. Freestone was born in Galt, and joined Imperial Bank at the Market Street branch in St. Catharines, nearly twenty three years ago. He has held a number of appointments with the bank during these years and has progressed steadily to reach his present position. Before coming here he was the accountant at the bank's East End branch in St. Catharines.

During World War II Mr. Freestone served with the Royal Canadian Air Force from 1940 to 1946, and rejoined Imperial Bank on the staff of the Kitchener branch after being released from his Air Force duties.

Mr. Freestone is married with three children and his family will be joining him soon.

Mr. Freestone is a banker of considerable experience, having successfully passed the associates' course in banking during 1946, and was awarded the passing the Fellows' Course in 1951.

In an interview with The Ontario Intelligencer on his arrival in the city, Mr. Freestone proud and pleased to have been given this appointment as manager of Imperial Bank's first branch in the city, and that he was looking forward to making many friends here. "Opening a new branch of a bank is always quite a challenge to the manager," said Mr. Freestone, "and the most enjoyable part of such a challenge is meeting new acquaintances and making new friends. We plan to conduct in Imperial Bank on the friendly service which we give across Canada and I know that all managers and their staffs in our 300 branches endeavor to give such friendly service. I shall do my utmost to supply efficient banking service to our customers in Belleville and I am confident that those of your residents and business firms who have not dealt with the Imperial Bank before but who now wish to open new accounts will find the bank for which I have the privilege to work an excellent place in which to transact their banking business.

R. W. G. FREESTONE

"I look forward so much to making many friends and perhaps the first opportunity of so doing will be at the "Open House" which we are arranging for the opening of this branch and details of the opening arrangements will be published as soon as the they are finalized."

Percy Graham New President Bowling Club

A successful season of the Belleville Bowling Club was concluded with the annual meeting and election of officers on Wednesday evening at St. Thomas' Parish House. There was a small turnout of the membership but the enthusiasm of those present augers well for another year of good bowling.

Percy Graham, a member of the club for some years, and an ardent worker on many committees through that time was honored by being the unanimous choice of the members as president for the ensuing year. Mr. Graham succeeds Austin Watkin, who has held the post for the past two years. Other officers elected were Honorary Presidents H. C. Argue and R. J. Wray; past president, Austin Watkin; secretary, Gordon Watkin; treasurer, Gordon L. Edwards; Curtiss Cup chairman, Gerald B. Hyde and executive Ken Ashley, Dawson Boyd, Melville Fitzgibbon, Orlo Smith, Claude D. Tice, W. R. "Shiff" Vandervoort, Wilfred Price and William Vantassel. The chairmen of the various committees will be appointed by the executive at a later date.

MEMBERS THANKED

Austin Watkin, the retiring president, thanked the members for their co-operation during the past two years and stated that although the club had not lost ground the gain had not been encouraging. He stated that the tournaments were not the success they had been in former years and the membership had decreased slightly and it is increasingly important we would be in bad shape if it were not for the women's section of the club. He stated a lot of constructive thinking would have to go into the club. He thanked the groundkeeper, Jack Smith, for a wonderful job and a special thanks was tendered Gerald Hyde for his work in the Corbin Gold Cup tournament.

The new president, Percy Graham, thanked the members for the honor conferred on him and hoped that they would all be one of co-operation among all the members. Gordon Edwards submitted his treasurer's report and showed the club to be in about the same financial condition as a year ago.

TOURNEYS NOT SUPPORTED

In the absence of the club auditors, thanked Mr. Edwards for his fine handling of the affairs of the club. Orlo Smith and others reporting on tournaments stated that the local club did not support other tourneys in the way that they should. Gerald Hyde reported the Honorary Cup showing it was nearly up to the standard set in previous years.

The retiring president remembered one of the retiring members of the club in the person of Joe Black. He stated that Mr. Black unable to continue his bowling but was still an ardent supporter of the club and he was made an Honorary Life member of the club. This motion was sincerely seconded by Orlo Smith. Considerable discussion arose over the lawn mower purchased last year and it was moved that the president, treasurer and greens chairman have power to act in settling the matter. The meeting closed with Ernie Vanner and George McGee were named a committee to meet with a similar committee of the women's section to discuss means for the betterment of the club. A vote of thanks was tendered to the caretaker, secretary and treasurer for their work of the past year.

There being no further business the meeting adjourned.

Community Chest Opens Appeal Here on Monday

Just a last minute reminder that Monday begins a week-long appeal by the Belleville and District Community Chest.

The participants in the 1957 campaign are the Boy Scouts, YWCA, Children's Aid Society, YMCA, Girl Guides, Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society and the St. John Ambulance.

Last year's figures were a bit of a disappointment to the agencies participating, but this year prospects look brighter.

If over the weekend you have some spare time, mull over what each of the seven agencies contributes to you and your community. Each one is a worthy organization and deserves your full support. $3,500 is a formidable sum of money enough, as simple mathematics will prove, it's elementary arithmetic to show that one dollar contributed by each person in Belleville will subscribe $27,000 — and the objective is $35,000.

So when you are down town shopping today and you see white placards with a red feather in the centre, think of the Community Chest.

There are more than just seven agencies counting on your generous contribution. Donating to a worthwhile cause gives a man a sincere feeling of accomplishment and mixed with the knowledge that he has done his duty as a citizen, makes him feel like a pretty good fellow.

Dr. W. J. Walker Guest Speaker At Anniversary

The completion of one hundred and twenty-six years of service to the community will be observed by St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville, on Sunday when the guest minister for the occasion will be a former pastor of St. Andrew's, the Reverend W. J. Walker, of Scarborough, Ont.

Dr. Walker, who was born in Paisley, Scotland, is a graduate of Queen's University and Theological College and did post-graduate studies at McCormack Seminary in Chicago and Auburn Seminary in New York. He has held pastorates in Calgary, Falls, Belleville, Galt, and Beamsville.

During his eight-year pastorate in St. Andrew's, Belleville, Dr. Walker was well known as a forceful preacher and an active participant in both church and community affairs. He was honored this year by Knox College, Toronto, with the degree of Doctor of Divinity. He is accompanied on this visit to Belleville by Mrs. Walker and many friends will be glad to welcome them both to the scene of their former labors.

Dr. Walker will preach at both morning and evening services and will also give a short address at the Fellowship Hour following the evening service to members and adherents, friends of St. Andrew's Church are cordially invited.

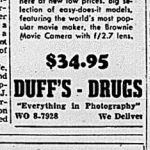
Regular Market Smaller Than on Previous Weeks

The regular Saturday market in Belleville was smaller today in comparison to previous weeks. However, there was no lack of a wide fruit, vegetable and flower assortment.

Beets were 5 cents a peck; parsnips, 25c a gallon; cooking onions, grades, 35 and 30 cents a gallon; carrots, 15 cents a half peck or 25 cents a peck; tomatoes, $1.00 a bushel; celery 10c a bunch of three for a quarter; cabbage, a dime to 20 cents; leeks, 10 cents a bunch or three for 25c; potatoes, $2 a bushel; cauliflower, 15 to 25 cents; red pepper squash, 10 cents.

Apples, McIntosh, $3.00 per bushel; Spies, $3.25; Bellflower, $3.50; Sweets, $3. Cider, $1 a gallon.

Grade A extra large eggs, 60c; large, 55c, medium, 50c and small, 45c.



Fowl was 45 cents a pound, dressed.

There were many kinds of potted plants and cut flowers at different prices.

Inside the market building was the usual array of home baking, needlework and miscellaneous wares.

IN MEMORIAM

SCEA. — In loving memory of a dear son-in-law, Kenneth A. Scea, who passed away November 17th, 1952.
Sadly missed by his wife Nina, and sadness another year,
Sadly missed by all limiting,
Thoughts of you are always near.
—Sadly missed by mom, Mrs. Mc. H. B. Lockwood and David.

WRIGHT. — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Mary Ann Wright, who passed away November 17th, 1955.
It hurts to miss you dear mother,
Her dear face so sweet and true,
Memories are all we have left you,
Memories are all loved by you.
—Sadly missed by husband Herbert, daughter Mary Wright.

WRIGHT. — In loving memory of a dear mother-in-law, Mary Ann Wright, who passed away November 17th, 1955.
Deep in our hearts is a picture
Of a friend we held so dear,
In memory's frame we shall keep it
So none of her loved ones forget.
—Ever remembered by Gordon, Helen and family.

WRIGHT. — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mary Eleanor Wright, who passed away November 17th, 1953.
Our lips cannot tell how we miss you,
Our hearts cannot tell what to say,
Our eyes can but shed a tear,
In a home that is lonely today.
—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by husband, daughter and son Charles.

WRIGHT. — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Mary Ann Wright, who passed away November 17th, 1955.
Your beauty was marred by illness,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
Your life was a life of devotion,
That we do not think of you.
—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by daughter Jessie and grandchildren James and Janet.

JOSLIN. — In loving memory of Mrs. H. Joslin, who passed away two years ago today.
Death leaves a heavy ache o'er us,
Our every gladness stills flow low,
Time memory keeps you ever near us
Though still and cold two years ago.
—Ever remembered by husband Roy and children Mr. and Mrs. Garth and families.

JOSLIN. — In loving memory of my dear sister, Hilda, who passed away November 17th, 1955.
Sis.er, you are not forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more;
Still in memory you are with us,
As in days that went before.
—Ever remembered by sister Vera.

ANDREWS. — In loving memory of my dear husband and father, Thomas Andrews, who passed away suddenly November 17th, 1951.
Dearly missed as years depart.
Deeply loved and sadly missed,
With tender love and deep regret,
He who lived to make us happy,
Left.
—Sadly missed by his wife and daughters.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

FLYING GEESE

Flock formation is always interesting, but the actions of Canada geese in migration are outstanding. Have you ever watched an exhibition of marching in a gymnasium, the leaders weaving in and out, the participants coming daily forming patterns? That gives a tiny idea of what geese do as they wing their way on the semi-annual flight, and only an eye-witness can fully understand the thrill they give us.

Most birds fly by night, certain others by day, but Canada geese belong to the small group of birds that can, and do, migrate at either time. If you are fortunate enough to be at a strategic point in broad daylight when a flock of several hundred passes within easy distance for you to see individuals even without the use of binoculars, you can never forget the sight — or the sound either. The high-pitched, almost cackling call of some is exciting enough, but the deep, resonant double honk is something that so catches the imagination that we stand spell-bound until the sound gradually fades into the distance.

THRILLING SOUND

In some ways it is almost as thrilling to lie in bed while a large flock passes low over your home in the darkness. The clarion calls and sound of big wings moving through the night air can only be thought to be appreciated.

The extensive breeding grounds of these majestic birds are in the far north and extend down into our Prairie Provinces. Not only do geese mate for life, but they keep together in families, returning year after year to the same locality. This has been proved by banding, and explains why those of one district may look slightly different from those of another.

When the southward movement begins we know that autumn is upon us. The height of migration is generally around the first week in November, however the exact date varies. They fly according to how far advanced the season is, and it is not unusual for flocks to be reported in southern Canada as late as December.

Migratory journeys are performed at the normal rate of flight, probably in order to eliminate fatigue. Certain spots along the route are known to be regular stopping places where food as well as rest can be had. Usually large flocks, taking an hour or two to pass a given point, are composed of many families, separated into a number of V-shaped units, much-travelled individuals taking turns at reminding us of changing guards at Buckingham Palace.

A Lift for Living

How to Avoid Being Small

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

The process of growth holds us in ever-fresh wonder. When anything serves to stunt or block our growing process, it means loss to the individual and to the group.

Charles S. Stratton was a well-prominent American of a former generation. His name was a boon to the theatre. But his was the prominence of notoriety rather than fame, for he was known as Tom Thumb and was exhibited by P. T. Barnum for years. However much curiosity may be aroused by a dwarf, the sight of a stunted body evokes pity, for it possesses an element of tragedy.

And even a sadder sight is a person whose body grows while the mind remains stunted. And not all dwarfed minds are in mental hospitals. Some time ago a mother fell into such a tantrum over a slight inconvenience that her teenage daughter whispered to her, "Mother, act your age."

And if a life is hindered in its growth by causes which could have been prevented, then such retarding is a sin. However, the sin of failure to grow may be subtle and painless that it does not disturb us much at the time. Without a body sore, growing, there is no pain such as attends a broken limb. When a mind stops growing, there is no ache. When a conscience stops growing, it suffers no twinge like that caused by breaking one of the Ten Commandments.

Nevertheless, the Greek word for sin means "missing the mark." Hence, failure to grow, if due to causes which could be prevented, is a sin.

SMALL IN MIND

Consider the sin of being small in mind. Smallness of mind may take various forms. For one thing, a mind may be stunted through being uninformed. If I let my mind be unused, it is a sin. Others may not be sufficiently conscious of my mental emptiness to condemn me for it. I may not even know what I am missing.

But even in the eyes of our statute law, ignorance does not quite excuse me, does it? If I run my business in a way that violates the tax regulations, I am not exonerated by pleading I did not know the law. If I unintentionally kill my friend with a gun which I did not know was loaded, I may not be charged with murder, but I cannot forgive myself. And in the eyes of Christ, ignorance does not quite excuse us.

The Master Teacher came to set our minds on the trail of truth, saying, "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." He came to make us alive to the world around us, its people, its beauty, its needs, and not to what we should have so form of sin. Others may not denounce us. But we cannot get away with it in the eyes of Christ.

Perhaps the most pervasive form of small-mindedness is that of being narrowed by self-interest. Edwin Arlington Robinson describes one of his characters as having "eyes like little dollars in the dark." The miser thus pictured has allowed his vision to become clouded by his own mercenary concerns. He measured everything by the dollar sign. He viewed every situation according to the way it affected his own interests.

STAND IN OWN LIGHT

When a man thus stands in his own light, he darkens and dwarfs his mind. Thereon Jesus said, "If thine eye be single thy whole body shall be full of light." Moffatt translates the Master's words thus: "If thine eye be generous, the whole of your body will be illumined."

Jesus would have us keep the generous eye, the eye that is generous enough to overlook our own petty selfish interests, generous enough to look only for the truth and be follow God's way, lead where it will.

Today let us take the measure of our minds according to the injunction, "Grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ." God has given us these minds, noble in promise, infinite in faculty. He holds us accountable for their use. Are we investing our mental talents so they grow?

Or like the Lord's parable who wrapped his talents in a napkin and buried it; are we allowing our minds to be buried in ignorance, specialization and self-interest?

Our minds are too finite to grasp the whole truth in this vast and ever-evolving world. But let us pray for God's help in growing out of our ignorance, in being lifted out of our littleness and in being loved out of our narrowness.

With God's help we can become big natures.

COMMUNITY CHEST WEEK

The Community Chest will launch an all-out weeklong appeal Monday for $35,000 to divide among the Boy Scouts Association, Children's Aid Society, Navy League, Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, Young Men's Christian Association, Victorian Order of Nurses and St. John Ambulance Brigade.

As in past years, citizens of Belleville are asked to give financial support to these agencies when volunteer canvassers invade industrial, business and residential areas.

Each one of the organizations performs a service of importance that can be done in no other way. It takes years to train personnel to carry out the work which fills a great need in the community. Should one or more of the Community Chest's agencies be forced to give up or curtail activities through lack of funds then the whole group is weakened. Can we afford to have that happen?

Split seven ways, $35,000 equals $5,000 per agency. That is a lot of money, but Belleville's population of 22,000 should be sufficient to satisfy the needs of the agencies.

The campaign this year will begin Monday and end the following Saturday. The Community Chest deserves assistance and everyone is urged to give wholehearted financial support to it.

THE MORNING AFTER THE LATE SHOW

Since man started putting his best foot forward to improve his living conditions, his mental health began to slide. This statement must be true because in grandmother's youthful days people did not seem to suffer so many mental illnesses as are apparent today.

Even fifty years ago people seemed better able to meet the demands of the world than they are now. We do not imply that mental illnesses were unknown until only recently, but making our deductions from listening to people who were in their prime in the early 1900s or late 1800s, we have assumed that the sharp rise in mental sicknesses is partly due to people trying to accomplish too much in twenty-four hours.

It was not until a relatively few short years ago that electricity was commonly used to light homes. Before that time, people went to bed early and arose when the rooster crowed or almost. Today many folk seem to catch their second wind when the sun is beginning to drive the stars from the sky. Because of this and other factors, they cannot keep up the pace of living so fast. Something has to break, and the brain is frequently one of the first organs to feel the effects when it is called upon to do more than it should without a sufficient interval of rest.

We do not mean that electricity is to blame for mental illnesses, but it, like many of man's other discoveries, although they certainly have their advantages, also have some disadvantages. And one of the disadvantages of having electrical power in homes is that people tend to overlook basic principles of maintaining good health in favor of watching the television set, reading a thrilling book or listening to a good radio program when they should be in bed with the lights out.

DECEPTION SELLING

Some American television sponsors have been pulling the wool over the eyes of United States program viewers by flashing split-second "commercials" on the screen so fast (1/3,000th of a second) that the human eye cannot consciously record the message. But it was discovered that the subconscious mulls over the advertisement and drives people to purchase the sponsor's product. By this unorthodox way of advertising, popcorn sales in an American movie house increased fifty-seven per cent in one month.

And the Americans talk about Russian brain washing techniques! Now the Yanks have come up with brain soaking.

However, because of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation - - a government institution which many Canadians hold in disrespect - - Canuck television viewers will not have their brains soaked by quicker-than-the-eyes-can-follow advertising. No, unlike many of our southern neighbors, we can sit back, relax and enjoy our favorite programs without suddenly leaping up and dashing down to the corner store to buy a product for no apparent reason other than that somehow we will be compelled to do so.

In fact, the CBC will not allow any American programs to be televised to Canadian viewers where sponsors are using this new gimmick. All commercials" must be on the up and up. And so they should be.

Bully for the CBC!

But, we must admit, the birth of this new kind of television advertising fills us with awe. Just think, if all American television companies promote it, in a few years Yankees will be able to watch a thirty-minute program and see every second of it.

TROUBLE

Sister Trouble is a bore;
Ask him in to stay.
You will find he never knows
When to go away.

Try to Mister Trouble,
Take a chair and rest:

You will find him always there—
Trouble is a pest.

When he comes to see you,
Send him on his way.
Say: "I'm busy, Trouble, Can't see you today."

No Time to Telephone

Ottawa Journal

No doubt about it, when the formation of the joint air defence headquarters at Colorado Springs was announced in August the impression was given that the United States commander there, or his Canadian deputy, eventually would have power to send Canadian and United States interceptors into the air moments after an alarm.

Mr. Pearkes gave that impression, so did the Americans. And no one complained. It was clear—because it was understood that General Partridge, the American, and Air Marshal Slemon, the Canadian, would work out the procedures to be used if attack came. These procedures would be submitted to the chiefs of staff of their countries and governments would be asked to approve. In the age of 1,000 to 1,500 mph airplanes, with no time to mention the prospect of intercontinental missiles, the time between the sighting of the enemy and the attack at the moment when the bombs might begin to fall in Toronto or New York is sadly limited.

Since then, it must be assumed, General Partridge and Air Marshal Slemon has been working on the procedures for the most effective use in an emergency of the combined air fleets. And it seems more than common sense that in the moment of hazard, if and when declared by such by radar, scout planes and command officers should not have to wait for instructions from or acting President, and Prime Minister, or action by the United States government. Because of that other factor, the split-second timing, a matter of minutes, there is an air of uncertainty. Mr. Pearkes, asked whether formal approval by the President of Partridge to order Canadian planes into action that the American has no control over Canadian forces and that no general, Canadian or American, can send Canadian forces into action without the consent of the Government, to be obtained "by telephone or other means".

This is not what was expected at all. If there is a mass invasion, with hundreds of fast machines pouring over the North at various points, must everything be delayed until the Prime Minister, or his substitute, wrestles with his conscience and decides by shouting can begin? He does not know as much about air attack and defence as do the generals and air marshals. A decision should be made in advance and it should be on the basis of consultation by the air forces, and the governments, to allout defensive action when certain circumstances develop.

In brief, the consultation about when Canadian forces will be committed should be held in peacetime. The agreement should be that when the risk is obvious and the risk is that United States and Canada is not divisible under existing conditions—the command should have no more to do than advise their governments of the course proceeding according to plan.

This, of course, may be exactly what will be worked out, or will be arranged. But for the time, being there is no comfortable feeling that in an emergency there will be frantic telephoning and agonizing decisions while the danger to millions of people increases every second.

That is not the way it should be done and it is not the intention to be done if the movement of bombers over Canada is the only issue. But the survival is at stake.

Mr. Pearkes very well may have security reasons for refusing into detail on what is to be done in launching the defence system, but it may be a mistake for granted that the Liberals, so recently in power, are misinformed on joint air defence plans (indeed, was it not their plan in the first place?) or are ignorant of the arrangements as they were made. But the Canadian should not be left with the feeling that the preservation of national rights will be a matter of discussion when the fate of the continent and all its people is in jeopardy.

INSIDE AND OUT

Have you ever walked into a beautiful house, admired the decorations and furnishings, looked at the gorgeous wall paper, and then asked yourself what was behind all that? Well, there is a pretty sad-looking mess after you get through the plaster, lath, and insulation and rough wood upon which the finishing touches decide, a material which has to do only with structure and protection from the elements.

All this can be likened to the structure of a Christian life. On the outside we are smooth, cultivated, and just as appealing as diligence and time can make us and keep us. But the inside of our lives — that is another matter. If you stripped off the wallpaper and plaster of any house and looked at the structure behind you would discover nothing of beauty. What is outside of many life is drawn aside, there may be very little on the inside to call for our admiration.

The inside of life and the outside of life are the basic tests of what we really are and the smooth appearance of things which we present to other people. God searches our hearts, and we may wait in vain for Him to look at our lives is left only to His merciful scrutiny. One of the most appalling statements in Scripture is that the time will come when "nothing will be hid."

Urges Liquor Plebiscite

Sault Ste. Marie Star

Now that Alberta has had its vote on existing liquor laws, maybe some forward-looking person in the Ontario Provincial Legislative Assembly will suggest the same thing for us.

The recent amendment to the liquor act will enable all cities vote for liquor bars regardless of size and population. It is a matter for against the will of the people, and is in our opinion, an act of dictatorship. Democratic leadership is against the rule by which votes on liquor plebiscites are taken. The democratic way of voting has always been on a majority basis, and anyone which says that because can be lost, when 59 percent of the population vote for it, is more suited to Russia than Canada.

There has been considerable talk recently about the value of tourist trade to Ontario. Because of the absurd liquor laws obtaining here, most people prefer to travel in the United States and holiday there than to be treated like child rent and instead of they take a bottle of beer on a picnic.

It is high time Mr. Frost's government looked after the Canadian of today is not the riparoiling booster of the 1890 decades. Few of the members of the assembly are themselves either teetotallers or even temperance advocates, and they should apply the rules they observe themselves to the people they rule.

To fear the voting power of the "dry" element is not acting in the best public interests. If Ontario Government wishes to continue its power after the next election, and also to continue its outmoded liquor legislation, it had better get a mandate from the people . . .

Campbell U. of T. Prexy

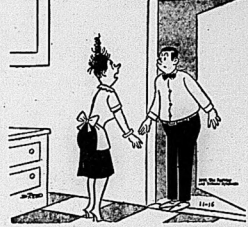
St. Catharines Standard

In giving a teaching job to John Farina, the University of Toronto appears to have made a graduation mistake.

First of all, it failed to have the appointment approved by Clarence Campbell, president of the Ontario Hockey League, and, secondly, it failed to notice that Prof. Farina is one of those individualists, commonly known as "eggheads" who love ideas of their own and do not follow the crowd.

Prof. Farina, who teaches social work at the university, told a gathering last Saturday that sport and some recreational activities are of doubtful value, and that areas must be found to show how to play the game rather than how to win it.

These views were promptly challenged by Mr. Campbell, who also suggested that the university should strip Prof. Farina of his teaching position.



The heroic views of Prof. Farina remind us of the time when Mr. Campbell, who obviously believes in the team spirit, particularly among his hockey teams, and literally worships the "game-for-the-crowd (to the hockey game) mentality.

So we nominate Mr. Campbell for president of the University of Toronto. Let him weed out all individualists and eggheads and all those who hold views of their own. Let's keep our universities free of such people. Let's all follow the crowd; Mr. Campbell will show us the way.

And then, heaven help us.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

NICE WORDS

Pleasantness is something that all of us can make our own and practice every day of our lives. Usually nice words accompany this pleasantness upon which we resolve. A few years ago a friend of mine died, who was an excellent poet as well. His name was James W. Foly, and his last poem began in these words: "The nicest word I know is 'please.' Excuse me, Thank you, If you please."

We can't use too many nice words during the days of our life. The nicer and more kindly the better. Nice, encouraging words, these little words can inspire are the excellent privilege of us all. Such pleasant words linger and make all concerned the happier. We ought to make it a plan of life to try and make people happier and more cheerful by it.

I once attended a Lincoln play by John Drinkwater and the one thing that has stayed in my memory was the many times when Lincoln said "Thank you." It was characteristic, as it should for everyone of us. You can't make any day too pleasant for other people. If you have a cache or pain, just keep the news to yourself and say that you are feeling fine And thank people who tell you that you look fine.

The simplest words are usually big words in meaning. Get used to them. They will help you all about you. What a thrill it is to meet pleasant people and to be with them often. Kindly words are full of silent music if birds talked it can be said that they say nice things. Perhaps that is actually what they do say by putting their words to song.

Lafcadio Hearn was a great artist. He used simple words, but in all that he wrote he put beauty of thought, and often spent hours in revising and perfecting a single page of writing. That is why he will live long as a writer. Can't we learn to use simple words and keep them uplifting?

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

The Sense of Inferiority

Quite early in life, I learned that the superiority complex is not good for a young man, although it is not nearly as bad as an inferiority complex. Unless he is really endowed with some special talent or aptitude and applies it in his career, his superior feeling will be flattered by experience before he comes of age.

An inferiority feeling is much worse because it is likely to persist and become a serious handicap.

Inferiority feelings, I believe, account for much drinking, occasional, social or habitual. A periodic drinker, in a sober interval told me why he drinks.

"At times I feel the need of a stimulant or rather I just want to feel better."

"Need of a stimulant" is a vague way of saying consciousness of inferiority.

Consciousness of inferiority does not necessarily mean wareness of lack of shortcoming in education, breeding, culture, social position. More often, I think, it is awareness of imperfect or lowly birth.

Everyone consciously or unconsciously, compares his or her health with the health of others who enjoy or seem to enjoy good health.

Under the effects of a drink or two, this consciousness or awareness of inferiority is dulled or lessened so that while the alcohol works, the drinker, in his own judgment, is as sound, as strong, as smart, or as capable as every well person is. But as the effects of the alcohol wear off, in the course of half an hour or an hour, the old awareness of inferiority returns and he craves another drink.

The effect of alcohol in any circumstances is the opposite to what simple-minded people think it is. Alcohol is not a stimulant. It is a depressent and narcotic.

Because it is a narcotic, alcohol, like morphine or cocaine or heroin is habit-forming, as millions of addicts testify by their daily indulgence.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Ontario is in a predicament that is attracting attention all over America. Algonquin Park, which is famous amongst sportsmen and outdoorsmen throughout the continent as a wild life refuge, has not actually been a wild life refuge in fact.

There have only been enemies in Ontario men and wolves.

Armed men and wolves were forbidden in the park. A few of the staff of wardens saw to it that armed men didn't get into the refuge. And the bounty of $25 which Ontario has paid for half a century on wolves has not let the park wolves as on all others. Indeed, a special campaign has been waged in the refuge against wolves.

Without either of their natural enemies, the deer have multiplied out of all proportion. The foresters say that the park's present herd will not only so seriously damage its essential food as its growth as to prejudice all other wild life in the park, but will, in three or four more breeding cycles, be decimated by starvation.

Since wolves can't be recruited in sufficient numbers for the emergency, it has been suggested that a contingent of park hunters be allowed into the refuge to thin the deer herd. That is the original balance with the other life in the park — new forest growth being kept in check by deer.

The Audubon Society of Canada has entered the controversy with the suggestion that the job of reducing the deer herd to that normal balance should be left to the foresters, biologists and wardens of the park staff, working on a planned, humane and systematic program of slaughter, implying that Algonquin Park is above the considered wild life entitled to refuge with the rest.

This is down to the same old principle: the only thing to keep the wild life refuges is the human species.

What Animal Would You Be?

Peterborough Examiner

If you had to be changed into an animal, and could choose your animal, what would you be? The question has been asked of several thousand people in England by Oxford psychologists — we do not know why. The results are interesting: 80 per cent of the men asked would choose to be horses, and 80 per cent of the women would choose to be cats.
